

Another Dime-Novel Hero.

"AND he's the most outrageous liar I ever saw—for a boy," said Police Sergeant Chapman to a St. Louis Globe-Democrat reporter.

"He lies with an off-hand readiness that almost takes your breath away; gets out his fabrications in a kind of hair-trigger style, and studies you over with that cool gray eye of his as if he was framing an answer to the question he knew you'd put next."

Sergeant Chapman was not speaking of any famous crook, but of a variation in the juvenile cases that was refreshing to the uttermost degree.

At weddings among the nobility of Samoa the numerous relatives of the bride are presented with roast pigs, three hundred having been given on a recent occasion.

A 32-caliber breech-loading rifle, of a new and improved pattern.

A 22-caliber Defender 7-shooter revolver.

A 32-caliber Nero 5-shooter.

Six boxes of cartridges for the above. Several lots of loose cartridges.

A heavy slungshot.

Some powder, wadding, buckshot and caps.

A book of fish-hooks.

One slate-pencil.

A knife.

One of Mrs. Winslow's diaries.

Recipes for making harvest cakes, orange jelly and for preserving beans.

A railway guide.

A minstrel song book.

A 5-cent novel, entitled "Mark the Fearless; or, Hoisting His Own Row."

Another nickel novel, entitled "Brooding Thrust; or, the Hermit of the Hills."

"He thinks I do not love him."

A clipping from the New York Weekly containing three verses of poetry by Ida Raymond, beginning:

I sat me down at the evening hour And my heart was weary and lone.

Also a pile of money. When asked how much he had he said his father had given him $150, but a careful count of what he had in his pockets figured up $243.76, to say nothing of a railroad ticket from St. Louis to Council Bluffs, Ia.

He was a regular "daisy," the officers said. He poked fun at the officers, winked at Capt. Lee, said he could take care of his own row, and walked down stairs with a light step, and a lighter heart, leaving the police authorities to enter up one more case of run away from home with stolen money, produced by the reading of such five-cent novels as "Daring Dick," "Prince of Detectives," "Black Bear," "The Outlaw's Doom," "The Scarlet Spy," "Angel of the Waves," "Winged Moccasin," and other books of that ilk.

On his way to the calaboose the prisoner asked if the officer had "The Boy Captive" in his library, as he thought the present a fitting occasion in which to improve his time by reading. The officer explained that the book was "out."

Capt. Lee then searched the Chicago Directory for the name "Mellington" without finding it, but found "Geo. F. Wellington, butcher," plain enough, and so telegraphed Chief O'Donnell, of the lake-side city, asking if the boy was wanted there.

A few hours later reply was received that such a party was wanted at Joliet, Ill., for stealing money from a farmer named David Johnson, and thereupon Sergeant Chapman went down to the calaboose to try and make the boy "squel."

The Turnkey, Tom O'Leary, turned the boy out of the cell so that the conversation might be unobstructed. The boy had a piece of bull-neck in one hand and a chunk of bread in the other, and fixed his eyes on Sergeant Chapman as he asked:

"Do you know David Johnson, a farmer?"

GENERAL.

A FRENCHMAN who has traveled all over the world says that the American people are the most serious he ever encountered.

TWO MEN were recently arrested in Keyport, N. J., for using profane language in the streets, and each was fined $3.00 for the offense.

THERE is said to be an apple tree on the premises of William Plymire, in Washington County, Pa., which bears nine varieties, some of which are now ripe, while others will not ripen until late in the fall.

Mrs. HANNAH HALLETT, P. T. Barnum's mother-in-law, lives near Bridgeport, has good health, is deaf in one ear, can read the finest print without specs, is a great teller of stories to children, is cheerful, and ninety-five years old.

The bodies of fully two hundred persons drowned in Cayuga Lake within forty years have never been recovered. Various explanatory theories have been advanced, a late one being that the rocky bottom of the lake has many cavities in which the remains lodge.

At weddings among the nobility of Samoa the numerous relatives of the bride are presented with roast pigs, three hundred having been given on a recent occasion.

A CONCERT was given at Mechanics' Hall, in Boston, lately, remarkable from the facts that the night was warm and the seats in the audience room had been recently varnished.

A CORRESPONDENT telegraphs from Madrid that "Prince Demidoff, who recently sold his estate of San Donato, has just lost at play, in one night, $1,000,000. The winners were Messrs. Beutner, Boblinski and young Count Schouvaloff. The game was baccarat, and was played at the Yacht Club."

For forty years a centenarian ex-soldier, who recently died in a Russian village, was stone blind. He continued his business of tailor up to the day of his death, threading his needle by means of his tongue. His sense of touch was so acute that he could distinguish the denominations of bank notes with his fingers.

The two maps made by Joliet, co-discoverer of the Mississippi, to illustrate his journeyings have never yet been printed. A third map, however, which is regarded as of earlier date than the others, has just been published by M. Gabriel Gravier, President of the Norman Geographical Society, and author of several works dealing with early American explorations.

INDIGNATION among the passengers in a railroad car is reported because a lady let her pug dog drink out of the tin cup attached to the water-cooler. She replied to a remonstrance by assuring that her dog's lips were cleaner than those of the tobacco-chewing man who objected. He retorted that he could whip any man who would become her champion, but nobody volunteered.

THE Soldiers' Daughters' Home is an interesting British charity, twenty-five years old. More than eight hundred soldiers' daughters have been reared within its walls, and three hundred and fifty have been placed out as school-mistresses and other teachers or in domestic service. Of the girls admitted during the last year fifteen were daughters of soldiers who were killed or who died during the war in South Africa.

MISS GOODSELL, of New York City, heroically saved four other ladies from drowning in the Passaic River the other evening. Their boat was capsized by a collision with another, and the occupants of both were thrown into the water. Two men swam to the shore, and Miss Goodsell, by personally swimming to the shore with Mrs. Olseil, saved the latter's life. Then she swam back in the darkness, and by her efforts managed to get the remainder ashore, when all fell exhausted.

AMONG the patients at St. Luke's Hospital, New York, is Miss Lucy Osborn, a young woman who carries on her head an artificial scalp. It has taken six years to construct this scalp. The material for building the scalp has been furnished by 100 volunteers, and 14,000 different pieces have entered into its construction. Miss Osborn belongs to New Bedford, Conn., and lost her natural scalp by the catching of its luxuriant curls in the revolving shaft of a button factory where she worked.

IN this season of boasting and bathing it is well to remember that, in a late communication to the French Academy, Professor Fort declared that he had reared to life a child of three years old by using artificial respiration, without becoming discouraged, for four hours, not having begun for three and a half hours after apparent death. Some time before, Dr. Fourou, of Billancourt, resuscitated a person one hour after being taken from the water by the same means faithfully applied.

IN a St. Louis saloon there is an apparatus intended ostensibly for designating the weight a person can lift. Attached to the machine, and concealed in the wall, is a galvanic battery, which the barker behind the counter can turn on in an instant. An innocent and unsuspecting Chinaman was bantered to test his strength. John answered, "Me pullee im allee same like you," and after the other had pulled 290, the Chinaman caught the knob. The current of electricity was turned on, and the Celestial demonstrated his ability to dance the Highland fling. He swore to never pull anything again except his game.

WHEREUPON the City Marshal of Joliet was properly advised by wire, and the young desperado will be held till Mr. Johnson comes along and decides what shall be done with him.

And till that event arises Secretary Chapman has but one fear, and that is that the boy has probably lied to him with the same facility that he did to the officers who first took him in. The people at the Four Courts did intend to organize an anti-yellow-backed literature society, but after reflecting on the avidity with which they devoured the columns of the National Police Gazette concluded to act consistently with their official tastes.

HOME AND FARM.

TO CLEAN brushes and sponges use spirits of ammonia and hot water. Wash them well and shake the water out, drying on a coarse towel with the bristles downward. Little or no soap is needed.

"NEVER put a particle of soap about your silverware," says the proprietor of an old silver establishment, "if you would have it retain its original luster. When it wants polish take a piece of soft leather and whiting and rub it."

DELICIOUS PUDDING.—Four eggs, yolks beaten separately, with four tablespoons of flour until very light. Add half a teaspoonful of salt and mix gradually one quart of rich milk with the batter. Beat the whites of four eggs to a froth and stir in last. Bake in a quick oven twenty minutes.

A GENTLEMAN at the head of a large fruit-drying establishment states that fruit sliced very thin across the axis, placed on a tray in the sun, and covered with thin muslin (not mosquito netting,) will present an appearance closely resembling that prepared by evaporation and bleached by sulphur fumes.

In making soup, it is better to boil the vegetables separately from the meat and strain both meat and vegetable before putting them with the strained liquors. Soups are more wholesome, and far more palatable for hot weather, than meats, but a good piece of meat is required to make nourishing soup.

RIPEN TOMATO PICKLE.—One peck of tomatoes, three pounds of sugar, one ounce of cloves, one quart of vinegar, one ounce of cinnamon, one-half ounce of ginger root. Slice the tomatoes, scald the vinegar, sugar and spices together, pour over the tomatoes hot. Leave twenty-hours, then put all over the fire and cook ten minutes, then take out tomatoes, cook down the juice and pour over.

A WHOLE afternoon at the recent convention at Lansing, of the Michigan Sheep-breeders' and Wool-growers' Association, was given up to a debate on the question of washing sheep, and the result was an almost unanimous verdict to the effect that the practice is not only useless and barbarous, but unprofitable, taking into account the often fatal effects on the animals thus shocked by being forced into the water.

COTTAGE CHEESE.—Place a pan of clabbered sour milk over the fire and let it become well scalded; then pour it into a clean cloth and squeeze out all the water, leaving the clabber quite dry. Put this into a bowl and work it with the hands, making it a little moist by adding cream. Add also a little butter and enough salt to season well. Mold out in small balls or serve it in one large cake, as may be desired. A much richer cheese may be made by substituting buttermilk that has just come from the churn in place of clabbered milk. Be careful that the milk does not boil when it is placed on the stove. It wants to scald only.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Germantown Gazette says that a most beautiful and easily attained show of evergreens may be had by a very simple plan, which has been found to answer remarkably well on a small scale. If geranium branches taken from luxuriant and healthy trees, be cut as for slips and immersed in soap-water, they will, after drooping a few days, shed their leaves, put forth fresh ones, and continue in the finest vigor all the winter. By placing a number of bottles thus filled in a flower-basket, with moss to conceal the bottles, a show of evergreens is insured all winter. All the different varieties of the plant being used, the various shapes and colors of the leaves blend into a beautiful effect. They require no fresh water.

ROCK CAKES.—Put a quarter of a pound of butter into one pound of flour, mix in a quarter of a pound of sugar, half a pound of currants or sultanas, one ounce of candied peel finely chopped, the grated peel of half a lemon, and a large pinch of baking powder. Beat two eggs for a minute, mix the other ingredients into a paste with them. In order that the cakes may have a rocky shape, the paste must be very stiff; if it is too moist, the cakes will be flat. If, however, the two eggs are not sufficient to work up the paste, a few drops of milk may be added. Flour a baking-sheet with your fingers, put little pieces of the cake at equal distances, taking care to drop them on lightly, so that they will retain their proper shape.

Order on the Farm.

MANY farmers fail in making their farms profitable for want of order. Whether on a small farm where the work is all done by the owner, or on a large farm where several hands are employed, there must be an early and a regular hour for rising in the morning. Each hand of man should know the evening previous just what he is to do in the morning, and if possible for the entire day. If chores are his first employment, then he can go at them without waiting for orders. It is to use a team, he can have it fed, carried and harnessed ready. The wagon or implement he is to use can be oiled and in place ready to hitch to. The proprietor must make stories short with common calls, and yet courteous. He can also by a judicious system and study of the situation encourage any superior or ambitious help to excel in their labors. Be always at home to direct, aid, and counsel in all departments. Discourage all careless and loose practices. Strive to cultivate and continue a good feeling between laborer and employer. Have stated times, and rigidly enforce them, for meals, for milking, for commencing the regular work and for retiring from the field. Make the farm produce superior crops, and raise the best stock of all kinds. All kinds of produce of the garden, orchard, vineyard, dairy or farm should be put up honestly, but in the most attractive style for market.

If business or pleasure take you from the farm, let the family know the precise hour you will return. And let them by your punctuality know that your engagements are reliable. Make all worthy hands, or boys on the farm, or female help in the house feel that they are your equals in rights and respectability. Order, harmony and punctuality are important for success in any enterprise.—Iowa State Register.

"Yes, daughter, you should go somewhere this summer. You can not stay at home during the warm weather and live. To be sure, your mother, who hasn't been out of town since she married, can stand it, but then she is old-fashioned and doesn't know any better, and besides, she has fun enough in doing the washing and ironing. By all means go. Get a linen duster and go at once."

"We are going to do something we have never done before, and that is deliberately and unsolicited to puff a patent medicine. We want to say that we endorse, personally, all that is said of St. Jacobs Oil. We have tried it for rheumatism and neuralgia, and it has given instant relief."

[Sandusky (Ohio) Daily Register.]

Mr. H. Lulay, Sandusky, Ohio, writes: Fifteen years my wife suffered with liver disease. I paid an immense amount of money to the doctor, but without any benefit to her. Last year she began to use Hamburg Drops, since which time we have had no occasion for doctors.

A little girl in church, after the contribution plate had been passed, complemented and audibly said, "I paid for four, mamma; was that right?"

Not Open to Argument. The testimony of the Sandusky Herald, Rochester, N. Y., is taken from their columns, and is to the effect "that Warner's Safe Remedies are a positive cure for disabilities for which they are specified, there is no disputing; neither is there the 'ghost' of a chance to call into being a negative to so positive an operation."

All respectable dealers sell Frazer Azie Grease, because it is the Genuine and gives perfect satisfaction. "PREJUDICES rule the vulgar crowd," but Hunt's Remedy rules Urinary diseases.
