Of course, the charge that kissing is dangerous is true. Everything is dangerous that ever gave a human being one moment of happiness upon this poor old earth. Happiness itself is only another name for sin. If you do not believe it, just study a few of the old theologians.

An Indianapolis girl tried to commit suicide because her relatives would not "leave her alone," while another young miss out in Colorado took the same course because her relatives did leave her alone. It is hard to satisfy the diverse cravings of the human heart.

A rich old man who recently married a fair young woman has had a river abolished because it interfered with what she considered the beauty of the landscape. The age of chivalry is not dead. Neither Charles II, nor Louis XIV, could have acted more splendidly in the circumstances.

"In Kansas," says an exchange, "the stern arm of the law has stepped in and decreed that bakers shall no longer knead dough with their feet." It is high time, therefore, for the stern foot of the law to seize the cabbage raiser in its sinewy grasp and utter the imperious demand that they shall no longer pack their sauerkraut in barrels by the process of tramping it with their bare hoofs.

An actress who has recently been divorced says she couldn't live with her husband because he seldom kissed her, although he was kind and thoughtful in other respects. She should have been patient. Perhaps his apparent neglect was merely a sanitary precaution.

SHOT BY MISTAKE

TERRITORY OFFICERS THOUGHT MINISTER WAS BOOTLEGGER.

BALL PASSED THROUGH HEART

When Ordered to Halt the Preacher Whipped His Team into a Run.

Tulsa, Ind., Ter.—Mistaken in the dark for a "bootlegger," Sylvester Morris, aged 74, a wealthy retired Methodist minister, was shot and killed at the corner of North Second and Cincinnati avenue late Thursday night by Deputy United States Marshal C. R. Wilson.

The old man was driving a two-horse wagon and was on his way home from his farm north of the city. Officer Wilson, in company with another deputy, had arrested three bootleggers in that neighborhood an hour before and were on a lookout for other violators of the law when the old man came driving by.

He was halted by the officers, who ordered him to give up in the name of the government. Instead of obeying, Morris whipped up his horses into a run. The officers say they then fired three shots in the air to scare the old man, but seeing he was not going to stop, Wilson shot twice to kill, both shots taking effect.

One ball passed through the heart, causing instant death. The team dashed for home, and neighbors who had heard the shooting came out to investigate the cause, and found the dead body in the wagon.

When Officer Wilson learned of his mistake he surrendered to the police and was given over to the custody of Deputy Marshal Sam Cones.

HELD ON HABEAS CORPUS.

Missouri and Illinois Officers in War for Custody of Arthur Booker.

Hannibal, Mo.—Although Governor Folk honored a requisition from Gov. Deneen of Illinois for Arthur Booker, who is wanted in Quincy on the charge of burglary and grand larceny, he is still in the custody of the Missouri officers. Sheriff Thomas of Quincy came to Hannibal last evening to take the prisoner to Illinois, but as soon as he was turned over to him Booker was taken in charge by the Sheriff of Marion county on habeas corpus proceedings.

Judge Dent had dismissed the case against Booker, in which he was charged with being a fugitive from justice. Thus the matter has become very complicated.

It is claimed that Gov. Folk did not make a thorough examination of the papers before he honored the requisition.

The object of the new crusade will be the conversion of the people to the doctrines of municipal and state ownership of public utilities, and in arguments for this campaign the recruits will be schooled. A call will be sent out at once for enlistments, which will not be confined to the hobo class. Contributions to the treasury will also be solicited.

Everything on which the committee based its report—contracts, plans, specifications, copies of correspondence, etc., was transferred to the custody of the attorney general when the committee disbanded. Three watchmen have been assigned to the room and will be constantly on guard. This system will be maintained until Attorney General Todd and his associate counsel have determined what disposition to make of the documents.

"Next Friends" Counsel Encourage Impression of Further Probe.

Concord, N. H.—Does the action of the "next friend" in withdrawing their suit in equity really mean the end of the legal efforts to penetrate the secrets of Mrs. Eddy's physical and mental condition, or is it merely another move in the game? BRYAN REPLIES TO SECY. TAFT

NEBRASKAN COMPLAINS OF BEING MISREPRESENTED BY WAR SECRETARY.

WORD "STRADDLER" IS USED

Democratic Leader Says the Columbus Speech Will Disappoint Those Expecting Bugle Note in Favor of Reform.

Lincoln, Neb.—William J. Bryan's reply to the speech of Secretary Taft at Columbus, O., is given out. Secretary Taft is condemned as a "straddler" on nearly all the important issues, and criticized for not taking advanced ground in reform. Mr. Bryan complains also that his own position has been misrepresented by the secretary. Mr. Bryan says:

"Secretary Taft's speech will prove a disappointment to those who expected a clear bugle note in favor of reform. There is not a single question on which he takes a strong, advanced position. On the railroad question he is in favor of preventing watered stock, opposes the consolidation of competing lines and the duplication of directorates. So far so good; but he does not advocate the ascertaining of the value of the roads or the reduction of rates. He even defends the president from the charge of favoring the reductions made by the states. The railroads may object to his rhetorical denunciation of abuses, but they will hardly be scared by his remedies.

Thunders at Unlawful Trusts. On the trust question he thunders at unlawful trusts, but not only does not recommend new legislation, but takes the position that a monopoly may not be harmful. He seems to lean toward the idea that it must be convicted of some harmful act—and this throws the burden of proof upon the government. He recognizes that 'restraint is more difficult,' when one corporation swallows up a lot of other corporations; that it involves enormous labor on the part of the government to prosecute such a combination because the proof of the gist of the offense lies underneath an almost limitless variety of transactions, and yet he is opposed to the license system which would enable the government to absolutely prevent a monopoly. In other words, he gives the benefit of the doubt to the corporation instead of to the people. He thinks that putting one or two trust magnates in the penitentiary would have a healthy effect, but he used so many qualifying words that one is left in doubt as to what he really favors.

"After submitting an argument in support of an inheritance tax and a graduated income tax, he concludes by saying that he is not in favor of adopting either of them now. At some future time he may adopt them if they are needed.

Favors Government by Injunction. "He comes out strong in favor of government by injunction, but does not take any position on arbitration and election of senators by the people.

"He takes a rap at socialism, denounces the initiative and referendum and presents an argument against government ownership of railroads. He is stronger in stating what he opposes than in stating what he favors and he unintentionally, of course—misstates Mr. Bryan's position on several questions.

"He makes out a strong case in favor of tariff reform, but when he gets to the remedy he goes no farther than the republican leaders have gone in former campaigns. He wants enough tariff to cover the difference in cost of labor here and abroad—and he wants the tariff reformed by his friends. Tariff reform by the friends of the tariff is a farce and a fraud and the secretary runs away from the conclusions which would naturally be drawn from the statistics which he presents.

"The conservatives may object to his speech because it admits many democratic contentions, but no reformer will find encouragement in it. It is a straddle of the most important issues—a compromise instead of fight for reform."
