

Is there no way to make the Globe-Democrat cease its brutal and cruel attacks on our great and good Governor?

WE sincerely sympathize with our dear old friend and brother, Albert O. Allen, editor of the New Madrid Record, in the death of his good wife, Laura Allen, which occurred at the family home in New Madrid, Thursday, September 28th.

A NEW newspaper and periodical law, passed by the last congress, will go into effect October 1st. This law requires that publishers of newspapers shall on the first days of April and October file with the postmaster general and the local postmaster, under penalty of losing admission to the mails, a sworn statement of the names and addresses of the owner, publisher, editors, managing editor and business manager of their newspaper.

THE "county printing" seems to be the fly in my new-come neighbor's ointment. Let him possess his soul in patience. I'll tell him something interesting on this subject at an early date. In the meantime, as above suggested, let him be patient and continue nursing his assumed belief that the Democratic officials of Iron county are an admixture of imbecility and scoundrelism and our people ninnyes who need his guiding hand to save them from the wickedness of men they have known all their lives as citizens and friends of fairly good repute.

The Democratic ticket can be elected in Missouri this year with hardly an effort. But an election by only a bare nominal plurality would carry with it nothing but the right to hold the offices. This is not a contest merely for offices. It is not a struggle to simply determine who, among a number of men, are to draw official salaries. That is not the issue at all. A great principle of government is at stake. The people of Missouri are to finally determine whether this commonwealth is to pass forever into hands of the plutocratic reactionaries of the Republican party, or whether the grand old State will return to the faith of the fathers and consecrate herself anew to those immortal principles which have made her what she is today.

"We reiterate our firm belief in the principle of a protective tariff, as expressed in our national platform," says the State Republican platform. Events of the past four years have demonstrated that Republican platform tariff pledges are worth absolutely nothing. Four years ago the party was pledged to revision downward. In the face of that pledge the iniquitous "Schedule K" was enacted, which President Taft afterwards denounced as indefensible from any view point. Later, however, President Taft through his messages vetoing Democratic tariff revision bills, repudiated not only his platform pledges but his personal pledges. In view of these facts it is idle for our Missouri Republican brethren to repose any "firm belief" in the national pledges of their party and their presidential candidate.

GOVERNOR Hadley went into office clamoring for higher, assessment and more revenue. For the first two years of his administration nearly every speech and message emanating from the executive office carried with it the same refrain—higher assessments, more revenue. Every member of two State Legislatures remembers it. All who read the newspapers know it to be the fact. He repeatedly denounced the present method and system of taxation as unscientific, inadequate and inefficient. He sought to increase the State assessments threefold. What has been the result of all this agitation? Who does not see it upon every hand? What has put the Missouri land-owner upon the defensive to-day and plunged the State into the throes of a Single Tax Campaign? Herbert S. Hadley, thou art the man! And the Republican State candidates are all running on a platform which pledges John C. McKinley, the standpat nominee for Governor, to a continuation of the Hadley policies.

WILLIAM J. Bryan began his speaking campaign for Mr. Wilson last week. At Salt Lake on the 18th, his first speech in Utah, he compared Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft as follows, as reported by the United Press:

Any man who opposes the Initiative and Referendum is not in sympathy with the people. Both Taft and Roosevelt worked openly against this measure. Taft has been standing still, and the people have marched right past him. He considers the people incapable of managing their own affairs, and has no confidence in them. I will give him credit and say he does not pretend to. Roosevelt, on the other hand, professes great confidence in the people, but this is a sham and he promises to rule as a despot if he should have his own way.

Mr. Bryan was speaking in California on the 21th. At Los Angeles on the 23d, he said of Mr. Roosevelt and the trust that—Mr. Roosevelt says the trusts have come to stay, and he denounces the Democrats for wanting to make it impossible for a private monopoly to exist. Mr. Roosevelt says you must not try to prevent monopoly. Just regulate it. Let it grow and grow; let it merge and merge; let it consolidate and consolidate, but watch it. My friends, he watched it for seven and a half years and it merged and merged, and when it got to a doubtful point, when it did not know whether it could merge or not, it went to him and asked him and he said: "Yes, merge." I don't believe that we can long maintain political independence when we have lost industrial independence. Mr. Roosevelt's plan has brought corruption into every State government that has tried to control franchise-holding corporations.
