In referring to the death of Rev. V. O. Penley, of De Soto, at the most terrible wreck at Sulphur Springs, the De Soto Press says: "In the search the body of our estimable minister Rev. V. O. Penley was found, lying at the north west abutment of the bridge. He was easily recognized as his face was not severely maimed. Loving hands picked up the body and bore it to the depot and placed it in as good a place as could be found—an empty box. Truly "In the midst of life, we are in death". The body was placed in the Episcopal church here, where it lay in state until the funeral last Tuesday. There was great solicitude for the Penley family in their hour of deep distress and many people gathered to view the silent remains of their dearly beloved pastor and friend. He was a grand man and prepared to go, but everyone regretted his sudden taking away."

Major F. G. Delano, who is now stationed at Washington, D. C., writes the editor: "I am at present on duty in the office of the Chief Signal Officer. I transferred to the Signal Corps about a year and a half ago. Some time ago I sent you a copy of the Yale Alumna Record which contained a picture of the class with which I was taking a course in Communications Engineering at the Sheffield Scientific School, Yale University. The Signal Corps is, as you know, charged with the telephone, telegraph and radio communications of the army. Just at the present moment I am laid up in Walter Reed hospital with a sprained ankle. My family is at present in Missouri and will doubtless visit Ironton before returning here in the fall. I should like very much to have you see my boys who are now about the same size I was the night of the big fire which burned out so much of the block below the REGISTER building. It is now ten years since I was in the valley. I never expected to be away that long. I suppose there have been many changes, which must, however, be very few compared with those you have watched in that locality."

On Wednesday of last week your writer attended the funeral services of Mr. Rudolph Eichelberger, who was killed in the wreck at Sulphur Springs August 5th.
