SUGAR MAKERS

We are in the market for all you can produce of good, hard pure Maple Sugar packed in standard new wooden sugar pails or sugar tubs.

We shall buy tin packages and second-hand wooden packages only at 2c less than the regular price, and the sugar must be boiled to at least 240° Fahrenheit. If it is boiled to a less degree of temperature, we will buy it only at a liberal discount as we are having a great deal of complaint from our customers on account of the sugar being put up so soft that syrup gathers on top and the sugar ferments. Ask our buyers for full instructions.

Home-Mixed Fertilizers
Superior in Quality! Cheaper in Price!

We have recently received numerous letters from our last season's Fertilizer customers, of which the following is a sample:

"For the past three years we have used home-mixed Fertilizers entirely, purchasing most of the crude stock from you, and find our Fertilizers much superior in quality and lower in price than the commercial brands we formerly bought. We use about five tons annually, making up our formulas to suit both the crop and the soil. The materials we have purchased of you have always proved of the highest grade."

A. D. SEWARD, Highgate, Vt.

REMEMBER WE HAVE THE GOODS IN STOCK and you can get them any time. Will make prices as low as anyone.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY and get the goods home on sleds. Write or come in and talk it over.

Exciting Times When the Ice Went Out of the River—Locals.

The ice in the river caused a great deal of excitement on Sunday; people were coming and going all day long. Two big jams of ice located at Bacon bridge and it was feared that the bridge at one time would go. The first jam went out about two o'clock and the other a little after four. Some of the men of the village secured long poles and after considerable labor, started the ice along. But before it reached Hastings' bridge, it was stopped by the other ice that hadn't gone out and from the bridge to the brick yard the water and ice were in the road at different places. While the people were busy watching the ice, the section men on the railroad were busy looking after the Boston and Maine, as the water came like a torrent from the hills washing out underneath the track. For a number of rails above the dam, it was considered dangerous, also this side of Fred Hill's. The yellow flag and red lights were used for two days and the trains that passed just crept along. On Monday morning the bridge up by Pierce's Mills was damaged and no teams allowed to pass until it was repaired. Some in the village who had wood in the yard were busy getting it into safe quarters.

Twenty-one playmates of Irena Mongeon gave her a party on Saturday, it being her fifth birthday. Games and refreshments were served and all had a pleasant time. Each of the playmates left with her a birthday remembrance.

LOWER WATERFORD
Sudden Death of Samuel Morrison, a Former Resident.—Persons.

The many friends of Samuel Morrison were shocked on last Wednesday to hear of his sudden and unexpected death at his home in Littleton where he was the proprietor of the Northern hotel dining rooms. He dropped dead on the sidewalk just in front of the hotel entrance at 10.45 o'clock from heart failure. Mr. Morrison was born in June 1847, in the north of Ireland, of a Scotch-Irish parentage. In early childhood he removed with his parents to Canada. After a few years they came to Vermont. Mr. Morrison learned the trade of a blacksmith, setting up a shop in this village where he conducted it for a number of years. Later he went to New York and Webster and Worcester, Mass., where he was in the hotel business, coming to St. Johnsbury in 1904, where he was proprietor of the Union House for three years. Two years ago he went to Littleton where he won many friends with his ever kind and cordial salutation. Mr. Morrison married Elvira Thurber of Danville, P. Q., May 5, 1874. They had seven children, five boys and two girls. Only two children survive, Charles Morrison of Worcester and H. Howard Morrison of Littleton. Mr. Morrison is survived also by his wife and one brother, Henry Morrison, of this town and one sister, Mrs. Mary L. Yarnor of Southbridge, Mass. Funeral services were held at the Northern hotel Friday at two o'clock, Rev. W. A. Bacon and Rev. Mr. Williams officiating. The bearers were his four nephews of St. Johnsbury, W. J. Morrison, W. H. W. G. and H. B. Morrison. The body was brought here for interment in the family lot.

Irvy Goss of Hanover is spending his Easter vacation with friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Thomas visited her mother, Mrs. D. C. Bonnet, one day last week.

Mrs. Katherine Morrison and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Ballou and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Stoddard and W. J. Morrison attended Samuel Morrison's funeral at Littleton last Friday.

Charles Morrison and son Clarence of Worcester, Mass., are visiting relatives in town.

Arthur Clay lost one of his work horses Sunday night.

MUSEUM NOTES
Renovation and Improvements to the Building are now Completed.

Renovation in the Fairbanks Museum, which have been going on since the beginning of the quarantine season, are now completed and the public are again welcome visitors in the Museum. The barrel ceiling, one of the most beautiful and unique architectural features of the building, has been cleaned and shelledacked; the walls have been refinished with a deep cream shade of water-color paint; all wall exhibits have been taken down, thoroughly cleaned and replaced; and framed labels, which will have greater permanency than those heretofore used, are now being made. The walls and ceilings of office and class-room have also been refinished as well as those of the entrance hall and the tower above it. The walls of the latter have been done in the same cream shade as the main hall, but the frieze of ferns near the top of the tower was found to be in excellent condition, and has been left untouched. A pleasing story of this frieze well illustrates the personal care and pride which Colonel Fairbanks had in every part of the Museum. He suggested this plan of decoration and in order to have the plants true to life in form and color as well as artistic, he selected fronds from the conservatory at Undercliffe and arranged the groups which were painted according to his directions.

Exhibits from Oceania have been classified under various groups of islands from which they were obtained and are installed in wall cases in the east balcony. These cases have been fitted with fabric backgrounds to correspond with those containing ethnological material from China, Japan, Egypt and South Africa. The collection from Oceania has been in a somewhat inconspicuous place, but in these new quarters, the beauty and uniqueness of the specimens show up especially well. Several of the articles were secured by Judge Henry C. Ide during his term as Chief Justice at Samoa, and presented by him to the Museum. The singular articles of dress and ornamentation worn by the people of New Guinea, Samoa and the Mortlock Islands are well represented, as are also the odd suits of coconut fibre armor and the shark's teeth spears of the Gilbert Islands. An excellent collection of clubs, spears and boomerangs, used as weapons in various South Sea Islands, is to be found on the walls in the northern end of the balcony.

BIRDS COMING SLOWLY
Northern Birds More in Evidence Than the Spring Songsters.

All feathered visitors from the south seem to have been warned of the unusually cold weather of this region and have been very slow to come. The robins and bluebirds reported before April 6 must have been scouts, for very few were noted. Two robins reported in North Danville on February 23, stayed about for a few days and then disappeared. But on Easter Sunday robins and song sparrows were singing everywhere. The bird record now includes bronzed grackles, April 1; red tailed and sparrow hawk, April 3; red-winged blackbirds, April 6; and phoebe, April 7.

The record of winter visitants is remarkable in that northern birds came to this region late in the season and are still lingering here. A large flock of 18 or 20 pine grosbeaks has been in North Danville since early in January, and still there having become so much at home as to take crumbs from the doorkrums. The flock has about one-third males with unusually bright plumage. Horned larks that were noted first in Danville on February 24, may still be seen there in large numbers. Redpolls have been much more common in this section than for several years; farmyards, weedy road-sides and gardens have been favorite resorts and many people have been able to become well acquainted with this dainty little visitor who wears a scarlet cap and tie.

One new flower has been brought in—the coltsfoot on April 5.
