FOURTH OF JULY TRIP

Commercial Club Planning to Make Auto Trip into White Mountains for the Day.

The Commercial Club is planning something different for its members on the Fourth of July this year. The secretary is busy securing automobiles and it planned to take as many of the members as desire into the White Mountains to spend the day and have dinner. The party will leave in autos early on the morning of the Fourth and run to Lancaster, N. H., where a short stop will be made. Then the run will be resumed to the Waumbec at Jefferson, N. H., where a fine dinner will be served and the party give itself up to a few hours' fun after dinner. Then the run will be continued to The Flume when they will head for home by way of Littleton.

The trip will be open to every member of the club and any who desire to join and there is a prospect of getting autos enough to accommodate them all. Secretary James B. Campbell is being assisted by W. A. Ricker, H. A. Stanley and C. W. Steele in making the arrangements and every member who wants a fine outing and a day of pure fun should give his name to Mr. Campbell. At a meeting of the hotel committee Friday evening it was found that the hotel fund is growing slowly but the pledges for a few thousand more will assure a remodelled and improved hotel in town. A little more liberality on the part of business men and the hotel agitation will be finished.

The Brilliant Stars of June
By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will all be morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "Star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. A cold in June is as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any other time, but not if Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is taken. It will surely head off the cold, and heal the inflamed membranes. The genuine in a yellow package. C. C. Bingham. Adv.

W. W. HUSBAND PROMOTED

Will Spend Six Months Abroad Studying Immigration

Walter W. Husband will conclude his duties July 1st as chief of the division of contract labor in the government immigration bureau where he has been employed since the conclusion of his duties as secretary of the immigration commission. Secretary Wilson of the newly created department of labor has asked Mr. Husband to carry on some important work of investigation for the department in Europe and will sail soon after the first of July for a six months trip. His work will take him to Turkey in Asia, Russia, Turkey in Europe, Greece, Italy, the Balkan States and probably Spain. In 1907 he went abroad with the special commission created by congress to study the problem and on his return was placed in charge of the force which prepared the returns for publication. Since the completion of that work he has been engaged in the administrative work of the bureau which has jurisdiction of the operation of the immigration laws. Mrs. Husband and son, Richard will spend the months of Mr. Husband's absence with Mr. and Mrs. Berton Staples in Raton, N. M.

VERMONT NEWS

Dr. Bachand Again Heads Catholic Order of Foresters

At the biennial convention of the Vermont jurisdiction of the Catholic Order of Foresters at Vergennes June 11, Dr. J. D. Bachand of St. Johnsbury was re-elected state chief ranger. Other re-elections were: N. E. L'Ecuyer of St. Albans, vice-chief ranger; W. H. Driscoll of St. Albans, secretary; F. W. Sault of St. Albans, treasurer. Other elections were: Directors, Jules Simays of Burlington, Frank Sabourin of Newport, the Rev. Father Pouliot of Essex Junction, M. W. Ryan of Northfield, Edmund Lafranchise of Bennington; delegates to the international convention at Louisville, Ky., Thomas F. Bartley of Vergennes, F. A. Sanborn of Rouses Point, N. Y., and the Rev. B. L. Archambault of Bristol. The speakers at the banquet included Rev. J. A. Lynch of Pittsford and Rev. Fr. Dublin of St. Johnsbury.
Dr. J. D. Bachand, state chief ranger reported all subordinate courts in a flourishing condition, and steady growth in membership, notwithstanding the fact of the increase in rates.

Better Vermont Dairy Products

The effort that is being made to raise the standard of Vermont dairy products by inspection of the creameries should have the support of all creamery proprietors and dairymen. The dairy industry of the state is large and important. Vermont butter has ranked high and everything possible should be done to maintain and elevate the high standard of perfection that has characterized it and created a demand for it in the markets. The state seems fortunate in its new inspector, W. E. Ayers of Berne, N. Y., who began his work June 1 under the direction of the state commissioner of agriculture. He has had experience along this line, leaving the employ of the state of New York as creamery and milk inspector to come to Vermont. It is said that the inspection, which was authorized by the last legislature, is to be made in a way that will not work hardship to anyone. The college of agriculture of the state university will also gain by his services here, for Commissioner of Agriculture Brigham has made an arrangement with Dean Hills by which Mr. Ayers will put in four months of his time during the year in dairy school and extension work.—[The Landmark.]

W. H. Morey, 61 years old, who represented Fairfield in the last legislature, dropped dead on the street of East Fairfield, June 10. He was a druggist and was elected on the democratic ticket. His wife, two sons and a daughter survive him.

The 25 cent piece was made famous by the American Liver Tablets, the perfect laxative.

SCHOOL FINISHED

Most Successful Graduation in History of St. Johnsbury Academy—Alumni Meeting.

There was no bad luck for the graduating class of St. Johnsbury Academy in the number 13, for not for years has the week been so favored with sunshine and good weather. Many old graduates came back for the week and alumni and undergraduates joined in making it as pleasant as any commencement in the history of St. Johnsbury Academy. The festivities began Tuesday evening when the music pupils gave a splendid concert at the South church. The soloists were Miss Maude E. Pollensby, Miss Mary Carr and Walter Cleveland and the accompanists Mrs. H. N. Wood and Miss Elsie Richardson.

The class day exercises on the lawn near Prin. Benedict's home were attended by a large number of people as they always are, the outdoor setting making them the prettiest event of the week. Harlan Tolman, president of the class, presided at the exercises. The class essay by Miss Hortense Campion of Newport had for its subject "The Tax We Pay to Insects;" the class oration by Reginald Fisk was on "Capital Punishment." Robert Porter made the presentations which were something more than appropriate in some instances, and caused as much merriment as did the prophecies by Miss Eugenia Scott. Amos Nelson made the presentation to the presenter and Bernice Roundy prophesied concerning the prophecies. The class history was by Max D. Gillilan and the class ode by Miss Ruth Wilder.

Graduation Exercises

Thursday morning the interested relatives and friends of the graduating class filled the South church for the graduation exercises. The Academy orchestra played with Miss Elsie Richardson at the piano and Miss Elsie Sargent at the organ. Prayer was offered by Prof. Henry Fairbanks.

The first speaker was Harlan A. Tolman, the salutatorian of the class, whose subject was "Education of the Playground." He said that the question to be asked regarding public playgrounds is whether they are of practical benefit or not. His principal argument was that the boy must be kept out of the street and that the playground offers the very influences he most needs. It is fortunately true that, do our worst, a higher power has decreed that boys will be boys but it remains for us to direct their superfluous energies and to help them to develop into manly and civilized men.

George Hinman gave an address on "The Panama Canal; its Commercial Influence." He said that when our country undertook the task of building the canal it did it, for one reason, to improve our commercial facilities. Among the greatest savings will be the saving of time the consequent lowering of freight rates. Most of our fruit is brought from the Pacific coast and the decided reduction in cost of freight will bring the price of fruit more nearly within the reach of all. Another commodity which will be reduced in price will be nitrate, so extensively used in the manufacture of fertilizer, and some of the costly woods of the west can be used by eastern builders.

After a selection by the Glee Clubs, an oration by Noel Noyes on "Scientific Value of Poplar Exploration" was given.

The question is what there is in these ice-bound lands which makes it worth while to run such risks in exploring them. The arctic and antarctic continents are entirely different, the latter being practically devoid of animal life while animals and men make their homes in arctic regions. In Antarctica are valuable deposits of gold and coal while the scientists find numberless interesting problems to solve as the result of these explorations.

Miss Merle Chandler, the valedictorian of the class, gave an essay on "Saints," saying that we are all saints, "no-saints, would-be-saints, almost saints or saints." The no-saints, would-be saints and almost saints were humorously treated while a good word was spoken for the every-day saints, the long-suffering friends and relatives who endure everything from those they love. It is a pleasure sometimes to reflect that we are saints. We often over-estimate ourselves, to be sure, but that is because we are human; and since our friends are also human we must enjoy as best we can that degree of sainthood to which they feel that we belong and not the one to which we aspire.

Address by Rev. B. T. Marshall
The speaker to the class was Rev. Benjamin T. Marshall, professor of Biblical Literature at Dartmouth College and a graduate of St. Johnsbury Academy in 1893. His subject was "Efficient Scholarship." After referring gracefully to the school and his connection with it, he began saying that two particular things demand attention, the giving to old words a new content and the giving to old words a new emphasis. Among the words to which a new meaning is given to the word "efficiency." He mentioned the Efficiency Society which requires of its members 100-100ths of perfection. The spirit of the times demands that the present scholar make good in the world. The last three Presidents of the United States are not only college graduates, but all of them wear the Phi Beta Kappa key which is the symbol of high rank in college. Scholarship is bound to be applied to every walk in life and widens and broadens the application of the word. We must have a new content and emphasis for the word scholarship. The scholar is he or she, who with open eye, ear, heart and mind can organize the impressions received and give them forth with open hand. Scholarship must be shown toward the home, toward the community and toward humanity that we may bring every talent entire to the Master of our Efficiency.

After music by the orchestra Dr. Benedict presented the diplomas to the graduates of the class of 1913 and Prof. Fairbanks pronounced the benediction.

The Alumni Meeting
The second annual banquet of the Alumni Association was an even greater success than last year as 50 more people attended, the business men and townspeople who are not alumni showing their interest in the school by their presence. The five long tables were prettily decorated with wild flowers and the hall was never more attractive than it was then, with the bright sun streaming in the windows and such a happy gathering of old and young with one
