All the good things that go to make up a delicious menu were provided for the banquet Wednesday, but the crowning viand that made the feast somewhat original was the trout course. The fish 331 in number and weighing 108 pounds, were caught in the private pond of the club on Monday by some 65 members who volunteered to "fish for their dinners" and the diners of their friends. Emerson Stafford and Gilbert Ross of Readsboro have searched for a week for J. Stafford, their cousin, who disappeared from the home of R. N. Fairbank in Guilford last October, but no trace of the missing man has been found. John E. Gale, administrator of Stafford's estate, searched the same territory with a gang of men last autumn. Notices of the disappearance were sent to all surrounding towns early in the winter, but no news has yet been obtained. The settlement of a large estate depends upon the missing man. Stafford was accustomed to walk out moonlight nights. It was during one of these occasions that he disappeared. A large amount of illegal deer shooting was done near Guilford last autumn, and as Stafford was afraid of strangers, it is thought he might have been shot while running about the woods and his body disposed of.

G., of Middlebury, has recently found his parents and three brothers, from whom he was separated in babyhood. Owing to the circumstances of his parents, he was placed in a home, and after being educated there he worked in several Massachusetts towns before coming to Brattleboro two years ago. He lost all trace of the family. He was asked recently if he was a relative of Edwin N. Webster of Greenfield, Mass. Knowing the name of a brother of that name, he wrote to Greenfield, and after extended correspondence he located his parents and other brothers, and a few days ago he and his brother Edwin went to Sheffield, Mass., where a family reunion was held.

Henry Stafford, a well known resident of Bennington has just received a certified check for $2100 with the information that it is a legacy left him by a relative in the west.

The Bennington Y. M. C. A. proposes to raise $25,000 for a building and hopes $20,000 will be pledged by August 15, after which building will begin. The leading manufacturing concern in Bennington stands ready to furnish substantial financial aid if there is a prospect of the plan being successful. The directors have an option on the Dr. H. S. Goodall property on Main Street, which is well adapted to its purposes, for $7500. A gymnasium building would have to be erected. There is also an option on the store and lot now occupied by E. B. Patterson's grocery store, the figure on which is not given out. If the building project fails, it is likely the association will disband. Its present quarters will be vacated June 1, and there will be no meeting during the summer.

It is there that he will establish a stock farm where one of the features will be the training and acclimating of western horses for the eastern market.

The latest addition to the Woman's Relief Corps of Swanton is Mrs. Anna Ranslow Allen, mother of Rev. E. J. Ranslow. Mrs. Allen is 96 years old and has been blind for a number of years, but still thinks there is work for her to do and is never happier than when doing some work for the benefit of others. She has been very much interested in the Relief Corps work and an short time ago expressed her wish to be made a member of the organization, and at the last meeting was elected a member.

A petition is being circulated to have the receiver of the People's National Bank of Swanton turn over all claims and assets of the bank to a board of three trustees. Many of the depositors consider that the affairs of the bank can be closed up sooner and with considerable less expense if this is done and the petition is being freely signed by those interested in the bank. It is understood that the comptroller of currency has expressed his willingness to allow a board of trustees to manage the affairs of the bank. The bank closed its doors August 19, 1904.

Vols., and not long after going to the front he was wounded and taken prisoner by the Confederates. During the time that he was in their hands he was confined at Libby, Castle-Thunder, Belle Isle, Salisbury, Andersonville, and other prisons for over a year. He was exchanged in the fall of 1862 with his health shattered and has not been well since. He is a comrade of the Grand Army of the Republic and draws a pension.

Bishop, principal of the seminary, from whom this news came by wire, and who is now in the west, is eagerly awaited. Dr. Pearson has already given over $2,500,000 to educational institutions and charities. He made a fortune in Chicago real estate and street railways. He was born in Bradford 85 years ago and was a student at the Vermont Methodist Seminary. Later he was graduated from the Woodstock Medical College.

Spring Catarrh.
Changeable weather causes disease. Breathe Hymei and Cure Catarrh. The changeable weather of Spring, with its warm days and cold nights, is responsible for a great increase in the number of cases of catarrh. It is now that Hymei, the only guaranteed treatment for catarrh that cures without stomach dosing, should be used every home. Hymei is a scientific method by which pure air impregnated with Nature's own remedies, for the cure of catarrh, can be inhaled by every sufferer in his or her home. Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, its healing, volatile, antiseptic fragrance reaches the lungs and air passages as no stomach dosing possibly can do. It gives immediate relief and makes lasting cures.

Proof that the Hymei treatment will do all that is claimed for it is found in the guarantee under which W. B. Eastman sells it, an agreement to pay back the price, if the purchaser can say that Hymei has not given satisfaction. Complete outfit, $1.00; extra bottles, 50c.

A Hero by Accident.
"There's no telling what moment a man's fortune may turn or what may decide the turning," remarked the visitor, who had been listening to the interchange of stories. "That's so," agreed one of the bystanders. "The only question is whether the man's got the wit to see the chance and the grit to make use of it." "Well, even that isn't always necessary. I was out on the frontier some years back when a young fellow I knew to be a 'white head' was promoted in his regiment and paragrahped in all the eastern papers for his courage and coolness. He had been sent out to meet an attacking party of Indians. He didn't want to go a bit. He actually trembled when he confessed to me it was his first call to dangerous duty to be out of the affair. In less than twenty-four hours the station was ringing with the way he had held his ground, even when his men had been a retreat. It was a miracle he wasn't captured or killed, staying there single handed to face and fire on the advancing foe."

"Just one of those instances of a man finding his native courage in the presence of real danger?" "Not a bit of it. He was riding a mule, and just at the critical moment the animal planted his feet and refused to budge."—Youth's Companion.

Long Winded Oratory.
It is no new thing for the house of commons to suffer from long winded oratory. As long ago as the sixteenth century Queen Bess soundly rated her lawmakers for not working more and talking less, and some years later Speaker Long actually succumbed to a succession of lengthy speeches. "The house is empty, and so be our stomachs," one impatient member declared. "I pray you, therefore, adjourn the debate for an hour." But the speaker declined to budge from the post of duty, with the result that he was taken ill and died shortly after. Brougham once spoke for six hours on end on law reform, Sheridan and Gladstone both have records of five hour speeches, Mr. Biggar tied their record, and Palmerston once held forth for four hours and a half on Don Pacifico.

This Girl Knew.
One of the infidels had made an error. The rosy cheeked girl in the grand stand turned to the young man at her side. "George," she said, "George instinctively braced himself to meet the question he foresaw as to what had happened and what all the fuss was about. "Well," he said, "Why don't they put a wooden Indian clear sign on third in place of that moon faced duffer with the split cipher running gear and the glass arm? That fellow couldn't stop a toy balloon if it was lobbed right into his flippers."—Chicago Tribune.

PEACHAM.
A Social Gathering.
The members of the Sixty Club were very pleasantly entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Herbert P. Hooker, in honor of his mother's birthday, also that of her sister, Mrs. Harriet B. Hooker. Her daughter, Mrs. Helen Bailey assisted in entertaining. About 25 guests were present, who were so cordially welcomed and pleasantly entertained that a good time was the natural result. Mrs. Bolton read a paper in honor of Mrs. Mercy Hooker's birthday. It was not known until too late that "Aunt Harriet's" birthday was to be celebrated, else she too would have received a greeting from the sisters. One feature of the party at Mr. Hooker's would seem to prove that Peacham is more conducive to long life than any other part of the state, for at one of the many little tables at which Mrs. Hooker's guests were seated were five members of the club whose ages aggregate 419 years: Mrs. Yoda Gracy, 88; Mrs. Mercy Hooker, 86; Miss S. A. Hand, 86; Mrs. Harriet B. Hooker, 80; Mrs. Maria Whitehill, 79; Peacham has also among her citizens two not present at the club, who would have been first on the list: Theodore Parrow, 95 last February; and Mrs. Emeline H. Bailey, 90 last January. Remembering that a little more than a year ago a citizen of Peacham was 103 years of age there can be no question but that Peacham is the banner town for a long and happy life.
