WASHINGTONIAN'S BRAVE ACT.

Mr. Banner Saved a Man From Drowning in the Surt.

A heroic rescue was made at Atlantic City on Monday last by Mr. Banner, a clerk in the General Land Office. Mr. Banner was on the beach when a cry was raised that a man was drowning far out in the breakers. The surf was running unusually strong and the man's peril was great. Mr. Banner struck out, and, reaching the sinking man, held him above the water until the life guard's boat reached the spot.

The rescued man was unconscious, but physicians soon restored him. Mr. Banner was the hero of the day and received warm praise for his act.

Cut the Cable.

The Washington and Georgetown cable was cut at Seventh and Pennsylvania avenue last night, Gripman Andrew Kyle, of car No. 231, neglecting to throw off his grip as he approached the crossing. The road was tied up for two hours. Kyle was discharged, that being the unvarying penalty for cutting the cable.

NOW RESTS IN GOD'S ACRE

Remains of Miss Bursley Buried With Private Services.

Only the Family Witnessed the Interment of the Body in Congressional Cemetery.

The funeral of Miss Ruth Bursley, whose body was recovered yesterday, as reported in The Times, took place this morning at 11 o'clock.

It was first intended to have the body buried from St. Mark's Episcopal Church, and the funeral services held there, but the family decided to have the funeral a private one.

Accordingly it was arranged to have the funeral rites over the body of the unfortunate girl performed at the cemetery, and Undertaker Zurborst received instructions to that effect.

The body was taken to Mr. Zurborst's establishment yesterday afternoon immediately after its arrival in this city on the Blackburn, and remained there until 9 o'clock this morning, when it was removed to the Congressional Cemetery.

About 8 o'clock last night the father of the dead girl, Mr. R. W. Bursley, accompanied by Gen. Duncan S. Walker, a close and intimate friend of the family went to the undertaking establishment to take the last look at the remains of his daughter.

Mr. Bursley was much affected, and Gen. Walker quietly led him away from the coffin into another room.

The services at the cemetery this morning were conducted by Rev. Dr. Graham, and only the members of the family and a few intimate friends were present. There were no formal pall-bearers and everything was done to make the funeral as simple and quiet as possible.

A great many of Miss Bursley's friends and floral offerings, some of which were quite handsome. They were placed on the grave at the conclusion of the ceremonies, and thus the last scene in the sad drama, which has occupied the public mind for the past four days, was brought to a close.

In Their New Home.

Washington Lodge of Good Templars installed officers for the ensuing year at their new quarters, at Mt. Vernon Hall, corner of Seventh street and New York avenue, which were occupied for the first time Wednesday night. Mr. Carl W. F. Bergman, deputy grand chief Templar, announced the following officers: Robert H. Williamson, chief Templar; Miss May Houston, vice Templar; Mrs. F. E. Miller, secretary; George Wood, financial secretary; William Tucker, treasurer; Miss Ellen Densmore, chaplain; F. Nussbaum, marshal; Miss Etta Tucker, deputy marshal, and W. McDaniel, sentinel.

Port Royal Dry Dock.

A semi-official report regarding the test of the new Port Royal dry dock received at the Navy Department indicates that the contractors may be called on to strengthen the end containing the gate before the dock is finally accepted. The bottom of the dock is reported all right, but the gate ends may require bracing.

W. C. T. U. AT THE GROVE.
