

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Probate Court is in session this week, with a very light docket.

Read the description of the Pilot Knob mine in another column.

The patent roller flour is open to one objection: it does not show up well in the form of paste.

Two thousand dollars school fund now on hand to loan at eight per cent. Apply to county clerk.

Venison hams, 8c per pound. Pork, all round, 6c. Beefsteak, 10c. Eggs, 20c per doz. Butter, 25c per pound.

There have been fifty-two birth reports, and twenty-two death reports, returned to the county clerk since the new law went into effect.

The only prisoner sent up to Jefferson City by the late term of circuit court was Frank Myers, who pleaded guilty to burglary. He will reside in the State capital two years.

About as near approach to a hurricane as we have ever seen in this section blew things wild last Sunday night. The wind came from the southwest, and threatened for a time to blow the chimneys down about the ears of the sleeping denizens of the Valley. Our hills are our protection.

The Sycamore Company at Graniteville are preparing to explode a five-ton blast in the quarries there. They will probably have everything ready within two weeks. Ten thousand pounds of powder will shake things up considerably, and no doubt here in Ironton—five miles away—we shall be made fully aware of the explosion when it occurs.

The Doniphan Prospect thinks that, if, in our late meander, we had taken in that town, we might have seen a place to vie with this. The village of Doniphan—we speak from personal observation—is a very pleasant one; but, boys, there's no use in your denying that the little city of Ironton is the "daisy" of Southeast Missouri. This is no disparagement to her sister towns, for she would be as a diamond in the desert, if placed in the Garden of Eden.

The young men of Graniteville will give a Social Dance at the Workingmen's Hall, on Thursday evening, November 15th, the proceeds to be given in aid of the Catholic Church at that place. A general invitation is extended to all, and as the object is a worthy one, we feel assured the attendance will be large. Mr. Davis' String Band, of this place, will furnish the music. Refreshments will be served free. Admission, per couple, one dollar.

As a citizen was passing by the school play-ground the other day, he heard a thirteen-year-old pupil swearing like "four army in Flanders." "Put, put!" said the citizen, "what kind of language are you using?" "The right kind," answered the youngster; "G-d-d-n you! don't you like it?" It is no wonder when such vicious playmates are given our children, that they are contaminated. And this is the strongest argument against the wisdom of the public school system.

The killing of stock by railroad trains is, in three cases out of four, the result of mere carelessness on the part of engineers. This is especially true in towns and villages, where, if the trains were run at a faster rate than the instructions allow, the loss would be reduced to the minimum. Here in Ironton not a week passes but the law is violated fifty times by reckless train men, who puts their trains through at lightning speed, neither whistling nor ringing at the crossings. This is dangerous to not only stock, but human life. A few indictments might mend matters.

How can the denizens of this Valley or the people of the county expect to get their rights and due respect from a railway corporation if they do not keep things in proper order themselves? The county has gone to some little expense in putting up a foot-bridge in our Valley, which, by the way, is a very useful acquisition for all who come on business to our county seat, but why not insist on the preservation of the pedestrian way over the railway bridge? It is only by so doing that we can get the respect of soulless corporations or win for our people a due proportion of their rights.

The past week has been a prolific one in babies. First on the roll, came a youngster—a girl—to the domicile of Mr. W. W. Hall, on Wednesday night; next evening, Sheriff Fletcher welcomed a little boy; and on Friday night Geo. Schultz was made happy by the addition of a bouncing boy to his household. In this connection it is but fair to state that Dr. Prince anti-dated all these folks by month or so. This last ought to have been noted in these columns ere this; but, my gracious! where there are so many, the editor should be excused in occasional oversight. It gives us pleasure to state that everybody concerned in the foregoing is all right and improving.

The station-house at this place was broken open last Sunday morning about 5 o'clock, by a tramp. He took a round-trip ticket-book, a lot of other tickets, some wearing apparel, etc., and skipped southward, "overland." The burglary was discovered by the agent about seven o'clock, and he telegraphed immediately up and down the road. The thief went from here to Hogan, and as soon as he came into the station-house the agent there looked at him and the valise he carried, and said, "I shouldn't be surprised if this proved to be the fellow that broke into the Ironton depot." With that he grabbed the valise from the tramp, opened it, and lo! there were the stolen garments and tickets. The agent made the tramp a prisoner and telegraphed his "and" to Blomeyer, the agent here, and sent him up with the next train. At the depot he was turned over to Constable Patton who lodged him in jail, where he awaits his preliminary examination—to take place to-day or to-morrow, as Judge Dinger may find time to hear it.

With great regret we learn of the death of Sidney Low, eldest son of J. D. Low, of Bellevue. He was a fireman on one of the short trains that run between Carondelet and St. Louis, and on last Saturday evening had stepped off his engine to attend to some matter when a puff of wind blew a cloud of smoke into his face, blinding him. He stepped back to avoid it, and thus placed himself in the way of a train backing down an adjacent track. He was thrown down and seven cars ran over him before the train could be stopped. Of course he was instantly killed. His thus suddenly and fearfully bereaved father and relatives have our heartfelt sympathies. The accident is the more distressing since this is the second son taken within two years, in substantially the same manner.

The following from the Marble Hill Herald is so clearly correct in principle that it ought to be made the rule of every newspaper in the land. As for us, we shall continue to endeavor to be no respecter of persons: to set down things as they occur—"naught in malice, nor ought extenuate." "The Herald will hereafter, as a matter of simple justice, publish the names of all law-breakers in its columns; and no matter what may be the financial condition or social standing of those who disturb the peace or in any way violate any law of the State or ordinance of the town, the Herald will publish their names and an account of such violation, if of interest to the public. No man can consider himself so privileged that his own wrongful acts shall be overlooked or kept silent. Justice is not confined to a few, but is the blessed inheritance of all. The rich man is entitled to no more favors than the poor, and the Herald does not propose showing him any more.

The old woman exclaimed. "Of course I can bile beans. She didn't know we meant Smith's Bile Beans, which are the best thing in the world for a disordered liver. 25 cts. a box. For sale at the Pilot Knob Drug Store.

A Correction.

Editor Register—In your last issue I noticed quite a lengthy article from "T. C.," in which he said that "The Franklin Association of Missionary Baptists met near Webster, and, unless the information is sadly perverted, broke up in a row." We wish to inform the writer of that article that he has been misinformed, and that nothing of that kind transpired. The parties did not agree on the location for the school, it is true; but there was no quarrelling, and instead of breaking up in a "row," every thing passed off pleasantly. The gentleman must remember that "Mother Gossip" has a very long tongue and generally uses it to perfection.

The intention is to start a school in Bellevue (as the gentleman said), and if we have a dead horse, whether small or large, left on our hands, we can easily bury him and not use half our force. A READER.

In All Thy Gettings, Get Strength.

If the skin be yellow and the bowels constipated; if you have ringing in your ears and dull pain in the side, sick headache, sour stomach, hot or dry skin, spots before the eyes, bad taste in your mouth, cold feet and hands, sleepiness, giddiness, loss of appetite, bad circulation of the blood, swollen limbs, etc., you may safely conclude your liver is out of order. The liver is more apt to become disordered than any other organ of the body, as its duty is to filter the impurities from the blood. When it becomes weak, obstructed and diseased it must fail to do its duty, and the whole body suffers. Go to G. W. Farrar, of Pilot Knob, and get a bottle of White's Prairie Flower, the great Liver Panacea, which has the largest sale of any liver medicine in the world. Dr. Farrar will present you with one dollar and sixty-five cents' worth of choice music with each 75-cent bottle. Samples 25 cents. 1-4-27-27

Southeast Missouri Iron Ore Deposits.

Ed. Register—Southeast Missouri contains immense deposits of Limonite, or commonly called Brown Hematite, iron ore. But little attention has been paid toward developing the same. These deposits cover a large territory, including Iron, Reynolds, Madison, Wayne, Butler, Carter, Stoddard, and Bollinger counties. Some very extensive deposits are found in some of the above counties.

These deposits are found resting on, or in cavities of the third magnesian limestone, some times in place, while others are entirely broken up and thrown out of their original position and are almost worthless, the ore being scattered and mixed with the loose debris. This is the case with a majority of the deposits, while the few remaining deposits are found lying in their original position, and are found to contain ore of good quality, while others contain sulphur, flint, etc., which makes them almost worthless as an iron ore.

Bollinger contains a few deposits that are found in their original position. The Jesse Lute's Bank is located about two miles from Lutesville, and is now being worked (as I have been informed) by the St. Louis Ore & Steel Company, and the ore is being shipped to the furnace at Pilot Knob to be mixed with the Pilot Knob ores. This bank was opened some years since and found to be of good quality, the only impurity being flint. Care has to be taken in selecting the ore. If it is shipped in large lumps, it will be found to contain too much flint when it is broken at the furnaces. The flint is generally found in the center of large pieces or boulders.

The ore in this region is not found in veins, as some suppose it to be an upheaval, and that the ore seen is only an outcropping of the mother vein. Whoever works on this theory will be deceived, as the ore here is formed either by infiltration or some other chemical operation. As is to be plainly seen, a company must not depend on one ore bank for supply, but secure all they can within their reach, as those deposits are very uncertain and liable to give out at any time. The best ore banks are in Wayne and Butler counties.

The Indian Ford banks and others in that vicinity are known to contain from fifty to seventy-five per cent. of peroxide of iron, and clearly pure from sulphur and phosphorus, which makes the ore more valuable.

This whole territory is well timbered, and splendid water power exists, and no doubt furnaces will be erected at no distant day.

J. C. Simpson, general manager at the Knob, has introduced this ore as a mixture with other ores at the Company's furnace at Pilot Knob, and it has improved the quality of the pig iron made.

Your readers will thus see that the general manager of the St. Louis Ore & Steel Company has not only made improvements at Pilot Knob, but is extending the Company's works at Lutesville. The people of that vicinity, I am sure, are thankful for the benefit they will receive; but not only Lutesville is benefitted, but even Marble Hill also will receive her share of the benefit of the mines.

A description of Shepherd Mountain veins will appear next; also the manner in which the mines have been worked. C. W. B.
