Killed by His Own Gun.

Ashland, Pa., Oct. 17.—The first gunning accident of the season in this county occurred near here yesterday, when Peter McDonald, aged seventeen years, was shot and instantly killed. He started for the mountain about 8 o'clock yesterday morning, in company with James Coyle, and they had been out but a short time when McDonald's gun appeared to be out of order. While the two were examining the weapon it was accidentally discharged, the contents entering McDonald's left breast. Coyle picked up the lifeless body of his comrade and carried it to his home at Homestead, a distance of 2 miles.

CAMPS FOR OUR TROOPS

Selections by the American Board in Havana.

SENT TO THE PRESIDENT

Dangers of Locating Troops in Old Warehouses and Other Places in the City—Hunger and Diet Recommended Among the Guards to Be Used Against Sickness.

New York, Oct. 17.—The Herald correspondent at Havana telegraphs to that paper as follows: The Military Commission, which will select camps and arrange for the landing of American troops, has completed its preliminary work, but must receive the decision of the Administration before it can proceed with the details. The report of the commission was sent by yesterday's mail, it being deemed too important to trust to the cable, and will reach Washington Tuesday. A copy by cable is expected not later than October 20.

If the President listens to the recommendations of the commission only a very small body of troops will reach Havana earlier than December. Coles, Hecker and so far as to recommend that the landing be made no earlier than forty-five days. There are two reasons for this. The first is that the weather will be much improved by December. The second and more important reason is the desire to use no docks, warehouses, hospitals or camps that have been used by the Spanish or Cubans. This is the only way yellow fever can be avoided.

New Buildings Are Necessary. The commission uses the President to authorize them to build everything new. If this authority is given orders for materials that are already written out will be at once called to the United States, and by November 1 the material will be here, and not more than thirty days will be required to do all the necessary work.

The point of disembarkation will depend upon the number of men sent here. As called a few days ago, the troops will camp in the hills southeast of Guanabacoa, where ample water and care for at least one division—about eight thousand soldiers. If the President decides he cannot wait until December, the troops will be disembarked in this city, which means that they will come into direct contact with fever. It was at first thought they might land at Regla, but that suburb is now one vast hospital. The only warehouses in Havana that have not been used as army hospitals are those at the San Jose docks. These are three in number—dry and clean and adjacent to five piers, which would make light rain unnecessary, but the railroad track is inadequate.

To Ward Off Disease. Unfortunately these warehouses are in the most unwholesome part of the city. Troops landing there would be exposed to great risk, and supplies would be liable to infection, but still it is the best Havana has to offer. If the coming of the troops can be delayed until December, as recommended, piers and warehouses can be built at Colma or at Mariel, probably at the latter place. Colma is only a few miles from the city, and offers no breakwater. Still a pier could be built and a five mile spur of railroad constructed which would carry the troops and supplies almost to a camp at Mariel just across the boundary line in Pinar del Rio province, and about thirty-six miles from Havana. It offers superior landing facilities. A pier must be erected, but the cost will not be great. A new warehouse can be constructed at little cost, which would make the danger of infection of supplies almost nil.

The most perfect fumigating plant possible to obtain will be erected, and all supplies which arrive broken packages will be thoroughly disinfected. After landing at Mariel troops will be marched three miles to Guanajay, where they will take a train and be carried over the worst piece of railroad in Cuba to a few miles from the Guanabacoa hills. Before they arrive laborers will have prepared the camp, constructing floors for the tents and building sewers.

The floors will be raised at least 15 inches from the ground, giving space for the circulation of air. In a recent cable the cost of building a pier in the water from Vento to the camp was estimated at $60,000. Col. Waring says that the estimate is too high, and that the commission will be able to expend more than $20,000. A trench pipe, which is large enough, can be laid 1 foot below the surface at a cost of not more than $4,000 a mile. A pumping station will be required, but as the water is to be raised not more than 20 feet no great force will be required. Deputy Quartermaster General Lee is expected to arrive soon to take charge of the quartermaster's department for the entire island.

THE PASSING OF CAMP BLACK.

Only Four Persons on the Tented Field.

New York, Oct. 17.—All the patients who were brought recently from the field hospital at Camp Mendez to the Nassau Hospital, at Hempstead, Long Island, are rapidly improving, and within the next few days a number of them will be discharged from the institution and sent to rejoin their regiments which are now at Camp Mendez, Pennsylvania. When the fifty soldiers were first brought to the hospital they were all very sick, and six of them were so seriously ill with typhoid fever and pneumonia that little hope was entertained for their recovery. The nurses of the hospital, who were under the supervision of Miss Alice M. Perigo and Miss Emily Clothworthy, were assisted by a number of regular army nurses. Only one death has occurred.

ALGER WANTS A BIGGER ARMY.

Secretary Alger, in his forthcoming annual report to the President, will urge an increase in the size of the standing army of the United States. The Secretary has not fully determined as to what he will recommend, but there

REASON TO BELIEVE THAT HE WILL SUGGEST THAT THE ARMY BE INCREASED TO AT LEAST 75,000 MEN.

The President has often expressed an aversion to a large standing army, maintaining that the United States is a peaceful nation, not subject to the internal revolts and uprisings common in many foreign nations; but the acquisition of new territory and the necessity for garrisoning the possessions are manifest, and it is believed that the President will coincide with his Secretary of War in the matter of an increase in the United States army. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, commanding the army, is strongly in favor of additional regular forces.

CLEANING UP SANTIAGO.

Capt. Mestre Describes Gen. Wood's Excellent Work There. New York, Oct. 17.—Capt. Aurelius Mestre, who volunteered as a military aide at the outbreak of the war and who has been on the staff of Gen. Leonard Wood, the American commander at Santiago, has returned to his home in New York on a leave of absence.

Capt. Mestre took active part in the military operations round Santiago, and his valuable services at San Juan and La Quasina have caused Gen. Wheeler, Wood and Lawton to recommend him to the War Department. He was with Capt. Mestre came up from Cuba on the Berlin. He suffered a severe attack of malaria, and his trip was made in order to allow him to recuperate. He expects to return to Santiago in the course of a couple of months. In discussing the present condition of the Cuban city, under the occupation, Capt. Mestre stated that under Gen. Wood's vigorous administration Santiago was now as clean as the average American city of its size. The dirt areas were fast disappearing. A large shipment of two-wheeled carts for street-cleaning purposes and been sent to Gen. Wood, and these have been used to excellent advantage in cleansing the thoroughfares. Gen. Wood was expected to turn his attention next to the waterworks. According to Capt. Mestre that part of the harbor near the piers will be thoroughly dredged, at a cost of about $400,000. It is expected that many of the streets will be paved with asphalt, and made to earn their living instead of being an expense to the Government of the United States, as they are at present. In regard to business, Capt. Mestre described the American soldiers as a well-contented body of men, and the sickness among them was rapidly disappearing. In regard to business he expressed the opinion that there would be excellent opportunities in the future, when the island has readjusted themselves to the new conditions.

GAME WARDEN KILLS A MAN.

He Had Attempted to Fire When Caught Shooting.

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 17.—Secundo Canova, twenty years old, of Barbour Street, Haledon, was shot and instantly killed in the woods of Manchester Saturday afternoon by James L. Tooker, formerly editor of the Perth Amboy Republican, and now a New Jersey game warden. The shooting was apparently done in self-defense. Canova's body is in Hindie's morgue. Tooker was arrested and committed to the county jail by Justice Scibir. A coroner's jury was impaneled. Chief Game Warden Shriver, editor of the Sunday Chronicle of this city, has recently been seen by the late Canova, who was shot by him in the woods of Manchester. He endeavored to break up the practice not having attained much success, to put a stop to the depredations he was committing. Tooker, who is a well-known sportsman, and a member of the Perth Amboy Club, was seen by Canova, who was shot by him in the woods of Manchester. MEMORIAL TO GEORGE CLINTON.

A Tablet Erected to New York's First Governor.

Kingston, N. Y., Oct. 17.—The handsome bronze tablet commemorative of the inauguration of George Clinton, first governor of New York State, presented to Ulster County by the Colonial Dames of America, was unveiled Saturday afternoon in the presence of a large company of representative Dames. Dames of the Revolution, the board of supervisors and prominent citizens and visitors. The tablet is placed on the right of the entrance to the historic old court-house, and the exercises were held on the spot where Clinton was proclaimed governor 121 years ago. The tablet bears an excellent portrait in relief of Clinton, the seal of the Colonial Dames and an appropriate inscription. Whinet was the sculptor and Maurice J. Power did the casting. Mrs. James W. Gerard, vice president general of the Colonial Dames, read the dedicatory address. William Warren Hopkin read the address of presentation, written by Mrs. Thomas Ward, another vice president, who was detained. Supervisor Christopher N. Devitt spoke in behalf of the Dames. In his address many of the guests had luncheon at the home of Gen. Sharpe, his daughter, Mrs. Ira Davenport, being a member of the Colonial Dames.

AN OPERA SINGER'S ROMANCE.

Mrs. Bohrmann Married to a Milwaukee Business Man. New York, Oct. 17.—A romance which began in Milwaukee seven years ago had its climax in Hoboken Saturday, when August Reinhardt, a wealthy business man of Milwaukee, married Mrs. Johanna Bohrmann, a German operatic singer. Twelve months ago Mrs. Bohrmann, Mrs. Bohrmann while she was singing in Milwaukee. He was introduced to her by the manager of the opera company of which she was a member. The two became such fast friends that their engagement was announced soon afterward. An engagement to appear in Germany prevented Mrs. Bohrmann from accepting an early marriage, but she promised Mr. Reinhardt to become his wife on the close of her European trip. Mrs. Bohrmann arrived in Hoboken on the Bremen liner Carlsruhe on Friday afternoon, and Mr. Reinhardt was the first to greet her as she walked down the gangplank. Yesterday they were married in Meyer's Hotel by Justice Schlichting. Today they will start for Milwaukee, where they will make their home.

FATHER AND SON FRIENDS.

Dr. Depew Restores Harmony Between the Vanderbilts.

THE YOUNG MAN'S ENERGY

His Zeal and Capacity in a Railroad Subordinate Office Pleasing to the Elder, Who Evinces a Disposition to Forgive and Forget Past Differences.

New York, Oct. 17.—There is now no doubt of the truth of the rumor coming from Newport, that a reconciliation had been effected between Cornelius Vanderbilt and his eldest son, Cornelius Jr., who, after his father, is destined to become the head of the famous family of railroad kings.

What there has been no public announcement of the resumption of affectionate relations between the father and son, and while it is probable that, for the present at any rate, none will be made, there is now no question that the way has been made clear to the young man's restoration to his place as the prospective head of the family. The reconciliation was effected as a result of a progressive one. In other words, the young man has of his own volition placed himself in a position to prove his worth to his father's approval. This has been done through the earnest efforts of Mr. Vanderbilt, and since the step was taken, early in the summer, many greetings characterized by warm affection on both sides have taken place between the father and son.

The course adopted by young Mr. Vanderbilt, which has won for him the hearty approval of his father, is in perfect accordance with the honored traditions of the family, which have prescribed that the head of the house should fit himself for his position by a course of self-education, and by a rigorous apprenticeship in the business on which the greatness of the family is founded.

That this happy state of affairs has been arrived at is due to the tactful interposition of Chauncey M. Depew, who has always had the utmost confidence in young Cornelius's ability, and who at the right moment grasped the opportunity to place him in a position which would give his work a value by so doing paving the way for the much-desired reconciliation with his father.

While young Cornelius was a student at Yale he displayed a marked taste for mechanical studies and after his graduation a year ago last spring, he returned to the university and entered on a post-graduate course in mechanics. In pursuing this course, all the advantages of association with the mechanical departments of the Central system were placed at his disposal. He was especially attracted by the work of Mr. Depew, and he spent much time in the locomotive and car shops of the road, where he worked with the mechanics and learned a great deal of the practical knowledge of the science of everything pertaining to the construction of engines and rolling stock in general.

Mr. Depew then offered him the position of an assistant in the office of the general superintendent of motive power, and he accepted it. Mr. Vanderbilt at once entered on the discharge of his new duties and has been hard at work ever since, having only taken during the summer a few days' vacation. He has frequently arisen when he has been honored with the confidence of the superintendent by being sent on visits of inspection of the various parts of the system.

Comments His Son's Course. The best of the result was the fact that he was doing, and when the first excellent reports of his work began to come in he called at the superintendent's office, and, going to his son's desk, assured him in a few minutes of his approval of his course, and expressed the hope that he would go on and continue to deserve the commendation that he has won. Since then most of their meetings have taken place during the summer, and the result that the most pleasant relations have been established between the father and son.

Three Doctors in Consultation. (From Benjamin Franklin.) "The first place to be chosen for a medicine is the first place; what experience tells you is best, to be chosen in the second place; what reason tells you is best, to be chosen in the last place. But if you can get Dr. Inellin, Dr. Experience and Dr. Reason to hold a consultation together, they will give you the best advice that can be taken."

When you have a bad cold Dr. Inellin would recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy because it is pleasant and safe to take. Dr. Experience would recommend it because it never fails to effect a speedy and permanent cure. Dr. Reason would recommend it because it is prepared on scientific principles, and acts on nature's plan in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions and restoring the system to a natural and healthy condition.
