SIX CENTS FOR A LIFE. A New York Jury's Verdict Against a Street Car Company.

New York, June 12.—Six cents for grinding a boy 14 years old, to death under the wheels of a Metropolitan Street Railway car was the verdict returned in the supreme court yesterday by a jury. Charles B. Morris, a rich dealer in produce, who lives in a handsome house overlooking the Hudson River, near West Seventy-third street, sued the Metropolitan Street Railway Company for $25,000 damages for causing the death of his son.

THE ATTENTION OF INVESTORS. GRACELAND CEMETERY.

Situated at the intersection of Maryland and Florida Avenues, H and Fifteenth Streets northeast, and Benning and Bladensburg Roads, Washington, D. C. Only a small portion of this tract was ever used as a cemetery. On account of the rapid growth of the city in the immediate neighborhood, Congress, by an act passed August 3, 1894, prohibited the further interment of bodies, and vested the title in the five undersigned Trustees, who were empowered and directed to remove all bodies interred therein, and to sell and convey the said tract of land. The Trustees having removed all evidences of a cemetery, now offer for sale the entire tract comprising some 30 acres, more or less.

Sealed bids for the purchase of the entire property, marked "Proposal for Graceland Cemetery Tract," will be received until and opened at the office of the President of the Central National Bank of Washington, D. C., at 1 o'clock p. m., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 21, 1899. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check for $1,000, which will be immediately returned to the unsuccessful bidders. Terms—One-third cash; balance in one and two years, with interest at 5 per cent per annum, or all cash at the option of the purchaser. Deferred payments to be secured by first deed of trust on the property sold. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

For further information apply to the undersigned. SEYMOUR W. TULLOCH, CLARENCE F. NORMENT, BENJAMIN N. MEEDS, SIDNEY R. PERHAM, WILLIAM TINDALL, Trustees.

THE NEW ORLEANS DECLARED UNSAFE.

Serious Defects in the Cruiser Bought from England.

Vessel Liable to Capsize in a Heavy Sea.

Sister Ship Albany Believed to Have the Same Error in Construction.

Naval Constructor Bowles and other experts, after a thorough examination of the cruiser New Orleans, have declared that there are radical defects in that vessel which may make her dangerous at sea. This verdict is given, notwithstanding the fact that the officers in charge of the cruiser seem never to have discovered it during the several months that she has been in commission. It will be recalled that the New Orleans was purchased from Great Britain just before war with Spain was declared.

If Naval Constructor Bowles' estimate of the vessel is correct, it is far from safe even in ordinary weather, and during a storm would be liable to roll over. He has reported that the ship has practically no metacentric height at all, and worse than this, there is no way possible to correct the serious defects in the craft. The Albany, a sister ship, now being completed abroad and bought by this Government at the same time, is also believed to possess the same fatal defects, and it is so nearly feared that it is not practicable to attempt any correction. When these ships were purchased it was thought they had been carefully designed, and were therefore stable and absolutely safe in all kinds of weather. There was no opportunity to test the metacentric height of the New Orleans during the early days of the war, owing to the urgent necessity of dispatching the vessel to join the fleet in front of Santiago, and only recently has the heeling test been made which shows that the New Orleans has a minus metacentric height by several inches.

While at the New York navy yard the vessel was heeled in dock to determine its stability and metacentric height. The result of the experiment was that the center and center of gravity the greater the vessel's stability, but in the case of the New Orleans it was minus. Some years ago it was found that the gun-boats Machia and Castine were defective in this respect, and that the difference between their metacentric center and center of gravity was but 23 inches, when should have been far greater. It is reported these vessels dangerous unless they were stiffened, and to accomplish this both were cut in two at New York and lengthened by 16 feet, which gave the desired stability.

In the case of the New Orleans, it is said, the lengthening process is not practicable, and, owing to its increasing draught, it must always continue to be a dangerous vessel in a heavy sea. The commanding officer of the cruiser will be notified of these defects, and those who have been far greater. It is reported these vessels dangerous unless they were stiffened, and to accomplish this both were cut in two at New York and lengthened by 16 feet, which gave the desired stability.

THE COLUMBIA'S MAST READY.

She May Make Her First Trip on Saturday. Bristol, R. I., June 12.—The steamer Archer, Captain Terry, arrived here this morning from Fall River, to step the Columbia's mast. The big Oregon pine stick is all ready, and before sundown it will be in the new yacht. Riggers are here ready to set up the rigging as soon as the mast is in place. They will be assisted by the Columbia's crew.

All haste is being made, and the Columbia will doubtless be ready for her first sail trial by Saturday of this week. Meanwhile riggers and painters are busy below deck finishing up the work which could not be accomplished before launching.

COLLISION IN DELAWARE BAY.

A Fishing Schooner Sunk by a Boston Steamship. Lewes, Del., June 12.—The Boston steamer Spartan, outwardbound, from Philadelphia to Boston, with passengers and freight, ran into and sunk the fishing schooner Addie Ludington in the Delaware Bay, just above Brandywine shoals, about 9:30 o'clock last night. The schooner had a crew of fifteen men, and was bound for Philadelphia with her wells full of fish. The shock produced by the collision was so slight on board the steamer that had not the officer on duty seen the schooner as she was sinking they would hardly have known that anything had happened.

CLEVELAND A RESCUER.

On Board a Yacht Which Tows a Disabled Craft. New York, June 13.—Isaac Hepper, president of the Harlem Democratic Club and vice commodore of the Indian Harbor Yacht Club, was out with a party of friends on the yacht Vivid Saturday evening last, when her shaft broke, leaving them to drift helplessly. After some time a large yacht appeared, which proved to be the Onondaga, with E. C. Benedict, and ex-President Cleveland on board. The Onondaga towed the disabled craft into Indian Harbor.

ON THE DIAMOND. HOW THE CLUBS STAND.

Table showing baseball club standings: Brooklyn, Boston, Chicago, Baltimore, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Cincinnati, New York, Pittsburgh, Washington, Louisville, Cleveland.

GAMES YESTERDAY. Boston, 11; New York, 2. Pittsburgh, 5; Cleveland, 3.

Philadelphia at Washington. Boston at New York. Brooklyn at Baltimore. Pittsburgh at Cleveland. Louisville at Cincinnati.

Two Games to Be Played Today.

The game which was to have been played yesterday between the Senators and Quakers was postponed on account of wet grounds. The rain followed the teams from Philadelphia, and each manager is now accusing the other of being a "hooper." If the weather is propitious, the games will be played this afternoon, and the Senators are confident of securing at least one, if not both, of them.

New York Loses to Boston.

The Boston team after Carrick from the start of the game yesterday and succeeded in piling up 11 runs in the first three innings. Colcolough was sent in to relieve Carrick, and the Champions scored no more. New York could not touch Nichols when hits were needed. The score: BOSTON, R. 11, B. 0, E. 2.

Score for Boston vs New York: Boston (R 11, B 0, E 2) vs New York (R 0, B 0, E 0).

First base on error—Boston 1, New York 2. Left field hit—Boston 1, New York 1. Two-base hits—Collins, Nichols, Gleason, Stolen bases—Stahl, Gleason, Struck out by pitcher—Boston 1, New York 4.

Cleveland Easy Prey.

The Pirates came off victors in the encounter at Cleveland yesterday. Hughey pitched good ball but could not win the game by himself. The score: CLEVELAND, R. 10, P. 0, E. 0.

Score for Cleveland vs Pittsburgh: Cleveland (R 10, B 0, E 0) vs Pittsburgh (R 2, B 0, E 0).

RACES AT ASCOT HEATH.

London, June 12.—At Ascot Heath today the trial stakes of ten sovereigns each with 500 sovereigns added, the second to receive fifty sovereigns out of the stakes, the new mile (seven furlongs and 156 yards), was won by the Duke of Westminster's Good Luck. Captain Macchell's Vira was second and Mr. Douglas Baird's receptive fifty sovereigns out of the stakes.

The race for the Ascot Biennial Stakes of seven hundred and fifty sovereigns each, for two-year-olds, the second to receive 10 per cent of the stakes; two-year-old course (five furlongs and 136 yards), resulted in a dead heat for first place between Lord Rosebery's Epsom Lad, and the Duke of Westminster's Goblet. Mr. Russell's Dancing Madli was third. Eight horses ran.

SUSPECTED OF FEATRICHIDE.

An Outlaw Believed to Have Murdered His Brother. Gloversville, N. Y., June 13.—Benjamin and William Wadsworth, brothers and members of the notorious "Windfall" gang, escaped from the Hamilton county jail at Lake Pleasant Saturday, where they were awaiting trial.

William has given information to the authorities last month which led to the arrest of his two brothers, his father, and other members of the gang. While in jail Benjamin repeatedly threatened to kill his brother for turning State's witness.

A Sheriff's posse immediately started after the two men when they escaped Saturday. Yesterday they captured Benjamin after a wild hunt through almost inaccessible sections of the country.

William could not be found, nor any trace of him. The force is now hunting for his body, it being believed that Benjamin made good his many threats by killing his brother.

Benjamin was found in the woods, near his father's sawmill, at Wells. He was armed with a gun, and the posse carefully surrounded him, as it was known to be a desperate character when cornered.

When ordered to give himself up he made a wild dash to escape, but found himself confronted with an array of shot-guns and rifles at every step. He threw up his hands and was taken back to the jail. He refused to say where he got the gun or what had become of his brother. William, the man believed to have been killed, was arrested in April for a robbery of $500 near Griffin. He told Sheriff Perkins of a series of robberies the "Windfall" gang had committed, implicating his father, Daniel Wadsworth, his brothers, Benjamin and James, and others. The father is now out on bail, and James was convicted and is in Danmore.

The Wadsworths have long terrorized the Windfall region of Hamilton county. The Federal Government once tried to arrest one of them, without success. The gang threatened to kill anyone who betrayed their stronghold for the purpose of arresting them.
