Steel Trust officers admit under oath that they sell their product more cheaply abroad than at home, and the American voter is asked to continue taxing himself for the benefit of the Steel Trust.

With the approach of winter, the Wool Trust again begins exacting its yearly toll of death. We are expending millions to fight disease and to check the infant death rate—but we are still taxing the baby's flannels with a tariff of 142.67 per cent, and croup, pneumonia, tuberculosis and dead babies are the result.

Two hundred thousand extra copies of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat are being sent out over the rural routes of Missouri this month, in the hope of deceiving Missouri voters.
