BISHOP KEANE'S REMOVAL

Was Cardinal Satolli Responsible for the Step? AN UNPOPULAR PAPAL ACT

Three Wills Said to Have Been Changed in Washington Alone Since Dr. Keane Left, and the Catholic University Is a Loser by Several Thousand Dollars—The Jesuit Position.

The deposition and departure for California of John Joseph Keane, late rector of the Catholic University, the arrival of Mr. Martinelli and departure of Cardinal Satolli from the office of papal delegate to the United States, the assertion that Satolli is responsible for Keane's removal with the counter statement that the Jesuits with Archbishop Corrigan are at the bottom of it, together with the meeting last night in honor of Father Keane, furnish "food for thought" and conversation both inside and outside Catholic circles and an unusual diversion from political discussion.

The central event of this series, however, the how-to-liberal Catholics may prove the new without effect in the great political contest now in progress. It revolves to some extent around the American Protective Association which is being used in every direction for the party that will do most for that organization.

But above and below, and far beyond any occasional partisan fight in politics, this change, it is thought, will open up a new chapter in the history of the entire Catholic church, the most powerful single organization in the Christianized world for more than a billion Catholics.

SEVERAL GREAT QUESTIONS. Incidentally, the Catholic Total Abstinence Society and its fight against the saloons, the American school question, and the personal rivalry of Archbishop Corrigan, Metropolitan of New York, and Archbishop Ireland, the American Catholic League, the center of the Northwest, enter into the play of opposing forces.

It is asserted that Cardinal Satolli is responsible for the removal of Bishop Keane. He is denied. His point of view is that Cardinal Keane, who left for California last summer, had a long conversation with the Cardinal, and he could have got it only from his personal representative, Cardinal Satolli, and the removal of Bishop Keane is the result.

Against this is put a story that the Jesuits are responsible, and are shrewdly throwing the blame on the retiring ablegate. He is alleged to have been so friendly with Satolli after his successor's arrival from a month to fifteen days, and finally to have gone the fourth day, because of the odium attached to the removal of the beloved rector and the injury to the university.

At about this, spoken of as a dust cloud thrown up by the Jesuits, it is pointed out that Cardinal Satolli came here with Mr. O'Connell, till late president of the American College at Rome, lived at the university for a time by O'Connell's advice, was personally unfriendly to Archbishop Ireland, and was obliged to center and co-operate with him in many church matters; that Mr. O'Connell's loss of influence at Rome and deposition was followed by Cardinal Satolli's recall and Bishop Keane's removal, while Mr. Martinelli, as the new ablegate, goes out of the way to praise Archbishop Corrigan, and meets Cardinal Gibbons, a friend of the university, and Vice Rector Garrigan, with the university faculty, only with formal courtesy.

JESUITS OPPOSED IT. In addition, it is argued, the Jesuits, from the first inception of the Catholic University, have opposed the university, because they would be displaced at Washington, and their most famous college was the leading institution, they became furious. No stone was left unturned to defeat the project. When a great gift of money assured its success, they nevertheless continued a bitter opposition, and it is interesting when the university began work, drawing to some extent from their support.

At every point they met the university influence with determined opposition. Was the university liberal and in favor of Archbishop Ireland's scheme for getting the use of the children of public school funds collected from Catholic parents? The society of Jesus added its strength to Archbishop Corrigan in opposition.

Was the university narrow in supporting the Abstinence Society against saloon influence? The Jesuit Fathers would not allow it to be a purely Catholic organization. If the university, in the hands of the Irish and French priests, caused antagonism among the Germans, discord had fomented in the Jesuit ranks.

This is the gossip of those who say Cardinal Satolli is not to blame. On the other hand, it is asserted that the Jesuits of the Society of Jesus for New England and the Atlantic States, was at the reception to Cardinal Satolli on last Sunday night, and spoke as the recognized head of the order.

SUPPORTED THE JESUITS. Words used by him then meant clearly that Cardinal Satolli supported the Jesuit position in regard to public schools. This is briefly stated to be that absolute ignorance for Catholic children is preferable to education without complete control by Catholics of every detail of the instruction given.

It was furthermore pointed out that Cardinal Satolli was a theologian of the turn of the century, and that the Jesuits, who carried logic to an exceedingly fine point, and was prone to disregard human sympathies and needs when conclusions forced themselves upon him as the truth of philosophy.

He was inclined to look down upon Bishop Keane as unlearned, because not a master of the sciences, and merely a popular purveyor of necessary money.

The injury to the university by the removal of the rector is conceded by all. Whether it will be as serious as feared by Archbishop Ireland is questioned. It is said that three will have been changed in Washington alone since Dr. Keane left, and the loss to the university by one alteration was $50,000, by another $100,000, and by the third $150,000.

There is a suggestion also that influences are at work in Europe, and especially in Italy, against the success of an American university in the United States. The American should still come to Rome for its high education. In this connection it is pointed out that the Catholic University of Ireland, even with the great John Henry Newman at its head, for seven years, was finally overthrown and made a failure.

As to the election of a new rector for the Catholic University, it is thought that the university, for a leading Catholic journal at St. Louis, says the pope would not stir himself by reappointing Bishop Keane. Mr. E. B. Hay, in a letter to the Roman Post, the only English Catholic paper at Rome, says Bishop Keane's re-election is essential to the success of the university. He regards it as certain he will be chosen again.

MCKINLEY TRICK IN IDAHO

Attempt to Disfranchise Many of the Democrats. COMPLICATION OF TICKETS

Sound Money Republicans Took Advantage of the Aversion of Democrats for Silver Republicans—Resolved to Appeal to Federal Courts to Settle a Dispute Regarding Tickets.

Political advice of a private nature from Idaho confirm the Democrats in the belief that the Republicans will continue the fight for the disfranchisement of their opponents in Idaho. It is described as a McKinley maneuver of the worst and most unprincipled sort. It is not feared, however, that the scheme will be successfully carried out.

There was excitement at Boise a week ago. The first steps were made by the McKinley managers. The rumor got abroad that arrangements had been made by the Democrats to take the question of the legality of the filing of the electors on the Democratic ticket into the Federal courts.

This ticket, as it happens, under the admirable plan of fusion which exists in Idaho, is identical with the one nominated by the silver Republicans, and this ticket is made up equally of silver Republicans and Democrats. It was filed by petition of Democrats who did not like the word "Republican" and was designed to take the place of the regular Democratic ticket on the official ballot left vacant by the Demo-Populist fusion.

TWO BALLOTS ALIKE. This aversion of the Democrats to consort with their newly made friends began the day after the election. The McKinley ticket and the Democratic ticket will appear side by side on the official ballot with exactly the same candidates on each. The McKinley managers were struck with consternation when they discovered this move of the Democrats to have a ticket of their own. It was quite apparent it would get many votes that might otherwise go to the Demo-Populist fusion ticket.

The McKinley leaders immediately began an advertisement on the streets of Idaho, is identical with the one nominated by the silver Republicans, and this ticket is made up equally of silver Republicans and Democrats. It was filed by petition of Democrats who did not like the word "Republican" and was designed to take the place of the regular Democratic ticket on the official ballot left vacant by the Demo-Populist fusion.

A KIND SUGGESTION. "Here in Idaho our district and supreme courts can be safely appealed to for the first and final decision on this matter, and we suggest to our gold standard friends the advisability of letting our own courts settle questions of this kind."

It is now claimed by the Democrats that Judge Peaty will not change an evident opinion held by him in the case, the attempt being to interfere with an unwarranted interference with a question over which the State courts have complete jurisdiction. Leading Democrats of Idaho are showing the most heated indignation at the attempt of the gold standard men to disfranchise them, and it is claimed that the Republicans will encounter a reactionary effect which will not be pleasant.

The recent fusion between the silver Republicans and the Democrats is claimed to have produced the greatest revolution in the political situation in Idaho.

A poll, recently completed, of Union precinct in Boise county, shows some astonishing figures. Out of a total of 122 voters, silver Republicans have 35, Populists, 45, McKinley, 22, and Democrats, 50. Of the 50 Democrats, 38 signify their intention to vote for the silver Republican ticket. The combined strength of the silver forces in that precinct is 73. This result is regarded as interesting from the fact that it fairly reflects the sentiment of the people in that part of the State.

A poll of the entire county is now being made, and as few voters are on the fence, the result of the election in November is accurately foretold, the silverists say.

ATTACKED BY RIFLE PIKERS. Spanish Vessel in a Fight With the Torpedos Outlaws. Madrid, Oct. 9.—News has been received by the government that the Riff pirates are again committing depredations on the coast, having become bolder than ever. A strong band of Rifians boarded the French ship Corinte off Algiers, and after pinning the crew plundered the ship's cargo.

The Spanish steamer Sevilla, conveying Cuban exiles to Ceuta, appeared upon the scene and fired upon the pirates. The fire was returned, and a fight ensued which lasted some time. Four men on board the Sevilla were killed, including a Cuban prisoner named Oscar. The pirates finally retreated, but carried with them the captain of the Corinte. A Spanish warship has gone in search of the pirates.

Premier Canovas del Castillo, through Senor de Ascaranza, minister of war, has ordered the Spanish diplomatic agent at Tangier to make an energetic protest to the government of Morocco against the depredations of the Rifians, and the government has hopes that France will join Spain in administering to the Riff outlaws such punishment as will put a stop to their acts of piracy in the future.

BATHED IN A MOLTEN SHOWER. Workmen Terribly Burned by Bursting Cupola. Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 9.—One of the big cupolas in the iron foundry attached to the Singer Sewing Machine Works, Elizabeth, was about to quit work. Three of the workmen, standing close to the cupola, and the molten iron flew out in a shower over their bodies.

James McCarthy, twenty-seven years old, was nearest the danger, and was rightfully burned about the legs, arms, head and body, and besides received a bad scalp wound from a piece of the cupola striking him on the head. He will die from his injuries.

Another man named Sullivan was severely burned about the head and neck. He was taken home. The third man was only slightly burned about the face and hands. Had the mishap occurred a few minutes sooner, when a crowd of molten iron was around the cupola, the fatalities would have been many.

Theater Company Chased by a Mob. New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 9.—The Trocadero Theater Company, which appeared in Allen's Theater the other night, met with a real calamity about 8 o'clock on Wednesday night, at the corner of Twenty-sixth and Eighth avenues. I will meet you in a duel. Have your seconds on hand. Weapons will be any sharp instrument. ALFRED COLIN.

"263 West Thirty-second street." The news that this challenge had been sent caused a real commotion about Blocker street, and when the principals met the woman screamed loudly. The police arrived, the duel was over, and four Frenchmen were today fined by a police magistrate. The question in dispute is still unsettled.
