Another circular issued by the Germans detailed the plan of organization. Men who served in the German army will direct affairs. The Germans have a fair supply of rifles and ammunition and two machine guns.

DEFENDS SAILORS' ACTION

PUBLICATION ACCUSES AMERICAN OF "BLACKGUARDISM."

Sensational Letter of Italian Publicist Greatly Exaggerated, Ambassador at Rome Declares.

Rome, Nov. 21.—An open letter of a sensational character addressed to the American ambassador by the publicist Rente La Valle on the conduct of the American sailors in Naples, was published in Giornale d'Italia. This letter, after detailing the incidents of the sailors of the Scorpion at Constantinople last year, says the Italians are not Turks and declares the "blackguardism" of the American sailors passed all bounds.

The writer declares he could fill columns with the details of drunken orgies. He begs the ambassador to advise Rear Admiral Badger either to keep his men aboard or turn the ship's head homeward.

A correspondent took the Journal to the American ambassador and Mr. Page handed back a written statement saying:

"The writer of this newspaper letter doubtless exaggerated the sailors' behavior, I myself, when in Naples, questioned the police, who, not knowing me, said that some of the men were drunk to some extent, but otherwise they had conducted themselves well. I greatly regret that a few men should be accepted as characteristic of the whole, who I believe to be as fine a body as could be found the world over."

The bill is drafted on substantially the same lines as the good roads measure which was passed by the house during the Sixty-second congress, its primary aim being to extend aid in the maintenance of roads over which rural carriers travel when delivering and collecting the mails.

Provision is made for the expenditure of $5,000,000 of the total on state roads not used as post routes.

CHOATE UPHOLDS WILSON

STAND UP FOR HIM IN MEXICAN CRISIS, ADVISE.

Former Ambassador Tells New York Chamber of Commerce President is Right.

New York.—"I appeal to the heart and the head of every gentleman present in this chamber in this trying Mexican situation. There is but one duty for all of us, and that is to stand by the president of the United States."

This sentiment was uttered by Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador to Great Britain, Republican, at the 145th anniversary of the New York chamber of commerce here.

"You may call it diplomatic business, you may call it executive business, but it is fair to assume that the president is in possession of information vastly superior to that which even all the members of the chamber of commerce possess," Mr. Choate said. "He knows what he is aiming at."

"One thing we are sure of—that he is for preserving peace at all hazards, and that by no act of his shall this nation be plunged into a destructive and dreadful war. We must stand by our president through thick and thin, and we shall come out right in the end."

Kansas City, Mo.—Whether or not a man has a right to suggest which side of the bed his wife shall occupy was a question too deep for Judge Ewing Bland, a bachelor, to decide when S. P. Thomas was brought before him in police court here. Thomas was arrested upon allegations that he had kicked his wife from one side of the bed to the other.

"She was on my side of the bed," Thomas explained to the court. "She lay there all doubled up and wouldn't move over."

The judge passed the case to give him time to consider.

TOASTS AMERICAN PEOPLE

HUERTA MAKES DISTINCTION AT A RECEPTION.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Shaughnessy Greeted by Dictator—Foreign Colonies Prepare Defense.

City of Mexico.—The American charge attended a reception to the diplomats by Gen. Huerta at Chapultepec Castle. It was an elaborate affair and was held there because of the restricted facilities of the president's town and suburban homes.

"Gentlemen, I ask you to drink with me the health of the American people."

In this pointed manner Gen. Huerta made a distinction between the American government and the Americans. Mr. and Mrs. O'Shaughnessy were greeted enthusiastically by the president, Gen. Huerta embracing the charge.

After a moment's conversation, he raised his glass and called upon the other guests to join him in the toast. The foreign colonies in the Mexican capital are preparing to defend themselves in the event of disturbances, particularly should the final settlement be left to the Mexicans. Both Sir Lionel Carden and Gen. Von Pionze, the British and German ministers, have suggested the advisability of perfecting some sort of a defense organization.

No such advice has been given to the Americans, but committees are quietly working out a plan of defense, and it is possible there will be formed a general organization, embracing the American, British, German and Austrian residents.

EVADES LAW BY PARCEL POST

Department Has No Alternative But Accept Shipments of Game, Says Burlington.

Washington, D. C.—Evasion of the game laws through the agency of the parcel post now is possible, for Postmaster General Burleson replied to the interrogation of indignant officials of several states that congress had placed no restrictions on the department as to accepting game. This condition, the state game wardens fear, will nullify in great measure the state laws framed for the protection of wild life.

Postmaster General Burleson pointed out that under the law the post-office department could not discriminate in the acceptance of packages that conformed with the department's regulations. Postmasters, therefore, were compelled, he said, to accept game for shipment when the regulations were observed.

WEDDING OF MISS JESSIE WILSON AND FRANCIS B. SAYRE

Mr. and Mrs. Sayre and East Room in Which They Were Wedded.

Washington, Nov. 25.—Jessie Woodrow Wilson, second of President Wilson's three daughters, was married to Francis Bowes Sayre at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. The ceremony took place in the east room of the White House, and was performed by Rev. Sylvester Beach of Princeton, N. J., the president's former pastor and the close friend of the Wilson family for many years.

The entire affair was very simple, as had been requested by the bride, and the number of guests was rather small—distressingly so to many persons in official and social circles of Washington who had expected to receive invitations but were disappointed.

Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, eldest of the three daughters, acted as maid of honor to her sister, and Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, the youngest, was one of the bridesmaids. The three other bridesmaids were Miss Adeline Mitchell Scott of Princeton, daughter of Prof. William B. Scott; Miss Marjorie Brown of Atlanta, Pa., daughter of Mrs. Wilson's cousin, Col. E. T. Brown, and Miss Mary G. White of Baltimore, a college friend of the bride.

Dr. Grenfell is Best Man.

Mr. Sayre was attended by his best man, Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, the famous medical missionary to the fishermen of the Labrador coast. The two men have long been fast friends and Mr. Sayre spent two summers helping Dr. Grenfell with his work.

The ushers were Charles E. Hughes, Jr., son of Justice Hughes of the Supreme court and a classmate of Mr. Sayre in the Harvard law school; Dr. Gilbert Horax of Montreal, N. J., who was a classmate at Williams college in 1909 and now at Johns Hopkins university; Benjamin Burton of New York city, and Dr. Scoville Clark of Salem, Mass., who was Mr. Sayre's companion in Labrador and Newfoundland.

Wedding Gown of Ivory Satin.

The bride's gown was of satin, of a soft ivory tint, trimmed with beautiful lace, both old and rare. It was made in New York and the women connoisseurs declared that it was a masterpiece. The lingerie in the trousseau is of the most dainty material and is all hand made.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids were beautifully gowned and all looked their best. Coming right in the midst of the chrysanthemum season, this was made a chrysanthemum wedding and that flower was used most profusely in adorning the White House. As the bride's favorite color is mauve, that was made the prevailing color in the decorations. The east room, and indeed all the rooms in the president's mansion, were beautiful indeed.

Depart on Their Honeymoon.

After the ceremony was completed and the couple had received the congratulations of the guests, refreshments were served, and then Mr. and Mrs. Sayre departed for their honeymoon. Their plans include a visit to the home of Miss Nevin, Mr. Sayre's aunt, at Windsor Forge, near Churchtown, Pa., where they first met. After January 1 they will live in Williams town, Mass., for Mr. Sayre is to sever his connection with the office of District Attorney Whitman in New York and become assistant to Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams college.

Dog For Golf Links.

Never Despair.

Never despair, but if you do, work up in despair.—Burke.

There was one disappointment for those who attended the wedding, for the gifts were not put on display. It is known that these included many beautiful and valuable articles sent by relatives and personal friends of the bride and groom and of their families and by admirers of President Wilson. Handsome presents were sent by both the senate and the house, that of the latter being a diamond lavalliere which Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of the speaker, bought for the representatives in New York.

Guests Limited to 400.

Those who were invited to witness the wedding were mostly personal friends and the number was kept down close to four hundred. The list was pared and revised several times, and as has been said, the operation resulted in many heartburnings. From the house of representatives' circle, for instance, the only guests were Speaker Champ Clark, Mrs. Clark and Miss Genevieve Clark, Marjorie Leader Underwood and Mrs. Underwood, and Minority Leader Mann and Mrs. Mann.

As might be expected, the streets outside the White House were as crowded as the police would permit with curious persons eager to watch the arrival and departure of the guests.

Something About the Groom.

Francis Bowes Sayre is twenty-eight years old, and was born at South Bethlehem, Pa., a son of the late Robert Heysham Sayre, who built the Lehigh Valley railroad and at one time was assistant to the president of the Bethlehem iron works, since known as the Bethlehem steel works. He was also once president of the board of trustees of the Lehigh university.

Francis Bowes Sayre graduated from Lawrenceville school, Lawrenceville, N. J., in 1904, and from Williams college in 1909. He entered Harvard law school and graduated "cum laude." He was a member of the Sigma Phi fraternity, Gargoyles society and the Phi Beta Kappa at Williams. For the past year he has been working in the office of District Attorney Whitman of New York. During the summer he was admitted to the bar of New York state.

Other White House Weddings.

The wedding of Jessie Wilson and Francis Sayre was the thirteenth to be solemnized in the White House. The first was that of Anna Todd, a niece of Dolly Madison's first husband, and John G. Jackson. Then Mrs. Madison's sister, Lucy, was married to Judge Todd of Kentucky. The third wedding, that of Maria Monroe, daughter of President Monroe, to Samuel Lawrence Gouverneur in 1820 marked the first social use of the east room. Eight years later John, the second son of President John Quincy Adams, married his cousin, Mary Helen, in the blue room. While General Jackson was president there were three weddings in the White House, those of Della Lewis to Alphonse Joseph Yver Paquet of the French legation; Mary Eaton to Lucien B. Polk, and Emily Martin to Louis Randolph. Many years passed before there was another marriage ceremony in the president's mansion, the next being of Nellie, the only daughter of General Grant, and Algernon C. F. Sartoris. In 1876 Emily Platt, a niece of Mrs. Hayes, was married in the blue room to Gen. Russell Hastings. The eleventh of this series of weddings was that of President Cleveland to Frances Folsom, and the twelfth that of President Roosevelt's daughter Alice, to Nicholas Longworth.

and trying to obtain through the windows a glimpse of the doings within. The police arrangements were admirable and nothing happened, in the White House or outside, to mar the happy occasion.

Immense Wedding Cake.

Jessie Wilson's wedding cake was a triumph of the pastry cook's art. It was two and a half feet tall, counting the white orchids that were placed on top of it, and weighed 135 pounds. The first layer was four inches thick and 22 inches across. The cake contained 19 ingredients and its cost was about $500. Over the body of the cake was molded a thick white icing scroll work, on its top was a design for the initials of the bride and groom, and in the center of the design was a picture of the bride and groom. This delicious confection was distributed in 2,000 dainty white boxes tied with satin ribbon and each of the proper size to go under the pillow of the recipient to bring dreams.

Trumped.

"I wish I had never learned to play cards!" exclaimed a man who had been unfortunate at the game. "You mean you wish you had learned, don't you?" was his wife's sarcastic rejoinder.

Moonlight.

The light of the moon is the time from new moon to full moon, and the dark of the moon is from full moon to new moon, or throughout the waning period.

Something Worth Seeing.

A four-year-old youngster on his first visit to a city saw a ferryboat crossing the river. "Oh, mamma!" he exclaimed, much excited, "come and look! Here's a choo-choo car in swimming!"

Mrs. Sayre was born in Gainsville, Pa., twenty-five years ago. She attended the Women's college at Baltimore and was an honor member of the class of 1908, being also elected a member of Phi Beta Kappa. For two years after her graduation she engaged in settlement work in Kensington, Pa., and she is a member of the executive board of the National Young Woman's Christian association. She has delivered several excellent addresses in public.

In appearance she does not resemble her father as much as do her sisters, having rather the features of her mother's family, the Axsons.
