

Burlington Free Press.

Published at Burlington, Vt. By D. W. Weston, at F. Editor and Proprietor.

Poetry.

In a little precious stone What splendor meets the eye! In a little lamp of water, How much of sweetness lies!

The Farm.

Our correspondent below evidently dislikes those provisions in the Rules of the Agricultural Society which have been the subject of considerable discussion in our columns for the past few weeks, and is a little inclined to treat them snappishly.

From the N. Y. Farmer & Mechanic.

To Protect Cucumbers from Bugs. A correspondent of the Boston Cultivator proposes a novel, and we see no good reason why not an effectual remedy against the common striped bug so destructive to garden vines in their early stages.

Potatoes in India.

The disease so seriously afflicting the potato in this country and Europe seems not to have extended to India. A gentleman of that place writes thus:—

Preserving Gooseberries and Currants.

M. S. Wilson, of the Berkshire Coffee House, says that for the last ten years he has been in the habit of preserving green gooseberries and currants, for domestic use, and has found them not only a luxury, but a great convenience.

To Sweeten Butters.

By adding two and a half drachms of carbonate of soda to three pounds of fresh or salt butter possessing a disagreeable flavor, renders it perfectly sweet.

MRS. CHALONER'S VISIT.

A SKETCH BY MISS LESLIE.

"I have pleasant news for you, my dear," said Mr. Gilmore, as he came to dinner; "your old friend Mrs. Chaloner is in town."

"How long will Mrs. Chaloner remain in town?" asked Mrs. Gilmore. "Only two or three days, if you wish, you will all see her at the Chestnut street."

"How long will Mrs. Chaloner remain in town?" asked Mrs. Gilmore. "Only two or three days, if you wish, you will all see her at the Chestnut street."

in the entry for the sake of coolness. "And you regret that your friend Mrs. Chaloner was not here to enjoy all this?" said Mr. Gilmore.

"I will treat her just as I would a sister," replied Mrs. Gilmore. "But make haste, my dear, or you will be late for the boat."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

remove to Spruce street, at an early hour the next morning. All being satisfactorily settled, Mr. and Mrs. Gilmore took their leave. By the evening post, Mr. Gilmore received a letter from his immediate presence in New York, on business of importance, which would detain him several days.

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

When the uncomfortable repast was finished, and peace restored by the boys going to school, Mrs. Gilmore retired to her chamber, having informed her great that it was her intention to have Mary Jane always to take a nap in their respective rooms, and I suppose, said she, you were not inclined to sleep, but Mrs. Chaloner expressed a desire to take a book with her.

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

When the uncomfortable repast was finished, and peace restored by the boys going to school, Mrs. Gilmore retired to her chamber, having informed her great that it was her intention to have Mary Jane always to take a nap in their respective rooms, and I suppose, said she, you were not inclined to sleep, but Mrs. Chaloner expressed a desire to take a book with her.

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

to make provision for leaving town the next morning for Boston. Mrs. Gilmore professed great regret at the departure of her dear Cornelia, and she would now fall to her lot, entering Miss Nancy through the remainder of the day.

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."

"I wish I could send you some of our potatoes so beautiful and white. I am sure the reason of their being so good is that they are raised in a soil that is not over-cultivated."