GEORGE WAS WELL DRESSED

Aroused Suspicion in the Mind of His Friend.

DISCOVERY OF THE REASON

He Bought His Clothes at the Great Providers and Took Advantage of Their Slighted Credit System, Spread the Payments Out So That They Were Small and Easy.

"I'll be dashed if I see how George manages to dress so well on the amount of money he makes. He only gets $10 per, and yet he's always tipped out like a Vanderbilt. There's something mighty mysterious about it."

The remark was uttered on the tail end of a horse-car that was patiently, wearily jogging down Fourteenth street this morning and the reporter, with idle curiosity, listened for the answer.

"No, he never dresses after all. He simply gets his clothes at a credit house, pays 'em no more than a week or a month. It's a good plan, too."

"But they rob you so infernally at these credit houses?"

"Not if you know where to go. They do at some places, I know, but I can tell you one place where they don't, and I guess that's where George gets his things. I saw him leaving for there Saturday."

"And where's that, for heaven's sake? I want some new suits, and I'm tired if I've got the money to pay for them."

"It's an excellent street, 417. I think the number is—Major & Pettit's."

"What! the 'Great Providers'?"

"That's a very wonderful institution in its way. 'Hah! I'm sick of all that talk about them."

"What do you care about the talk, so long as you can get things there on credit as cheap as you can anywhere else for cash? I tell you, they are all right. I've bought things there, and I know."

And here the car actually arrived at a street corner, and the speakers jumped off.

ICE-BOUND IN THE ARCTIC

Relief Expedition to Be Sent to Imprisoned Whalers.

Secretary Long and the President in Conference With Commodore Melville on the Subject.

A relief expedition will probably be organized by the Navy Department in aid of vessels reported to be ice-bound in the Arctic. The President and the Secretary of the Navy are deeply concerned over the news of eight vessels being held fast in ice off the Arctic Sea. The story comes from San Francisco and was brought by returning whalers.

The reports substantially state that the steam whalers, Isabella, Orea, Jesse H. Freeman and the schooner Rosario are near Point Barrow, and the steam whalers Wainwright, Frederic, Seaman and Ward are near Cape Smyth. The latter four are in the open sea, 300 miles from a provision station. Capt. McQuinn, of the Katlik, thinks that when the ice breaks up these vessels will be ground to pieces.

At Point Barrow the situation is not so critical. The four ice-bound ships are also 160 miles off the coast. Lieut. Franklin station can feed them.

Lieut. M. Stoney, United States Navy, who has had much experience in the Arctic, declares that it is the duty of the Government to send at once a relief expedition to furnish supplies to the ice-bound whalers.

There was not much attention paid to this report on Saturday, but it is exercising the Navy Department and some of the cabinet officers today. Great respect, of course, is paid to the opinion of Lieut. Stoney and the representative of the San Francisco chamber of commerce.

Renewed interest in the immediate relief of the vessel lock shape today in telegrams from members of the California delegation, to the Secretary of the Navy. On the strength of those Secretary Long went to see the President. The famous Commodore Melville also went to talk over the situation. The fact that Commodore Melville was invited to call gave reason for the suggestion that it was intended to organize a relief expedition at once.

It was understood that the history of the Isabella would be published to the public. The officer of the San Francisco is to provision a ship.

Lieut. Stoney, Gen. Alger, Secretary of War, was seen for a discussion of the problem of relief.

After the conference between the officials it was determined to send the Isabella in a winter ship. The Isabella has just arrived at Seattle, and will be provisioned and sent out at once. Another ship is now available, and none that might be available would probably be of much practical service.

Sent to St. Elizabeth's.

David Williams, middle-aged, was sent to St. Elizabeth's hospital this afternoon by Sanitary Officer Frank. He was found wandering the streets by Pullman Milroy at Pennsylvania avenue at First street yesterday and locked up at the Sixth precinct station. He was pronounced insane by Police Sgt. Smith.

Demand of the Former Italian Premier That the Charges Against Him in Connection With Naples Bank Scandal Shall Not Come Before Ordinary Courts Upheld.

Rome, Nov. 8.—The court of Cassation has nullified the action of the judiciary council, which, in June last, rejected the demand made by former Premier Crispi, that the charges against him in connection with the Bank of Naples scandal be tried by the senate, and directed that he should be prosecuted by the ordinary courts of justice.

Signor Crispi appealed from this decision to the court of Cassation, which has just decided in his favor, declaring that he cannot be tried in the ordinary courts. The procedure of the senate in the case of Signor Crispi now depends upon political considerations.

Commissioners' Note in Regard to Thirteenth Street Houses.

The official note of the Commissioners to Mr. Campbell Carrington, the attorney for the keepers of the disorderly houses on Thirteenth street, which was on December 10, was given out this morning. It reads:

"The Commissioners direct me to inform you that they have carefully considered your communication relative to the proposed action respecting the disorderly houses on Thirteenth street, and your remarks at the hearing on the subject before the board on the 6th instant, and have concluded that it is not advisable to make any change in what has already been decided on in this matter."

This means that the proprietors of the various houses under the ban will be required to vacate on next Monday, if they have not done so by that time. They are moving low, and some of the houses already have been vacated. It is not thought probable that there will be any necessity for the application of force.

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER.

Kelly, Who Killed Cashier, Sticks to His Story.

Dover, N. H., Nov. 8.—The trial of Joseph E. Kelly, the murderer of Joseph A. Sticker, cashier of the Great Falls National Bank, at Somersworth, on April 16 last, began here today. Chief Justice Carpenter will be assisted by Judge Clark in trying the case.

Joseph A. Sticker, the aged cashier of the Great Falls National Bank, was killed in the bank building, between noon and 1 p. m. on April 16, and $4,100 taken by the murderer.

Kelly was arrested in Montreal in a house he had entered disguised as a woman, and confessed his crime. Since his arrest he had a hard story of a personal visit from the devil, who, he said, egged him on to the murder and stood by laughing while he did it. The devil, he said, told him he must become his slave until he was twenty-five years old. That time will be January 15, 1899, and the murderer has asked that the date of his execution be fixed on April 16, 1899, that he may meet the devil and go to heaven. Insanity will be the defense.

INQUEST IN INFANTICIDE CASE.

Arrest to Be Made in the Bessie Smith Affair.

Corner Carr today summoned a jury of inquest to meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Eighth precinct station to inquire into the facts about the death of the colored infant found in a trunk in the room of Bessie Smith, a colored servant employed by W. R. Truxton, at No. 1742 8 street northwest. The matter was found at Freedman's hospital, where she went for treatment. She first hid the baby in a trunk in her room, and it was found several days later by the neighbors of Mr. Truxton's family.

Reference to your protest against the proposed inquest in the case of the 'Bessie Smith' infant, which was in connection with the engine house and upon private property. I am directed to reply that the Commission has been advised that the extent of such work is insignificant, and should not be continued to such work as would be of any benefit to the community. The members of the department are required to give their undivided attention to their duties within their quarters, and in active fire duty, and will not be allowed to engage in employment which might be in competition with outside labor."

STREET EXTENSION CASES.

Several Mount Pleasant Sections Now on Trial.

The street extension cases, in the Hays, Frederic and Wright and Cox's sections of the Mount Pleasant section, were put on trial before Judge Cox today. Oscar Nauack and William L. Broadhead were the two principal witnesses examined. They testified in detail as to the value of lots in the subdivisions which will be effected by the proposed extensions. This plan was to get into a buggy he found hitched at the curb and drive to Middletown via Richmond. He says he had a liveryman at Middletown who disposed of his plunder for him.

THE OLD QUESTION OF BANK.

The personal board of the navy was in session today considering the old question of real and relative rank. Sessions will be held for some days yet in order that the board may report early in the approaching session of Congress.

MR. BUTTERWORTH BETTER

Slight Signs of Improvement Discernable by Physicians.

CRITICAL CRISIS IS PENDING

Unable to Recognize His Son Upon His Arrival This Morning—General Solicitude for the Recovery of Ohio's Distinguished Citizen.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 8.—While the physicians in attendance upon Major Butterworth are inclined to think his condition this morning shows some slight improvement over that of yesterday, the physicians still cause for very great alarm.

Dr. Saunders announces that his patient passed a comfortable night, but is still very solicitous about the developments of today.

Major Butterworth's son William arrived here this morning and hurried immediately to his parent's bedside, but his father was unable to recognize him. Constant applications are being made at the hotel for information as to the condition of the distinguished patient, the callers being friends and neighbors representing many classes of citizens and of all shades of politics.

Senator Hanna, who was about to start today on a visit of recreation and speech making in the East, has decided to postpone his visit, on account of the alarming illness of Major Butterworth. He telegraphed the Home Market Club, of Boston, that he would be unable to be present at its dinner Wednesday evening. He will remain here until Major Butterworth is out of danger.

The officials of the Patent Office received the following dispatches this afternoon regarding the condition of Commodore Butterworth:

"Mr. Butterworth held himself last night, which is encouraging. He is doing well this morning."

"MARK HANNA."

"Major Butterworth passed a comfortable night. Pneumonia has not fully developed yet. Symptoms no more favorable than they were yesterday at noon. Still in critical condition."

A CONVICT COSY SHELTER.

Secured Under Ground, His Crimes Are Laid to Tramps.

Chamberlain, S. D., Nov. 8.—A remarkable case will have the attention of the grand jury in Blue Earth county, Minn., on the 10th instant. It is that of Cyrus B. Miller, an escaped convict from the Nebraska penitentiary at Lincoln, who, to prevent capture, excavated a room under a schoolhouse in Blue Earth county, and for two years resided there without detection. The police learned of the underground retreat by accident.

Miller was arrested for stealing a bicycle, and when placed in the sweat-box last night he lost his customary nerve and told of his strange home. The police were skeptical until they visited the schoolhouse about eight miles from Chamberlain, and saw the evidence of the man's story.

He gained access to the building, which is full of brick and one story in height, and skillfully sawed a small door through the wall, which had been ingeniously constructed through the floor of the schoolroom. The small door was sufficient for ordinary uses. Miller obtained food and other articles by prowling through the surrounding farming community, stealing at night from cellars, robbing barns, etc. Cows were milked by him on his own account. All these depredations were charged to the tramps who are constantly passing through the neighborhood, and no suspicion was ever directed to the real culprit.

Literature, Music, Art and Science to Be Studied.

The young Hebrews of the city met at Harris' Hall last evening, and perfected the organization of an organization to be known as "The Young People's Temple Society." The hall was crowded, and much interest exhibited in the work. President Wolf called the meeting to order, and the constitution and by-laws, as framed by a specially appointed committee, were read and accepted with a few slight amendments.

The announcement was made that the treasurer of the Woodbury Club had been instructed to turn all the funds of that club over to the Young People's Society. The next meeting of the society will take place the first Sunday in February. Meanwhile the committees will meet every month.

They wandered around the lake front until sundown, when one of the numerous searching parties found them in the weeds minus their clothing. How and when they became disrobed they are unable to state.

DR. HUNTER MADE AN ENVOY

His Appointment as Minister to Guatemala Announced.

Several Places Distributed in the Internal Revenue, Indian and Public Land Service.

The President made the following appointments today:

W. Godfrey Hunter, of Kentucky, to be

Minister Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Guatemala and Honduras.

Dr. Hunter has had a somewhat eventful career, while reaching this important post. Dr. Hunter is very well known to the politicians of Washington, among whom he has moved off and on for the past few years. He came to Washington first as a member of the Fifth Congress and was so prominent a Republican that he was usually chosen as a delegate to the Presidential nominating conventions.

Dr. Hunter was born at Burkesville, Ky., on Christmas Day, 1841, and had an ambition to pull plows out of the plowing ever since. He was educated a physician. He went into the war and was made a surgeon in the Union army.

After the war he went into politics, and for six years served as a member of the legislature. He sprang into prominence during the Presidential nominating convention at Chicago in 1886. He was out of the cabinet Grant platoon of 300 at that convention. Again in 1892 he went to Minneapolis as one of the leaders of the Populist movement. He was elected to the Fifty-fourth Congress and again to the Fifty-fifth Congress.

Dr. Hunter became a national fame at the last election for United States Senator from Kentucky. When Dr. Hunter's star was at its highest, his friend, the present Senator Deboe, was not regarded as even a probability.

Dr. Hunter made a vigorous fight until the sensational charges of an attempt to bribe legislators were sprung on him and the public. Investigations followed, and "in the interest of harmony" Dr. Hunter pulled out, Dr. Deboe being his resolute lieutenant.

It has always been understood that Senator Deboe would look after the interests of Dr. Hunter, and the Administration was not adverse to assisting, inasmuch as the result defeated really Senator Blackburn, who stood for honest money as against the single standard.

The appointment of Dr. Hunter is proof that the Administration regards the charges against him as not well founded, and if any vindication was needed in the eyes of the political world, the confidence of the President has removed it.

Dr. Hunter will shortly proceed to his post. He has lived for about ten years on Capitol Hill, C street, and as above stated has numerous friends in Washington, who will wish him success in his new post. Dr. Hunter's services have been recognized, and Dr. Deboe's friendship has proved that the adage sometimes goes wrong that there is neither gratitude nor faith in political princes.
