Miss Jennie Snyder visited friends here the first of the week. She left Tuesday for Stillwell, Oklahoma, where she will teach this winter.—Bismarck Gazette.

A $500,000 fire visited Poplar Bluff early last Sunday morning. A favorable turn of the wind at a critical stage of the conflagration prevented further destruction.

Called meeting Star of the West Lodge, No. 133, A. F. & A. M., Saturday night, September 11th. Work in M. M. degree.

MANN RINGO, Sec'y.

Andy Peterson, a former well known saloon man of De Soto, was an Ironton visitor Monday, having just returned from Denmark, where he spent the past three years.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Lewis are at their home in the valley after a trip to Mackinac and other northern resorts. Mr. Lewis tells us there was plenty of hot weather up north.

Will G. Patton left last week for St. Louis, where he will spend a week before going to Nashville to attend Vanderbilt University, where he expects to complete the course in medicine this year.

Capt. C. Souard Turner, well known in the valley, and Mrs. W. H. Steinwender of St. Louis, were united in marriage last Saturday. The Capt. and his bride will leave for the Philippines next month.

FERTILIZERS—Those desiring fertilizers will do well to call upon me. I handle three standard brands, and sell at reasonable prices. G. W. COLLINS, Ironton, Mo.

The County Board of Equalization—to equalize the assessments of merchants and manufacturers—was in session Monday and Tuesday. The Court of Appeals will sit the last Monday in September.

Morgan Scott has returned from Iron county. Mr. Scott has purchased a farm near Caledonia and expects to move there in the near future. We wish them success but we will lose a good citizen.—Desloge Sun.

Mr. B. S. Gregory, who for a number of years has been a resident of our city, is moving to St. Louis this week. We are sorry to lose Mr. G. and his family from our city and hope it will be to their interest to come back to us before long.—Fredericktown Democrat News.

Ira A. Carr has sold the Ellington Press to R. L. Daniels who will hereafter guide the proceedings of the Press. In the beginning the Press advocated the Republican policies until they became such that Mr. Carr could not endorse them and the Press became an independent paper. We are informed that hereafter the Press will advocate the Democratic policies. We welcome Editor Daniels to the new field of newspaperdom and hope he will receive a hearty and healthy patronage of the people there.—Eminence Current Wave.

Professor Ogier, wife and daughter, returned last Saturday from a two-months' visit and vacation in North Missouri and Colorado. They report a pleasant trip and a good time. The Professor is now getting ready for the opening of our schools here, of which he is superintendent.—De Soto Press.

Jasper Anderson, who lives in the west end of the county near Goodwater, had his thigh broken by a kick from a mule last Thursday. As Mr. Anderson is nearly seventy years of age the accident may prove serious. His brother, F. M. Anderson, and daughter, Mrs. Yount, went to see him Sunday.

The first arrest and conviction of a drunken man on a train in this section, occurred Tuesday. W. H. Jones of Mattoon, Ill., got on Conductor Ham's train at Caruthersville and took a seat in the ladies' coach and went to sleep. He was taken off here and arraigned before Justice West and fined, on a plea of guilty, $5 and costs, in all $13.05. He had but 11 cents and went to jail.—Dunklin Democrat.

C. E. Orton, who has been conducting the Fair Store for the past year or more, has disposed of his interest to his mother, Mrs. Laura J. Orton, and will leave shortly for Chicago where he has been tendered a good position with a railroad company. The business for the present will be in charge of W. G. Dilts, who has been employed as manager.—Tipton, (Iowa), Conservative.

Senator Frank Farris, of St. Louis, was out last week shaking hands with his friends and transacting business. He was also here to make arrangements for a residence to which he will move his family as soon as the necessary repairs can be made. Frank's many friends, not only in this city, but all over the county, will be glad to learn that he will again take up his residence in Steelville.—Steelville Ledger.

The drouth in the valley was terminated last Saturday evening by a down-pour of rain that was accompanied by the most violent electric storm we've had during the year. The mercury in the thermometer contracted and a couple of cool nights and days followed. Early Tuesday morning there came a big rain, a regular ground soaker, that lasted a half a day or more, and we hope the dry weather for this season is over.

L. A. VonErichsen, manager for Cole Younger, has arranged with Mr. J. E. Grandhomme, manager, Academy of Music, Ironton, Mo., for Mr. Younger to give a lecture on Tuesday night, Sept. 14th, one night only.

This lecture will be instructive and interesting to every man, woman and child. He will relate to you all the pathetic incidents of his life from the time he was a boy of seventeen years of age, living peacefully at home on his father's farm in Jackson county, Mo., where he was born 65 years ago. He will tell you why he was forced to live the life of an outlaw, which caused him to live twenty-five years in a prison cell. He will also tell you of his prison life, his pardon and restoration to citizenship, etc. Will give you a complete history of his life from childhood to the present time. $1,000 will be forfeited if this is not the original Cole Younger. Lecture begins at 8:30 p. m. Admission, 25c and 35c.

Mr. B. H. Payne, General Passenger Agent of the Missouri Pacific, was here from St. Louis last Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Payne's visit was for the purpose of informing himself as to the possibilities of the valley as a summer resort, and, incidentally, looking over a tract of land which he thought of purchasing. Mr. Payne talked to a REGISTER representative for an hour or more and we found him to be a most genial and entertaining gentleman. He is most favorably impressed with the valley and considers prospects are bright for the future, if we only lend encouragement and a helping hand to the people who want to develop our resources. He says that every passenger train on the road must and will stop at some point in the valley, and that beyond any question, the place they should stop is at Ironton, the central point of the valley and most accessible for a large portion of the population. Mr. Payne will probably pay us another visit soon. He contemplates buying a tract of land near the Fort field in Pilot Knob.

The barbecue and horse show at Thompson Blanton's last Wednesday was a decided success. The day was ideal. There was an attendance from all over the county and some of the adjoining counties were represented. The horse show programme was faithfully carried out and enjoyed by all. Mr. Blanton and his good family were complimented and praised on the successful outcome of their efforts. Following were the premiums awarded: Best mule colt, James Freeland. Best horse colt, N. Freeland. Best saddle mare or gelding, 3 years and under 1st prize, "Janie," Carty Blanton, owner. Second prize, "Rat," Alsey Blanton, owner. Best saddle mare or gelding, any age, first prize, "May," T. D. Jones, owner. Second, "Corral," Otto Collins, owner. Best saddle mare, any age, first prize, "Fannie," owned by Carty Blanton. Best single driver, first prize, T. D. Jones; second, Wm. Allright. Best matched team, first prize, Boni Blanton; second, Fred Delano. Best saddle stallion, "Jim," Thompson Blanton, owner. Best jack any age, "Lightning," Thompson Blanton, owner. Best jack 2 years old, "Jumbo Jim," owned by Thompson Blanton. An interesting feature of the day was Thompson Blanton mounted on his well known grey saddle horse, "Luke," equipped with saddle and bridle his owner had used during the time he was a Confederate soldier. The saddle was worse battle-scarred than the follower of Price. Thompson says if he had had "Luke" or "Jim," the Feds never would have gotten within shooting distance of him!

The following, telegraphed from Denver, Colorado, under date of September 6th, appeared in Monday's St. Louis Times. "With a large caliber revolver clasped tightly in his right hand and a gaping bullet wound in his right temple, the dead body of Carl Strader of Des Arc, Mo., who has been going under the name of J. B. Farr, was found yesterday afternoon in the editorial room of the Wray (Colo.) Gazette. Strader was last seen alive Saturday night, when he appeared despondent and discouraged. He left a note giving his true name and address. He asserts in the note that he was the son of a wealthy Des Arc (Mo.) banker, and that while acting as cashier in his father's bank he became addicted to drinking and gambling and was discharged and ordered from home. Strader wandered about three years, landing in Wray six months ago. He went to work for the Gazette, and was soon made its editor, which position he held until his death. While in Wray he neither drank nor gambled, but confided to an intimate friend that he could not much longer resist the temptation, but before he would succumb again he would end his life."

The remains were taken to Des Arc and interment occurred there Tuesday. To the bereaved parents the REGISTER extends sympathy. When a certain young man, now the guest of a well-known family in the West End, showed up at the Adding Typewriter company factory Monday morning to apply for a job, Joseph Meeko, former member of the Dalton's baseball team and an employee of the concern, gazed in astonishment at the stranger looked stunning. It required only an instant's thought, then Meeko leaped on the applicant, shaking him about somewhat vigorously and demanding an explanation. The coincidence of shoes and shirt on the visitor and the theft from him of just such a shirt and pair of shoes was so convincing that the rough handling of the wearer was deemed justifiable. Meeko compelled the stranger to accompany him to police headquarters, where the robbery of his room, the thief obtaining a bran-new shirt, new shoes and a ring, was explained to officers. The West End guest was sweated. He explained that Monday morning he had met a young fellow on the Frisco railroad tracks. The young chap asked him to buy a pair of fine shoes and a new shirt for a paltry amount. He did so. His description of the salesman fit that of a young man who has visited Meeko's room on occasions, and the victim refused to prosecute the suspect who was wearing his clothes, believing him innocent. The visitor removed Meeko's garments, sent out to his host's for his own and the incident was closed.—Poplar Bluff Citizen.

The Labor Day Picnic at Goulding's Park was as quietly pleasant an affair as one could wish. The weather was good picnic weather—neither suffocatingly hot nor yet too cool for the welfare of the ice cream and lemonade man. The rays of the sun were filtered through a layer of hen-speckled cloud hanging high. An excursion train, bearing over three hundred people from De Soto came into Ironton station about 8:30 A. M., and a half hour later the excursionists were enjoying the park's umbrageous spread of oak and maple. They were met at the station by the A. V. Cornet Band which guided them to their destination, and during the day awoke from time to time the harmonious echoes of the grove. After noon the local people gathered in and not less than eight hundred picnickers were present. There were no gambling devices on the grounds, but a home-made Flying Dutchman and other means of amusement were conservatively in evidence. A dancing platform claimed and received attention, but the Terpsichorean devotees were neither unduly ardent nor too numerous. Yet the Grandpas dilled and the dancers danced right many a square and rounded measure. No accident or disturbance marred the day. In fact, it was just such an occasion as one enjoys most, though hardly conscious of it at the time, and will leave a better taste in the mouth of memory than sometimes does one of more intense enjoyment. Among the old-time friends from De Soto I met were Dr. Bliss and Judge A. D. Williams—the latter formerly a resident of Des Arc and Judge of the County Court. He holds his age well, but, like the rest of us, is growing old, though his auburn hair and whiskers do not so strongly accentuate this fact. Others I saw whose names are given elsewhere, and one and all I was glad to greet. At five o'clock there was a perceptible thinning of the crowd, and by six the grounds were sparsely sprinkled. The excursionists' train pulled out for home about 6:30, and so ended the day for most of us, though a few extended it into the night.

Mrs. Thos. J. Akins and sister are here for the funeral from St. Louis. The community sympathizes with the bereaved parents and relatives. ISAAC.

CAMP MEETING NEWS.

The last Sunday of the camp meeting was a great day. Rev. Kistler, President of the College, preached an able sermon at 11 o'clock Sunday morning from the text in 2nd Timothy 2:15, to an audience of some 1000 or 1800 people. At the close of the sermon a collection was taken for the school to the amount of $138.50. The 3 o'clock service was one of interest. Our home boy, Bro. W. W. Strother, preached an old time sermon from the 6th chapter of Galatians and 7th verse. He condemned sin of every form and broke into the liquor traffic, and closed on the latter part of the text: "Sowing and Reaping." A proposition for a music hall was then put before the people and a subscription list passed over the congregation which returned with $387, and several business men promised Bro. Strother they would donate liberally. The building is now under construction on college campus. Several new houses are going up on College Hill and others are buying lots and will soon build. Carpenters wanted. Total collections during the meeting, $788.

Annapolis News.

We have had a cool wave at Annapolis, also two or three showers of rain in the past few days. Corn crops are some better than expected in this neighborhood. Philip Abernathy filled his appointment at Annapolis. Had a very small attendance up to Sunday night. There was a very good crowd out last night. He did not preach a sermon, he only lectured, and his lecture on religion and the devil and hell and all of his angels was good and the shoe must have fit some of them, as they did not shake hands with the honorable and intelligent minister. There was good order and can be bragged on for this time. Esquire Kitchell the past week took a run up to Ironton and Flatwoods to the horse show but does not report much of a time, and on Sept. 3d he pulled out for Piedmont and staid over night with his brother, Zachariah T. Kitchell, but found him in bad health, and now to-day he is taking another trip to Ironton. He certainly will find him a woman this time, for that is what he is looking after.

There were three or four gallons of whiskey and one keg of beer put off at Annapolis Saturday and Sunday and the boys had a glee old time, but only one got the skin broke on him and it is not a dangerous wound.

Among the callers at this place during the week was Phillip Carter and Marlin Cox. They are putting in a concrete dam in the creek below town to benefit the water service for the Iron Mountain Railroad.

Some miscreant stole one gallon of whiskey Sunday morning at the depot in Sabula. It is well known who it is, so he had better look a little out.

James Moss' wife is not expected to live and may be dead at this writing as they live ten miles southwest of here. She is the mother of Fred C. Kitchell's wife and they went out there last night.

Our most intelligent night agent, Elmer Delcove, is again dragged to Piedmont for eight or ten days, but he hopes to be returned at once as his best girl is here. There is a young man filling his place here by the name of Lane from Fort Scott, Kansas. He seems to be a nice young man and on to his job, but it is to be hoped he will not interfere with the girls at this place.

Annapolis has a diamond drill boring into the rock every day now. It commenced work Sept. 3d. Nothing is known as to the success they are having as every thing is kept hidden.

There is a great deal of lumber and ties coming into Annapolis now, and trade seems to be getting better. Watermelon season is about over at Annapolis.

The correspondent of this place is in receipt of a letter from C. A. Hawkins, the county clerk of Douglas County, Ill., that Wm. S. Worley of Tuscola, Ill., was buried on the 15th day of August, 1909.

Mr. Worley was a minister and of the healing power in his profession of the Bible, who was known by many people in Iron and Reynolds counties, and is the owner of several thousand acres of land in this and other parts of Missouri. Peace to his ashes is the wish of the "Annapolis Bulletin."

I am informed that Harry Holland is about closing a deal for his farm near Ironton for quite a sum of money in the near future. Mr. Holland has a good farm and the purchaser will never do better, as the situation and convenience and outlet to market and wild range for stock cannot be excelled, together with a good farm and good soil.

Sickness among children seems to be ceasing with but few deaths in this community.

The wedding bells have failed to ring the past week again.

Mrs. Sarah J. Campbell has been confined to her bed from blood poison, but is able to walk out again by the aid of Dr. A. O'Bannon.

Will come again if not arrested by John Marshall of which I have no fear. BULLETIN.

Epworth Among the Hills.

Delegates from Leagues in the Farmington District visited the valley on Tuesday, August 24th.

They were met by the Arcadia League—after supper—at the hotel, and given a moonlight hay-ride. They were driven from the Shut-in to the far limits of Pilot Knob.

On Wednesday they visited Epworth Among the Hills, and were charmed with the beautiful views—especially from the "Lone Pine" on the hill-side.

At 7:30 a large audience greeted them at Fort Hill church. The young President, Rev. Harry Hoy, presided. Mr. Robert Duncan gave the address of welcome, President Hoy responding. Mr. Clarence Comford of St. Louis followed with some humorous and comforting remarks, presenting the Arcadia League with a check for $25, the proceeds of the social given by the St. Louis ladies on the lawn of the Arcadia Hotel, on Saturday evening the 21st.

A number of interesting speeches were made all enthusiastic over the location selected by the State League. Five hundred dollars were pledged by the Leagues represented. After which the audience repaired to the lawn where refreshments were served.

Thursday morning the party left, delighted with our beautiful valley.

Patrons of our post-office are very much pleased with the change in the mail route, which now gives us the mail at 9 A. M., instead of 4:30 P. M. as heretofore. We are thus enabled to get the Sunday papers the same day they are printed, whereas, before we got them the following day and people never enjoy reading the Sunday papers Monday night. The change in the Black and Edge Hill route is also very acceptable to the patrons of those offices, as mail is now sent direct from Lesterville to these offices instead of going to Centerville as before and laying over there until the following day. These changes make us all feel as though we were many miles nearer the metropolis than heretofore, and we are glad Uncle Sam thinks of us.

The new mill of the White & Hummel Mfg. Co., on Long Branch, is progressing finely, being now nearly enclosed, and logs are being hauled to the new location so that within a very short time the hum of this industry will be heard along the Middle Fork. The company contemplates building several houses for the accommodation of their employees on land covered by their lease. Mr. A. I. Willard of the White & Hummel Mfg. Co. spent Labor Day in Ironton. The American Yachtsman

No better type of man exists on the face of the earth than the American yachtsman. Since 1851 the supremacy of American sailors and yacht designers has never been seriously endangered on either fresh or salt water. When devotees of yachting gather to toast each other—no beer is half so popular as

Budweiser The King of All Bottled Beers

It has a bunk aboard every yacht. It puts a tang in the blood that tingles like an ocean breeze. It is pure and clean as the foam on a white-cap. It is cool and refreshing as a dip in the sea on a summer day.

The Cough of Consumption Your doctor will tell you that fresh air and good food are the real cures for consumption. But often the cough is very hard. Hence, we suggest that you ask your doctor about your taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It controls the tickling, quiets the cough. We publish our formulae. We banish alcohol from our medicines. We urge you to consult your doctor. One of Ayer's Pills at bedtime will cause an increased flow of bile, and produce a gentle laxative effect the day following. Formula on each box. Show it to your doctor. He will understand at a glance. Dose, one pill at bedtime. Made by the J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
