Over 50 Years in Factory.

Carleton Felch was the Third Oldest Employee at Fairbanks Scale Works.

Carleton Felch who has just completed over fifty years of service at the Fairbanks scale factory was the third oldest employe at the time of his resignation, two men, Harrison Taplin and Luther Brooks having worked there longer. He was born on a farm in Waterford, October 30, 1836, and received his education in the common schools of that town and at St. Johnsbury Academy, then in his infancy. When 22 years old, in 1859, he began work for E. and T. Fairbanks & Co., remaining a year and a half, until July 16, 1861, when he was mustered into service in Company C, 3rd Vermont regiment. He reenlisted in the fall of 1863 and was mustered out July 26, 1861, as sergeant of Co. C. He was with that famous regiment in all its battles and they were many, except for a short time after he was wounded. There were two such occasions, on June 4, 1864, at Cold Harbor, while burying the dead he was wounded below the knee, probably by a sharpshooter, and on April 2, 1865, in front of Petersburg, he was again wounded. He served four years and two months.

After the war he again entered the employ of the Fairbanks Co., and has been there ever since. He has rarely had to lose a day on account of illness and never had a vacation for pleasure. His work was making iron frames for railroad track scales. In 1869 he joined Caledonia Lodge, I. O. O. F., and has held nearly all the offices. He has also held the principal chairs in Moose River Encampment. He has been a loyal member of Chamberlin Post, G. A. R., and served as commander in 1897. He has long been connected with the Universalist church of which he is a member, was collector of the church of the Messiah for 11 years, trustee for three years and a Sunday school teacher for many years. He has always voted the Republican ticket, casting his first vote for Lincoln, in 1860. On Aug. 28, 1865, he married Charlotte French, and they have one son, George C. Felch, one of the best known musicians in this section.

Brightmouth Hospital Benefit.

Concert by Dartmouth String Quartet at Brantview.

The Dartmouth String Quartet of Hanover, N. H., with Henry Wells as leader, will give a musical for the benefit of Brightlook Hospital, Friday evening, May 13, at 8 o'clock, at Brantview, the home of Mrs. Rebecca Fairbanks.

A notice in the Dartmouth Alumni Magazine for March, 1910, is of interest.

"Dartmouth College is fortunate in having in the French department so experienced and gifted a violinist as Mr. Henry Wells. He is a pupil of Loeffler in Boston and Cesar Thomas in Brussels. He has a gift of inspiring his pupils with his own love of the best in his art and the playing of his quartet was delightful."

These young men have been interested to come in a distance for this benefit and it is hoped that the lovers of music will avail themselves of this pleasure.

Tickets at fifty cents each will be in the hands of Mrs. P. F. Hazen and the finance committee of the Brightlook Aid Association, Mrs. Reuben Cheney chairman. Tickets are also for sale at Bingham's and Stiles' stores.

Injured in a Run Away.

Porter Atkinson, fish culturist, recently stationed at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., met with misfortune almost at the opening of his service at the federal fish hatchery stationed at this place. Last Thursday morning he with a messenger went to the station with an express wagon loaded with trout fry for shipment. A team passing rapidly caused the horse on the fish wagon to jump and the two on the seat top of the fish cans were thrown to the ground. Mr. Atkinson's foot caught in the thills and wheel and a bone in his foot and small bone in his leg were broken. He was taken to Brightlook hospital where the fractures were reduced. He will soon be able to get about with crutches but it will be several weeks before he can resume active work.

The horse ran a short distance but was stopped before serious damage was done.

Fighting in the Army.

One Salvation Army Man Tried to Throw Comrade Out of the Armory.

Lieutenant Ed. Jenkins of the Salvation Army was arrested by Officer Marden, Friday, on a warrant charging him with breach of peace, for ejecting—or attempting to eject—according to the source of your information, Comrade Boomhower from the barracks on Thursday evening. It seems that Boomhower and the officer in charge had held for some time widely divergent views regarding army strategy as affecting the business of the corps here. Boomhower had on this account given up his active labors for the cause but still retained an interest in the army and its doings and was frequently "nattering" among the congregation. His visits had anything but a pleasant effect on the aforesaid lieutenant apparently, who it must be admitted from the fracas, was at least for the church militant. On the night in question Comrade Boomhower was among the first arrivals, and one of the first to greet him was Jenkins. The greeting, while earnest, hardly spelled welcome, and was repeated three times before the lieutenant removed his glasses and proceeded to put his words into action. In court he admitted laying hands on what he regarded an erring comrade and appeased justice with a payment of $10.04.
