CAPE TOWN STREET CARS

Consul General Stowe Makes a Report on the System.

No Jim Crow Coaches on the South African Tram Lines and No Favor in the Way of Passes or Free Tickets Allowed—The Cars Made in This Country—Horses the Motor Power.

Consul General Stowe, at Cape Town, makes a report to the State Department on the subject of street railways in that region. He says: "The street railways of Cape Town have a track mileage of twenty-five miles; the employees number 390 men, and fifteen single-deck motor cars, thirty-two double-deck, and eight trailer cars are in use. The lines run to the suburbs and are to be extended to the docks. The cars are all made in America; the single-deckers have large platforms in front and with roomy seats for the accommodation of smokers. Trailers (open cars), with seats running crosswise, are attached to the double-deckers morning and evening to accommodate the increased traffic. All the cars, except the trailers, have a middle aisle, with seats on each side holding two persons. The upholstering of the seats is in cane and is always neat, and the color of the car (yellow) is kept bright and fresh. As the English people are kind to the blacks no distinction is made on the cars. New cars have been lately ordered from the United States to serve the increasing population caused by the exodus of the refugees from the Transvaal and the large number of soldiers in the city, who, at half price, are good patrons when off duty or riding to and from the various camps. As most of the merchants, clerks, and Government officials live out of the city proper, the tram lines are well patronized. No passes or free tickets are furnished.

Outside of the Philippines, the consul says, he cannot hear of a city that has a larger population than Cape Town. "They take great pleasure in riding on the tram lines particularly on Saturdays and Sundays, days that this class of the population devote to pleasure, principally to picnics and fishing. "The lines in Cape Town and Port Elizabeth are owned by an English company. They were built by American mechanics, are now managed by Americans, and are a source of revenue to American manufacturers, as supplies come from the United States. There are no water-buff lines in the world," but, says the Consul General, "I regret to say that the very superior wires (iron) for the conveyance of the wires come from England. The Port Elizabeth system consists of seven miles of track, the employees number 100, and there are in use twelve single-deck, six double-deck, and two trailer cars. Permission has been granted by the Cape Government to a company (M. J. S. S. S.) to construct a line of electric road from Cape Town to Kamp's Bay. It will pass along the sea road, a fine drive. Orders for material, etc., will begin to be placed about March. In Kimberley, one-horse cars still run, and the distance covered by the line is about eight miles. After the war, the power will undoubtedly be changed to electricity.

"At Johannesburg, the same style of cars is used as at Kimberley, the Government having refused to grant concessions for the building of the electric line, for the reason that the farmers would lose the sale of force (cut straw). Even the bicycle is objected to for the same reason, and a heavy tax is placed on it.

"In East London, there have recently been ordered about five miles of electric tram lines. Only three cars are in use at present; but the number will be increased. The line was constructed by Johannesburg parties, the motor cars and plant by American builders. The line will be opened to the public about February 15 and would have been in operation some time ago, had not delay occurred in delivery of cars by American makers. The substitution of electric cars for the horse cars in Durban is soon expected. Bids for construction and material are published."

FATAL ACCIDENT TO A WOMAN.

The Result May Bring Death to Her Sick Husband. LANCASTER, Pa., April 4.—Mrs. Lucy Good, of Lancaster, was killed last night in doing the work of her husband, who had been stricken with apoplexy a few hours before. His wife went to the stable to feed the horse, and in descending from the hay-mow she made a misstep and fell on her head. Her skull was fractured, and she died in a few minutes. The husband recovered consciousness from his apoplexy stroke as his wife's dead body was carried into the house. The shock caused a relapse, and the physicians in attendance say his death is only a question of a few hours.

Numerous American Women Deserted by Their French Husbands. (From the Philadelphia Times.) At the Church of the Covenant, at Twenty-seventh Street and Girard Avenue, yesterday morning the Right Rev. John T. Lewis, Metropolitan and Archbishop of Ontario, talked on the efforts that are being made to save young women students in Paris, and appealed for support in behalf of the American and British homes for young women in Paris, which were founded twenty-five years ago by his wife, then Ada Leigh. The Archbishop is seventy-five years old, and is the senior member of the Church of England, both in point of years and service. His missionary work has extended all over the world, and in Canada alone he has founded more than 200 churches. He is known as "The Modern St. Paul."

"The homes consist of a mother building, the orphanage, the church and the Washington house," said the Archbishop. "My wife, the founder of these homes, was prompted to begin the work about twenty-five years ago. She talked with a young shop girl in Paris, and in a little while learned the conditions among the English-speaking young women there. With the exception of one denomination there was no church for them to attend. "The girls had no place to go that would help them in their lives. Evil was before their eyes at all times. The first home, the mother building, was founded, and its work among the young girls in the city was wonderful. A church was founded among them an orphanage.

"The number of American women and children who are deserted by their French husbands and fathers is amazing and the orphanage is now overflowing. "The famous dentist, Dr. Evans, was not in accord with the movement at first when my wife talked with him, but after investigation he founded a home himself. "More than 11,000 female students have been in the homes and about 8,000 situations have been secured for friendless girls found in the streets. The homes have won the admiration of the officials of France, and any English-speaking girl found in distress, in any part of Europe, is sent to the homes. The late Baron Gallizani, of France, gave the building now occupied as an orphanage to the home, and the Prince of Wales laid the cornerstone for the church."

The Penitential Mystery. (From the Indianapolis Journal.) "We had a delightful cure yesterday." "A cure?" In Lent? "Yes, but it was highly disciplinary, you know; the business announced that she wouldn't tell until the end of the game whether the elegant prizes went to the best or the worst players."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Bingham entertained at a luncheon today. Fourteen guests were gathered about the dainty table, which was florally beautiful with Golden Gate roses and fern.

The Russian Ambassador, Count Cassini, and his grandniece, Miss Cassini, entertained at a dinner last night in honor of the well-known French story writer, M. de Regnier, and his wife, who are making a tour of this country. The company further included the French Ambassador, M. Cambon; Miss Bessie Davis, Miss Ward, the Minister from Norway and Sweden, M. Grip, and Mr. Max Muller.

Keiziro Nabeshima, the new charge d'affaires of the Japanese Legation, with his attractive wife, Mme. Nabeshima, arrived in Washington Monday. Both the diplomat and his wife are related to the royal families of Japan and are possessed of great wealth. The present Minister, Mr. Komura, will give two farewell dinners during the present week. Thursday and Saturday nights, and will shortly after take his departure for his new post at St. Petersburg.

The new fencing club, of which Count Cassini is president and Mr. Harry May vice president, will give a reception Easter week at the new quarters of the club, Mrs. Henry May, Mme. de Wollant, wife of the First Secretary of the Legation, and Miss Cassini will be the hostesses on the occasion, which promises to be one of the smartest of the week.

The absence of Miss Wilson, who was unable to stay at the reception given at the residence of Mrs. D. Hill last night by the Homeopathic Chapter of the Homeopathic Hospital, was the only flaw in the otherwise brilliant programme. Miss Mabel McKinley, wearing white gold spangled tulle, sang the "Star Spangled Banner," while the German "Wachen on the Rhine," and the French "Marsellaise" were rendered by Mr. Frank P. Reissler. Mr. William G. Meade gave with brilliant effect "The Soldiers of the Queen," and later in the evening a pretty Irish ballad, Miss Wilson's number on the programme. "The Echo of Erin," was rendered by Mrs. Herring, and Mr. Harvey Murray played Sousa's march, "The Man Behind the Gun." A special feature of the evening was an historical description of the "War Songs of Nations," given by Mr. Willis Arden, of London, who will give a recital one afternoon during Easter week under the auspices of the Homeopathic Association, which is endeavoring to provide funds for the erection of an addition to the Homeopathic Hospital. The handsome residence of Reppert, on Wisconsin street, was thrown open to the guests who were present in sufficient numbers to fill the drawing room, the concert being given in the dining room. Refreshments were served informally on a table with a graceful decoration of red tulips. The gracious hostess, in an artistically handsome gown of black tulle with a diamond star gleaming in the jelled hair that outlined the shoulders of the low bodice was assisted in receiving by the ladies of the committee, Mrs. McKim, Mrs. Elkins, Mrs. Hoff, and Mrs. Ralph Jenkins.

Dr. J. Spencer Hough, Miss H. W. Shute, Miss M. A. Shute, and Miss Correllia Otten are among the passengers booked to sail today for Europe on the St. Paul.

M. E. Ellen Spencer Mussey and Mrs. M. R. Wood also sail today for Europe. They will make the voyage on the Friedland.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Howe, of San Francisco, formerly of Washington and Anandale, Va., have arrived in this city after an extended Eastern trip, which included visits to Chicago, New York, and New Orleans. They are the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Laura N. West, and expect to leave for home early next week.

CITIZENS' MASS MEETING.

Hyattsville People Protest Against Public Nuisances. HYATTSVILLE, Md., April 4.—Mason Hall, in this town, was filled Monday evening with citizens of Hyattsville, Brentwood, College Park, Riverdale, and Bryn Mawr to protest against the alleged violations of the Sunday liquor laws by saloons in Bladensburg and vicinity, and also the alleged gambling at the Highland Clubhouse at Brentwood. Many ladies were present and took a lively interest.

F. L. Middleton, of Brynaw, presided. Rev. C. J. S. Mayo, of the local Episcopal Church, opened with prayer, and the audience, led by J. A. McEwee, sang "America" with vim. Sheriff, of the Anti-Saloon League of Prince George's county, explained the objects sought to be accomplished by the league. He stated the law relative to applications for saloon licenses and said that recent investigation showed that a former constable of Bladensburg district had signed four different applications for saloons. Some other saloons, he said, did not pay one cent taxes, although the law required that they should be freeholders.

Capt. W. A. Bartlett, of Brentwood, spoke of the gambling establishment alleged to be operating in his neighborhood and of the roidism resultant from the violations of the Sunday liquor laws. H. B. Fowler, of Riverdale, read extracts from the gaming laws of the State, and predicted that this community would be a second Jackson City, unless these gaming houses were not obliterated.

Charles Benedict Calvert, of College Park, stated that it was the plain duty of the State's Attorney, Sheriff, and constables to investigate these rumper saloons. Tower, of the local Catholic church, made an earnest plea for the preservation of the moral standards of the community, and explored the fact that gamblers driven from Washington and elsewhere should be allowed to settle on Maryland soil. A prosecuting committee composed of H. P. Magruder, of this place, H. B. Fowler, of Riverdale, and Capt. W. A. Bartlett, of Brentwood, was appointed. After many names of members of the league were secured, the meeting adjourned to meet again at the call of the presiding officer, when a report will be received. It is stated that during the session of the Circuit Court at this time the gambling house has been closed.

Animals for the Zoo. The Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives has received an estimate from the Secretary of the Treasury of an appropriation of $15,000 for expenses of procuring and transporting to the National Zoological Park, Washington, D. C., specimens of the animals of Alaska, and of constructing the necessary paddocks and houses, including all necessary field and other expenses and the employment of such temporary help as may be required.

SCOLDED BY ROOSEVELT

The Governor Charged With Exhibiting Unseemly Temper.

A Delegation From Syracuse Touches the Rough Rider on a Sore Spot—The Canal Proposition His Pet Scheme—A Torrent of Bitter and Flaming Words From Him.

NEW YORK, April 4.—A morning paper under the head lines, "Roosevelt, in a temper, abused a committee of Syracuse citizens—disgusted his friends," publishes the following:

"Albany, April 3.—Governor Roosevelt today indulged in an action more worthy of a sixteen-year-old boy than of the Governor of New York State. He lost his temper, while in the Executive Chamber, and made such an exhibition of himself that his friends present left the room in mortification at his conduct and for fear the frightful fit of temper of the hero of San Juan Hill should result in a personal assault on some member of the committee which was the cause of his anger.

"It was a committee of Syracuseans come to ask the Governor to order a change in the survey of the proposed New State Canal. This subject is a sore one with Roosevelt. He wants his own way with the canal proposition, just as he has had it in the boxing law and fish commission matters, but he has struck a snag in the shape of the Syracuse interests that would be materially affected by the new canal survey. These interests have influenced Senator Armstrong to agree to block the appropriation for the canal, unless the Governor does as they think he should.

"Armstrong's attitude was made clear to the Governor early this morning, and the news did not put him in pleasant frame of mind. That piece of information was a starter for a series of unpleasant things that arose in quick succession, with the result that by luncheon time the temper of the Governor was, metaphorically, full of holes. Some important matter prevented him from getting his lunch at the usual hour, so when the committee from Syracuse arrived at an audience it got it quick. It got more than this. Its members stood dumbfounded, after the chairman had made his little speech, while Roosevelt, with his hawk clinch, showed his finger in the faces of the committee while he vented on them the verbal manifestation of his spleen. He stamped up and down the floor, and once during this scene there was a flow of words that are best represented in print by dashes.

"Several members of the committee attempted to reply to the Governor, but his vehemence was such that they could not wedge a word in anywhere. After his fury had subsided somewhat, he pulled himself together, and walked rapidly into his private office. He slammed the door after him, leaving the committee nothing to do but to take their seats. Some of the members chattered, but all in a state of wonder as to whether the Governor was losing his senses."

ROOSEVELT ON M'KINLEY.

The Governor's Unfavorable Views. LOGANSTOWN, Ind., April 4.—At the teachers' convention here David Starr Jordan, of Leland Stanford, Jr., University, was the principal speaker, and after the lecture he discoursed to a group of listeners on current politics. He is strongly opposed to the Philippine war, and declared that he would vote for Bryan now, although he did not in 1896.

Being asked which view was gaining ground in the Philippines, Mr. Jordan said: "Let me quote you Roosevelt, or that he said to me last week. 'Jordan, I wish God that I were a member of the Philippines and had them off our backs, and that many Republicans are thinking the same.' I am free to quote Roosevelt, because I consider him in many respects one of the greatest men in the Republic."

"How do you like McKinley?" "Let me quote you Roosevelt again. He said, 'McKinley has about as much backbone as a toy chocolate man that you see on the confectioner's stand; he is a Credit-ful disappointment.'"

"What do you think of President Schurman?" "Schurman is a good man, but he is essentially an aristocrat, and an aristocrat cannot make a government for the masses."

How We Make

Corby's "Mother's Bread."

It is immensely important to your health and that of your children to use bread which contains the largest percentage of gluten—the most nutritious portion of the grain.

We develop the gluten by our modern method of mixing. It's the only process obtaining such results. We use flour rich in glutenous properties. That's the reason CORBY'S "MOTHER'S BREAD" contains 20 per cent more gluten than other breads. Your grocer sells it—refuse substitutes.
