ST. JOHNsbury IS VISITED

Gypsy Band Escorted Through Town by Police Force.

Even the gypsies are keeping abreast of the times. The once familiar horse caravans have given place to the automobile. The tents, pans and other camp paraphernalia are now piled in the tonneau of late model machines while the innumerable dark-haired urchins of the band scramble for seats on top of the load as they once did on the old horse rigs. Such a party, composing five machines, paid a brief visit to St. Johnsbury yesterday afternoon. A very brief visit, Chief Finley and Officers Coburn and Wallace saw to that.

Word was received at the local police office from Plainfield to stop the party and collect damages for a number of petty thefts committed in that town. The police met the first three machines as they crossed the town line between St. Johnsbury and Danville. Very little persuasion was needed to make them settle for depredations committed in Plainfield. The officers then escorted them to St. Johnsbury, allowing the members of the band time enough to make a few purchases before accompanying them further across the town line, and making sure they had no part of St. Johnsbury on their persons or in the cars.

WILL STIMULATE RECRUITING

Campaign to Be Launched at Once in Vermont.

A campaign to stimulate recruiting for the United States Army will be commenced at once, according to a decision reached Thursday evening at a meeting at the Hotel Vermont in Burlington of Governor Graham and the members of the executive committee of the Vermont Committee of Public Safety. Those present stated their belief that Vermont, in proportion to her population, had sent as many men into the various branches of the national service as any State in the Union. The slowness of enlistments for the regular army, however, has caused unpleasant comments to be made, which will now be refuted, Colonel Fred B. Thomas, commanding officer of the First Regiment of Infantry, Vermont National Guard, stated that the regiment was yesterday filled to within 50 of its required war strength. Several enlistments were received last evening and it is only a question of hours until the regiment is at war strength.

Definite steps will be taken immediately to start a State-wide appeal for $15,000, to cover the cost of the committee's work, which cannot be done by State appropriations. The amount will be apportioned among the counties according to their grand list. The committee's activities have been the co-ordination of all war work, including increased food production, Red Cross work, recruiting campaigns, and other ways of preparing for the future. Reports of the work accomplished by the different committees were received last evening, that of the food production and conservation committee being especially encouraging.

A shortage of equipment for the First Vermont Infantry, particularly as regards ordnance, was reported by Colonel Thomas. This equipment is to be furnished by the National Government. There are sufficient supplies of clothing, tents, blankets, etc., in the securing of which the committee has co-operated with the adjutant-general. Those who attended the meeting were: Governor Graham, James Hartness of Springfield, chairman; Fred A. Howland of Montpelier, secretary; Charles F. Lowe of Montpelier, treasurer; ex-Governor John A. Felt of Rutland, ex-Governor Allen M. Fletcher of Cavendish, Mason S. Stone of Montpelier, George O. Gridley of Windsor, C. H. Darling of Burlington, Frank E. Howe of Bennington and John E. Mann of St. Albans.

BROTHERS KILLED IN ACTION

Both Fall in Battle on Same Day on Adjacent Fronts.

Word was received Saturday by Miss Isabel McLeod of the death of her two brothers who were killed "somewhere in France" in the action of June 23. Miss McLeod, who has been in the employ of Dr. M. G. Benedict, left in the afternoon for her home in Springfield, P. Q. When last she was home in December a family reunion was held, and soon afterwards her three brothers enlisted in a Canadian contingent about to leave for the front. For some time the boys had been in a training camp in England, and in the early part of June two of the boys went with their regiment to the trenches in France. The other brother, being confined to the hospital, was unable to sail. No news was received of the boys at the front until official notice of their death.

SITE COMMITTEE APPOINTED

Will Also Get Plans for $35,000 Randolph School Dormitory.

"You may put that as strong as you please: The State School of Agriculture at Randolph will open in the fall."—Dr. Milo B. Hillegas, State Commissioner of Education.

Dr. Hillegas announced that a committee of three consisting of Luther B. Johnson of Randolph, Frank Brooks of St. Johnsbury and himself had been appointed to determine the site of the new dormitory, get plans and specifications for it and report to the State Board of Education so that it may submit recommendations to the State Board of Control. The committee hopes to push matters so that the dormitory may be constructed and ready for use as near the date of opening of the school as possible.

The report for the period ending June 30, 1916, of the trustees of the State agricultural schools announced that the estimated cost of the building would be $30,000.

The last Legislature appropriated $35,000 for a dormitory, to be expended by the State Board of Education, and with the advice of the State Board of Control "in building and equipping a new dormitory and other buildings and for such other purposes as may be necessary at the school."

Dr. Hillegas said in the event that the plans for expenditure of the $5,000 for agricultural education under the Smith-Hughes bill, were not approved by the special Federal commission which is to be appointed, the State board would be able to readjust the State funds at their disposal so as to turn the Smith-Hughes sum to one or both of the State agricultural schools.

The appointment of this commission has been delayed, and plans which any State might carry out for the expenditure of its share of the fund would be executed at its own risk. All such plans must be approved by the Federal commission, although the apportionment of the fund to the various States is fixed by law.

The State Board of Education plans to use the $5,000 available for Vermont in helping the high schools which teach agriculture. Owing to the increase in the number of junior high schools—there will be 15-18 in addition to the 12 already maintained—this added $5,000 will be only a drop in the bucket and cannot be permitted greatly to change the board's plans.

The school at Springfield is the only institution at present that can lay claim to a share in the other $5,000, to be spent for trade or industrial education, and the law says that not more than 60 per cent of it may be spent for any one of several named objects. The scheme now is to give the school at Springfield about $1,000, to be expended in increasing the salaries of the faculty.
