LOCAL BREVITIES.

Jo. Hughes says "a petticoat is a d-d good fortification." A foreboding observation and a true.

Measles are prevalent in Ironton. They crossed the Rubicon (Stout's creek) last week.

Miss Sould and her mother are stopping at the Arcadia House. We understand they intend making Arcadia their future home.

We hear it rumored that Thos. C. Leech, Esq., is about to take charge of the Bonne Terre Reporter. If true, Tom will give the people of that section a good paper.

BOON.—To Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rapp, a son, on Friday, February 13th, 1885. Mother and son are doing well. The father is in a very precarious condition, but some sitting up with will no doubt pull through.

An excursion train—across the continent, from Chicago to San Francisco—with one hundred and twenty-five people, will pass through the Valley to-day (Wednesday). They will take dinner at the Arcadia House.

Last Monday morning was the seventh spell of weather this winter when the thermometer dropped below zero. On some of these occasions it lasted two or three days. The coldest length of winter ever known here.

In accordance with the request of certain prominent citizens, an entertainment at a Dime Entertainment will be given at the Academy of Music next week. The evening has not been definitely settled, but it is believed Thursday will be chosen. Due notice will, of course, be given.

Elsewhere will be found an article on the European question, from the pen of Thos. Calahan, Esq. It is ably written and worthy close perusal. By-the-way, will the Globe-Democrat, in accordance with its custom, quote his concluding sentence as the utterance of the editor of this paper?

Last Sunday morning was ushered in by a flurry of snow—a snow-storm as the present winter has seen. About four inches of snow would have covered the ground had not the wind piled it up in drifts in some places, while in others the earth was left bare as the day before. Then succeeded still another cold spell which froze everything freezable and rendered out-door business extremely disagreeable.

Judge Thomas went over to Centreville yesterday to hold a special term of circuit court for Reynolds county. To-morrow he will hold court for this county especially to try John Smith, now lying quod, for grand larceny. Everything is in readiness for the trial, and the prisoner will no doubt be rattled in the penitentiary before the week is out. Would that justice were always as swift as it is where the rights of property are concerned.

The ladies of the Episcopal Church request us to give thanks for them to the people of Arcadia Valley for their liberal assistance and patronage at the Festival last Friday evening. The net proceeds were a trifle over $40, and somewhat exceed expectations; for times are hard, and though the hearts of our people may be willing the pocket-nerve is rather weak and abnormally sensitive. The ladies also desire to especially thank Mr. Oliver for the very fine bouquet fashioned and donated by him.

Dr. Miles C. Farrar is now a resident of Fort Worth, Texas. He is in the Missouri Pacific Hospital at that point, which is quite a large institution. The main building is nearly three hundred feet long, and of proportionate width. It will accommodate 240 patients. We regret that we cannot at present comply with the Doctor's invitation to come and see him, but of one thing he may be sure: our wishes do not "postpone" with the circumstances that environ and bind us down, as it were, to duty and home.

In our item referring to Mr.—we beg pardon—Mrs. Newman's milk cow, last week, we gave her butter product at thirty pounds for twenty-five days, while in fact the amount was thirty-three and one-fourth pounds! She has averaged, in the last forty days, nearly one and one-half pounds per day, beside some new milk and several quarts of cream sold. By the way, we have seen personally tested the butter, and found it as excellent in quality as the product is unusual in quantity. But bless you; we weren't a-hinting!

On the 14th inst. we received a valentine fashioned after the longing of our inner self. We deeply suspect J. Grandhomme of having to do with it. It was a little flask, flat, and of oval-circular form, its front beautified by the counterfeit presentation of a face and form divinely fair. The contents of the valentine may not properly be described as "a temperance drink," but were the best of a beverage that many folks insist is bad in all its forms and tendencies. That impeachment of our valentine, however, lieth not on this day, but the beauty of its fair face endureth forever.

will be large, for there lives no man, woman or child in this county but possesses the greatest reverence and admiration for him. He is a landmark in Southeast Missouri, having here occupied a prominence rarely attained, and expended a life unusually fruitful of good to those around him. Further notice of the pleasant event will be given next week.

Two ladies in a buggy came near having a catastrophe at the crossing of Stout's creek, south of Ironton, one of the late thawing days. The waters were up, and the bed of the creek full of holes dangerous to those who were not experienced in the intricacies of the ford. The horse took the buggy into one of these places, and the water ran over the bed, and, for a moment, it was thought all would go down stream together. But the horse faithful to his duty, and the ladies got across, safe though not dry. On their return they walked the foot-bridge while an experienced friend drove the buggy across. We still insist that a wagon-bridge ought to be built there: and is it not better to have it done before, rather than after, some fatal attempt at fording?

Last Wednesday a loaf of bread was presented to the editor's family—at any rate, such was the intention of the donor. But when she arrived at our domicile she found the goodwife absent and the house safely locked. After a moment's consideration, she placed the loaf, neatly enveloped in a napkin, under a half-bushel measure sitting on a table on the porch. Then she departed, but on her way home met our boss and told her of the present and where secreted. The latter personage, after a call or two, went home, stirred up the fire, straightened things around after the manner of all housewives, and finally went to take possession of that loaf of bread. She raised the half-bushel measure, but to her astonishment she found the "staff of life" was there intact. It had taken under itself wings, and, despite that half-bushel measure's confining shelter, flown away. Now, like the rent in a certain camel cloak, "the damage was not great, but it was annoying"—at least to our better-half. We, individually, didn't care so much: good, nice, light, hot biscuit on a winter day beats cold light bread all to blazes, anyway. But tramps had better stay clear of those premises until time shall have softened the remembrance of the theft.

"Go away from home to hear the news." The Jackson Cash-Book, of the 12th inst., says: "Iron county has three candidates for the position of Register of Lands namely: Eli D. Ake, editor of the REGISTER, Representative Foley, and Prof. Jno. W. Scott. Mr. Foley enjoys the distinction of being a member of the Legislature from the fine old county of Iron. Mr. Ake is a successful newspaper man, and runs a newspaper and job office that yields him lots of ducats, and besides he is just about to get a patent on a new kind of printers' chase that will no doubt bring him many thousand dollars." Eli D. Ake is not a candidate for any office, and will not be. He holds a position which he would not exchange for any within the gift of the President; one that is not subject to the mutations of politics. His ducats are scarcely so plentiful as the foregoing extract would indicate, but the place that now holds him suits him to a dot—however ill he may fill it. Bro. McGuire has confounded the name of the editor of the paper with that of his brother's, J. T. Ake. The latter is an applicant and will do his best to "get there." He has resided in Iron county nearly thirty years, has been a life-long, consistent Democrat, and his friends believe him especially well fitted to fill the place he asks for. Probably the worst thing to be urged against him is that he is the editor's brother; but respectable people will scarcely hold him responsible for that perhaps unfortunate circumstance!

The Lenten Season. To-day is Ash-Wednesday, the beginning of the Lenten season, which continues until Easter—forty days (exclusive of Sundays of which there are six). It is a fasting-time observed by various churches, and is certainly of very ancient, if not even of primitive institution. The earliest allusions to it speak of it as an established usage handed down from the Fathers. The forty days' period, as commemorative of our Lord's forty days' fast, or of the similar penitentiary fasts of Moses and of Elias, commences with Ash-Wednesday, between which day and Easter Sunday (omitting the Sundays on which the fast is not observed), forty clear days intervene. The rigor of the ancient observance, which excluded all flesh, and even the so-called "white meats," is now much relaxed; but the principle of permitting but one meal, with a slight refection or collation, is everywhere retained. In Spain, during the Crusades and the wars with the Moors, a practice arose of permitting, in certain cases, the substitution of a contribution to the "holy war" for the observance of the Lenten abstinence; and although the object has long since ceased, the composition is still permitted, under the same title of the Cruzada. In the Greek Church, the ante-paschal fast is 48 days; but it is only one of four similar fasting periods observed in that church. In the Anglican Church, Lent is retained as a church season of the calendar, with special services, and proper collects and prayers; but the observance of the fast is left to the discretion of each individual.

To Catholics, who observe Lent strictly, the following rules, published in the city papers, (we presume, by authority), will be of interest: Every day in Lent, except Sunday, is a fast day, that is, but one full meal can be partaken of, and meat cannot be eaten except at one meal a day, and then only on the days when not especially forbidden. Fish and meat cannot be eaten at the same meal, except on Sunday, Wednesdays, and Fridays are not only fast days, but also days of abstinence; that is, the use of meat is entirely forbidden. The second week of Lent, being Ember week, there are three days of fast and abstinence—Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. During Holy Week there are four days of fast and abstinence—Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. During the season special services are held in the various churches, called Lenten services. These usually consist of Lenten instructions, on Sunday and Wednesday evenings, and on Friday evenings, the ceremony of the Way of the Cross, followed by benediction.

MARKED.—At the Catholic Church in Iron Mountain, Mo., on Thursday, February 12th, 1885, WILLIAM O'BRIEN, of Graniteville, Mo., to Miss MINNIE DARMODY, of Iron Mountain.

The happy couple start out in wedded life with bright prospects, and we trust the future is stored with happiness and good luck for them. They have our heartiest congratulations.

Ed. Register.—The assault upon me in your last issue, by "McC," was so uncalled for that I had expected a retraction this week; but owing to "McC's" illness, I have concluded to defer a reply through the Courts, awaiting his recovery.

FOR 100,000'S. Order of Judge Brew the Ore and Steel Mill. A week ago the receiver St. Louis Ore and Steel company had a petition filed with Judge Brew the Ore and Steel Mill. The receiver asked permission to go further contracts for the mining agency of ore besides those mentioned in the order made by Judge Brew on August 24. Judge Brew, upon reading a from Judge Brewer, written August 12th first refused to grant the receiver. Afterwards, upon the receiver's application, the order formerly made was subsequent to the writing of the letter, Treat gave his consent to the entire new contracts, provided he had understood the rulings of Judge Brewward to the matter. Thereupon the reforwarded a copy of the petition to Jewer, and Monday the following order received: "It is ordered that the receiver and he is hereby authorized to enter into contracts for the delivery of ore to the said ore upon the conditions hereinafter set out. The amount for which the receiver shall not exceed 100,000 tons. Deliver all to be made during the current year details of the contracts and the hirings for mining etc., will be left to the discretion of the receiver. All contracts to be made expressly subject to the safety, and that the obligation of the receiver terminates upon the confirmation of the sale of the property. Any sale that may be ordered in the ore, will be ordered subject to the contract by the receiver in pursuance of order; and the purchaser will take the subject to the obligations of such order."

This is glorious news to all a being in this section, as we have the order will be followed by increased activity in the mines. Indeed, understand that large contracts have been made and the delivery of ore is at once. The order permits for over three hundred tons per day, a nearly full capacity of the mines before "the trouble."

In Early Time. Ed. Register.—One very cold week I went into your office, seated at your round table, and took up the Louisville Republican. The thought came "how familiar its face looks after all years."

When we came to Missouri, the Republican was the paper of the I do not much remember of any other of much importance printed west Mississippi river at that time. It of it carried me back to the early life of Missouri, how true to the olden days of Calcedonia for our mail, any day sent for a single letter and fit for a double one: a single letter was set or piece of paper, a double one sheet. Each sheet was folded so as to envelope for itself, and sealed with or sealing wax. So you who have lived during these years of cheap little know the privations the early times labored under.

There were some half dozen living in Arcadia Valley, so that the people to sign a petition for a post-rail to the Valley; we offered to carry them from Arcadia to Calcedonia for a half and nineteen dollars a year, if he agreed it, or the proceeds of the office; I do not care that amount, we got the price of office, on those conditions. I was in mail-carrier. How well I remember that being the first time I ever felt against him, as though I was a man of responsibility, for was not I in the seat of the United States Government? Yet remember there were not so many government offices then as now; it was to be proud of to have the U. S. g. to your name. Every Saturday, bold, rain or shine, the mail had to go on delay.

As soon as it was known that a mail route, each Saturday morning, and the men along the route with the mail to come, we went all right, the company getting larger with each town, so that as we rode into town, we were like a company of cavalry coming to the place. I remember those red along the route, if not able to get, would send by us for their mail do errands. After attending to the entrusted to me, at one o'clock I staid return trip, to arrive at the Arcadia office at six o'clock. H. P. Rusehke first post master.

When the Seminary was built I J. C. Berryman, and Arcadia became a town, with stores and other agencies, the office was moved there, and J. dwards was post master. And now let me tell the you about going to mill. You know the staff of life, and we always pray for this day our daily bread. No, how well your table is spread with fruits, meats, &c., if there is no bad nothing to make it out of, what say? You feel as though you would give good things for a piece of bread. Of the young readers may ask, "And, bread?" Then the mills were milk. A sack of corn or wheat was put out of a horse and a small boy on that started to mill ten or fifteen miles. Often you have seen such a scene, as though you had been skating and enjoy so well; but going to mill, and all bundled up nicely, well fed and made from the finest flour, are two different things.

While speaking of bread let me say is one thing that the American word especially Missouri mothers and do excel in, it is making good bread; there is any one thing that conduces happiness more than another, it bread. Let me relate a little circumstance came under my notice once: Soon I came to this country, father sent I early one morning to a neighbor's on hand. I found the mother getting bread there were the father, mother, one or three little girls; the only utensils that had for cooking was a coffee pot, bake oven. First she baked the bread the meat was fried, then one thing another little all was ready. The mother put the bread on the table; it was a nicely browned—how good it looked smelled! Two of the little girls stood clean, bright faces and nicely combed leaning on the table with eyes intent that bread. At last one moved along put out her hand and took off a small crust and put it in her mouth. The crust and put it in her mouth. The did crackle between those little teeth, at her sister she said, "That's good ain't it, Betsy?" How many times, when sitting at tables loaded with every to tempt the palate, some with a content as though there was nothing enough for them, have I thought of that little crust of bread? How many thousands have every comfort and all that has a wish, are yet miserable and life is a to them. It is not in the abundance of the things we have that makes life pleasant; it is not those who live for themselves alone that are happiest.

It is those who live to do good, to lift the fallen, feed the hungry, visit the sick and wipe away tears. "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

If each would do to the other as he would have them do by him, there would be less sorrow in this world. R. P. T.

County Bible Society. The next annual meeting will be held in the Presbyterian church on Sunday, the 22d inst., at 7 P. M. The Pastor of the church, assisted by others, will officiate. By order of the President. Ironton, Feb. 9th, 1885.

Annapolis News. ANNAPOLIS, Mo., Feb. 16th, 1885. Ed. Register.—News is very scarce in these parts. Miss Emilie Watlow, our night telegraph operator, was quite sick last week, but we are glad to see her up again. Mr. Terpening, from Corning, Ark., officiated during her illness. Messrs. Pitt Russell and Eustace Rockwell came down from Sabus one night last week to join a skating party. We think it a very good excuse for them, though we should think something more attractive "and less cold" brought them down.

We hear some talk of there being a roller skating rink built here. Mr. R. A. Clarkson received a car-load of corn, and Messrs. Carr, Towl and May two cars of hay, from St. Louis last week. There were two car-loads of cattle and horses shipped from here to St. Louis Sunday, by some Reynolds county folks.

Mrs. Frost, of St. Louis, is visiting her parents (Mr. and Mrs. Hart). Mr. D. A. Johnson is refurbishing his barber shop with some very neat furniture; this was badly needed. Mrs. Wm. Towl returned home Saturday from a visit to Potosi, her sister Miss Eva Kendall accompanying her. Our R. R. agent, T. W. Watlow, informs us that the Travelling Auditor visited him Saturday, but found accounts straight and the company's interests well cared for. LOUIS.

From Goodwater. GOODWATER, Mo., Feb. 5th, 1885. Ed. Register.—Grim winter held us clasp in by his icy embrace until Thursday, 29th ult. Then the mercury in the thermometer rose by almost imperceptible degrees and during the night following the sleet and snow began to thaw slowly—so slowly—but surely: the same process of slow thawing continued—except as interrupted by a few slight returning frozings—day and night for an entire week ere we were permitted to once more gaze upon the unveiled face of "Mother Earth."

On the 30th ult. Mr. Isaiah Dolek killed a wild turkey which some time before had frequented his horse-lot. His children wisely concluded to encourage their untamed visitor in its uncourteous habit, by feeding it and thereby they succeeded in rendering it both fat and gentle. E.

Mr. E. wrote the above after having been quite sick for five days. While writing he became so much worse that he was compelled to cease writing, and is now dangerously ill. I send this for publication at his request. Respectfully, Mrs. E.]

This Idea of Going West. To Colorado or New Mexico, for pure air to relieve the lungs, is a mission. Any reasonable man would use Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup for Consumption in all its first stages. It never fails to give relief in cases of Croup, Colds, Bronchitis, Pains in the Chest and all affections that are considered primary as Consumption. Price, per cent and $1.00. Sold by P. R. Crisp, Ironton.

War in Israel. CHAPTER ONE. Now it came to pass in the third year of the reign of King Arthur, when Thomas was High Priest at Jericho, the Democritus caused it to be proclaimed throughout the province of Believium, that there would be an assembling of the elders and chief priests to arraign and try certain subjects who refused to fall down and worship before the Chief Ruler. And it came to pass that when the people heard this that they were sorely amazed, inasmuch that every one began to talk it from house to house. Now, there were dwelling in the province certain other sects—Presbyterians, Methodists, and other devout people, who, when they heard of the trouble, lifted up their voices and wept much. These the Pharisees thought to draw into the rebellion, but none would be circumsised, and none were found worthy to eat at the marriage supper.

Now, during the close of the third year of the reign of King Arthur, there were wars and rumors of wars throughout Believium, and the Chief Priest Bedott sat upon the throne and issued an edict that certain rebels, to wit: Analeek and Henry, and others, should be exiled to Kingdom of Liberty, which is ruled over by King II. So it came to pass that the High Priest issued his proclamation that there should be a gathering of the people, and certain were exiled, and they hastened to gather their sheep and herds, and proceeded to the land of Canaan, beyond the Big River. Now those who followed the High Priest Bedott said that this was necessary to save Israel. So there was no little strife stirred up. About this time, one T. C., a scribe belonging to another Kingdom, and who was sojourning in Believium, caused no little trouble because he said much of the High Priest and certain Pharisees. He and "Squire Jones," a heretic and a Sadducee, kept up writing till the people became familiar with the facts. Peace reigned in Israel till certain banished subjects joined in with the uncircumsised and organized a Sunday school in the Kingdom of Lowe. Now when it was noised abroad that certain subjects of the High Priest had gone and joined themselves to this insurrection, the High Priest and his court became very wrath, inasmuch that they breathed out slaughter and blood, and said, "Great is the wrath of the High Priest!" This was kept for the space of four months and nine days. Now, about this time, and while the High Priest, Thomas at Jericho, was corresponding through the paper, certain of the exiles, with a few others, wrote over to Liberty beyond Jordan, for the High Priest, who was reigning over there, and wanted him to come over and circumsise the people. When this came to the ears of King Bedott, he became very wrath, and said—"Can any thing have come out of Jericho?" And all the Pharisees lifted up their voices and said, "We unto ye uncircumsised of heart, and ye people of other faiths! There will be no reckoning and by!" And, now, about the first month of the last year's reign of King Arthur, in the third week of the first month, one Hardy, a nobleman and a man of high repute, and a Pharisee of the strictest sort, saddled his ass, and rode over into the Kingdom of Believium, and he entered into the synagogue of Lowe; and, as he was wont, preached unto the people. This brought out all the exiles, sects and uncircumsised, inasmuch that the synagogue was filled. Now, this displeased the High Priest, reigning in this Kingdom, and his subjects would not go out to hear the new prophet. Now, when it was noised abroad that this latter High Priest was to receive tithes from the people, it very much stirred up the Pharisees, and they wagged their heads, saying, "There is none like Bedott in all Israel." More anon.

JOSEPHUS JERUSALEM, Of the tribe of Ashud. Many unscrupulous dealers may tell you they have remedies for Coughs and Colds equal in every respect just as good as the old reliable Dr. Bosanko Cough and Lung Syrup, unless you insist upon this remedy and will take no other, you are liable to be greatly deceived.
