

DRAPERIES THAT LAST

SIMPLEST FABRIC WILL BE BOON TO HOUSEWIVES.

Makes Possible Decorative Effects That Hitherto Have Been Out of the Question—Will Not Fade and Stands Tubbing.

The discovery of a sunfast fabric, which can be utilized for draperies, wall coverings, furniture and many other articles, and which has just been put on the market, is sure to mark an epoch in the art of making the home beautiful. It will also make the simplest decorative effects in the simplest home, as the fear will be eliminated of having draperies, which in a few weeks will only be fit to throw away.

This fabric, although woven from cotton, has a beautiful silk-like luster, which never wears off, and the folds shimmer and change color in different lights, just as do the finest India silks. It comes in varieties ranging from the lightest, daintiest goods, such as are used for casement curtains to the heavier weaves, suitable for upholstering furniture, wall coverings and window seatings, and it will resist the destroying effects of the sun.

Although sunshine is a synonym for health, happiness and optimism, women in the home and decorators have always dreaded it. Outdoors we have loved the sun; indoors we have feared its destroying effects on furnishings, which from the effects of light gradually have lost their luster, have faded and become streaky. Expedients of all kinds have been resorted to, and we have lived behind drawn blinds when the sun shone, in rooms which were, of course, stuffy and more or less unhealthy.

With this new fabric the home no longer need be rendered gloomy and unsanitary by the exclusion of light and air in the effort to preserve the colors of draperies and furnishings. This new material not only will not fade, but it also will stand tubbing. There is an unlimited choice of colorings, weavings and design, and it should be a simple matter to obtain harmonizing effects.

Take the matter of slip covers for furniture. Nowhere have the changes brought about by these fabrics been more marked. Formerly the choice of materials and colors was limited to such goods as would stand the effects of light and laundry. They certainly were not decorative and were suitable mostly for bedroom use and in summer homes. Slip covers can now be made to match your door and window draperies, and you can have slip covers that are real upholstery, in exquisite taste and style, and still retain the sanitary, cleanly features of the washable slip cover.

BOWLER MODEL HAT

A quaint little bowler model in pure white felt. Resting on the brim at one side is a beautiful dull pink rose.

KEEP TO THE LOOSE LINES

New Coats Designed for Slim Figures, Much as Are All the Prevailing Fashions.

To give even a more careless outline to the figure, there are new coats that hang from the shoulders to hips with slight fullness. They follow the line of the shoulder, but of no other part of the figure, and the long loose sleeves usually run to a point at the neck line. They are not the elephant's ear sleeve which some of the coats carry as well as many of the bodices, but they are loose enough to follow the general suggestion of the coat.

One of the newest varieties of this jacket has a thick cable cord run through the fullness about an inch below the waist line. The cord does not attempt to draw in the fullness or outline any curve of the figure; it is merely an ornament, and as such it should receive its due value. A dark blue suit, for instance, has a deep red cord tied in front with two tasseled ends; a black suit has a dark blue cord. It takes a slim figure to wear this new jacket, but why make that bromide statement? It begins and ends every fashion discussion.

Daily Bath as Beauty Adjunct.

The skin should be thoroughly cleansed once a day. Have the room warm and the water only a few degrees cooler. Stay in the bath five minutes, keeping yourself either under the water or sponging the water over yourself all the time. But it is after you leave the tub that the really important part of the bath begins. Dry yourself thoroughly with two towels. Then take a stiff flesh brush

PERENNIAL NAVY BLUE SERGE

Proper Proportions and Good Lines Mark This Costume as a Good One From Which to Copy.

The smart serge frock shown in the accompanying cut has been rendered smart by nice proportions and good lines without resorting to extremes. It is of the perennial navy blue serge and has a simple peasant blouse opening over a blue satin vest, the edges of which are finished with narrow plaits of the same. The line of the skirt slopes up ever so slightly toward the front and the sash is here tied in a bow with a single end. The plaittings which appear on the vest are repeated on the skirt and sleeves and are the only trimming on the frock. The skirt closes on the left side and here it is draped and knotted near the hem and decorated with a frill of the satin.

IMPORTANCE OF HEAD DRESS

Elaborate Coiffures Must Accompany the Toilettes of Today—Paris Fashions Mostly Copied.

France may be said to have led in the matter of coiffures and head dresses these many centuries.

Two and three generations ago American women often borrowed their style in coiffures and coiffure ornamentation from France, and today the same thing happens.

The history of head dresses in France would fill, and indeed does fill, a thick volume, and there are no more interesting records in the world of dress than those which deal with the styles in ornamenting the hair, styles which were influenced by events, personalities and lines of thought.

And influenced also by position in life, of course, for the leveling process which makes fashion open to all now was not in progress centuries ago.

Today the hair plays a more important part than ever in the toilette, and any ornamentation of its is to display, rather than hide it, so an elaborate coiffure is crowned with jeweled pins or soft plumes for the express purpose of calling attention to its beauties.

Yet eccentricity is not lacking in the latest head dresses, as, for instance, two fanlike ornaments of sprays springing from jeweled pins fastened to a velvet band.

Or a cluster of plumes waving from a slender jeweled stick set in the front of the coiffure, which is further decked with a black velvet ribbon.

Many of the aigrettes are worn over the brow at the moment, but some prefer them set down at the side and rising from a narrow gemmed fillet.

New Earrings.

Long drop earrings are being discarded by the smart women, for, as is the way with so many fashions, they have been reproduced and reproduced in all kinds of cheap forms until constant repetition wears one of the design. Now stud earrings are in fashion, particularly those made from large single pearls of fine quality or saltire diamonds, the latter being mounted with extremely light platinum settings that greatly improve the brilliancy and good appearance of the stones. Other jewels, such as rubies, sapphires and emeralds, are being treated in the same manner with excellent effect.

and try with all your might to rub your skin off. A cocoon fiber is the best, and to get at your back it is a good idea to have a cocoon fiber mat hung against the wall to rub yourself against. Keep up this friction for at least ten minutes.

DRAPED SHOULDERS

This berth of maline lace does not obliterate the gracious lines of shoulder and arm, but it adds the essential touch of drapery without which a bodice seems rather severe these days. The lace berth harmonizes well with a little frock of dove gray chiffon, worn with buttoned boots of gray suede.

COOKING TERMS MADE PLAIN

Even Experienced Housewife May Find Some Explanations Here of Value to Her.

Different terms are properly used for different methods of combining ingredients in cooking, as any one who has handled a cook book very much must know. But everyone who has tried to cook does not know just what these various terms signify. Stirring is one thing, beating is another, folding and cutting are yet others—that, we all know. But what are they?

Stirring is effected with a circular motion, widening from the center. That is the technical description.

Beating is the operation which incloses air in the ingredients beaten. This can be done in any way that separates the particles of the ingredients one from another and so lets in the air.

Folding is the term applied to the motion which prevents the air already inclosed from escaping and at the same time mixes the ingredients concerned. It is this motion which must be used when whipped cream, beaten egg whites and other light and beaten ingredients are mixed together or with more solid masses.

Cutting is the lightest sort of mixing—hardly mixing at all. Shortening is sometimes cut into flour with a knife. But the shortening and flour cannot be mixed completely by cutting.

Keep the meaning of these terms in mind when you cook according to a recipe. Remember that an ordinary cake you stir and beat. An omelet you beat and fold, and you do the same thing to a sponge cake.

BEWARE OF TOO MUCH SALT

Oversupply in Sauerkraut Will Prevent Proper Souring and So Spoil the Quantity Put Up.

There are two essentials which must be observed in making sauerkraut. First it must be remembered that if too much salt is used, the kraut will not sour as it should, and the quality will be impaired.

Again, some salt must be used in order to preserve the cabbage till it sours sufficiently to preserve itself. When kraut gets sour it is like pickles, and there will be no further decay.

To make the best kraut, a slicer should be used, though it may be sliced with a knife, coarse or fine, as suits your taste.

Use a clean barrel or jar, put in a layer of cabbage cut fine, then a little salt, using not more than a quart of salt to a 40-gallon barrel of kraut.

If you like the flavor add a little dill-seed or caraway. When the vessel is full, fit a clean board inside, and weight with a clean stone, never a piece of iron.

If your cabbage is early, and going to waste while it is yet warm, make the kraut and keep in a cool cellar.

This early kraut will rot a little on top. Remove this every few days, and wash off the inside of the barrel and weight, with warm water, to remove the germs of decay.

When Beets Prove Tough.

Late in the winter old beets are so tough and pithy as to be unpleasant, besides which objection there is the further one of their taking so long to cook until approximately tender. A new way of preparing them may prove a welcome change, as well as overcoming these objections. After boiling the beets, as usual, and removing the skin, pass them through the food chopper, then return to the fire to reheat, adding seasoning of butter, salt and pepper. Every particle of the vegetable will then be tender, eatable and well flavored.

Stuffed Onions.

Stuffed onions give the paper bag enthusiast an opportunity to try a new dish. Parboil onions for 15 minutes. Drain and scoop out half the onion. Chop this and mix with sausage or ground meat (either raw or cooked). Season to taste and put back in the onion. Wrap each onion in buttered tissue paper or a greased cookery bag and bake in a hot oven. Baste occasionally with hot water in which a little butter has been melted.

Cold Baked Bean Soup.

Three cups beans, three pints water, two slices onion, two stalks celery (or substitute celery salt if you prefer), one and one-half cups tomatoes. Simmer all together for one-half hour, then rub through a sieve; add one tablespoonful chili sauce, or tomato catsup, salt and pepper to taste, and one tablespoonful melted butter rubbed into tablespoonful of flour. Boil up once and serve.

Chicken Broth.

Take a fowl, no matter how old, and when weighed add one pint of cold water to each pound of fowl. Break the bones and cut the meat small. Cover with water and add one tablespoonful of rice. After it comes to a boil let it simmer for two hours. Strain and season with salt and pepper and serve hot.

Fresh Pork Shoulder.

Take a small shoulder and boil until the bone comes out. Then make a dressing of eight small potatoes, two or three onions, one-half loaf of bread and let soak until soft. Season with poultry dressing. Wrap in white cloth and press over night. This is very nice.

Pincer for Chicken Feathers.

For pulling stubborn pinfeathers out of chickens, an effective pincer can be purchased for 25 cents.

Housework is a Burden

The daily cares of keeping house and bringing up a family are hard enough for a healthy woman. The tired, weak mother who struggles from morn to night with a lame, aching back is carrying a heavy burden.

Many women believe that urinary disorders and backache are "female troubles" and must be endured. But men suffer the same aches and troubles when the kidneys are sick.

Women are especially subject to kidney disease. Tight clothing, indoor work, the ordeals of childbirth, the worry, and the stooping, straining and striving of housework all help to bring it on. At first the trouble may be only backache, sick headache, dizziness and a drowsy, dull languid feeling, but this condition is dangerous to neglect, for dropsy, gravel and deadly Bright's disease start in some such small way.

Don't be discouraged. When backache, nervousness and irregular or painful passages of the kidney secretions begin to bother you, use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that has brought new life and strength to thousands of suffering women. There are no poisonous nor narcotic drugs in

"Oh! What a pain."

Doan's Kidney Pills—nothing to injure nor cause a habit. Delicate women can use them with perfect safety.

The following case is typical of the cure effected by Doan's Kidney Pills. Grateful testimony is the best evidence.

UNCONSCIOUS FOR HOURS

Michigan Woman Tells of Awful Suffering
Mrs. George Dolson, Inkster, Mich., says: "Following the birth of my third child, I began to notice signs of kidney trouble. I had terrible, bearing-down pains through the small of my back and my blood was filled with uric acid. My limbs, ankles and feet swelled twice their natural size and a finger pressure left a dent for hours. My sight was affected, my head dizzy and I would lie for hours unconscious. I got so thin that no one would have recognized me. The kidney secretions contained white, fatty substances and if allowed to stand became thick. I had a doctor and he said my kidneys weren't filtering the impurities from my system. Nothing had the least effect, in fact, I was getting worse. My sister brought me a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and when I started taking them, helping me, I kept on taking them. I got stronger, my kidneys began to act right and the swelling went down. My headaches and dizzy spells left me. I picked up in weight and the pains disappeared. I was able to take care of my housework, feeling like a different woman. Doan's Kidney Pills deserve every bit of credit for curing me."

ECZEMA ITCHED AND BURNED

R. F. D. No. 2, Seymour, Mo.—"My scalp broke out with fine pimples at the start. They itched and burned so much that I was compelled to scratch them and they would fester and come to a head and break out again. The trouble was attended by such burning and itching I could not sleep, also when I sweat it burned the same. My hair fell out gradually and the scalp felt rough and dry with itching and burning. After about two years the pimples broke out between my shoulders. My clothing irritated them. I was troubled with that eczema five or six years.

In Her Glory.
A woman visited a friend whose husband thought of moving out into the country.
"Getting back to the land is all well and good," she said, "but could you be contented to live in a little place?"
"Yes," replied her friend. "I think I could if I were the only one there who owned an auto."

400,000 Settlers a Year

Immigration figures show that the population of Canada increased during 1913, by the addition of 400,000 new settlers from the United States and Europe. Most of these have gone on farms in provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Lord William Percy, an English Nobleman, says: "The possibilities and opportunities offered by the Canadian West are so infinitely greater than those which exist in England, that it seems absurd to think that people should be impeded from coming to the country where they can most easily and certainly improve their position."

New districts are being opened up, which will make accessible a great number of homesteads in districts especially adapted to mixed farming and grain raising.
