WEDDED AT ANCIENT ROME

Miss Horwitz Becomes the Bride of Count Andreozzi.

Departures for the Seaside and Mountain Resorts—Gossip of the Gay World.

A letter from Rome, describing the wedding in that city in July of Miss Alice Horwitz, daughter of Mrs. Orville Horwitz, formerly of Baltimore, to Count Pietro Andreozzi, states that the marriage was one of the most remarkable that has taken place in Rome for a long time. It says:

"Count Pietro is a young Italian diplomat, whose future is full of brilliant promise. He is intimately connected with the highest powers of both state and church in Italy today, for he is first secretary in the ministry of foreign affairs under his excellency, the Duke Caetani di Scarmonea. He is the son of a member of that most exclusive and aristocratic set of Vatican aristocrats, the Guardia Nobile.

"It is the very first time that permission has been granted by the Vatican itself for the union of a Protestant, even so remote, much less a son of a member of the Guardia Nobile.

"The bride, who was radiant in her magnificent gown and jewels, came in leaning on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Haller Grossa. She was followed by her mother with Count Andreozzi, Mr. Ponsobly with the Countess Andreozzi, and Miss Rose with Don Luigi Del Brago. While the bridal couple were taking their places at the altar the Inno di Nozze was sung by Signor Franceschetto. The ceremony was very solemnly performed by Padre Curato di St. Andrea delle Frate.

"The wedding gown was of rich ivory-white satin, fringed with exquisite point d'Angleterre. The bride's retouched quite to the hem of her long court train and was fastened by a diamond tiara, whose fine stones gleamed like great drops of dew among beautiful orange blossom sprays.

"About her neck she wore a single string of superb solitary diamonds—her mother's gift—and at her breast she wore a magnificent spray of foliage spray in diamonds, a gift from the parents of the groom. The graceful shower bouquet she carried was of her favorite gardenias and white jessamines."

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lawson, of South Washington, who are spending the summer in the Blue Mountains with their family, celebrated their silver wedding on Tuesday last by amelon party on the lawn of the Eagle Hotel.

Dancing and card playing were the attractions of the evening, and as no presents were mentioned, the guests brought flowers, that combined in one magnificent bouquet, made a beautiful floral gift, which was presented to the host and hostess by Mr. William Jennifer with an appropriate speech.

Among those present from Washington were Mr. and Mrs. L. Wilson, Mrs. Elise Barber, Miss Kathie Hutchins, and Mr. and Mrs. B. Hill.

FAIRY-LIKE FLOWERS.

Half a Dozen Night-Blooming Cereus Owned by Mrs. T. M. Sullivan.

Mrs. T. M. Sullivan, of No. 37 C street northeast, has had success in growing the night-blooming cereus that is very unusual. The plant blooms, as in many places, only after dark. Very few persons have ever seen more than half a dozen in all their lives. Mrs. Sullivan, who is the wife of the mounted policeman, had a dozen in blossom at once at her home last night. She has four or five plants all grown from one original, which was given her by a friend several years ago. They are kept in an open conservatory in the rear of her residence during the summer, and receive constant and expert attention. The oldest of the plants has blossomed twice this year, and on the first occasion produced thirty fine blooms.

The beauty of this flower is famous all over the world. There is no more perfect white than the throat of its corolla and the delicate tracery of its stamens and pistil is one of the finest examples of the perfection of the human art. The most perfect tracing of the human art, such as seen on paper money of high denomination, is coarse and hanging beside the color, by infinite gradations, shades off from pure white to a reddish purple on the outer petals.

Mrs. Sullivan's flowers are enjoyed every evening by a number of neighbors and friends, who are invited to see them as they open and stand in the fairy-like revelation of their beauty.

Forteen Hundred Men Thrown Out. Waterbury, Conn., Aug. 4.—The Good-year India Rubber Glove Manufacturing Company and the Goodyear Metallic Rubber Shoe Company, both of Naugatuck, which collectively have a capacity for the employment of fourteen hundred operatives, have closed down for an indefinite time as the result of dull business. Their shutdown has caused much depression in business in Naugatuck.

Shot His Wife and Himself. New York, Aug. 4.—Shortly after 7 o'clock this morning Frank Lento, a blacksmith, thirty-five years old, of No. 65 Sullivan street, shot his wife, Frlona, twenty-five years old, in the right side, back of the head and in the face. She was dangerously injured. Frank then committed suicide by shooting himself in the right side of the head. The woman was removed to St. Vincent's Hospital.

KATE FIELD LEFT PROPERTY SHE OWNED Real Estate Here and at Other Places. SHE ALSO MADE A WILL. It Is Supposed to Be Among the Effects Now on Their Way From Honolulu—Her Wish to Be Buried Beside John Brown's Body—Her Only Relatives.

WHAT HER FRIENDS WANT.

Many of her friends are anxious that this simple request should be complied with. Miss Lillian Whiting, a New York author and one of Miss Field's dearest and firmest friends, has written to Consul Chandler asking that Miss Field's body be sent to her mother, but as yet nothing definite has been heard, and a letter recently received from Honolulu states that final disposition has not yet been made of the body.

When Kate Field entered into a contract with Mr. H. H. Kohlsaat, of the Chicago Times-Herald, to write a history of her life, it is known that she drew up her will, disposing of her property. This fact, which was not generally known, has recently been brought out by the statement of Mr. Chandler, recently a lawyer of this city, but now a resident of San Francisco.

Mr. Chandler, who is an officer in the Corcoran building adjoining that in which Miss Field wrote Kate Field's Washington, and was her friendly adviser. Who drew the testament is not known, but Mr. Chandler was one of the witnesses to the document. Mr. Chandler has been corresponded with, but he knows anything further regarding the will has failed to reveal it.

Her personal effects, which consisted of the elegant furnishings of her apartments in the Shoreham and her office furniture and equipments Miss Field left in charge of Miss Ada Cowell, who is her secretary and associated with her in the publication of her paper.

Miss Cowell still has possession of these goods, which have been stored away, but among them the will has not been found. It is supposed that Miss Field must have found it with her, and it will doubtless be found when she returns to New York. These are thought to be on route now to America and will be sent to Mr. Kohlsaat at Chicago. Who the beneficiaries of the will are no one has ventured to imagine.

SHE HAD PROPERTY. Miss Field was possessed of considerable property, though no one seems to know how much. It is probable that her bank account was not at any time very large, most of her property being in real estate. She had holdings in this city and a considerable amount in Newport, R. I. Beside these she owned property scattered abroad in other places.

It has been generally believed that Miss Field's sole surviving relative was George Kiddle, the electrician of the Boston Conservatory of Music, though it has recently developed that Miss Whiting or Miss Cowell may be named as co-heirs in the document. Speculation is that probably the bulk of her property may be donated to some charitable or benevolent institution in which the deceased writer was interested, and her private possessions, such as diamonds, jewelry and mementoes, given to her many friends.

DEATHBED REQUEST. It is said that her deathbed requests consisted of letters to be written to her associates in the States, notifying them of her demise, and that she requested that she be buried in the cemetery of the island, and expressed her most ardent desire to bear the casket of the cable from San Francisco to the Paradise of the Pacific before her return.

She was deeply interested in the project, and determined to remain there if her presence would lend any influence toward the establishment of the marine telegraph.

Miss Cowell scolded the statement that Kate Field leaving unpaid debts in Honolulu. She held a remunerative contract with the Times-Herald, and even if that did not pay her her wants, she could have been readily supplied with her needs in the States. It was her intention to expire the two years' agreement with Mr. Kohlsaat, if her health had permitted, to return to Washington, revive her journal, and continue its publication.

MYSTERY OF A GOLD WATCH

Valuable Ticker Found by Two Colored Women. Detectives Believe That Its Owner Was Either Murdered or Committed Suicide—Will Investigate.

A gentleman's hunting-gold watch was turned over to the detectives at police headquarters this morning by two colored women, who claimed they found it in Lover's Lane, Georgetown. The names of the women are Annie Robinson and Hester Carter, both of No. 339 1-2 Knox's alley. The watch is a small one, heavily filled with the bracelet lying in the grass at the side of the path. It is a watch of the watch or charm.

The detectives are mystified over the fact and while they are inclined to the belief that the watch was merely lost, they do not deny the possibility of either foul play or a suicide.

Lover's Lane is a winding, shady avenue, little wider than a single wagon path, leading north from Massachusetts avenue to U street, near Oak Hill Cemetery. Rock Creek flows beyond the chain and the women are Annie Robinson and Hester Carter, both of No. 339 1-2 Knox's alley.

The theory of foul play is not credited as strongly as that of suicide, though just why a man should throw his watch away and then walk a considerable distance to his death, is not easily seen.

Still another theory is that some light-fingered gent took possession of the watch and then threw it away for fear of detection. An investigation will be made.

ANDREWS' TALE OF WOE. Physicians Do Not Take Stock in It. Suffers From Malaria. Herbert Andrews, twenty-six years old, was found lying by the roadside near Brookland yesterday afternoon by Policeman Crawford, of the mounted squad.

Andrews told the policeman he was ill and had been without food for three days. He was weak and unable to walk. The patrol wagon took him to No. 9 station, and from there he was removed to Freedman's Hospital, where he was given medical attention.

The physicians found that the man was suffering from an attack of malaria. He appeared, he is an ordinary tramp. He said his home was in West Virginia, and that he lived at No. 112 H street northeast, and had gone to Brookland in search of work. At the number given is a one-story building, which is a very old one, and had been heard of Andrews. The physicians do not place much confidence in Andrews' tale, and believe that he is merely afflicted with malaria, and will recover in a few days.

Institute of Indian School Teachers. San Francisco, Aug. 4.—The third annual institute of teachers of the United States Indian schools and the first session of the institute in San Francisco, opened last night. In an addition to an equity of $1,000 in the deceased's Buena Park home, there is $3,503 in royalties from Charles Scribner's Sons due the estate, $6,503 worth of books and furniture and $100 in cash. FLED FOR THEIR LIVES. Villagers Had to Get Out of the Way of Forest Fire. Saint Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 4.—Much damage is being done by forest fires in this vicinity. Yesterday afternoon Gladys, a six-month-old child, was taken to the hospital, and its parents had to flee for their lives. Gladys was threatened with destruction also, and may have been wiped out by this time. Scores of farmers have lost their homes and have barely escaped with their lives. The regular South Shore passenger train was compelled to return, owing to the smoke from the forest fires. Several of the passengers fainting before the train got out of the fire belt. No rain has fallen for weeks, and everything on the ground is as dry as tinder. Unless it rains soon there will be a vast amount of timber destroyed and great damage done.
