AMUSEMENTS.

"The Blue Mouse" at the Colonial Tonight. It is seldom a farce creates the attention which has fallen to the lot of Clyde Fitch's latest play, "The Blue Mouse." It is an adaptation from the German and is by the same author who wrote "Girls." Unlike the average farce that has gone before, an unusually large cast is required to bring it off.

The story of the farce centres around the doings of "The Blue Mouse," a variety performer. She consents to impersonate the real wife of Rollett, secretary to the president of a trolley line. The president is exceedingly fond of innocent flirtation and Rollett gets the Salome dancer to make love to him with the hopes that she may obtain for him a promotion. The trick is turned. Naturally, many amusing and unlooked for complications arise, which result in three acts to untangle "The Blue Mouse" will be seen at the Colonial tonight.
