We have several communications which are crowded out of this issue. They will appear next week.

BURGLARY.—On the night of the 8th inst., some persons forcibly entered Reed & Co.'s store, Bellevue, with the evident purpose of stealing themselves rich. They tackled Stephens & Logan's safe (which has been left in the store since that firm went out of business), and made a number of unsuccessful attempts to blow it up. A couple of yards of burnt fuse lay in front of the safe next morning, but the doors were not injured, and the contents were of course untouched. A pair of trousers was all that was taken from the store, and the burglars evidently departed disgusted with the strength and security of Stevens & Logan's strong-box.

FIRE!—About 4 o'clock last Monday afternoon the residence of J. Markham, Esq., in the south end of town, was found to be on fire. A large number of citizens ran to the place at once, and the utmost exertions were made in vain to save the building from destruction. The fire had gotten between the ceiling and the weatherboard which formed the wall that separated the dining-room from the kitchen, and progressed far before being perceived. Mrs. Markham and her son were absent at the time, and Mr. M. was at work in a field a short distance from the house when he first discovered evidence of fire. He ran to the house, and on entering the kitchen, found a broom standing in a corner of that room, in a blaze. After extinguishing the fire this had kindled he for a time thought all danger was past. But the rooms filled with smoke, and the true state of the case soon became apparent. After it was found that the building could not be saved, the furniture and household goods in the rooms on the first floor were removed, but nothing up-stairs could be saved, owing to the rapid progress of the flames. The wind was very fierce at the time, and it required some exertion to save some small buildings several hundred feet distant, and the fence had to be torn down. Cinders from the burning house were carried into the courthouse yard. The building was new, comfortably fitted up, and made as nice and pleasant a home as one could wish to see. The loss (amounting to $1,200) is a serious one to the unfortunate family, and they have the sympathies of the whole community.

From Bellevue.

BELLEVUE, Feb. 12th, 1880.

Ed. Register—

After waiting some time I have concluded to dot you a few lines from this place. Health is moderately good, and money matters tolerably good. Our roads were getting in fair condition before the rain to-day. There has nothing transpired lately of vast importance. One of our young Americans, who has been making a desperate effort to sail into matrimony for the last ten years, has at last come down with a crash. He says that it was cards caused the line to be drawn. Cards are a thing that are carried to considerable extent in this community; but thank kind Providence, there is a way; and if the practice don't subside, means will be resorted to that will stop the epidemic. A hint to the wise is sufficient.

Our young friend, Jo., has purchased himself a fine horse and is wanting to engage pork. The next will be H.—well, I won't say what, for our young friends will find that out soon, I presume.

It's well enough to have some one that can look into the future and foretell of prosperity. We have one in our midst that says that a railroad will run from Iron Mountain and connect with the Southwest Branch in the next twelve months. So much so good. We will watch and wait. But I am afraid that it will be a disappointment, such as Professor Tice's prophetic vision. I am told that there were men that sat up all night to witness that grand display. I will give for an illustration our miller, and you know he is a man of a man of powerful memory, for it takes a good memory to recollect the toll. "Democrat" accuses him of wanting to enlarge his toll; can't say whether he has or not—the flour and meal come all the same. Our friend "Democrat" is still occupying his easy chair, and gets up some excellent communications to the REGISTER. He is only a youth, and if misfortune don't overtake him, by the time he is thirty he will compare favorably with Charles Reade in romance. ONE OF THE BOYS.

THE MASQUERADE BALL.—At the American Hotel, on the evening of the 10th inst., was by all odds the biggest party given in the Valley this season. From 9 o'clock in the evening until 3 o'clock in the morning, the ball-room was crowded with dancers, and a gayer or happier time was never enjoyed by the young folks of this section. The costumes of the ladies, a full description of which is given below, were elegant and appropriate to the character represented; and together with the humorous cast of the male portion of the dancers made up a scene of beauty and fantastic variety. At 12 o'clock the order to unmask was given, and the usual surprises and exclamations followed. Supper was then announced, and all sat down to a table loaded with everything that could tempt the appetite or satisfy the hunger engendered by the three hours of pleasurable exertion. This part of the entertainment was indeed a fat, and reflects credit upon the excellent landlady of American Hotel. Following is a list of those who were present, so far as we can call them to mind; if the name of any one is omitted, we trust he or she may not consider the omission intentional. Of course, while the dancers were masked, we could not put them down categorically, for we didn't know who was which; and after the unmasking we were too busily engaged with other matters; besides we don't know much about "women's fashions" now, and really think we are entitled to great credit for as much as we have done in the following:
