Lyndonville

Noted Men Attend Commencement Exercises at the Institute—Universalsists to Meet This Week

The week of commencement at Lyndon Institute was a great success for the class of 1913. Wednesday evening the seniors held their annual reception in the chapel, with a good attendance and a pleasant social time. Thursday was alumni day and many gathered in the chapel in the evening to listen to a short literary and musical program, and enjoy a social hour. Friday was commencement day and Music Hall was filled at ten o'clock to listen to the speaking. The hall was gaily decorated with banners, red and green and white. The stage was filled with evergreens and palms. A number of changes were made in the established order, which are in the line of improvement. The trustees, instead of decorating the stage, as usual, were seated in the body of the house, directly back of the graduates. Instead of the gay dresses usually seen all the young ladies appeared in the sober black gowns and mortar-boards. No flowers were presented the graduates until they were passing out of the hall. Young's orchestra of five pieces furnished excellent music.
The class, 27 in number, were marshaled by Harry Clark. After an invocation by the Rev. J. J. Hutchinson, an address of welcome was given by Max Daniel Newton. Miss May Bailey then spoke well and convincingly on "Some Practical Elements in a Girl's Education." A description of the Babcock milk test, with demonstration of the same, was shown by William Sanfield Brooks.
Music by the orchestra, "Rustle of Spring," followed. Dale Henry Simpson's subject was "The Demand for Trained Men." Miss Veva Swall was class prophetess. James Harold Burckes followed with a talk on the nature of "Fertilizers," illustrated by charts. Orchestra music "Humoresque" by Dborak, followed. Austin Parker Webb spoke on the subject, "Agricultural Education." The valedictory or address to the graduating class was given in a thoroughly finished and successful manner by Karl Ayers Davis. The State Commissioner of Agriculture, Hon. Elbert S.
Brigham, gave a few timely remarks to the class. After a musical selection, Theodore N. Vail addressed the graduates and presented their diplomas. Mr. Vail's remarks were of great interest. They were full of practical advice, and contained the sincere and heartfelt wisdom of the man, who, having himself conquered, is now giving the best of himself to aid the coming generations. After presenting the diplomas, Mr. Vail introduced Judge Watson of the Supreme Court, and President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, both of whom addressed the graduates in a few well chosen words. The benediction was then pronounced by the Rev. J. J. Hutchinson. The members of the graduating class are as follows. College preparatory course: Veva Isabel Swall, Karl Ayers Davis. Commercial course, Annie May Bailey, Florence Sarah Donner, Genevieve Claire Rich, George Ira Carr, Harry Barnard Clark, Edward Henry Lavelly, Dale Henry Simpson, Robert Stone.
Agricultural school, Harold George Blackshaw, William Sanfield Brooks, James Harold Burckes, George Lemuel Cate, Samuel Alexander Chandler, Arthur Augustus Gilman, Paul Eastman Hopkins, Heman Adams Miller, Max Daniel Newton, C.
Arthur Parker, Robert George Prevost, George Frank Rousseau, Ernest Warren Sanborn, Forrest Clifford Stone, Ralph Clifford Turnbull, Austin Parker Webb. Immediately after the graduation program, was held the alumni banquet, served by the ladies of the Congregational church in their vestry. About 100 sat down to a daintily served dinner, and enjoyed the post prandial exercises under the leadership of Herbert Burnham. In the afternoon, alumni and institute had a good game of ball on the campus, the school winning the victory by a score of 12 to 6. The festivities of the week closed Friday evening with the commencement ball in Music hall, which was largely attended.

C. H. Ford had three good cows killed by lightning last week, during a severe thunder shower. The cows, a three-year-old, and two yearlings, were huddled together against a

Why Should a Chicken Lay a Soft-Shelled Egg?
Because, Willie, the chicken don't know how to create a hard shelled egg unless it has some food with lime in it.
So chicken-raisers often provide limestone gravel, broken oyster shells or some other form of lime.
Let the chicken wander free and it finds its own food and behaves sensibly.
Shut it up and feed stuff lacking lime and the eggs are soft-shelled.
Let's step from chickens to human beings.
Why is a child "backward" and why does a man or woman have nervous prostration or brain-fag? There may be a variety of reasons but one thing is certain.
If the food is deficient in Phosphate of Potash the gray matter in the nerve centres and brain cannot be rebuilt each day to make good the cells broken down by the activities of yesterday.
Phosphate of Potash is the most important element Nature demands to unite albumin and water to make gray matter.
Grape-Nuts food is heavy in Phosphate of Potash in a digestible form.
A chicken can't always select its own food, but a thoughtful man can select suitable food for his children, wife and himself.
Sold by Grocers everywhere.
