BRADSTREET'S REPORT

Bradstreet's Burlington, Vt., office reports granite manufacturers have considerable business on hand at present and immediate orders are coming in freely. There is a further consideration on the part of certain manufacturers in this line of enlargement of their plants. Granite quarry owners report large shipments. Marble for building work is quiet. The ammunition plant report liberal orders on hand and the output of the factory is taxed to the utmost. One woolen manufacturer reports further orders received during the past week for goods to be shipped to foreign points. Wooden manufacturers, including those whom manufacture handles, butter tubs, plates and dishes report orders coming in freely. Veneer manufacturers report the smaller buying on the part of the furniture factories have affected the volume of their business. The demand during the past few months is reported light. Paper manufacturers report little if any change in the general demand. Lumber is moving slowly. The farmers in certain sections have commenced the harvest of the hay crop. The crops all over the state do not look as good as usual. Lack of rain has been felt in a detrimental manner. Corn is doing fairly well. Lots of berries have been placed on the market at reasonable prices. General trade conditions among the retail stores has been fairly good. Buying for the future is still hesitant, except in those places where the manufacturing plants have been held by orders for war material and goods. Collections are still reported below normal. One mercantile failure is reported for the week just closed.
