

Our American Navy

Serge suits, for men, require no effort to sell them. They sell themselves, for anybody can see at a glance that they are just what we represent them to be—the very best serge suits in America for the price.

Twelve-Fifty.

It is an absolutely ALL-WOOL, fast color serge. Cut in the latest correct fashion, well and thoroughly tailored, and made to fit better than any other ready-to-wear garments in town. No other clothier can duplicate them under $15 to $18. Nor can the custom shops produce as good under $22.50 to $25.

An Attractive Display.

Everything that a man, woman or child could want in the matter of dress they will be almost certain to find represented in the show windows at King's Palace. These broad exhibition spaces are filled with the finest combinations in color and quality that can be found in a day's journey. There is the beautiful millinery display that is sure to take the fancy of the ladies and the line of men's negligee shirts and underwear is sure to please the most fastidious dressers, while the variety of children's goods shown are certain to puzzle the shopper who cannot afford to buy samples of the whole lot. These goods are shown to give only a slight idea of what is to be found inside the big double store, where a special sale of the stock of M. J. Myers & Co., of New York, is in progress.

The purchase of this stock involved the transfer of over $20,000 worth of men's, women's and children's clothing and furnishings.

Mr. P. Ketcham of Pike City, Cal., says: "During my brother's late sickness from sciatic rheumatism, Chamberlain's Pain Balm was the only remedy that gave him any relief." Many others have testified to the prompt relief from pain which this liniment affords. For sale by Henry Evans, wholesale and retail druggist, 338 F Street northwest and Connecticut Avenue and S Street northeast, and 1425 Maryland Avenue northeast.

THE DAUGHTERS OF SYRIA.

Women Loyal to Their Adopted Country Make a Flag. Unless Uncle Sam's present conflict with Spain should come to an end in the near future, one of the flags that will go to the front will be made by the hands of Syrian women. These women are members of a society calling itself the Daughters of Syria, and as they wish in some way to show their interest in the welfare of their adopted country, they have decided that there would be no more fitting way of doing it than by presenting a flag to one of the regiments. Having made up their minds to do this, the making of a banner was a matter of absolute necessity, for they found that an order for the national colors could not be filled within three months, owing to the great demand for them since the beginning of the war. The flag will probably be presented to the Twenty-second Regiment.

The society of the Daughters of Syria was organized two years ago for social and educational purposes. It is in no sense a charitable society, but it conducts a free evening class for such of its members as do not know English, and outsiders are admitted at a nominal fee. It is also trying to open a reading room and circulating library for women. It is supported by membership fees, and its constitution prevents its accepting financial aid from any but Syrians.

"An Office of Motherhood." Florence Hill Winterburn, discussing "An Office of Motherhood," in the June Woman's Home Companion, has this to say of an old-fashioned duty sometimes overlooked by mothers of today: "The first natural duty of a mother is to protect her young; to create around it a shelter, in the midst of which the tender thing can grow, secure from shocks and seeing and hearing only what is good for it to hear and see. * * * By learning the signs of fear in a young child, and knowing how to distinguish true fear from willfulness they will be able to exert a soothing and protective influence at the right moment, and avert danger whose consequences are serious almost beyond belief in the case of our highly organized excitable, modern children."

"It is the mother, rather than the father, who is called upon to secure the blessing of a sound imagination to her children. She ought to begin away back in the beginning—with the very first surroundings of the new-born infant. Let it find its early life peaceful, quiet and untroubled. And when infancy merges into that other period when young faculties are springing forward in rapid development and each day the little one takes on more of the hue of its larger fellow-creatures, let her be doubly careful that no untimely scare stunts its intelligence. It is said that to be afraid of shadows is an inevitable passing experience of childhood. Yet I know one small tottler who never has shown any such disposition, but whose great delight is to play with her own shadow and other shadows, when the lights are brought in each night. She is a peculiarly sensitive, sympathetic little thing, and could easily be made timid by unwise treatment. But under the sheltering care of fond and judicious parents, she is remarkable for 'not knowing what it is to be afraid,' and although she is subject to unpleasant dreams, and many young children are, and often awakened with a start, a low word or touch soothes her into serenity. Happy above others is the little child who thinks of his mother as a veritable refuge from trouble, a bulwark against danger, and a sympathetic presence."

Women's Rights in Japan. The empress of Japan takes her meals with her husband, an honor accorded to no previous empress. The emperor is said to be in favor of women's rights. The empress is an earnest friend of women's hospitals.

Tim Hurst's $500 Waiting to Be Covered. Tim Hurst has such an exalted opinion of his St. Louis Browns that he has posted $500 that they will beat out the Louisville, and has dared Harry Pulliam of Barney Dreyfuss to cover it. Tim called down the Colonels in the following characteristic style: "Your bluffing is all of the hot-air variety, and if you think your aggregation has a chance with us, post $500 with any paper in your burg, and I will cover it in a second." The great playing of the Washingtons during the series with the Browns has pulled Tim's confidence down a peg or two, and the next time he comes here he had better have his boy's drink plenty of Heurich's Maerzen Beer if he wishes them to cope with the Washingtons. Heurich's will be the only guarantee of a possible chance of capturing a game. His stake of $500 can be better invested in Heurich's, and his team will then have strength and energy to show when they cross bats with their rivals.

China Prices Cracked All to Pieces!

Low prices aren't the only things which make bargains. Value, rather, is the standard by which they're measured. But such a combination as our new, but pushing, department offers—the lowest of prices, yoked with the highest of qualities, form a tandem before which the path to success can't present a single obstruction. We're before whip and spur, so to speak, to every crockery and houseware item, and tomorrow's bargains set a pace as hot as the weather.

Indian Ocean Dandy Garb. The inhabitants of the Nicobar Islands, a group in the Indian Ocean, have extraordinary fancy for old hats, and a regular trade in such cast-off headgear is carried on between Calcutta and Nicobar, the much-desired headpieces being paid for in coconuts. A tall chimney pot is the favorite among the Nicobarians, and the acme of fashion is considered to be a high white hat with a black band. This is worn from fifty to sixty coconuts, and is worn by the Nicobarian dandy when he goes out fishing, the rest of his attire consisting solely of a waistcoat.

He was a retired shipbuilder—and hails from Staten Island, New York. He was in pretty good health, but every day when he took what he called his constitutional, that is, his afternoon walk, he was sure to have a sort of cramp which seized him in the calf of his leg with almost the severity of an assault by a ferocious dog. He read about the case of a man who had rheumatism was cured by Ripans Tablets and laughed at the idea. He thought the man a fool, but realizing that his own difficulty was a sort of rheumatic twinge, he finally bought and used some Tablets and of late his friends have noticed that he is more chipper than he had been for years. A lady who knew him well asked him about the dog that used to bite his leg in the afternoons and the old man said: "He is dead and Ripans Tablets killed him."

A new style packet containing the RIPANS TABLETS in a paper cart (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—for 75c. This low priced set is intended for the poor. The enclosed free doses of the five-cent cartons (100 tablets) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (100 TABLETS) will be sent for five cents.
