The wedding of Miss Lillie Mae Schneider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schneider, to Mr. Barrett T. Trueworthy, Jr., which occurred at St. John's P. E. Church Georgetown, last evening, was a most beautiful affair.

As the first notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march sounded triumphantly the bridal party entered, the four sisters appearing first. These were Messrs. T. H. Trueworthy, brother of the bride, Mr. John Schneider, brother of the bride, Mr. Thomas Kovgla, and Mr. W. C. Miller. They wore conventional evening dress, with bouquets of white rose buds.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mamie Schneider and Miss Kate Vollmer, Miss Mattie Schneider and Miss Clara Baker came next. The first two wore dainty gowns of white silk and tulle and carried clusters of Mermat roses tied with white satin lute knots. The second two wore gowns of rose pink silk trimmed with white tulle and carried clusters of La France roses held together with love knots of pink satin ribbon.

The bride, who is a handsome blonde of slately carriage, was escorted by the groom. She wore a superb dress of white satin on train, with high bodice, ornamented with pearl and crystal passementerie. A very full veil was fastened to her coiffure, with a spray of orange blossoms and a large pearl and diamond pin, the gift of the groom.

The Rev. Dr. Beck, pastor of St. John's, officiated at the ceremony. The bride's brother of the groom, acted as best man. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Louis Schneider.

In the front pewers, reserved in the crowded church for the family, were Mrs. Schneider, mother of the bride, handsomely gowned in black silk and jet. Mrs. B. C. Trueworthy, Mr. and Mrs. Echlow, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Schneider, and other relatives and intimate friends, including Mr. Benjamin Acker.

A large reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, on the Tenleytown road. The house was brilliantly decorated with autumn flowers, and a delicious table was served, all drinking the health of the happy couple. The bride wore a going-away gown of tulle, with hat to match.

More than a hundred handsome gifts of silver, cut glass, etc., were displayed.

Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schneider, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Brown, Mrs. Harry James, Mr. Canfield, Miss Jennie Jolley, the Misses Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bosch, Dr. and Mrs. Walter, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hoffmann, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Herrmann, Mr. and Mrs. D. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. Homler, Miss Helen McKeever, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. James and others.

Miss Mary Virginia Swan and Mr. Harvey N. Dorsey, of New York, were married at 8 o'clock last evening at Gunton Memorial M. E. Church. Rev. Mr. Patch officiated, and Miss King was maid of honor.

The fair young bride, who was married by her father, Mr. William D. Swan, preceded by two little flower girls. She wore a graceful gown of white silk, with train, and her bouquet of roses was a going-away gown of tulle, with hat to match.

Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. Homler, Miss Helen McKeever, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. James and others.

The reception tendered Gen. James Longstreet, the only surviving ex-lieutenant-general of the Southern Army, last evening by the Confederate Veterans' Association and the Ladies' Southern Relief Association. His brilliant gathering of 6000 that makes its home in the District of Columbia and many distinguished Southern guests from other cities, July 500 persons greeted the general, who was escorted to the hall, answered their ardent hand grasp with the pressure of appreciative friendship.

Orme Hall, corner E and Eleventh streets, which was testified by the owner for the affair, was brilliantly illuminated and everywhere flags and draperies of bunting hung from the roof.

The program was assisted in receiving by Dr. J. A. Maloney, president of the Confederate Veterans' Association, and the following ladies of the Relief Association: Misses Wright, Mrs. Cullahan, Mrs. Hickey, Mrs. Riley, Mrs. Howard, Mrs. H. Clay Smith and Mrs. Archibald Young.

The reception committee was composed of Dr. Whit. Hammett, John R. Cooper, Thomas A. Howard, Capt. W. O. Lowry, R. W. Hunter, Leigh Robinson, Major Holmes Conrad and John T. Colquhoun.

Short speeches congratulating General Longstreet on his distinguished services, and demonstrating the high estimate placed on his heroic record throughout the South were made by Gen. Harry Beth and Capt. Akers.

After 10 o'clock, dancing was enjoyed by the young people of the hall.

Among those who took part in the reception were: Gen. Horatio King, Dr. Cockrell and wife, Maj. Akers and wife, Dr. Taylor, Dr. Duff, G. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Thompson, Capt. Boyd Smith, Mrs. Berry, Miss Lillian Pike, Mrs. Nathan Munro, Mrs. Alex. Spear, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. Dr. R. J. A. Knott, Mrs. Harris, Col. and Mrs. Coston, Mrs. W. B. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Drew, Mr. and Mrs. H. Saunders, the Misses Norris, Miss Dottie Young, Mr. Robert Lee Longstreet, Maj. and Mrs. Blackburn, Mrs. Lowry, Miss Bain, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. C. Bayly, Findlay.

Gen. Longstreet left as soon as the music began, as his health is by no means strong at present. The evening was a thorough success, in attendance and sentiment.

Miss Nettie G. Schaff, daughter of Mrs. Martha Schaff, formerly of Alexandria, and Mr. Harry C. Feby, of Falls Church, Va., were married yesterday afternoon at St. John's P. E. Church, Georgetown.

The ceremony, which occurred at 5:30 o'clock, was officiated by Rev. Dr. Beck, pastor of the church. The bride, who is a handsome blonde of slately carriage, was escorted by the groom. She wore a superb dress of white satin on train, with high bodice, ornamented with pearl and crystal passementerie. A very full veil was fastened to her coiffure, with a spray of orange blossoms and a large pearl and diamond pin, the gift of the groom.

BELASCO'S NEW TRIUMPH

"Heart of Maryland" Given Its First Production at the Grand.

Thrilling War Story, Cleverly Written and Acted, Indorsed by a Large and Critical Audience.

David Belasco's new dramatic play, "The Heart of Maryland," was given its first production at Allen Grand Opera House last night, and critical Washington has put upon it the stamp of its approval.

Not since Howard's "Shenandoah" has any play created greater enthusiasm, and it is perhaps the best production built upon the civil war yet put on the stage.

The concrete development of the story is in the hands of Mrs. Leslie Carter as Maryland Calvert, a type of Southern womanhood, and Mr. Maurice Barrymore as the ideal Union soldier. The story follows that binds these two hearts together, notwithstanding the sectional differences which tend to separate them.

This is perhaps the best piece of stage realism that has ever been enacted, and it produced a marked sensation. The setting given the play is superb, the stage picture of the old church in the third act being especially effective. Its story more has perhaps the best part in which he has yet appeared, and makes the best of his opportunities.

Mr. Belasco is to be congratulated upon this his latest and perhaps greatest achievement in dramatic production.
