Better Bread

made with

Golden Sheaf Flour

Better say "best"— because in all your life
you never tasted bread that's anywhere near as good as bread made with the famous Golden Sheaf Flour.

You'll be tickled to death the first time you use it. Because you'll find your bread comes from the oven lighter, fluffier—and twice as delicious in taste.

Keeps fresh longer, too. For in making Golden Sheaf Flour, the Davis Milling Company not only uses the finest wheat that the country raises, but even goes to the expense of washing every last kernel. No other miller does that, because it's costly. But the washing makes Golden Sheaf pure and guarantees perfect baking.

Golden Sheaf is the perfect flour. We know it. You'll say so yourself the first time you try it. If you don't, we'll return the full price of the sack. We'll take the whole risk. Order a trial sack now

Attention is again called by the United States Geological Survey at Washington to the fact that it does not make analyses or assays of ores, minerals, or metals for private parties. Many specimens and samples are received by the Survey, accompanied by requests for such treatment, with which it is impossible to comply. The force of chemists employed in the Survey is small, and their time is fully occupied by their regular official duties. The Geological Survey has no facilities for making gold and silver assays. The most that can be done is for the Survey geologists to give an off-hand opinion based on a simple examination of the specimen. If an assay is desired, the proper course is to employ a private assayer or to send the specimen to one of the Government assay offices, where a regular charge is made for such work. When specimens are sent to the Survey for examination, applicants should be particular to state whether they wish them returned, as otherwise they will be destroyed. Government assay offices are located at Carson, Nevada; Helena, Montana; Idaho, Ohio; Seattle, Washington; Salt Lake City, Utah; and Charlotte, North Carolina.

Resolutions

WHEREAS, The Great and Supreme Ruler of the Universe has, in His infinite wisdom, removed from among us one of our worthy and most esteemed members, Charles Dalzell, and whereas, as he used to be a member of our lodge, we record our appreciation of him; therefore,

Resolved, that his loyal devotion to the principles of our order will be held in grateful remembrance;

Resolved, that the sudden removal of our brother from our midst leaves a vacancy and a shadow that will be deeply felt by all our members, and will prove a serious loss to our order;

Resolved, that we extend our sympathy to the bereaved widow and relatives of the deceased and hope that even so great a loss to us may be overruled, by Him who doeth all things well;

Resolved, that the charter of Iron Lodge, No. 107, I. O. O. F., be draped in mourning for sixty days and that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of this Lodge, a copy printed in the local papers and a copy forwarded to the bereaved family.

Obituary

Ida Lora and Anna Ora, Bowles, a beautiful pair of golden brown haired and brown eyed twins, were born to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bowles at Des Arc, Missouri, August 24, 1911. "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away." They were taken sick on the 3d of July, 1913, and suffered intensely for infants. Little Annie Ora died September 21st, 1912. Ida Lora lingered on, till God in His infinite wisdom, saw fit to take her to her heavenly home, away from pain and suffering. She passed away March 24th, 1913. They were buried side by side, in the Willett graveyard, near Sabula. "But Jesus called them unto Him, and said, Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God." Luke 18: 16. They leave a father, mother, two brothers and a host of relatives and friends to mourn their loss.

Two precious ones from us are gone, Two voices we loved are stilled, Two places are vacant in our home, Which never can be filled.

'Tis hard to break the tender cords Where love has bound the heart, 'Tis hard so hard to speak the words We must forever part.

Yet again we hope to meet them When the day of life is fled, And in heaven with joy to greet them, Where no farewell tears are shed. They are safe in the arms of Jesus, Safe on His gentle breast, There by His love o'erwhelmed, Sweetly their souls are at rest.

A FRIEND.

The Secretary's Stovepipe Hat.

Colonel Bryan has equipped himself with the crowning glory of an officeholder, a stovepipe hat.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Don't you hear the news a-humming up and down the mighty land, From the prairies of Nebraska to the far Florida sand?

Don't you sense the modern wonder booming up like Thor's thunder? Common People, stand from under—since you can not understand.

For it's William Jennings Bryan in a hat—what's that? Yes, it's William Jennings Bryan in a stovepipe hat!

I have seen a plague of places and observed a lot of things In a thirty year meander 'mong the cabbages and kings;

I have witnessed cataclysms, been unto schisms, Known a many mad surprises such as ardent living brings;

But I never yet imagined such a shock as that— Namely, William Jennings Bryan in a stovepipe hat!

Is the mild and meek Caucasian now eternally played out? Is there nothing more to marvel at and nothing left to doubt?

Have the stars begun to tumble in a universal jumble? Has the sun begun to rumble, with the planets in a rout?

Well, I reckon things are crosswise, for it seems like that Since the William Jennings Bryan wears a stovepipe hat!

If I ever get to heaven, which I own I hope to do, I shall not lay out a beeline for the Cherubic crew;

Nor for Socrates go looking soon as I have had my booking, Nor for Shakespeare, nor for Shelley, nor for you, Dear Reader, you.

Nay, I'll mosey round the Throne Room in the seventh heaven flat. Till I greet the angel Bryan in a stovepipe hat!

Robertus Love in New York Sun. St. Louis, March 23.

The Old Home Paper.

(From The Osborne (Kas.) Farmer.) When the citizen is gathered to his fathers, it is the country weekly that extols his virtues and lays wreaths of flowers upon his bier and consoles those left behind. It records the arrival of boyhood and tells of the bright prospects that surround the happy couple as they start out on the journey of matrimony. When the sun is high and bright, and prosperity flows over the land, it rejoices with the people and repeats again the story of the best town in the best county in the State.

When the drought stalks down the valley and crops are parching in the hot sands, it sings songs of optimism and states authoritatively that the next issue will record a soaking rain. Bill Sikes' new barn, Jim Jumper's almost completed residence and Sam Slow's remarkable patch of alfalfa, find their way into its columns. The doctor, the baker, the candlestick maker—all of them—appear in a never-ending moving picture before the eyes of the people every seven days.

The man who has wandered far from his fireside picks it up, and again is spread before him the whole panorama of his boyhood's golden days. All for 3 cents a week and pay when you happen to think about it.

The stern-faced man of millions in his spacious office reaches out eagerly every Saturday morning and paws over the pile of mail until he finds the dinky little paper with the little red label on it. The care worn woman in the humble home on the far Western plain glances frequently from the doorway down the long winding road at the close of a certain day every week for the coming of the husband and father.

She, too, is looking for the same paper with the same little red label on it.

They scan every item—the man of gold and the sad eyed woman—and the marble halls and the flush of power and the dingy walls and the gnaw of want, fade away and are forgotten. He sees again the swimming hole in the bend of the creek and hears the shouts of the boys from the banks as they yell "Chaw beef!" She in fancy smooths again the new blue frock as she sits in the front room and listens for the foot-steps of "him" as he comes whistling down the walk. So they live again the glorious days of the old home town, the man of gold and the sad-eyed woman.

'Tis a thing of sentiment, this little old country newspaper. When you want the story of valor the world it sings the song. When told that fate paints the scarlet letter on the family circle it listens to the pleadings of the broken heart and whispers not of it. When it does you a favor you come in and beg a few extra copies, but when it steps on your toes you drop around to lick the editor.

Without your dinky country paper your towns and hamlets would be like the man who threw klasses at a girl in the dark—he knew it but nobody else did. You might imagine you were alive but other people would have to buy a railroad ticket and come and see for themselves.

This ends the brief tale of the blooming old thing that isn't worth 3 cents a week.

"Submitted for Publication."

(From The Jackson Cash-Book.)

T. R. Weddell, No. 160 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, has "submitted for publication" a statement. This statement reached the Cash-Book office this week. Mr. Weddell represents the insurance trust, just now so deeply concerned about a little anti-trust insurance legislation enacted by the Missouri Legislature. Although a number of other states have practically the same law preventing this insurance trust from imposing on their people, Mr. Weddell says the companies can't stand the Missouri law and will quit the State if the law is enforced. The companies, he says, object to the law because "it punishes any combination or understanding which tends to reduce competition and increase the cost of insurance."

In other words, the insurance companies will quit business in Missouri unless they are permitted to use the regulation trust method of fleecing the public. He says the officers of the companies object because they are made responsible if their agents violate the law and will be made to suffer "five years in the penitentiary and $6000 fine." Mr. Weddell states further "in addition to fine and imprisonment for agents and officers, the property of the company in the State can be confiscated, and the companies further object to the law on that account. He says that "in view of the danger of fines and imprisonment and forfeiture of property no other course is open to them" but to suspend business in Missouri.

Mr. Weddell is to be commended for his candor. Boiled down, his statement amounts to this: "Missouri has adopted an anti-trust law which says we can no longer combine as a trust to destroy competition and rob the people of the State with impunity, and we are going to leave the State rather than endure such a hardship." Mr. Weddell closes his statement with a falsehood. He says the insurance companies are different from other companies doing business with the public and it is necessary for them to form a combination (trust) and cooperate in order to succeed. The truth is, there was a time when fire insurance companies were not united in a trust, and they did business successfully in competition with one another.

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence

Because it's Welded, you can take it Down and Put it Up Without Injuring the Fence

That's a good point to consider. Many a time you would shift a line of fencing from, say, the bull pasture to the hog lot—if it didn't destroy the efficiency of the fence.

In "Pittsburgh Perfect", the only fence with electrically welded joints, the stays are permanently joined to the line wires.

It is actually a one-piece fence. Taking down "Pittsburgh Perfect" and re-stringing it doesn't hurt it a bit. This is one exclusive "Pittsburgh Perfect" feature of economy perhaps you haven't thought of. Our catalogue, sent free, tells of many more. Get a copy at once.

Made in Different Styles for FIELD, FARM, RANCH, LAWN, CHICKEN, POULTRY and RABBIT YARD and GARDEN

Every Rod Guaranteed

Ask your dealer for "Pittsburgh Perfect" and insist on his furnishing it. Do not allow him to persuade you that some other fence is just as good. If he doesn't sell it, write us direct.
