

FOREIGN GOSSIP.

Thin plates of metal in the backs of books are a new London notion. There is a plot afoot to crush poker...

Out of 700,000 passengers on British railways last year, only 100 were killed; in addition 857 employees, trespassers, or suicides were killed.

British Guiana is making large shipments of gold to England, and the prospects are that the shipment will rival in value the great exports of sugar, molasses and rum.

Two years ago Baroness Alquier left $1,200,000 to the City of Paris for an asylum to be named after her. The municipality has now purchased a park of 275 acres and will erect the asylum there.

Herr William Herz, the famous Berlin manufacturer of ladies' cloaks, recently celebrated the completion of the 100,000th cloak of this season's make with a grand banquet to all his employees.

A most astonishing phenomenon of the Japanese earthquake was the splitting of the Paupundayang mountain. In a flash of time it split into seven parts.

The discovery of a new variety of coffee-plant in West Africa is reported. The berry greatly resembles that of Arabica, but the leaves are more like those of a rapidly growing and very productive tree nearly seven feet high instead of on a shrub.

An experiment was recently made of a female omnibus conductor on the new line between Piccadilly Circus and King's Cross. She only lasted a day.

A strange effect of light transmitted through a solution of sulphate of quinine upon the blossoming of plants has been made known by Sachs. From a series of experiments he has shown that plants germinated and grown under the influence of such light, while thriving otherwise, develop only small, imperfect, and speedily perishable flowers.

Fred Archer is still talked about. While at Newmarket the other day the Prince of Wales made a pilgrimage to his grave, where he sent for Archer's sister and baby daughter and sympathized with them. Patriotic indignation has been expressed because French papers have said that English ladies loved Archer for his fine eyes as well as for his riding.

In the vault of the Capucine Church at Vienna, where the Austrian sovereigns have found their tombs, is a small and empty sarcophagus raised by Joseph II. over the remains of his mother, Maria Theresa, and at its foot a plain iron box, in which are the bones of Joseph himself, with the inscription, often repeated by him in life: "I have got so far that I love nothing on earth except my mother and the State." Near by is the tomb of the unfortunate Maximilian of Mexico, by the side of which the Emperor often spends an hour in meditation and prayer.

Imported as an Ornament. It has been turned to Practical Use by Americans. When a mail steamship line was established between San Francisco and the Australasian islands, enterprising persons sought to transfer some of the wild products of the latter region to the California soil.

It was ascertained that the eucalyptus globulus, or blue gum, could be further utilized as a remedy for marsh and other fevers. So valuable, indeed, is it that it will destroy and feed upon the animalcule of marshy regions and help to eradicate mosquitoes by destroying the food on which they exist.

CHARACTER IN WALK.

People's Feet a Sure Indication of Their Temperament and Occupation. "Palms are the new art, I understand, for delineating character."

marked a smart young detective, "or rather, it is a very old one revived, but for our business the hands don't show for half so much character as the feet. In foot-gear, if the subject be properly studied, there will be found more to indicate the character of the wearer than most people have any idea of.

It is quite an easy matter for a man to disguise his facial appearance; it may be done by dyeing the hair or beard, or by cutting off the hair close, or by shaving the beard, or by wearing it in a different style; but a man old enough to wear a beard can never disguise his walk, he can't destroy the conformation of his feet, and if he have a tendency to run his shoes down in the heel it's an invaluable piece of information to the detective who wants him.

Not a great while ago I received a tin-pipe picture of a young man who was wanted in the East. It was a very bad picture, but it was not the man himself, and only the eyes and nose were visible with distinctness and character enough to make it a comparative-ly easy matter to pick out our man should we ever meet him.

He wore a pair of small-fray gambler would hanker after it, and a gambling-house, and pretty soon we met a young fellow who looked exactly like the party we wanted. We were just about to take hold of him, when his double, a man having his features, the color of his hair and eyes, and for an instant we didn't know what to do.

Either one of those two men might have been taken for the original of the tin-pipe, and we don't know what the result would have been. From their shoulders up the resemblance was astonishing, but it ended there. The utmost difference in their appearance was noted when the men commenced to stir about. Our man was a writer by occupation, and he was going to get tripped up by the Governor of the place and invited to dinner and supper with him. The next day he picked out a place for us to pitch our tents and gave us a couple of natives to help do our work, which we paid by giving them a certain quantity of rum.

On the Rio di Somo, Brazil, at the Dawn of Morning. The soft tones of the dawn of a fine morning fell alike upon field and flood and tinged all creation with its rosy hues. The rich-colored banks glowed with the warm light that made the dripping leaves and the flowers of the shore all flash and sparkle like jewels.

HOME AND FARM.

The white of an egg is said to be a specific for fish bones sticking in the throat. It is to be swallowed raw.—Boston Globe.

To preserve crabs it should not be exposed to dampness, but if it chanced to get wet it should not be put near the fire to dry.—Exchange.

Carrots Mashed: Scrape, wash, lay in cold water for half an hour, then cook tender in boiling water, drain well, mash with a wooden spoon, work in a good piece of butter, and season with pepper and salt. Serve hot.—Good Housekeeping.

Graham Muffins: One pint of graham flour, two tablespoonsful of melted lard, two heaping teaspoonfuls of baking powder, water or milk to make a batter stiff enough to run a little salt. Bake fifteen minutes in gem pans in a hot oven.—Boston Budget.

Bread griddle cakes are excellent and may be made of stale bread. Soak a small bowl of bread over night in milk. In the morning mix half a cupful of water into which is put one and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, with one quart of milk, three well-beaten eggs and a little salt. Beat up the bread with this batter until it is very light and fry a delicate brown. The batter should be thick.—Boston Bulletin.

It may be news to some persons that persistent rubbing with oil night and morning will remove scars. Olive oil will answer, but neatfoot oil is even more rapid in its effects. In the case of burns when the tendons are stiff and contracted, rubbing with oil will render the part affected almost as supple as before the injury. In severe cases the rubbing must be continued for a hour, morning and evening.—The Housewife.

What Eternity May Teach Us. (Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle.) Perhaps one of the most astounding discoveries we shall make in eternity is that our planet is not a tiny speck in an infinite sea, but one of the most insignificant in size, but one of the most insignificant in civilization.

The Government Refunds a Cent. (Chicago Inter Ocean.) A check for one cent was recently drawn in New York by the Government in favor of an importer who had made a deposit of duty to that extent.

For twenty years Mrs. John Gemmill, Milroy, Milroy, Pa., was paralyzed and unable to walk. She used St. Jacobs Oil and was cured.

"Have you ever seen a ghost, Pogkins?" "No, Snipit," was the spirited reply, "and I never expect to."

A book agent was shot in Texas the other day. Let us hear no more about the uncivilized West.—Boston Post.

A Lady's Unfortunate Experience. Was that of one of our acquaintance who suffered from scrofula, a yellow complexion and distress of the stomach, for years before using Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic, which finally cured her.

After all it is the bad child that gets the pain. "I HAVE BEEN AFFLICTED with an Affection of the Throat from childhood, caused by diphtheria, and have used various remedies, but have never found any thing equal to Brown's Bronchial Trochies."—Rev. G. M. F. Hampton, Pittston, Ky. Price 25 cents.

FOR FARM HANDS. The Only Safe Way in Which They Can Acquire Property and Prosperity. While writing on this subject, I have a word for farm hands, as doubtless many of them read your paper. I have been an employer of help for nearly thirty years, and as I look back, I can trace the history of many of the young men who worked for me; and without exception those who had been trained by their wages have become men of property, while those who drew and spent their wages as fast as they were earned, are now living from hand to mouth. I wish I could impress on every farm-hand who reads this, the importance of saving and safely investing a part of his wages as soon as he is master of his own time.

FEDERAL JUSTICES.

Legal Luminaries Who Are Compelled to Perform Onerous Social Duties. (Cor. Baltimore Sun.) They are most all men of such presence as to attract attention, even when their identity is unknown.

Justice Harlan, who went to Rockville, Md., last week to live, when he comes on the avenue walks with different members of the court. Sometimes he and Justice Gray will come along together. Judge Harlan is a man of splendid build, even for a Kentuckian. He can easily look down on nine out of ten men that he passes, but when he walks with Judge Gray he has to look up as the latter is really gigantic in his proportions.

Justice Miller, like the Chief Justice, seems to prefer a solitary promenade. His is one of the best-known figures on the avenue, but he rarely has company, and his intimate friends are not apt to join him unless invited. He is one of the public men here who wear evening dress upon all occasions, and it must be an extremely bitter and inclement day when he supplements it with an overcoat. Curiosity has been expressed as to the reason for the pedestrian proclivities of the Supreme Court Justices.

It is said that they find the exercise absolutely necessary, for in addition to their judicial labors they have to perform more social duties than any other nine men in the United States, if not in the world. No swell dinner in Washington is considered complete without the presence of one or more members of the Supreme Court, and almost all of the justices entertain largely social guests.

None in Washington gives more frequent or more elaborate dinners than Justice Blatchford, and the mansion of Justice Matthews is famous for its literary reunions, where the feast of reason played only a secondary part.
