WHY?

BY JULIA S. CLOPTON. They brought him to me, God, My boy's face, cold in death. They say he thought of me, My name was his last breath. And God, they call this "war," This murder of our youth; O, look upon my broken heart, And God, show them the truth. He was my boy, my pride, my all; I loved his very tread. They took him in his glorious youth, And now he lies here—dead. They say he died a noble death Amidst that murderous strife. What if he did—my little boy— He had a right to life. Yes, here he is, my snow-white son, So still to see him lie. One question tears my tortured brain, Oh, God in heaven, Why? —The St. Louis Republic.

Down with the Demon Auto!

Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer, has launched a campaign against cigarettes and has enlisted the aid of his colleague, Thomas A. Edison. Their aim is to prohibit the manufacture and sale of cigarettes. If this mania for prohibiting one thing and another continues it may get beyond the control of even the Fords and the Edisons. Some chap looking for something to reform, will perhaps discover the frightful things for which the automobile, for instance, is directly to blame. Attounded by his discoveries he will set about to organize an Anti-Automobile Association. Thousand will flock to his standard. Then they will elect a man to the legislature and that man will introduce a bill to prohibit the manufacture, sale and use of the automobile. He will have staggering arguments to back up his demand. He can present a petition signed by the pastors and members of certain religious bodies in Indiana, praying for the passage of the bill on the broad grounds of morality. This sect already has forbidden its members to buy or use automobiles. The legislator will make a thrilling speech, bristling with irrefutable statistics and interspersed with appealing and pathetic word pictures. He will point to the fact that 10 persons a day, over 3700 a year, including strong men, beautiful women and innocent little children, meet violent deaths on account of the Demon Automobile. He will depict, graphically, the mangled bodies, the desolate homes, the weeping orphans of the poor victims of this modern juggernaut. Turning to the divorce courts, he will prove by the official reports that the automobile joy-ride has clogged the hoppers with cases of wrecked domesticity. He will show how pure, innocent young girls are daily led to their ruin by the soulless scoundrels who run automobiles. He will point to the mortgages hanging over thousands of American homes, mortgages negotiated for the purpose of raising funds to buy and keep these inventions of Satan. He will show how the millions spent for automobiles could be used to build Panama Canals and pay national debts. He may point to the gasoline barons, the rubber magnates and the auto millionaires rolling in their ill-gotten wealth, while their poor victims are struggling through the divorce, probate, chancery and bankruptcy courts. He will call upon the manhood and womanhood of our fair land to rise in its might and crush this monster which, to-day, is sapping the very life blood of the nation. And perhaps he may be able to get away with it. Who knows? Stranger things are happening every day. It will make no difference if you are a well-to-do man and can afford an automobile; if you are a careful man and never had an accident or if you are a family man and would never think of taking a ride unless you took your wife and kiddies along. The case against the automobile has been proven. It is not for you to say that you can handle one without danger to yourself or others. That's what they ALL say. Down with it!

In Memoriam.

On Sunday morning, May 10th, 1915, Adline Sherrill, wife of Jesse Sherrill of near Hogan, Mo., bade farewell to millions spent for automobiles could be used to build Panama Canals and pay national debts. He may point to the gasoline barons, the rubber magnates and the auto millionaires rolling in their ill-gotten wealth, while their poor victims are struggling through the divorce, probate, chancery and away from her, and which sustained and comforted her through all the years of trial and suffering that were hers to bear. Her hope was ever staid on the Rock, Christ Jesus—a hope that is worth more than all the world and that will stand amid the wreck of matter and the crash of worlds, eternal as God himself. Not only will that hope stand by us and enable us to calmly rest in that awful time, but it will with us here to lift up when we are downcast, to cheer when we are sad, and to comfort us when sorrow comes like the flood tide.

If it were not for the assurance that there is a triumph over death and the grave, life indeed would be dark and dreary. No comfort could come to the sorrowing as they stood by the tomb of loved ones. To the sorrowing disciples Jesus said, "Let not your heart be troubled." And He says that to those who sorrow to-day.

The writer could not be with Aunt "Add" in her last illness which was a long one, and when the telegram came announcing her death the work was great to me, as she was the last aunt I had on earth and I loved her almost as I would a mother.

"Aunt Adline died this morning" Is all the short message said, But I fell on my heart like lead, The words were few and short, And to the operator they meant "Little, if they did not mean naught; To me they were with meaning fraught As to those by whom they were sent.

They meant that loving hearts were sad, That another home was broken And her last words on earth spoken As her form lay still and cold; All clothed in a mantle of white; That death had fastened itself there On that form once so plump and fair, But now wrapped in a cloud of night.

They meant that sin now has its reign And death is triumphant for a day, She had paid the debt all must pay, Her mortal frame to earth must go To await the dawn of eternity; But in heaven her soul can sing, "O Death, O Death, where is thy sting?" And "O Grave, where is thy victory?"

Death is the soul sear in Jesus Is the gateway to joys divine, Into God's eternal sunshine Of love and everlasting happiness, Above the mire, the dirt and dust. Beyond the clouds the sky is blue And there's no storm for me nor you, If in Jesus we place our trust.
