An Interesting Lecture.

Under the auspices of the local Y. M. C. A., E. N. Carter gave his lecture on "Fish Culture," to over 85 people, who were gathered in the Museum, Monday evening. It is a long time since a St. Johnsbury audience have enjoyed such an intellectual treat as was given them on that occasion. Mr. Carter had spent considerable time in gathering his data, even securing slides from Washington, D. C., and was able to hold the attention of every one for nearly an hour and a half. Following his paper on the methods of the United States Fish Bureau in propagating fish, and acclimatizing them to new waters, he showed a number of slides, illustrating the nature of the work in the government hatcheries, etc. Specimens of fish eggs, young fish just hatched, and flies and insects used as food by fish were also shown.

It should be of interest to the public to know that the local Y. M. C. A. have given five lectures on practical subjects during the season. The last lecture of this series will be given Friday, March 19, by Alexander Dunnett on "The Political Parties in the United States." Ladies and gentlemen are invited to this lecture. Admission free.

Museum Notes.

The loan collection of old china has been re-arranged and put in wall cases at the north end of the room over the class room. This room will eventually be used for an historical department and, as rapidly as seems practicable, colonial articles will be assembled in the cases. In this re-arrangement an attempt has been made at some historical sequence. One shelf contains some rich "Old Blue" of the Staffordshire potteries and some historical pieces in proof condition and of unusual merit. Another shelf is given to Crown Derby and lustre ware. Another shelf contains parts of tea sets from 70 to 100 years old, showing the stages and decorative designs in tableware used in the early part of the 19th century. A nearly complete dinner set in light blue is attractive, as are some pieces of oriental china, including the so-called Lowestoft. It is hoped that all interested in old china can study the exhibit as now arranged with profit and pleasure.

Mrs. B. A. Turner has loaned the Museum several copies of the Washington Daily Morning Chronicle of April, 1865, containing full accounts of the assassination and funeral of Pres. Lincoln and numerous anecdotes of him current at that time. Miss Marjorie Turner has loaned the Museum a very fine sampler made by her great-great aunt, Adaline Towns, in 1828.

The robins are here unusually early, were heard last week Wednesday and every day since. The general opinion of bird students is that these birds wintered in the swamps and evergreen woods and are not a flock from the south.

C. P. R. under Indictment.

An indictment of 22 counts was found in the United States circuit court at Burlington last week against the Canadian Pacific Railway. The charges in all of the counts are with having shipped carloads of grain products from Richford to other New England points at a rate less than the rate established and on file with the Interstate Commerce Commission. The defendant has entered an appearance through Gen. F. B. Alfred of Newport in the May term of United States District court at Windsor. The government is represented by United States Attorney Dunnett. Each act, if proven is punishable by the United States Statutes by a fine of not less than $1000 or more than $20,000, making possible a maximum fine of $240,000, in case of a conviction in all of the 22 counts.

This is the second case ever brought under this act in this district. The first was a case against one Neburg of St. Albans who obtained a preferential rate by hiding brass in bales of rags and shipping the whole as rags. He was fined $300.

Everyone in the postal service that touches a piece of Registered Mail has to give his receipt for its transmission. The loss in this branch of the service is infinitesimal and the Government reimburses the sender for any loss up to $25. It is the only safe way to send money or valuable packages through the mail and the eight cents registry fee insures you against any loss up to $25. Try it the next time you have occasion to send anything valuable through the mail and you will be convinced of its safety and utility of the system.
