

THE WASHINGTON TIMES

OWNED AND ISSUED BY THE WASHINGTON TIMES COMPANY JAMES BUILDING...

BY MAIL, POSTAGE PREPAID. Morning, Evening and Sunday...50c

WASHINGTON, D. C., NOVEMBER 4, 1896.

TRADE MARK COUNCIL. The Times has a regular and permanent family circulation much greater than any other paper...

BONA FIDE CIRCULATION.

Table showing circulation statistics for the week ended October 30, 1896, including Saturday, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

WILLIAM T. OLIVER, Superintendent of Circulation. Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 31st day of October, A. D. 1896.

TREES FOR THE STREETS

Major Powell Talks With Mr. Lanham. A Bushel and a Half of Red Oak Acorns Ready to Plant to Start Slips - Tried on Twelfth Street.

The question of what trees shall be planted on the streets and in the parks to replace those blown down in the storm of September 29, is receiving some consideration...

ALWAYS AT THE FRONT. Never in the history of Washington newspapers has the story of a Presidential election been told so promptly and as fully as it was brought before the people last night by the superb service of The Times.

Business Men's Thinkings. Editor Times: Permit me to thank you on behalf of the business men of Washington and Maryland for the able and effective editorials contained in your paper for the last several months in advocacy of sound money...

Incongruous Labels. There have been many amusing incidents growing out of the attempted use of a language by one who does not really know it...

AN AMBIGUOUS ANSWER. Friend: What are you selling now? Agent: Rubbenlight metal polish. Friend: Is it a good thing? Agent: Well, I've scoured the whole country with it.

A CORRECTION. "This," said the professor of anatomy, as he exhibited a humane jawbone, "is the inferior maxillary."

Struck a Snag. "Hello," said the smoking car as the damaged trolley rolled into the depot. "What struck you?"

Struck a Snag. "Hello," said the smoking car as the damaged trolley rolled into the depot. "What struck you?"

SOUND MONEY has won a sweeping victory and now let us drop financial discussion and settle down to business.

GET READY FOR BUSINESS. There will be an immediate revival of trade. Money will flow from his hiding places and everybody but long-haired naysayers will be helping to create a boom.

Those apprehensive of the future, or who fear disaster from the domination of corporate influence, should bear in mind that Mr. McKinley is no longer a candidate, and that when once installed as Chief Executive the responsibilities of that high office and the feeling that the future of the Republican party is in his keeping, will shield him from the importunities of trusts and syndicates.

We shall have no more serious silver agitation. That question has been definitely decided. Both branches of the next Congress will be for sound money, and that body will immediately provide new revenues to stop the Treasury deficits.

The bond-sales divergence also makes an early session of Congress necessary. It was a lack of revenues that paved the way for bond sales. Public credit was injured by the rapidly growing Treasury deficit, and the attempt to finance it by borrowing in a withdrawal of Treasury gold.

A general resumption of business will soon ally the partisan feeling aroused by the campaign just closed. Nothing restores good humor so effectively as prosperity. None but chronic knackers will allow prejudice to cloud their business prospects, and the man who talks free silver six months hence will be looked upon as an enemy to public weal.

Once again The Times has given the people of the District of Columbia convincing evidence that when important news is to be rapidly and completely communicated it is both will and able to do so.

The Times wishes to acknowledge the excellent service of the long distance telephone. In many instances it was a "long distance" ahead of its telegraphic rival, particularly from central points. It promises to be a formidable competitor in future election returns contests for speed supremacy.

NOT ENTIRELY. "Is your son who was at college back?" "No, he is halfback."

WAR OF WORDS. She: Do you think smokeless powder will ever be used in war? He: Yes, when I accused Miss Rebecky of using it the other evening, we immediately went to war.

TO HIS INTEREST. Spools: I did. Didn't I promise to open the mills if he was elected?

AN AMBIGUOUS ANSWER. Friend: What are you selling now? Agent: Rubbenlight metal polish. Friend: Is it a good thing? Agent: Well, I've scoured the whole country with it.

A CORRECTION. "This," said the professor of anatomy, as he exhibited a humane jawbone, "is the inferior maxillary."

Struck a Snag. "Hello," said the smoking car as the damaged trolley rolled into the depot. "What struck you?"

Struck a Snag. "Hello," said the smoking car as the damaged trolley rolled into the depot. "What struck you?"

Struck a Snag. "Hello," said the smoking car as the damaged trolley rolled into the depot. "What struck you?"

Struck a Snag. "Hello," said the smoking car as the damaged trolley rolled into the depot. "What struck you?"

Struck a Snag. "Hello," said the smoking car as the damaged trolley rolled into the depot. "What struck you?"

Struck a Snag. "Hello," said the smoking car as the damaged trolley rolled into the depot. "What struck you?"

City Brevities Wire Briefs.

Mr. Philip Knatz, Jr., of Baltimore, has moved to Washington. The exterior of Willard's Hotel is receiving a fresh coat of paint.

F. C. Getzenbacher, of this city, is visiting friends in Washington. The Single Tax Club will be holding its meeting in Typographical Temple, Vice President Siddons will preside.

Edward Lemon, of Tenth street northwest, had his foot crushed in the crowd last night. His fall is not serious.

A fair for the benefit of St. Teresa's Catholic Church, in Anacostia, will be held during the coming week. Lieut. Heffner of the Ninth precinct reports a leak in the water main in front of No. 911 First street northeast.

Next Sunday is "Luther Day" and it will be celebrated by memorial sermons and other exercises in the Lutheran churches here. Resident Physician West, of the Emergency Hospital, was off on a flying visit to New York yesterday. He is expected back this evening.

S. D. Tritt filed a motion today in the criminal court for a new trial in the case of Matthew Merrigan, the "knock-out" west. By falling down the marble steps on the West Capitol approach last night, Samuel D. Berlin, a carpenter, severely injured his right knee.

Alexander Baltimore, an elder and evangelist, will speak at the corner of Twenty and F streets here next week. He will hold services in the Lutheran church here. John Hanson, a colored leader, living at Maryland, had his foot stepped on and badly crushed this morning by a horse which he was harnessing.

The first fires in the vicinity of Overlook Inn continued to burn last night. The flames have not yet reached the woods, and Overlook Inn narrowly escaped. The Unity Literary Club, incorporated, will meet tonight with Miss Bennett, at No. 218 A street southeast. For limits see the reading essay, on "A Study of the Ear."

Augusta Rossa, a swarthy son of Italy, assaulted Pasquale Testa, a fellow countryman, in a saloon at the corner of F and G streets last night. The assault was reported to Police Officer Johnson.

Charles Cox, colored, forty-two years of age, was taken suddenly and seriously ill while on duty at the corner of F and G streets northwest. He was removed to the Emergency Hospital.

James Cook, colored, twenty-eight years of age, struck by an auto, this morning in Wisconsin Rodgers street, near F street, and sustained a severe cut on his head.

Charles G. Grimes, who lives in Brookville, Md., got into a difficulty last night in a house of ill-repute here, and had his nose broken. He didn't know who had hit him when he was brought to the Emergency Hospital.

A horse attached to a light dray wagon driven by Matthew Jones, of Oxon Hill, ran away in Anacostia yesterday, and colliding with a trolley, damaged the wagon. Jones was thrown out and his horse broken.

Mr. Thomas E. Waggaman has been informed by the Commissioners that the present condition of the funds available for street lighting was looked upon as a serious matter. The Commissioners have refused permission to the United States Electric Lighting Company to erect a new system of street lighting for the widening of F street north of the intersection of F and G streets.

Market Master J. E. Burns, of the Western Market, reports that Henry York, a stall-holder, refused to pay his rent, and yesterday he was supplied with an opinion of the attorney for the district for his information and guidance.

Judge Miller this morning sentenced Minnie Frost to pay a fine of $10, and ordered her to return the $20 she took from pocketing the fine. She was drunk. Upon failure to make good the amount she will languish sixty days in jail.

Some of the Washingtonians who voted in Virginia yesterday were: J. W. Evered, C. E. McDonald, J. Will DeGange, J. T. Penderick, Frank Will, Fred Hayes, John Robinson, James Albright, all of whom deposited their ballots at Martinsburg.

An unknown white man, who had been up town last night celebrating the election, fell into the water in the creek near the bridge at the corner of F and G streets. He was rescued by William Stryker and another man, and in a capricious condition from his mud bath.

Press Almost Unanimous Money Victory.

Alfred Henry Mason, secretary of the New York College of Pharmacy, is dead in New York. Judge Bekman decided that a verbal disposition by a person of his body after his death is valid.

William Stewart, a Frederick, Md., hotel keeper, took poison while under arrest for assault and battery. The greater part of the town of Provocon, in the Azores, is reported to have been destroyed by a waterspout, with great loss of life.

Count Francisco de Gissack, aged sixty-seven years, flew out his brains in St. Petersburg, yesterday, on account of financial troubles. Miss Elizabeth O. Brown, of Heidelberg, Barks county, Pa., has entered suit for breach of promise of marriage against Henry O'Donnell.

Li Hung Chang has been deprived of a year's salary from his office for entering the summer palace while visiting the dowager empress. An unsuccessful attempt was made in Petersburg, Va., Monday night to assassinate Mr. J. B. Evans, chairman of the Democratic central committee of that city.

Madame Disraeli says that a number of corpses are to be washed up by the sea along the coast of Florida, and it is feared that there has been a great marine disaster. Harry Leach, an ex-newspaper reporter, was arrested in Chicago on Monday night, for forgery and securing railroad passes from the national Republican headquarters under false pretenses.

As a result of a political dispute at Keokuk, Va., James Snodgrass and James Shaffer fought. Shaffer was wounded in the forehead. When the latter stabbed Shaffer in the neck with a knife, killing him. President Elmer H. Capen, of Tufts College, who has filed a voluntary indication of insolvency, filed a schedule of his assets and liabilities in Boston on Tuesday. His net worth is given as $65,531, and has absolute no assets.

Thieves broke into the store of Jones & Robinson, at Kansas City, Mo., and robbed the store of all the jewelry, the loss of which amounts to $350. A lot of shoes and things was also taken. The cash-drawer was broken open and a small sum of money was taken.

James Riley was arrested at Delaware City, Del., charged with attempting to defraud a bank. He was refused to give his money which he had to buy whisky he obtained a revolver and fired three shots at her, one of which struck her in the chest. He was taken to the hospital and died.

Charles G. Grimes, who lives in Brookville, Md., got into a difficulty last night in a house of ill-repute here, and had his nose broken. He didn't know who had hit him when he was brought to the Emergency Hospital.

A horse attached to a light dray wagon driven by Matthew Jones, of Oxon Hill, ran away in Anacostia yesterday, and colliding with a trolley, damaged the wagon. Jones was thrown out and his horse broken.

Mr. Thomas E. Waggaman has been informed by the Commissioners that the present condition of the funds available for street lighting was looked upon as a serious matter. The Commissioners have refused permission to the United States Electric Lighting Company to erect a new system of street lighting for the widening of F street north of the intersection of F and G streets.

Market Master J. E. Burns, of the Western Market, reports that Henry York, a stall-holder, refused to pay his rent, and yesterday he was supplied with an opinion of the attorney for the district for his information and guidance.

Judge Miller this morning sentenced Minnie Frost to pay a fine of $10, and ordered her to return the $20 she took from pocketing the fine. She was drunk. Upon failure to make good the amount she will languish sixty days in jail.

Some of the Washingtonians who voted in Virginia yesterday were: J. W. Evered, C. E. McDonald, J. Will DeGange, J. T. Penderick, Frank Will, Fred Hayes, John Robinson, James Albright, all of whom deposited their ballots at Martinsburg.

An unknown white man, who had been up town last night celebrating the election, fell into the water in the creek near the bridge at the corner of F and G streets. He was rescued by William Stryker and another man, and in a capricious condition from his mud bath.

Charles G. Grimes, who lives in Brookville, Md., got into a difficulty last night in a house of ill-repute here, and had his nose broken. He didn't know who had hit him when he was brought to the Emergency Hospital.

A horse attached to a light dray wagon driven by Matthew Jones, of Oxon Hill, ran away in Anacostia yesterday, and colliding with a trolley, damaged the wagon. Jones was thrown out and his horse broken.

Mr. Thomas E. Waggaman has been informed by the Commissioners that the present condition of the funds available for street lighting was looked upon as a serious matter. The Commissioners have refused permission to the United States Electric Lighting Company to erect a new system of street lighting for the widening of F street north of the intersection of F and G streets.

Triumph of the People

Prosperity in Sight After Sound Money Victory. TRIUMPH OF THE PEOPLE. Means Far More Than Election of McKinley, for Four Years - Campaign Was a Battle of Patriots Against Partisans.

New York, Nov. 4. - The Tribune this morning comments upon the result of yesterday's election as follows: "William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result of yesterday's election as follows: 'William McKinley has been elected by an overwhelming majority, and the anxiety of all parties to the election has been profound for expression. It is not only a victory, but one so complete and decisive as to answer the fervent prayers of local men. All eyes are turned to the result