

FLOWERS.

'What is the use of flowers?' exclaims a thrifty house-keeper, meanwhile polishing her fire-irons. What is the use of bright fire-irons; say we in reply, or of any fire-irons at all; could not you make a fire on two stones, that would keep you quite as warm? What's the use of handsome table cloths and bedspreads? one might eat on a board, and sleep under a buffalo skin, and not really starve either!

When you see a house standing all alone, bare of shrub or flower, except perhaps some volunteer bunches of thistle and pig-weed, what do you infer of its inmates?—And when you have passed even a log cabin, where the sweetbrier carefully trained around the door, while veils of morning glories and of scarlet beans, shaded the windows, did you not immediately think of the dwellers there, as neat, cheerful, and agreeable?

This is more especially the case in regard to the homes of the poor. The credit of the rich man's grounds, may belong to his gardener, but they who can keep no gardener, and whose simple flower garden springs out of moments stolen from necessary labor, possess a genuine and cordial love for the beautiful, to render even an humble dwelling so fragrant and fair.

A bill for the unconditional liberation of Gov. Dorr, and other patriot prisoners, was introduced in the Senate of Rhode Island on Wednesday. It will undoubtedly pass that body, but fears are entertained that it will be defeated in the House.

A Smart Girl.—Dan Marble, the Yankee comedian, tells of a very smart girl, a maid of all work that he met about a hotel at Belfast. While flying about the house one morning at a brisk rate one of the boarders accosted her with—

'You're a smart girl Katy.'
'Smart, is it, sir? well may you say that.'
'You do a great deal of work Katy.'
'Don't I, sir? Why, this blessed mornin', sir, I rose at four o'clock, kindled a fire, put on the tea kettle, swept the kitchen, and made up every bed in the house before a soul was up.

RELY ON YOURSELF.

We often hear young men complaining that they are born poor. Very well; what harm? Look around you and you will find that nine tenths of our rich men were, in early life, not worth a cent; console yourself, then, with the reflection, that if the past is any guarantee for the future, your chances of being wealthy are better than if you had been born rich. The fact is, while you ought to have been up and doing, you have been crying to Jupiter to help you out of the mire with your wheel. Rely on yourself hereafter. Consider that in this world, where every man is striving his way to outdo his neighbor, you will have to wait forever if you trust the advancement of your fortunes to others. The old Greek began to carry the call when young, and became eventually strong enough to bear a bull. Do you, like him, go to work in earnest, and by and by you will be astonished to see what you can do. The great secret of the failure of the rich man's son in life, is this: they depend on their father's wealth, lose all energy, enterprise and industry, and are, at last, in spite of their advantages, distanced by those who have been stripped and girt for the race for years. We once read a story, whose hero took for his motto, "Push;"—and whenever any difficulty met him, and he felt his heart sinking, he whispered "Push," to himself, and went to work resolute on success. What made Napoleon so great a man?—it was his iron will, quite as much as his genius. Your men who have no minds of their own, and are unable to rely on themselves, are like children in go-carts, who, the moment their support is gone, tumble headlong. We love a sturdy, determined boy at school, even if he is a little obstinate; for we know he will get along in the world. All your great reformers have been men of resolute will. Luther would have failed at the crises of his fate, had he not said he was going to Worms, though it should rain Duke Georges nine days in succession, and every roof be piled with devils. When the charges of French cavalry broke among the British squares at Waterloo, like successive waves before Eddystone, in a tempestuous sea, Wellington exclaimed, "Gentlemen, we must fight at our post; there can be no retreat," and it was that heroic resolution, and that only, which won the day. And this is the secret of all success. Take our word for it, young man, unless you make up your mind to rely on yourself, you will never achieve anything worthy of your manhood. Neal's Gazette.

General Jackson.—A letter under the old hero's frank, now before us, dated at the Hermitage as late as April 23d, and addressed to our senior editor by Andrew Jackson, Jr., Esq., gives the following gratifying intelligence:—"I am pleased to say that the general's health, for the last day or so, is a little better, although he is still very feeble. He is resigned, calm, and willing to go whenever Divine Providence sees proper to call him hence."

Connecticut.—The Legislature met at Hartford on Wednesday. W.W. Boardman, having been chosen speaker of the House, which was 87 out of 151 votes. C. H. Beardalee was the democratic candidate. The Senate was organized by the choice of pro tem. officers, and the governor's message was delivered on the same day.

WANTED! At this office, immediately, an Apprentice to the printing business.

An innocent man hung.—The St. Louis Revillo of the 19th ult., says—"News was received in this city last evening of the death of that notorious individual, Buffalo Bill, somewhere, in Arkansas. Before he died he made a confession in relation to the murder of Major Floyd, in August, 1842. He said that Johnson, who was hung in June, 1843, was innocent, and that himself and McLean (who was acquitted in our criminal court last week)—were the principle actors in the tragic scene, assisted by others."

This is one of the salutary results of the system of legalized murder. However, there is this advantage in the case—if they have not got the right man, the poor fellow who has been launched into eternity to appease the bloody code is placed beyond the reach of temptation to put in jeopardy the peace and safety of society, and besides "he will not have to die again!" Patriot.

Prices of Provision.—We hardly know how to account for the present high prices of every thing eatable in our market. Butter 24 cents per pound; beef steak 12 cents; roasting pieces 11 do; poultry 16 to 18 do, and hard to be got at that; ham 10 to 12 cents, and other things in proportion. These quotations are higher than those of any other city in the Union. Why it is that Boston, situated in the midst of a most productive country, and commanding supplies in every direction, should be subjected to higher prices for provisions than other cities, we cannot imagine. But so it is, and so it has been for a great many years. So far as it affords evidence that the labor of the farmer is well remunerated we do not complain; but we suspect it is not the farmer who "cuts the fat" in the way of profit. One other fact seems to be self evident; business must be good in Boston, or her people could not afford to pay such prices for provisions.—Daily Mail.

Hear both sides.—The editor of a whig paper in Michigan thus alludes to losses in a recent election: "The democrats in this town are getting quite dressy, while the whigs look as poor as church mice. Well, we won't growl; but it grates confounded hard to rig a fellow from head to foot, and then have him cut your acquaintance." By the above, we think the whigs out in Michigan must be composed of a little more honorable stuff than some few of the same species seem to be, that we wot of about these diggins.

A Pirate.—The British surveying ship Thunderer arrived here on the 24th of April from Nassau via Havana, on a cruise. She brings the report that fears are entertained of there being a pirate in the vicinity of Nassau. Several vessels are missing from the Bahamas, and the inhabitants fear they have been chased by a small brig, painted black, with very raking masts, which has been cruising around the neighboring keys for several days on an unknown purpose.—Key West Gazette.

Texas.—A better evidence of the spirit that pervades in Texas, could not be given than the recent vote of the people in Austin county, at a public meeting lately held at San Felipe, which stood for annexation, five hundred and fifty-five against it, one. The N. Orleans Bulletin, (whig) says that is about the feelings of the people in all parts of the country—universal demonstrations of joy at the confident prospect of once again being enfranchised into the American confederacy.

Not Alarmed.—On the subject of a war between the United States and Mexico, the Houston Morning Star observes: "We advise the people of our mother republic not to be alarmed; Mexico has been trying for the last ten years to get thro' Texas, and has not succeeded. The people east of the Sabine are all out of harm's way."

The same paper recommends the culture of Madder to the planters of Texas. The profit yielded by this article is said to be three or four times greater than cotton. An acre will produce 300 lbs. every three years, which in New York is worth 450.

The temptation of curls.—Leavitt Robbins, for stealing two bundles of curled hair, from J. H. Hallett and Jonathan Pierce, was sentenced to four months in the house of correction in the police court yesterday.—Boston Paper.

"Oh!—what shall we do if there should be a war?" said a daughter. "Do!" said the old lady, with her venerable eyes sparkling with the light of other days—"do as I did the last time the red coats came over here. Make coarse shirts and pantaloons for your sweetheart, you jade!"

General Jackson.—A letter under the old hero's frank, now before us, dated at the Hermitage as late as April 23d, and addressed to our senior editor by Andrew Jackson, Jr., Esq., gives the following gratifying intelligence:—"I am pleased to say that the general's health, for the last day or so, is a little better, although he is still very feeble. He is resigned, calm, and willing to go whenever Divine Providence sees proper to call him hence."

From the Hon. Bates Turner, late Judge of the Supreme Court of Vermont. I hereby certify that I have been well acquainted with the medicine called "Downs Elixir," for seven years past, and from its effect upon myself, and in cases where I have witnessed its operation, I consider it one of the most fortunate inventions ever made. I am also acquainted with other medicines for coughs, colds &c. but in my opinion they cannot all compare with this. I have been at three different times raised up from dangerous illness by the use of this article, and in one of which I had the attendance of an able experienced physician, but whose prescription did not suit my case as well as the Elixir. I have recommended it invariably for a number of years past to those afflicted with lung-complaints and believe with good success. BATES TURNER. St. Albans, Sept. 16, 1842. 2603w

Wister's Balsam of Wild Cherry.—Wherever this medicine is introduced, it at once attains that high reputation which it so richly deserves. What can stop its sale, when on every hand can be witnessed its wonderful cure? The worst cases of Asthma, recent but dangerous Coughs, (and also those that are of long standing,) Bronchitis and Consumption, (in its early stages,) are always cured by this remarkable medicine.—Cin. Inquirer. From the New Berlin Union Star of December 31, 1841.

Dr. Wister's Balsam of Wild Cherry.—According to a number of recommendations in our possession, from doctors and other individuals, and from a knowledge of the benefits derived from the use of it by some of our neighbors, we respectfully recommend it to families. We have made use of the Balsam ourselves, and found that it produced such effects as recommended.

DIED. At Barnard, in a fit, 7th inst, Mrs. Jemima Sharp, widow of Daniel Sharp, late of B. aged about 80.

In Plymouth, Vt., April 6th, of consumption, Benjamin G. Allen, aged 36.—Editors in M. are &c.

In Woodstock, April 30th, of Consumption, Miss Caroline, daughter of Elias and Sarah Smith, aged 20 years.

During a distressing sickness of eight months she was patient and resigned, and departed in the hope of a blessed immortality. Com.

CHURCHILL'S, HEAD OF CENTRAL STREET. THAT'S THE PLACE for the most fashionable GOODS, and MILLINERY, that can be found in this part of the country, and HE sells the most, and cheapest, of any one in the LADIES' Department.

He has not so many 1000 Yds. of Prints, or so many Hides of Shertings as some have, but what he has he can sell as low according to the quality. HE has a greater variety of BONNETS than any one, and much lower. Also Dress Goods, PARASOLS, SUN SHADES, LACES, EDGINGS, GIMPS, GLOVES, and great many other articles. LADIES will please call and see his GOODS, and then judge. Woodstock, April 23, 1845. 259

DOMESTICS. 10,000 YDS. BRO. Sheetings including a full assortment of 24 different styles from the best to the cheapest—no partiality in prices. ALSO, Tickings, Drillings and Bleach Cottons cheap enough for any one, just received, and for sale by. DANIEL TAPP & SONS. 259 1/2.

GERMAN BROADCLOTHS. JUST received Superfine, Melina, and low priced German J. Cloths, plain and Twilled. These goods are celebrated for their beauty, durability and strength of color and will be sold at unusually low prices—by C. DANA, Jr. Woodstock, April 1, 1845.

WOOLEN RAGS. WANTED, all Wool Rags not filled or felted, taken in exchange for goods by A. STEARNS. Woodstock, April 1, 1845.

BOSTON. BOSTON WHOLESALE HOUSES.

THE undersigned Importers, Jobbers, Manufacturers, and Commission Houses in the City of Boston, are prepared with full stocks of Goods in their respective branches, and embrace the opportunity afforded by the season to invite country Merchants who are about to purchase Spring and Summer supplies, to visit the Boston Market, and examine their several assortments. The variety, cheapness, and excellence of our manufactures of Cotton, Woolen, and other Goods, in this vicinity, our uninterrupted communication with all the principal Wholesaling Branches, our facilities to offer inducements to purchasers of Foreign and Domestic Goods, equal at least, if not superior to any other determination in this respect, to whom this invitation is respectfully addressed, are assured that it is our determination to please, if possible, both old and new customers who may favor us with a call.
