CONGRESS adjourned sine die yesterday at noon.

THE tariff bill is now law, though unadorned with the President's signature.

THE late State Republican Convention opened its arms and clasped the A. P. A. to its bosom. The af-Filleyation is complete and appropriate.

If our friends on the other side of the Wayne county compromise desire to state their side of the case, the columns of the REGISTER are open to them.

DICK BLAND was recominated by acclamation for Congress last week. Next time he will be called upon to "go up higher." With him as President we will have a Democratic Administration.

THE dirtiest piece of work that has been done in many a day was that attempt to wreck the Farmers and Merchants Bank at Piedmont a couple of weeks since. Some scoundrel went to St. Louis and posted a lot of anonymous circulars warning depositors that the bank was in unsound condition. These were addressed to every man known to be a depositor. A run ensued, but the bank came out with colors flying. An anonymous letter sender is a liar by nature, a thief by instinct and a murderer in intention. Had the bank's bid for the deposit of the county funds anything to do with the sending of these circulars? Nous verrons, perhaps.

WHEAT and silver prices are intimately related in this country. This is because the prices of both are fixed by Liverpool, the great purchasing center. In this country, if silver was restored to its constitutional position as a money metal, wheat would not be so low in price, because British gold could not buy silver at so low a price. In India since the demonetization of silver, gold buys double the quantity of silver as before the act, while the relative price of silver and wheat remain the same. Gold being thus enhanced in American's greatest wheat producing competitor by Liverpool—its wheat purchasing power being doubled—Liverpool fixes the same low price on American wheat.—Charleston Democrat.

SOME of the parties in Wayne county more immediately interested in the recent compromise of the cases against the railroad are, we learn, charging that Mr. J. C. Carty is responsible for the position the REGISTER has taken in the matter. And that the items published herein have been written or suggested by him. This is wholly gratuitous and untrue. He has in no wise even attempted to influence us or urge us to the course we have taken. He was as innocent of it as Mr. Klotz, Hatten, Holladay or Sheets. We knew a wrong had been done, and assumed the right to protest against it, and propose to pursue that course as a duty—more especially as the people down there have no champion in their home papers.

THE following resolutions were offered at the late Republican State Convention in Missouri, as a declaration opposing the secret, oath-bound political organization known as the "A. P. A.," but were speedily voted down and rejected by the friends of that organization who seemed to be in a large majority, and that organization can now be said to be a part and parcel of the Republican party in Missouri:

Resolved, That the Republican party of Missouri speaking for its time-honored tolerance and the institutions of the American people, as laid down by the framers of the Constitution, we deplore and condemn any attempt made under guise of secret organizations, that have for their purpose the inauguration of religious bitterness and dissension in the political affairs of our country.

Resolved, That the Republican party emphatically protests against the importation of such foreign doctrines into our midst, such oath-bound organizations, under whatever name, whose secret professions are hostile to the belief of any religious denomination or church organization, and we declare no such secret organization shall have the countenance of the Republican party. The Constitution of the United States, the supreme law of our country, under which we have become the greatest nation of the world, forbids the interference with any man in his worship of God according to the dictates of his conscience; and be it further

Resolved, That the Republican party of Missouri repudiates the participation or affiliation with the politics of this unrepresentative body.

THE historic elm of Pogoquoek in Connecticut, has been cut down because it was in the way of an electric street car line. The tree was fully 300 years old. A deed to the surrounding land was signed under the shade of this tree in 1635. It was over 100 feet high with a girth of eighteen feet at its base. At a height of fifteen feet four great limbs, the largest of which measured nine feet in circumference, spread themselves in all directions. These limbs extended entirely beyond the highway and some fifty feet across the lot on the opposite side and an intelligent estimate reckons that it covered at least one-third of an acre of ground. But the most remarkable phenomenon connected with this stately old tree was that it was accepted by the surrounding settlers as an unerring barometer. There was a singular knot on one of the larger limbs. With the most exacting accuracy, about twenty-four hours previous to a rain storm, a quantity of fluid would exude from this knot besprinkling the surrounding earth. These symptoms were never known to deceive and the fact became so well known as to merit the attention of the Connecticut Historical Society and the Connecticut Agricultural Society both of which have noted the phenomenon in their official transactions. At times the discharges from this knot became quite copious, notably so on the destruction of a mate to this tree which stood a little further south of it and which was blown down by a storm two years ago last January. A sighing and a groaning peculiarly alarming were nightly heard for several weeks afterwards. The latest exhibition of this unusual manifestation was on the occasion of the felling of this mighty monster of the past. As it fell towards the ground it creaked and it groaned and a great stream of water poured from this natural fountain as if in solemn protest.

Govs. Hogg and Stone.

In speaking of a supposed anarchistic speech of Governor Hogg, of Texas. The New York Sun says:

There is no other Southern governor with the possible exception of Stone of Missouri, to whom such sentiments as this speech reports can be ascribed without producing incredulity on the part of the public.

Both Governor Hogg and Governor Stone are to be congratulated upon having acquired the enmity of this paper. They could wish for no better certificate of their Democracy than its unfavorable criticism. It is professedly a Democratic newspaper, but never gets beyond profession. As the wicked assumes the livery of heaven to serve the devil in, so it puts on the garb of Democracy that it may strike a blow at the vitals of the party. It belongs to the demi-monde in the ranks of journalism.

It is without shame and incapable of a blush. There is no measure, however unjust, that it will not advocate if the Plutoocracy should demand it. There is no position it will refuse to occupy, no matter how base and humiliating, if it seems to be necessary to the interests of the millionaire class. While professing the faith and claiming communion with the great party to which Jefferson belonged, it lets no opportunity slip to vilify and ridicule its underlying principles. Any opposition to monopolistic greed is in its eyes anarchy that calls for the restraining hand of the Government.

When it is proposed by the people of this country to restrict the taxing power to the sole purpose of raising the necessary revenue for carrying it on, it howls anarchy. It yells anarchy at the man who demands the indorsing of the crime of 1873 by the restoration of silver to its proper place as a money metal. In its eye the workingman who will not submit himself, body and soul, to the will of the corporation that employs him, is an anarchist, dangerous only in a slightly less degree than the bomb-thrower. It does not believe that the common people have any rights that the wealthy are bound to respect, and views our scheme of popular government as a roaring farce.

Had it existed in the days of the revolution, it would have been loud in its praise of George the Third, and equally loud in its denunciation of George Washington. It would have seen nothing wrong in the treason of Benedict Arnold then, as it sees nothing wrong in the treason of David B. Hill and Arthur P. Gorman now. Its editor would have been the tory then that he is now, and would probably have been hanged for his treason—a fate which he is in no danger of meeting now, however well deserved.

If the Plutoocracy should conclude to dispense with the forms of popular government, the Sun would be the first to commence that course. The Sun is not Democratic. It has no right to speak for the party, and is not in sympathy with its principles. It should have no voice in its councils, and certainly has no weight with its rank and file. Missouri never had an abler governor than William J. Stone. He is a Democrat of antique type, just as the editor of the Sun is a tory of antique type. He stands for the people and their equal rights before the law, just as the Sun stands for the classes and their usurped privileges. The enmity of the Sun only emphasizes the correctness of the position Missouri's governor has taken. More power to him!

Mr. Thomas Batte, editor of the Graphic, Texarkana, Arkansas, has found what he believes to be the best remedy in existence for the flux. His experience is well worth remembering. He says: "Last summer I had a very severe attack of flux. I tried almost every known remedy, none giving relief. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended to me. I purchased a bottle and received almost immediate relief. I continued to use the medicine and was entirely cured. I take pleasure in recommending this remedy to any person suffering with such a disease, as in my opinion it is the best medicine in existence." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Mrs. P. R. Crisp.

Links and Pins.

The switchman by name of A. V. Flavy, who on August 4th was struck by Engineer Paule, with engine 350, is recovering from his injuries sustained thereby. He stepped off his engine on to the main track right in front of engine 350, and was injured to the extent of a fractured hip and a few broken ribs.

Miss Myrtle Paule was tendered a surprise on Wednesday evening by the young ladies of Ironton. Pilot Knob and Arcadia. At about eight o'clock the guests began coming in, to the great surprise of Miss Myrtle, who had gone to the depot to meet her father. When she returned from the depot, to her astonishment she was greeted by them all with "Good evening, Myrtle." Games of all kinds and plenty of music and dancing followed and when the hours were rolling around to midnight a sumptuous supper was set, which consisted of ice cream, cake, candies, melon, etc. When the weary hour of one o'clock was approaching, the guests departed for their homes with a great many thanks and hearty wishes to little Myrtle, that she might live many years to enjoy many such occasions. The names of the guest present were: Misses Alma Fletcher, Nellie Fairchild, Viola Gosney, Francis Immer, Irene Immer, May Whitworth, Rosa Jones, Lucy Jones, Hattie Polk, Flavia Polk, Nora Patton, Annie Austin and Nora Lanagan, and Messrs. Alex. Fletcher, Wm. Whitworth, Ferd Immer, Leslie Hodges, Wm. Gosney, Ernest Jones, Tucker Jones, Bud Tual, Wm. Tual, Amos Jones, Eddie Kells, John Turner, Geo. Kells, Joe Shock and Geo. Hasty.

Conductor Nickell, who has been away for a long time, returned to his run of the Arcadia train Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Burke and daughters, Maggie, Mamie and Annie, of Graniteville, were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Paule last Sunday.

Louis Bloom, a brother of Mr. Albert Bloom of Arcadia, has been firing the Arcadia passenger run extra, while his brother Albert was laying off a few trips. Louis had made a trip to St. Louis on the 17th, and was in a controversy with some of the boys when all of a sudden he fell to the floor and was unconscious for some time. A doctor was summoned at once, who pronounced it heart failure. Luckily for Mr. Bloom it did not happen while he was on duty. Up to this writing he is improving, but not able for work.

Pusher engine 336 has returned from the shops, after having some minor repairs done on her, and a coat of fresh black paint. She will push the cars up the hill hard now.

Pusher engine 337 has returned home; 336 takes her place.

Engineer Jno. Bethel has also been stationed at St. Louis to run switch engine in Lesperance street yards. Hope you will not get off the switches, John.

Mr. Charley Whelahan, who is on the through freight out of St. Louis, was dispatched for last Saturday, on account of the illness of his child. He came down on the Arcadia train and returned Sunday, to resume his run, as the child was not dangerously ill, as thought to be.

Miss Myrtle Paule will soon depart for St. Louis, to visit Miss Camille Keane, to be absent until school opens in September.

Conductor Young's smiling face is seen nightly on the Arcadia run, in the absence of Conductor Marple. Fireman Albert Bloom has returned to the 350. Louis Bloom, the fireman who dropped to the floor unconscious, and the facts of which are made known to the REGISTER, caused from heart failure, has survived, and up to this writing is fast improving.

One night a few weeks ago fireman Eldracher took a dog from here and dropped it off at a station south of here. Charley says as soon as he let the dog go it ran off and tumbled a rabbit, squirrel, and fox, and thinks he was on the scent of a bear, when last heard of him!

The beautiful iron and woven wire fence that adorns the grounds around the Arcadia College is now completed, and improves the appearance of the place very much. The iron part of the fence stands on a rock and cement foundation, with red granite basement and iron braces, making the fence very strong and durable, as well as improving the looks of the grounds and buildings.

The young folks of Arcadia and vicinity were entertained with a social hop given at the residence of Mr. Henry Evans on Saturday evening.

The public schoolhouse in Arcadia is being repaired with a new roof and some plastering done to the walls, and a general overhauling. Miss Rena Immer has been visiting Miss Julia Paule.

Little 5-year-old Leona Paule made her visit to Pilot Knob, accompanied by her sister, Julia, to visit friends. They returned home with their papa Saturday evening. DUT TRUXEV.

Oleomargarine.

Oleomargarine, says ex-Governor Hoard, of Wisconsin, has forty millions of capital behind it in Chicago and other great cities. It is to-day entering the halls of Congress. It showed its cloven foot there in the passage of the "original package bill," when Mr. Caswell secured the passage of the substitute, which included oleomargarine and all other adulterated foods to be classed in the same category with liquors, giving the State police power over it. The House of Representatives passed that bill and when it came to the Senate it died. Who lay behind it? The tremendous force and power of oleomargarine. It is to-day seen in our public journals. In Chicago, or in any metropolitan press, it is almost impossible to secure any information to the consumer that would be detrimental to the oleomargarine interests, because oleomargarine sees that this outlet of information is curbed.
