

GUILDHALL.

BY MILTON CUTLER.

Thompson, in his Gazetteer, states that the Indians were hostile and troublesome, killing and driving off the settlers' cattle, &c.; but this is, doubtless, quite a mistake. They were usually friendly, and committed no acts of hostility, except in one or two individual instances, and were only troublesome in making pretty free use of the settlers' houses for the purpose of staying over night, and, occasionally, to "have a drink." They took rather more liberty in calling at houses from which the man was absent, and as Mr. R. was much from home in these days, his house was a frequent resort.

On one occasion they became so troublesome that Mrs. Rosebrook drove them out of the house, except one squaw who was so much intoxicated that she appeared unable to move, and she caught her by the hair of the head and drew her out. This rough handling roused the squaw somewhat, and so improved her power of motion that she was able to throw her hatchet just as Mrs. R. was shutting the door, and cut off the wooden thumb-piece of the latch; but, having recovered by morning, and recollecting her improprieties of the night before, the Indian woman came in, confessed her fault, asked pardon, and promised better manners in the future, and ever kept her word.

COL. JONATHAN GROUT AND EDWARD BUCKNAM, ESQ.

are among the 12 first settlers; but at precisely what time they came into town is not known. Mr. Groat appears to have been a man of some note, although we have been unable to learn very much of him. We learn, by some of the records, that there arose a "dispute" between him and the proprietors; but what the cause or nature of the contention might have been, we do not learn. Mr. Bucknam was one of a committee appointed to survey the town into lots, and he and Thomas Darling performed that important service in the year 1787. There are probably no descendants of either of these men residing in this town at this time.

REUBEN AND SIMON HOWE settled in 1779. Reuben afterward occupied the farm since purchased by Pliny Rosebrook, and which is occupied by him and his sons. Joel C. Howe, son of Reuben, is at this time living in town. Capt. Simon Howe was one of the most substantial and independent farmers, and one of the pillars of society and the church. He had several sons, who for many years resided in this town and vicinity, but have since removed to the West. Asahel B. Howe, one of the sons, is a man of position and wealth in Beloit, Wisconsin. One of the daughters, Prudence, is the wife of Anson Fiske, Esq., one of the best and most independent farmers in town, and resides upon the old homestead.

GEORGE WHEELER was one of the very first who came into the place. He came as a hunter and trapper, but afterward became a farmer. He resided here for many years, but whether he died in town we do not know. No descendants of his are known to be living in this vicinity.

BENONI CUTLER was formerly a resident and, we believe, a native of Killingly, Ct. He served as a soldier through the French and Indian war, and as Captain in the Revolution. About the close of the war he removed to Windsor, Vt., and in the spring of 1784 came to Guildhall; resided at first on the meadow, near the river, where Mr. Rice first commenced, being on the farm now owned by Mr. Fiske. A year or two subsequently he purchased the 12th settlers' lot and the 200 acre grant to Osgood and Bailey, including the mills, &c. He was one of the first justices of the peace, and there was scarcely a year during his after-life in which he did not hold one or more important town offices. He brought up a family of sons, viz.: Charles, Theophilus, William, Joseph, Royal, Erastus and Zara; and two daughters, Rebecca and Lucy. He was also one of the seven persons composing the first church organization in town in 1799. He died in the year 1806, being between 60 and 70 years of age, and one of the first buried in the north burying ground.

CHARLES CUTLER resided in this town many years, and had a family of two sons—Gerard and Calvin—and several daughters. He was prominent and active in the public affairs of town and church, holding frequently offices of responsibility. He finally removed, with most of his family, to the far West, where he lived to be upward of 90 years of age. His son Calvin was educated to the ministry, and settled over the Presbyterian church in Windham, N. H., and continued to sustain that relation for life.

resided in Guildhall the greater part of his life, and was a man of enterprise and business capacity. Was rather distinguished as a constable and collector of taxes. He raised a family of five sons and three daughters. He died at Lunenburg, being more than 80 years of age.

WILLIAM CUTLER,

an enterprising, resolute, active man; possessing the confidence of his townsmen and of the church; was chosen deacon in 1810, and held that office till his decease, which took place but little more than two years after. He had five or six children, but none are living in this region.

JOSEPH CUTLER died in early manhood and left no family.

was born at Windsor, Vt., in 1778. He was about six years of age when his father came to Guildhall, and the whole of his after-life was spent here. During his whole life he enjoyed the confidence of his fellow-citizens, as is shown by the fact of his having been constantly entrusted with offices of importance by the town and county.

As town clerk, seaman, lister, overseer of poor, treasurer for nearly 20 years, delegate to Constitutional Convention, justice of peace, assistant judge of County Court, and judge of Probate for six years, he was identified with the public interests of his fellow-citizens in all branches during his entire life. He died in May, 1856, in his 78th year.

ERASTUS CUTLER,

born about the year 1783, died in April, 1832, aged 48 years, was a highly respected and useful member of society and of the church. He possessed the confidence of all his acquaintances; was honored repeatedly by his fellow-townsmen and the church, of which he was for 13 years an active and useful deacon; assisting his associates in sustaining meetings for religious worship on the Sabbath during such times as the church and people were destitute of a minister, and his premature death was much lamented. He left but one child, since Mrs. William H. Harts-horn.

ZARA CUTLER,

born in Guildhall in 1786, was bred to the legal profession, and removed to Conway, N. H., where he died in March, 1861, aged 75 years. He united with the church in 1807. We will make no other comment upon his life and character than to refer to the action of the Carroll County Bar on the subject of his decease: "Ossipee, N. H., April 24, 1861. At the recent term of the court in this place the following resolutions were passed by the Bar: Resolved, That it is with deep sorrow the members of Carroll County Bar learn the decease of Zara Cutler, a member of this Bar, a man of sound judgment, discreet in practice, of strict integrity, exemplary in his deportment, and of irreproachable reputation."

And at this meeting of the bar, F. R. Chase, Esq., of the same town, rose and, with accents of deepest feeling, alluded to his long and intimate acquaintance with the deceased—a friendship dating far back in early boyhood—in the Sabbath School in Conway, of which Mr. Cutler acted as superintendent for nearly 30 years. Mr. Chase paid a handsome eulogy to the character and many virtues of the deceased. And his Honor, Judge Doe, closed the solemnities of the occasion with a most appropriate eulogistic address. Lucy Cutler married Dea. Joel Bassett and after removed to Grand, where they resided for a considerable number of years, and finally emigrated to western New York. They had several children, who are supposed to be residing in that vicinity.

Very few of the quite numerous descendants of the 12 first settlers are, at present, residing in Guildhall; and no families bearing the name of Bailey, Hopkinson, Howe, Groat, Bucknam, or Wheeler.

Benoni Cutler has but one male descendant in town of the name. His family are probably as remarkable as any for longevity; five of his children living, in the aggregate, 418 years, or an average of more than 83.

The oldest person who has died in town was, we believe, Calvin Hubbard, September, 1854, aged 93 years and 5 months. Anne, his wife; died September, 1857, aged 93 years and 2 months.

MICAH AMY, who is mentioned as joining the settlement in 1775, pitched his tent on what is now the farm of John W. Webb, in Maidstone, as it proved, though supposed then to be in Guildhall; and unfortunately for him, farther proved, subsequently, to be included in the "Governor's Right;" so that he lost his claim, improvements, &c. His sons—John, William, Micah, and Caleb—settled in Guildhall, and all brought up families in town; but have since mostly removed, some to Canada, but more to the West. William, usually designated Esq. Amy, was noted as an excellent carpenter and millwright.

"No wonder Stansfield burned" said a wag, referring to the recent fire. "Why," asked a friend, "because," said the other sagely, "it has rained so 'dry.'" This did not apply to the man who, letting his home burn, rushed to the barn and pulled six bottles of gin from under the planking.

close up to one building, leave it, and jump to another building a greater distance away, and continue on. For this reason the Terrell, LaBounty, Meacham, Geo. Dailey, Mrs. Logvien, Bissonette, Sam Hill's and a few other scattering buildings did not burn. The great sweep of fire toward the north was caused by a left cross wind. So fierce was the flame that scarcely a vestige of any building except the foundation walls is to be seen. Trees were denuded of their bark, telephone poles burned and the wires left in a tangled mass. The buildings burned, and as near as we were able to name them, were Hatley Gates' baker-shop and tenement house combined (where the fire originated), Geo. Bailey's residence, the Charlen House, Frank Perkins' hotel, house of Mr. Vinsent, Paradis store and dwelling house combined, together with mill, Jim Dewey's four family tenement house, St. Marie's meat market and dwelling house combined, the Belanger house, town hall, residences of Henry McTaffey, Jim Dailey, John Siro, John Chubb, Geo. Brock, Mrs. Hastings' (2) which include the burned buildings on the east side of the street.

On the west side is the Catholic church, all of the E. W. Channell's buildings including store, dwelling house, mill, feed store and barn, his house occupied by Bill Burdick and another occupied by R. Hutchinson. No insurance on all this property. The only thing saved by Channell was a set of long sheds. North of Channell's, Amo lost two dwelling houses followed by the dwelling houses of Ed. Hall, Fred Gaffey, Geo. Flint, Geo. Hall, J. Waterman, Sam Murdock, John Heath, and Mike Hackett. On the street reaching west will Terrell's, Saunders', Charles Thayer's and McDonald's dwelling houses were also burned. Then extending north on Main street were the houses of the buildings of Ed Hayes, Will Terrell's store house and the dwelling houses of Gene Merrung, Jim Dewey and Joseph Turcotte. Here the fire had to stop because there was nothing more to burn.

Together there were 42 or 43 buildings burned including barns which may not have been mentioned. About 75 families were rendered homeless, and the estimated loss is about $250,000, very little of which is covered with insurance. Many families, so sudden were the flames, lost all they possessed. Stansfield Plain has long been noted for its beautiful tree bordered street, its fine residences and a history dating back to the first settlers along the border. The fire protection seemed to be good, but was weakened, we are told, by the use of too much water by Lake. The best was practically useless on account of the wind. Then the flames so swept the street that in many instances the water could not be used.

Considerable excitement was caused at the railroad station Monday evening, by the attempted suicide of Mrs. Wheeler. It appears that the woman had purchased a ticket for Northampton, Mass., and boarded the early mail train with the evident intention of going there, but, through some unaccountable change of mind, simply crossed the platform of the car and slid over the rail of the bridge and into the lake. Carlos Nelson, an employee at the Yard Office, heard a splash and discovered Mrs. Wheeler in about three feet of water, apparently trying to drown herself by lying down under the water. Nelson dashed in and pulled the unfortunate woman to safety on the shore and she was later taken to one of the yardmen's lobbies and cared for until relatives and medical help could be summoned. By direction of the selection at Derby, sheriff Hill took charge of Mrs. Wheeler, and saw that she was properly cared for. There seems no doubt that she was temporarily deranged when her attempt at suicide was made.
