In the Senate on the 1st, the bill to ascertain the expenses incurred by the people of Idaho in the Bannock war was placed on the calendar. The bill for relief of the survivors passed. The education bill was further debated and considerable miscellaneous business disposed of. In the House, among numerous reports was one for inspection of stock and dressed meats. The measure is a substitute for several others. The trade-dollar bill passed. The Keifer-Boynton committee reported a resolution that the charges against Boynton were not sustained. The report was laid over.

In the Senate on the 2d a resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, inquiring whether the United States is bound to pay certain amounts to Spain for damages sustained in 1893. Bills passed to increase the efficiency of the Land Office; to improve the coinage; also several war claim bills. The education bill was discussed without action. In the House the Indian appropriation bill was taken up. Mr. Ellis explained its provisions. Mr. Throckmorton favored an amendment to abolish the five civilized nations. A recess was taken to give the members an opportunity to shake hands with General Grant. An amendment upon the floor of the House. Adjournment occurred soon afterward.

In the Senate on the 3d bills were reported favorably for judges at Nashville, Tenn., and White Cloud, Kas. A bill was introduced to establish a silk culture bureau. The educational bill was taken up and Senator Pendleton opposed it on constitutional grounds. Senator Beck also spoke against it and Senator Williams in favor of it. Notice of several amendments was given. In the House the resolution was adopted authorizing the door-keeper to employ laborers to fold speeches. The Indian appropriation bill was taken up and an amendment to abolish the office of Indian inspectors and have their duties performed by army officers was agreed to.

In the Senate on the 4th, the bill to authorize the appointment of a commission to settle the Texas boundary question was placed on the calendar. A resolution to appropriate $100,000 for the protection of Mississippi levees was referred to the River Improvement Committee. Mr. Bayard addressed the Senate against the education bill. Mr. Gibson favored it and Mr. Morgan opposed it. In the House the Indian appropriation bill passed and the private calendar was taken up. An evening session was held for consideration of pension bills.

MISSOURI STATE NEWS.

Nehls Olsen, a Swede, who has been three years in the country and who lodged at No. 1728 Morgan street, St. Louis, opened the arteries of his wrists with a razor a few days ago. He was discovered nearly four hours later, when he was still holding his wrists above a basin, over the edge of which the blood was slopping to the floor. He was taken to the hospital, where he died shortly afterwards from exhaustion. Religious melancholy is assigned as the cause of the act. Olsen was forty-three years old and unmarried.

In the First Collection District of Missouri there was collected during March on account of United States Internal Revenue $26,242.67, as follows: For beer stamps, $2,792.88; for spirit stamps, $163,622.60; for tobacco stamps, $146,208.58; for cigars, $10,489.05; for snuff, $288.04; for penalties, specials, $1,861.52. Compared with the collections of March, 1883, the business shows an increase of four per cent. in beer, ten per cent. in cigars, twenty per cent. in tobacco and a decrease of seven per cent. in spirits.

H. B. Aderhold attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself in the reading-room of the Southern Hotel, St. Louis, a few days ago. The pistol proved too weak for the job and Aderhold still lives.

Something over a week ago a man named William Farrow stole a horse from George Able near Union Star, De Kalb County. He was captured subsequently but made his escape and disappeared in the brush. A few nights ago he stole another fine horse from Free Sexton but was captured, securely tied and taken to the jail at Albany. Farrow is City Marshal of Union Star and his actions have created considerable interest.

The off-bearers at George Farrar's brick yard at Lexington, mostly boys, recently notified their employer that they wanted to see him at the yard the next morning. He kept the appointment, when they demanded an extra fifty cents per day or they would strike. The demand was acceded to. No work was done that day, however, as it was too cold. They were getting only fifty cents a day.

Measles are raging violently in the vicinity of Lexington. In the family of Dave Daniels, consisting of thirteen persons, all were down but one, most of them seriously ill. A relative came to attend them and was also taken sick with the same complaint.

J. W. Snubbin, Secretary of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture, says he has just received reports from some two hundred correspondents from all counties in the State, which gave the average of growing wheat as ninety-eight, and still improving; also that the amount of wheat and corn now in the hands of producers averages for corn twenty-four per cent., and wheat seventeen and a half per cent. After some inquiry into the subject it is safe to report peaches as having suffered greatly by the severe winter, and the crop will be very light. Apples promise a fair yield. The smaller fruits will be short.

Governor Crittenden has granted a pardon to John Marsden, who was convicted at the September term, 1883, of the Circuit Court of Jefferson County of grand larceny, and sentenced to the Penitentiary for two years. Marsden was the youngest member of the band of desperadoes who, for several years, terrorized that county, and the crime for which he was tried and convicted was stealing eleven hogs.

He was a cousin to Mack Marsden, the leader, and it is partly owing to the valuable assistance and information he gave the officers that the gang was broken up and the free-booters completely killed or brought to justice. A very lengthy petition from the citizens of Jefferson County asked the pardon.

A few days ago Moses Smith, a colored man, deposited a load of ash on a dumping ground in St. Louis. Samuel Gray, another colored man, arrived soon after and found the pelvic bones of a human being just where Smith had been.

On searching a little he discovered a skull and bones of arms and legs, so that there was a skeleton, except a few minor bones. The skull had been cut in two, dividing it into an upper and lower portion, as though by a medical student. Gray reported his discovery to the police, and Smith was arrested. He said that he had found the bones in an ash-hear near Twelfth and Washington avenues, and thought the chest bones were a turtle-shell. He was held awaiting the action of the Coroner, and the skeleton was boxed and transferred to the Morgue. Some flesh still adhered to the ribs and backbone.

Elmer Moorman, a Livingston County man is having a jag-shaped cyclone cave built, which he says is for the accommodation of his neighbors. The cave will be arched over at the top with a hole at the side like an Equinaux hut, and will be eight feet four inches in diameter, and six feet six inches from top to bottom and two-thirds of it will be underground.

Now brace up the front gate.

At a meeting of the members of the Kansas City bar held a few days ago, to arrange for the reception to Judge Brewer, successor of Judge McCrary, it was decided that a reception be given at the regular May term of the United States Court, invitations to extend to the members of the bar of the Western District of Missouri and the leading men of Missouri and Kansas. The meeting was largely attended and much interest is manifested.

A month-old calf in Mississippi County weighs only thirteen pounds.

THE MISSOURI WOOL GROWERS.

Fourth Annual Meeting of the Missouri Wool-Growers Association at Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, MO., April 4.

The fourth annual meeting of the Missouri wool growers began here yesterday with a public shearing at Riverview Park. Twenty-seven full-blooded merinos were sheared, averaging eighteen pounds of fleece, which is considered the best average yet shown in the State. The highest weight of fleece was thirty-one pounds and six ounces. The attendance was large and great interest was manifested. Last night the association met at the St. James Hotel, where they were welcomed by Mayor Gibson and prominent citizens. The session will last three days. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: H. V. Pragsley of Plattsburg, President; G. H. Wallace of Lee's Summit, Vice-President; L. L. Sells of Osborn, Secretary; N. H. Geary of Sedalia, Treasurer. The annual address was delivered by Prof. Sandborn of the State Agricultural College at Columbia. Leading wool growers from all parts of the State are here, and the meeting is doubtless the most successful ever held.

A RIVER TRAGEDY.

Burning of the Steamer Rebecca Everingham on the Chattahoochee River—A Long List of Dead and Wounded—Heroic Action of the Pilot and His Son—Three Hundred and Fifty Bales of Cotton Burned.

EUFULA, ALA., April 4.

The steamer Rebecca Everingham, plying between Columbus, Ga., and Apalachicola, Fla., burned to the water's edge at Fitzgerald Landing, four miles above Florence, Ga., and twenty-eight miles above Eufula, at four o'clock yesterday morning. She was loaded with 300 bales cotton and carried about thirty passengers. The fire is supposed to have occurred by the falling of a particle of carbon from the electric light. The boat was in mid-stream when the alarm was given, and was quickly enveloped in smoke and flame, lighting up the sky for miles around. The cry of fire was the signal for a terrible panic, and officers of the boat describe the scene as of the wildest character. Men and women rushed hither and thither in their night garments imploring aid. The boat was headed for land by the pilot, but before a landing was effected nearly every part was surrounded by fire. Within thirty minutes after, the bank was touched and the few that it was possible to save landed. The boat burned down to the hull, and severing the mooring drifted into the stream and sank half a mile below.

Among those known to have been lost are:

W. L. Kennedy, Eufula.

Mrs. Avant, Cuthbert, Ga.

Miss Simpson, sister of Mrs. Avant, Ft. Gaines, Ga.

Julia Adams, colored, chamber-maid.

Dolph Thomas, deck hand.

Randall Singer, deck hand.

A. Zephen, colored, deck hand.

Robert Griffin, colored, steward.

A colored woman and child, names not known, are missing.

J. H. Hightower, Eufula, is missing.

Two other white men, passengers, names not ascertained, were fatally burned.

E. B. Williams, La Grange, was fatally burned.

Captain George Whiteside and Second Engineer J. T. Carey were seriously burned.

Two wagon and two bateau loads of survivors and effects reached Eufula at 2 p. m., among whom was the pilot, G. H. Lapham, to whose heroism and that of his young son they who did escape are indebted for their lives. When the pilot saw the danger they were in he did not wait for the boat to make a landing to make fast, but ordered his son on board with a rope. He swam ashore and made fast, and then swam back and heroically went to work to save life. The noble pilot was the last to desert the deck and then only after saving the life of two women.

Pilot Lapham gave the gloomy report that it was impossible at present to arrive at the number that may have perished, as the names given above received from him, and the small number seen after the disaster, made it appear that the roll of missing is larger, and among these may be others burned and drowned.

One lady saved herself by jumping from the cabin to the deck below, twenty-five feet, on the opposite side from the flames, and another by clinging to the motionless wheel. One of the passengers, Mr. J. B. Yates, had presented his resignation to the Executive Board of the association in the consideration of all matters claiming their attention and action. There will have to be a revolution in the legal fraternity before a proper enforcement of the law and conviction of cattle-thieves can be secured. On behalf of the association I desire to welcome our visitors and express the pleasure felt at their presence with us to-day. We will now proceed with the regular order of business.

Mr. McCoy spoke in an easy, graceful manner and his remarks were greeted with warm applause.

The regular order of business was proceeded with, and under the head of new members the following were elected to membership: Arkansas Valley Land and Cattle Company, J. E. Biggers, C. C. Mulls, R. B. Clark, C. E. Bigelow, R. B. Latham, J. T. Given, J. D. Dixon, J. T. Wetlick; Lee Summit Cattle Company, C. Woodward, T. L. McCarty, Frank Biggs, S. R. Taylor and J. H. Mussett. The names, D. S. Johns, A. W. Inderheld, John W. Jones and H. A. Smith were laid over for future action by the Arbitration Committee. A Committee on nominations was then appointed, and after a few remarks on important affairs the Convention adjourned until 10:30 a. m.

COMMUNAL RECAPTURED.

DALLAS, TEX., April 4.

The rumors current Wednesday that Morgan Cammack, the cotton swindler who turned State's evidence and was out on bond, had fed after being permitted to visit New Orleans, were verified yesterday morning by telegrams from the detectives and himself that he had been recaptured at Guaymas in Old Mexico on the Gulf of California, about 1,800 miles from Dallas. He is expected to arrive next Saturday. He has by feeling forfeited clemency extended by the State when he turned State's evidence.

CLEANINGS FROM CINCINNATI.

The Death List—The Drift of Opinion Regarding the Action of the Militia—No Individual Responsibility for Captain Desmond's Death.

CINCINNATI, O., April 3.

At a meeting of Socialists to-night it was expected some action would be taken on the subject of the riots, but was not discussed. It is announced that they will hold a meeting Sunday next for the purpose of discussing the recent disturbance. There is no change in the situation about the Court-house and jail, except that the crowd of sight-seers became greater during the afternoon, and
