From Senator Bradley.

DESLOGE, Mo., April 14, 1908.

Editor Register—I note an editorial in your paper that Mr. Rumor has it going that I would not unite or abide by the Senatorial primary in case Stone should be the Democrat nominee for U. S. Senator. I will repeat to you what I authorized the Lead Belt News to say for me that the rumor is absolutely false and only calculated to do me an injury at this time. I most assuredly will vote the expressed sentiment of the people on the Senatorial question irrespective of what my personal feelings may be. The voice of the Democrats of my senatorial district on the senatorial question and all other questions will be the supreme law with me. As I have always stated time and again I will carry out the will of my constituents on all questions affecting their interest and not mine.

I am somewhat surprised that my party loyalty should be questioned at this time, as I have ever been a true loyal Democrat all my life. I have never expressed myself for or against any candidate for U. S. Senator or any other candidate for office during this campaign.

I am making my campaign as a plain every day Democrat and appealing to the Democratic voters of the state on my record in the lower and upper branches of the General Assembly for the past ten years.

Yours Respectfully,

JOHN L. BRADLEY.

Election Contributions.

What the exact facts may be is not yet quite clear, but that the Republican committee which defeated Bryan in 1900 had much more tainted money in its campaign fund than the insurance companies have yet accounted for, it is an easy guess from Thomas F. Ryan's recent testimony before a New York grand jury. The amount disclosed by Mr. Ryan was $500,000. It appears to have been paid by William C. Whitney (President Cleveland's sometime Secretary of the Navy) and the Elkins-Widener crowd of Philadelphia. But not "for keeps." These delectable gentlemen of the "safe and sane" cult were to get it back, so Mr. Ryan testifies, very much as George W. Perkins got the $48,000 contribution back from New York Life.

According to the New York Evening Post's report of Mr. Ryan's testimony, "the Metropolitan Street Railroad Company was on the lookout early in 1900 for a storage battery for use on the surface street car lines in this city, and George J. Huhn & Sons of Philadelphia, brokers, were handling the matter for the company. This was the year of the second McKinley campaign. The five capitalists also wanted to make a big contribution to the political campaign fund, and decided to do it through Huhn & Sons. Accordingly each drew his check for $100,000, payable to Huhn & Sons. The checks were then turned over to the Philadelphia firm with the understanding that the Huhns were to pass the checks along to the political managers of the party designated. It was also understood, according to Ryan's explanation, that Ryan, Whitney, Dolan, Widener, and Elkins were to be reimbursed for their contributions, with five per cent. interest, by the Metropolitan Street Railway Company. It was not until May 22, 1902, that the opportunity to repay the capitalists came around. Then the deal for the sale of the Wall and Cortlandt Ferries Railroad Company's franchise to the Metropolitan was put through. In making the payment to Brady, by the simple method of adding five times $100,000, with interest thereon at 5 per cent. for a little over two years, Ryan, Elkins, Widener, Dolan, and Whitney got back their campaign contributions of 1900. The amount each received was, according to Mr. Ryan's explanation, $111,000. Evidently we are not yet at the bottom of the corruption which defeated Bryan in 1896, and again in 1900. The whole wretched truth may never be known, nor all the rascals ever be exposed. But enough of the facts are leaking out to serve as a warning to honest folk against allowing Bryan to again be defeated by similar methods.—The Public.
