

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Lent commences two weeks from today.
Repair the pavements that are muddy from the thaw.

Probate court convenes in regular session next Monday.
There are many sufferers from bad colds in the community.

Conductor Andrews had charge of the Arcadia train two days last week.
The sugar trees are running, and maple syrup will soon be in the market.

P. H. Jaquith, the progressive merchant at Pilot Knob, has a new ad. this week.
Groundhog day to-morrow. "If it be cold and clear, 'twill be two winters in one year."

The contest for the post-office has begun; and the applicants are out with their petitions.
The Y. P. S. C. E. will give a general supper at the Academy of Music February 9th. Everybody invited.

The ladies of the Baptist Church will give a Box Supper some time next week. Time and place will be given later on.
The revival meeting closed last Wednesday night, and Mr. Freeman, the preacher returned to his Arkansas home the same night.

Miss Fannie Markham has sufficiently recovered from her late accident, as to be able to resume her duties as teacher in the public school.
More chicken stealing is reported from the North End. Last Tuesday night Mrs. Bennett's coop was raided and half a dozen fowls taken.

The hunting season is almost at an end. It has been many years since game of all kinds has been so scarce as during the season just closing.
It has been many years since as much wood came into Ironton in a given time as during the past month. The demand for fuel has been simply enormous.

The attachment suit of Aug. Block against Louis Buehenschutz was decided by a jury in favor of the plaintiff in Justice Ake's court last Monday.
The Marshall boys are going to sell their stock and personal property at public sale on Thursday, February 16th. They expect to remove to Washington.

Rev. E. D. Walker, Synodical Missionary of this State, will preach in the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning and evening. Everybody cordially invited.
With the advent of spring, business men generally are expecting a livelier trade. It is hoped that all the granite quarries will put on large forces, and that the Knob mine will be opened up.

All the ice houses are filled, and the dealers are now ready for the scorching days of summer. Mr. Johnson has about four hundred tons stored away, and Mr. Holton probably half that much.
Lost—Between Bellevue and Ironton, a red leather pocket-book, card, red satin lining and oxidized ornament on corner. Finder will please leave at Bellevue or Ironton post-office.

Mr. H. M. Collins desires us to return his thanks to the many good people who worked so hard to save his property from destruction by fire on Sunday last. He says their kindness will not soon be forgotten.
The Knights of Pythias are preparing for a grand masque ball at the Academy of Music Monday evening, February 13th. Invitations will be issued this week. Mr. Biemel will receive orders for costumes. Call early.

Many complaints are being heard against the people who let their stock run at will through the City's streets. Considerable damage to trees and other beautifying improvements is reported, and it is a source of general regret that there is no ordinance to reach the offenders.
A correspondent writes: "Mr. Edward Killalee, who has been employed in the saloon business at Ghermanville, is now at his home in Pilot Knob. He is a fine fellow, of most obliging disposition and industrious habits, and we are very sorry to lose him, and the beautiful and charming young lady at the stone mansion looks quite sad."

Mary Jones, one of the notorious demi-mondes of the north end, assaulted one J. E. Johnson with a knife, badly cutting one of his ears, last Monday about seven o'clock. That evening the Jones girl and Emma Hunt, one of her associates, were taken in custody by Sheriff Fisher and their trial will come up in the Justice's court to-day. Johnson is a stranger who says his home is in North Carolina.

L. D. Austin, who was indicted at the last regular term of the circuit court on the charge of setting fire to G. W. Scoggins' mill, met Glover, Ed. October last, and has been a fugitive from justice since that time was apprehended in Butler county a few days ago and brought to this place by Sheriff Hogg on Tuesday. Austin had been working at a saw-mill near Poplar Bluff since he left this county; he will likely have to remain in jail until the next regular term of the circuit court.

THOS. BEARD, P. M.

The residence of H. M. Collins, on North Main Street, came very near being destroyed by fire last Sunday about noon. When first discovered the roof was on fire in a number of places, and it seemed for a while that the building was certainly doomed. The alarm was given, however, a large number of citizens gathered and by supreme exertion extinguished the flames. Most of the furniture was removed from the house before the conflagration was subdued, and considerable damage resulted from the rough handling it received. The injury to the building was only slight.

Mr. T. P. Russell, of Ironton, spent several days with the family of Mr. J. F. Lindsay of this place since our last issue. While here he honored the Herald office with a pleasant call. It is a rare treat to enjoy the society of such a man as Judge Russell. He is a very intelligent man, a good talker and above all, a man with a big round Christian heart. He related reminiscences of his younger days when he enjoyed the chase. He if able to travel would yet enjoy a good hunt. He talked also of his family, which was interesting to us, for when a "wee sma' boy we had the pleasure of having two of his daughters as our instructors in the school room. The Judge has an exceptionally fine family, possessing rare culture, intelligence and industry, and he informed us, all working for the happy beyond. Surely this is the fruit of an early pious training and no doubt the Judge feels proud of his children and they feel more than proud of such a parent.—Piedmont Herald.

The following school has appeared last week, but was crowded out. We give it room now, in justice both to the correspondent and his subject: "Ed. Register—On last Sunday night Bishop Tuttle preached at the Episcopal church, from a text taken from Paul's Epistle to the Romans, wherein the recipients are exhorted to soberness, righteousness and Godliness. The honored divine first drove a picture of Corinth (where St. Paul was living when he wrote) and one could, almost, see the pagan temples of that city embellished with the beauties of Grecian architecture, the harbor with its merchantmen from the far parts of the earth, the war gallees of Rome, upon the streets the curly haired, sunnysided Greeks, and the Istian games celebrated every third year, where contended the mighty men of the day. Then he pictured Rome and the Romans, masters of the world: there was the forum where orators contended before the courts, where the comitia met at the call of the consuls; then the Capitol and the Aventine hill, the temple of Jupiter. One could see the senator in his toga, the citizen in his gown, hear the clink of armor as a cohort marched past, and recognize the racial type in the eagle nose, the black eye, alert movement, small stature and grim, determined expression of the passer-by. Then the Bishop discussed his text. He showed that one could be sober, and not be righteous and Godly. Cited in proof that the most successful gamblers were sober and never drank, were the temperate in all physical things. Next, taking up righteousness, he defined it, and showed that one might be righteous, love his neighbor, comfort the distressed, discharge his duty to the state, be truthful, and love God, but be not sober. Then he argued that Godliness was the broader term and covered and contained both soberness and righteousness, and that if one was Godly he was both sober and righteous, and not only paid his duty to himself, his family, his neighbor and his country, but also his God. There was no hurrah! no effort after oratory; no would-be sky-scraping flights of rhetoric. The discourse was common sense; no word was used which a schoolboy could not comprehend. Taken, all in all, it was one of the ablest efforts the writer has ever heard, and one calculated to have a far greater and more beneficial effect than weeks of circuitous, too frequently called divine worship."

Personal.
Miss Mamie Noel is attending school in Cape Girardeau.
Messrs. J. V. Ryan and Jacob Lopez and Misses Belle Muffley and Hattie Brown attended the box-supper at Bellevue last Friday night.

Miss Adel Lopez will attend the St. Louis Spanish Club excursion to Cuba; the party leaves St. Louis February 6th and returns about March 1st.
Mrs. Henry S. House, who has been quite ill for sometime past, leaves to-day for Battle Creek, Mich., accompanied by her husband and Miss Hattie House. Dr. Strong will accompany them as far as St. Louis.

Rev. W. H. Hormel is quite sick.
Miss Ada Byers Tuesday became a member at the Acad. Conv. and will remain there until next June.
Mrs. P. R. Crisp has returned from St. Louis.

Annapolis News.
Holkemp, the saw-mill man, was in town Sunday.
Platt Overton, a former resident of Annapolis, was in town several days last week.

The lost is found, the dead alive, T. C. Rearick, who left here last April and was never heard from, arrived in town Wednesday morning.
Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Benson made a flying trip to St. Louis Wednesday.
Mrs. Horn, a sister of Mrs. Eunice Rockwell, returned home Wednesday.

Henry Chitwood shipped a car-load of hogs at this place Wednesday, two of which are said to have weighed 440 and 490 pounds.
Robert Woody came home from St. Louis last week; he was almost sick.
Mrs. Towl was in Caledonia several days last week.

Wanky Bros. have bought Funk's store and W. A. Simpson and Charles Nelson are the clerks.
The post-office seems to be a very undesirable piece of property at present. Wm. Towl had charge of it a few days last week, and when he gave it up it was moved back into the old Towl & May store building and taken charge of by W. A. Simpson once more.
J. M. Brown of Crane Pond was in town a part of last week. He was repairing the old storehouse of Judge Hart, where Frank Smith will soon open a new stock of goods.
J. B. Walker was in town Saturday, and, while here, visited Granite Lodge, at which the third degree was conferred, and a special election was held. Frank Smith was elected N. G.; W. A. Simpson, V. G. and Jessie McElclothlin, Recording Secretary. They were all duly installed and took their respective places in the lodge. The lodge is in a good healthy condition, and the officers-elect have the good of the order at heart and we predict a successful term. MURPHY.

Graniteville News.
Ed. Register—Joshiah Williams was bought from Jack Snasseld, his stock of whiskeys, wines and cigars and rented the building property, and will continue the saloon business at the old stand. Jack intends moving his family to St. Louis as soon as he gets his business settled up, where he will engage in some sort of business or other, and where they will have better facilities for schooling their children.

Dr. Gay has made some needed repairs about his office in the way of building a porch and side walk.
The P. W. Schneider Granite Company have put nearly all of their stone cutters to work again, and business in their part of the community is assuming its former state. Now if the Granite Company could secure some large contracts, we would be in the "push" sure enough.

The dickering between Messrs. Foley and Coad, spoken of in our communication to the REGISTER last week, is now off, owing to a small difference in the financial part.
Mrs. Alex Hannah was quite ill several days last week, with pleuritic pains, but is convalescing now.

Mrs. Michael C. Shea has also been pretty sick, caused from the fatigue of caring for her mother, Mrs. Daniel O'Brien, who is in a feeble condition, the result of an accident that befell the aged couple in returning home from the burial of the late Thos. Foley.

There is a move on foot by the M. E. Church people, to get up some sort of an entertainment to raise funds to meet a probable deficiency of the pastor's salary, and whose time will expire in a few weeks. The time and date is not yet fixed upon, but as matters develop, we will endeavor to give them the edification of those who feel an interest in church affairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hume, of Syentio, came over to spend Sunday with relatives in town guests of the families of Chas. Reno and Peter Brodie.

The grandest event of the opening of this year's entertainments, was the concert and ball given at Workmen's Hall on last Wednesday evening, in honor of the 134th anniversary of the birth of that great Scotch poet, Robby Burns, under the supervision of Messrs. Jas. K. Simmers and George Murray. By 7:30 o'clock the hall was packed to overflowing, and standing room was above par. The opening of the event was a beautiful musical selection by an orchestra of ten pieces, under the direction of that all-around musician, J. K. Simmers, rendered by the usual vivacity of which the musical talent of Graniteville has now become famous.

The programme, which was carefully arranged for the occasion, was elaborate and the superb renditions of each of them and every part received great applause, and all received repeated encores. The programme is as follows: orchestra—"Highland Wreath," J. K. Simmers, director; "There was a lad was born in Kyle," by the choruses, led by Mr. George Murray; "John Anderson My Jo," song, by Mrs. George Donald; "My love is like a red, red rose," trio, by Misses Katie and Emma Phillips and Miss Waldron; violin solo—selection, "Bonnie Jean" and "Gloomy winter's now awa'," by Mr. J. K. Simmers; "The dell's awa' with the excelsior man,"—Burns—by the choruses; "Robin Adair," song, by Mrs. Jas. Beer; orchestra, selection, Strathspays and Reels; "Ca' the ewes to the knowe," song, Burns, by Miss Emma Phillips; "Corn riggs are bonnie," song, by the choruses; "The hills are alive with the sounds of music," song, by Mr. George Murray; "A fond kiss and then we sever," duet, by Misses Phillips and Waldron; "The old house," song, "Lady Noire," by Mrs. Geo. Donald; orchestra, selection, Irish airs, "Green grow the rushes O"—Burns—by the choruses; closing with "Auld Lang Syne"—Burns—by the choruses and company. After that the hall was arranged, and the dancing was commenced and up till the wee sma' hours of the morning. Every number on the programme was carried out to the utmost appreciation of the large audience, and to say that the event was truly Scotch in every detail, would be doing so without the slightest exaggeration. On entering the hall, about the first thing to catch the eye, was a life size crayon portrait of the eminent poet, sketched by the artist hands of Prof. Simmers, and on the north side wall, were the sketches of Tam O'Shanter riding his auld grey mare, Meg, encircled with an artistically drawn Scotch thistle. Underneath was written: "All spring brought of her master hale, and left behind her ain grey tail." A little farther down, was that quaint auld saying, "Man's a man for a' that." On the west end were inscribed another poem, that read: "Kirk lawray seem'd in a breeze, through lika bore the beams were glancing, and loud resounded mirth and dancing." And on the south wall was sketched Tam and Souter Johnny sitting at the table drinking, seemingly, under which we noticed the following: "Tam lo'd him like a vera brither, They had been fou' for weeks together. There were fou' other sketches and cuts, but fearing we are taxing too much of your time, we will, therefore, forego any further remarks, except to say, that the net proceeds realized from the affair were $41, which will likely be used in making some, we will say, unnecessary repairs to the hall.

That eminent divine, the Rev. Bishop Tuttle was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Smith a day or so last week, and, of course, was shown through the renowned log cabin that is fast becoming an historic place.

Des Arc Items.

W. E. Chilton shipped a car-load of cattle and hogs from here last week. This has gotten to be quite a shipping point for cattle and hogs. The Patterson farmers ship from here. There has been over thirty cars shipped from here in the last three months.

Mr. and Mrs. Stamp of York State are visiting their children, Mrs. E. W. Graves and Mrs. Isaac Stamp, at this place. Mr. Stamp is very active for a man of age; runs over these hills like a boy. He has walked out to see Col. T. B. Lowe and to Gads Hill and back. He does not want to ride at all, but prefers walking. They will spend the balance of the winter here.

Geo. Wallis is quite sick with pneumonia.
W. T. O'Neal has another baby at his house.
The whiskey still is running again, after closing down for two months. There is some one using lots of whiskey, for the still has made 2200 gallons and has sold 1800 during the last twelve months. They ship a great deal of it south, to the Arkansas Democrats.

Our wide-awake agent, H. B. Reticke, returned after a month's visit to his home in Illinois.
L. Lovelace has moved to his farm on Sinking Creek, Reynolds county.

Jas. Lovelace bought forty-eight head of stock cattle last week and put them on his farms. Jim has gotten to be one of the greatest farmers we have. He owns several good farms.

Jno. Crowley's family is quite sick yet. Some of them are down all the time. Doctors Farr and Bates are attending them.
Milton Roberts, one of our oldest and best citizens of this community, is about to move to California with all of his children and grandchildren. He sold his farm at Corning, Ark., for $2,200. I think it is a bad move for him, as he is getting old and has plenty to take care of himself and family at his old home. It does not pay to move an old tree, and it soon withers and dies.

Our Baptist church is still without a pastor. It is very difficult to get a good pastor in this part of the State.
Our merchants are doing a fine business. It beats last January's sales by six or eight dollars.

W. H. Reese and wife, accompanied by E. Reese's little girls, visited their mother, Mrs. F. R. Raney, of this place last week. We are always glad to meet our Des Arc boys and their families. ISAAC.

Captain W. A. Abbott, who has long been with Messrs. Percival & Hatton, Real Estate and Insurance Brokers, Des Moines, Iowa, and is one of the best known and most respected business men in that city, says: "I can testify to the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Having used it in my family for the past eight years, I can safely say it has no equal for either colds or croup. It seems to expel the mucus from the lungs, and leave the system in as good condition as before taking the cold. It has also used several other kinds, but unsubstantiated by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best of all." 50 cent bottles for sale by P. R. Crisp.

A Protest From the West End.
Mr. Editor—If you will give me space in your valuable paper, I will try to answer Mr. "P. P." in the REGISTER of the 19th inst. Mr. "P. P." starts off with the words, "I grasp my pen to report a few thoughts that occur to my mind." Now, if you will notice, Mr. "P. P." does not say that what he has reported are facts, but just thoughts of his futile brains; the reason that I answer Mr. "P. P." is because he insinuates about father. Mr. "P. P." says that he has also used several other kinds, but unsubstantiated by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best of all." 50 cent bottles for sale by P. R. Crisp.

Mr. "P. P." misunderstood him in regard to the holidays; it was not the holidays that he was protesting, but it was holidays like Mr. "P. P." has when he teaches school. He has, to my knowledge, went to the school house to teach, and some days not any at all, and on those days I guess he went fishing, for I saw him go by with fish. Now, such holidays as these are the holidays that Mr. Stricklin spoke against. Mr. Stricklin was always sent to school when he had a headache or tried to do his duty and keep order in school and try to advance the scholars.

Now, Mr. "P. P." further says, "Sam Stricklin has pulled his breeches leg up over his Winchester, laid it up in the loft and is now busily engaged hauling lumber preparatory to building an ash hopper." Now this language is not original with Mr. "P. P." It is borrowed from one of Reynolds county's biggest farmers.

Mr. "P. P." has not such a fine house to live in; it is nothing but a box house and set on the hill side, and when you are in it you just like one inch of being out of doors. NELSON STRICKLIN.

In Memoriam.
WHEREAS, it has pleased the Grand Master of the Universe to visit our lodge with a dispensation of sorrow and gloom, by removing from its chambers our esteemed and worthy brother, David J. Allen, and translating his spirit from this imperfect to that all-perfect, glorious and celestial Lodge above, where the Great Architect of the Universe presides; and

WHEREAS, by the death of Bro. Allen, the State has lost a good citizen, our community a kind and charitable neighbor, society an honorable and upright man, our lodge a bright jewel in Masonry and his bereaved wife a loving and kind husband; therefore, be it

Resolved, that we bow in humble submission to the will of the All-Wise Father, who, in the dispensation of His providence, and in His inscrutable wisdom has called our late brother from his earthly labors to partake of the refreshments of an eternal rest.

And that we sincerely mourn the loss of a faithful brother, who, in life faithfully exemplified the four cardinal virtues of Masonry, viz: Temperance, Fortitude, Prudence and Justice; and that we tender to his bereaved and deeply afflicted widow, our sympathies for her in her irreparable loss, and would recommend to her the consolation that it is the will of Him "who ordereth all things well"; and be it further

Resolved, that, as a mark of respect for our departed brother, the lodge be draped in mourning, and the brethren wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days; and that a copy hereof be presented to our late brother's widow, and the foregoing resolutions be published in all the newspapers published in Wayne county, and the IRON COUNTY REGISTER.

Fraternally submitted,
LEE M. PERTR,
JOHN H. RANEY, } Committee.
JAMES M. WILSON,
Reported and adopted by the lodge, this 13th day of December, 1892.
CHAS. P. MCFARLAND, Sec'y.

A Good Record.—"I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for ten years," says druggist E. B. Legg, of Vail, Ia., "and have always warranted it, and never had a bottle returned. During the past 90 days I have sold twelve dozen, and it has given perfect satisfaction in every instance." It does not dry up a cough; but loosens and relieves it. It will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment. 50 cent and $1 bottles for sale by P. R. Crisp.

The Prosecuting Attorney Knocked Out.
We could not last week, for lack of time to look up the authorities, reply to the Prosecuting Attorney's defense for his failure to institute proceedings against certain persons for notorious and flagrant violation of law. We come up smiling this week, however, with no less a personage than Judge Jno. L. Thomas of the Supreme Court of Missouri as our backer. In fact, the whole court, in banc, unanimously says the REGISTER's position is correct, and outlaws the Prosecuting Attorney's "way-back and effete rendering of a statute so plain that even a layman ought not err therein. Here are some pertinent excerpts from the decision in the case of State vs. Bamberg, as given in 106 Mo., page 135. We wish we had space for the full opinion, but these we think will satisfy even Mr. Jordan:

"Therefore, when the prosecuting attorney files an information it is always official; it is his accusation; and for it he is responsible. But, if a private person can, by making the required affidavit, compel a prosecuting attorney to file an information, it would be the state and not the citizen to hold that it is the information of the prosecuting attorney for which he is responsible. And, besides that, a private person could in that event, in fact, though not in form, present an information, and thus accomplish by indirection that which he could not accomplish directly. It is true the statute provides that, when the prosecuting attorney is informed of the commission of an offense by the affidavit of another, it shall be his duty to file an information. But this language ought not to be so construed as to give the prosecuting attorney no discretion in the premises; such construction would nullify the constitutional provision requiring criminal charges to be preferred by grand juries or sworn officers who stand indifferent between accused parties; and the state and not the citizen to hold to harassment by a criminal prosecution having no higher basis than the malice of his enemy. If the affidavit of the other person fails to firmly convince the prosecuting attorney, fails to give him knowledge that an offense has been committed, he can legally and properly refuse to proceed; indeed, his highest duty would require that he refuse to proceed. The prosecuting attorney's right to have enough information in regard to the commission of the offense before he institutes the prosecution to cause him to believe that an offense has been committed, and that a certain person committed it. The knowledge the statute requires of him may be acquired in various ways; he may have personal knowledge of some of the facts and information from others as to other facts, or information from others as to all the facts. All that is required is that he shall, in his official capacity, be reasonably satisfied that the due administration of the law requires him to proceed by information. And, if an affidavit does not give him knowledge to this extent, he is not 'informed' of the commission of an offense within the meaning of the statute.

"We will now consider how the context corroborates the position we have assumed. The language is: 'Whenever the prosecuting attorney has knowledge of the commission of an offense, etc.' Now, if knowledge is used here in the restricted sense, no one could swear that he knows that an offense has been committed. He may see certain conduct, and be able to swear that he knows what he conducted in, and his verdicts are based solely on belief. The courts instruct the jury, 'if you believe from the evidence you will find,' etc. The finding is based on belief. The jury is not required to return 'we know.' Hence, if a prosecuting attorney is required to know that an offense has been committed before filing an information, more would be required of him in formulating and preferring a charge to put a person on his defense than is required of the juror on the final trial. This would not only be unjust but absurd also. The prosecuting attorney and final trier act on information, only differing in the
