STAMPEDE TO NEW YORKER

Republican Convention Goes Wild When He Appears.

KANSAS TO NOMINATE HIM

Delegate Burton to Present the Rough Rider's Name—All Other Candidates Swept Aside—Party Leaders Powerless to Stem the Demand for the Governor—Chairman Wolcott Opens the Second Day's Session—Veterans of 1856 Present Resolutions—Report of the Committee on Credentials Adopted, Senator Lodge Delivers His Speech.

CONVENTION HALL, Philadelphia, June 20.—The solid instructions given Lieutenant Governor Woodruff by the New York delegation last night have neither foiled nor frightened anybody. The atmosphere of the Convention this morning is more obviously charged with Roosevelt enthusiasm than it was yesterday. It is very well understood that the instructions for Woodruff in order to get the vote of New York thoroughly in hand so that he can look after other things with no further bother about his State delegation.

It is generally believed that Roosevelt will be nominated for Vice President before New York is reached on roll call. Roosevelt's name will be presented to the Convention by Kansas. J. R. Burton, of that delegation, probably will make the nominating speech.

Hanna's agents, however, continue to talk Long, Assistant Postmaster General Perry Heath, Comptroller of the Currency Dewey, and various other Federal officials of their class are energetically circulating among the delegates and newspaper men with the statement that Long is the Administration candidate. Nobody believes it.

The attendance at the Convention is much larger today than it was yesterday. The auditorium is jammed and big crowds are surging around the building.

When Roosevelt, by appointment of Temporary Chairman Wolcott, joined the committee to escort Permanent Chairman Lodge to the chair, the crowd went wild. The vast throng sprang to their feet and screamed like mad. The name of Roosevelt was the only one heard amid the tremendous noise.

CONVENTION PROCEEDINGS.

Chairman Wolcott Calls the Delegates to Order at 12:30.

CONVENTION HALL, Philadelphia, June 20.—The attendance at the second day's proceedings of the Republican National Convention is large and the crowds are enthusiastic.

Among the early arrivals were Senators Lodge, Quay, and Cullom, but the only one who received any applause was Senator Hanna, who came just before 12 o'clock.

At 12:05 Senator Dewey came down the aisle, being the first of the New York delegation to arrive. A few minutes later Senator Platt and Governor Roosevelt entered together, and the first real cheering of the day began.

As the delegations gathered in the hall it quickly developed that Governor Roosevelt is to be nominated for Vice President on the first ballot. Senator Quay said: "We are still for Roosevelt and he will be nominated." The Maryland delegation is to vote solid for the Governor, and so is California and the entire West.

Senator Hanna shook hands with Quay and both laughed. Mr. Hanna said: "I don't know who will be nominated for Vice President." "Does it look like Roosevelt?" was asked. "Don't ask me," he replied.

It was reported throughout the Western delegations on the floor that all real effort to stop the Roosevelt movement had been abandoned.

At 12:30 o'clock Chairman Wolcott rapped for order and the second day's session of the Republican National Convention was open. There was much confusion in the hall at the time and the band played the "Star Spangled Banner" while ushers tried to get everybody seated.

In less than five minutes order was established and Chairman Wolcott introduced the Rev. Dr. Charles M. Bowdler, who opened the session with prayer. The prayer offered was of the patriotic order. Dr. Bowdler gave thanks for the victories of the Army and Navy.

After the prayer, Chairman Wolcott stepped to the front platform and announced that there were present as guests of the Convention several survivors of the first National Convention of the party. "They have brought with them," he said, "the dear old flag used in that Convention, and I shall now ask them to step forward that you may see them, and they will present some resolutions."

The resolutions were as follows: "To the Republican party in National Convention assembled in Philadelphia, June 19, 1900:

"In response to the invitation extended to us by Hon. Mark A. Hanna, Chairman of the National Committee, to be present at your Convention as honorary members:

"Whereas, We the survivors of the original Republican Convention in Pittsburgh, February 22, 1856, do regret exceedingly the inability of many of said members to accept your kind invitation;

Resolved, That we accept your kind invitation and will be present at your Convention as honorary members.

Resolved, That we accept your kind invitation and will be present at your Convention as honorary members.

vation, owing to advanced age; and at a meeting of the National Fremont Association held in Pittsburgh June 16, 1900, it was resolved that Major R. H. Long, secretary, and J. K. Connor be instructed to represent us in your distinguished assembly, they send their greetings, and having remained faithful to its principles for forty-four years, shall continue the same unto the end, and heartily endorse the Administration of Hon. William McKinley, which gives us such unbounded prosperity. Yours respectfully,

"GILBERT FOLLANSBEE, Chairman.

"R. H. LONG, Secretary.

When the veterans of 1856 advanced to the front of the platform, the delegates arose in a body and cheered them heartily. After the resolutions had been read, the band played the "Red, White, and Blue."

Chairman Wolcott then recognized the Hon. Seno E. Payne of New York to present the report for the Committee on Credentials, of which Payne was chairman. Mr. Payne advanced to the platform and read the report of the committee. The committee approved the actions of the National Committee in most of the Southern contests.

The Alabama, Texas, and Delaware cases that had been left for the Credentials Committee had been heard and decided, and Mr. Payne read the list of delegates to be seated. When he read the name of J. A. Adicks, who won his fight in Delaware, there was some applause.

Mr. Payne moved the previous question for the adoption of the report. This was carried and the chair announced that forty minutes would be allowed for debate on the report. No one wanted to speak and Chairman Wolcott put the question of adopting the report. It was carried and an Alabama delegate arose to have a clerical error in the roll of that State corrected.

This was straightened out and then Senator Wolcott forgetting that the report of the committee had already been adopted put it to the Convention a second time.

General Grosvener then presented the report of the Committee on Permanent Organization, naming Senator Lodge as permanent chairman. The temporary secretaries were made permanent and the report was adopted with enthusiasm.

Chairman Wolcott named Governors Shaw of Iowa and Roosevelt of New York to escort Senator Lodge.

At the mention of Roosevelt's name the delegates and spectators jumped to their feet. There was a yell of "Roosevelt, Roosevelt, Teddy, Teddy," and then a storm of applause swept over the entire audience.

The ceremony of escorting the permanent chairman to the platform was brief and Governor Roosevelt hurried back to his seat. The delegates gave him three cheers and all over the building there were cries "Roosevelt! It's Roosevelt!"

As soon as the Governor sat down the applause ceased, and the delegates at once turned to Senator Lodge who stood awaiting to begin his speech. When the Senator got as far as the statement that this Convention had met to nominate the next President of the United States, there was an outburst of applause and cries of "McKinley."

After Senator Lodge's speech, Gen. Henry Bingham, Chairman of the Committee on Rules, was recognized and introduced the report of that committee with the statement that it had decided not to change the established rule relative to representation. This referred to the long-pending question of cutting down the representation of the Southern States.

The rules recognize Hawaii as a Territory and provide for a member of the National Committee from there, as well as for two delegates to all conventions

Representative Dolliver.

Rule 9 was clearly aimed to prevent so-called stampedes in conventions. It provides that in no case shall the calling of the roll of States and the recording of their votes be dispensed with.

Mr. Quay then offered his resolution, proposing that hereafter each State shall be entitled to four delegates-at-large and one additional delegate for each 100,000 votes or majority fraction thereof, cast at the last preceding Presidential election for Republican electors and four delegates.

Action on his resolution was postponed until tomorrow.

Chairman Lodge then recognized Senator Fairbanks, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, to present the platform.

The Indiana Senator found it difficult to make himself heard throughout the hall, and there was so much confusion the Chair had to appeal for order. "This is a matter of grave importance," said the Chair; "this is the declaration of Republican principles." The platform was then read.

HANNA WORKING FOR LONG.

Western Delegates Disposed to Rebel Against His Candidacy.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—Senator Hanna has apparently settled on Secretary Long as the candidate for Vice President, but the Western delegates are disposed to rebel. They say that if Roosevelt cannot be nominated the candidate should come from the West, and the friends of Representative Dolliver are hard at work in his interest.

Hanna was reticent and non-committal this morning. He said Mr. Woodruff was to be congratulated upon receiving the endorsement of his State. When asked about the general situation he said: "All the indications point to the success of the Republican ticket."

Senator Platt was in excellent humor this morning. He said he was quite willing to regard Governor Roosevelt as out of the situation entirely, but others kept talking about him. He said his understanding was that Senator Hanna would try to bring about the nomination of Secretary Long.

The Senator then added that there was no enthusiasm for the Secretary of the Navy and that it was hard to tell what the delegates would do. When asked what the New York delegation would do in the form of an attempt to stampede the Convention to Roosevelt, Senator Platt replied that he did not know. "It will depend on the humor of the delegates at the time," he said.

Shortly after 10 o'clock it was said in the corridors of the Walton that there would certainly be an attempt to force the nomination of Governor Roosevelt. Men who talked with Hanna and with representatives of the various candidates said before the Convention met that the situation was much the same as it had been since Sunday. They said it would be Senator Hanna and his superb organization against the first choice of the delegates, Governor Roosevelt.

Few well-informed leaders believe that the Vice Presidential situation can be settled in advance by Senator Hanna or any other person.

The Maine delegation caucused at the Hotel Walton this morning, and decided to go to the Convention for Long.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., June 20.—Charles N. Wagner, brother-in-law of Gertrude Roth, the pretty Allentown girl, who a week ago yesterday jumped into the Whirlpool Rapids at Niagara Falls, has received the package which Miss Roth addressed to her sister, Mrs. Wagner. It contained only the bracelet which the girl received on Christmas from Mr. and Mrs. Wagner and a plaque which she purchased at the Falls. Her relatives hoped that possibly Miss Roth had left some message, but in this they were disappointed.

DOLLIVER BOOM REVIVED.

Three Delegations Consider the Candidacy of the Iowa.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—The Iowa delegation started in on their boom for Dolliver with renewed vigor this morning, and the indications now are that the votes of Missouri and Minnesota will be cast for their candidate on the first ballot.

The delegates of the three States were in a joint caucus this morning behind closed doors at the Hotel Stratford, and it was known that the subject under discussion was the candidacy of Dolliver.

The Spanish War.

"No thought of national aggrandizement tarnished the high purpose with which American standards were unfurled. It was a war unthought and patiently resisted, but when it came the American Government was ready. Its fleets were cleared for action, its armies were in the field, and the quick and signal triumph of its forces on land and sea bore equal tribute to the courage of American soldiers and sailors and to the skill and foresight of Republican statesmanship. To ten millions of the human race there was given a new birth of freedom," and to the American people a new and noble responsibility.

"We endorse the Administration of William McKinley. Its acts have been established in wisdom and in patriotism, and at home and abroad it has distinctly elevated and extended the influence of the American nation. Walking untried paths and facing unforeseen responsibilities, President McKinley has been in every situation the true American patriot and the upright statesman, clear in vision, strong in judgment, firm in action, always inspiring and deserving the confidence of his countrymen.

"In asking the American people to endorse their Republican record and to renew their commission to the Republican party, we remind them of the fact that the menace to their prosperity has always resided in Democratic principles and no less in the general incapacity of the Democratic party to conduct public affairs. The prime essential of business prosperity is public confidence in the good sense of the Government and in its ability to deal intelligently with each new problem of administration and legislation. This confidence the Democratic party has never earned. It is hopelessly inadequate and the country's prosperity when Democratic success at the polls is announced halts and ceases in anticipation of Democratic blunders and failures.

Allegiance to the Gold Standard.

"We renew our allegiance to the principle of the gold standard and declare our confidence in the wisdom of the legislation of the Fifty-sixth Congress by the party of all our money and the stability of our currency upon a gold basis has been secured.

"We recognize that in the rates are a potent factor in production and business activity, and for the purpose of further equalization and of further lowering the rates of interest, we favor such monetary legislation as will enable the varying needs of the season and of all sections to be promptly met in order that trade may be evenly sustained, labor steadily employed and commerce enlarged. The volume of money in circulation was never so great per capita as it is today.

"We declare our steadfast opposition to the free and unlimited coinage of silver. No measure to that end could be considered.

THE PLATFORM ADOPTED

Declaration of Principles Presented to Republican Delegates.

Administration and Party Landed for the Achievements of the American People—Credit Claimed for the Victories of the Spanish War—President McKinley Strongly Endorsed. Allegiance to the Single Gold Standard Reaffirmed and the Free Coinage of Silver Denounced—A Qualified Pronouncement Against Dangerous Combinations of Capital

CONVENTION HALL, Philadelphia, June 20.—The following is an abstract of the platform as presented to the Republican Convention this afternoon:

"The Republicans of the United States, through their chosen representatives, met in National Convention, looking back on an unapproached record of achievement and looking forward into a great field of duty and opportunity, and appealing to the judgment of their countrymen, make these declarations:

"The expectation in which the American people, turning from the Democratic party, entrusted power four years ago to a Republican Chief Magistrate and a Republican Congress, has been met and satisfied.

When the people then assembled at the polls, after a term of Democratic legislation and administration, business was dead, industry was paralyzed, and the national credit disastrously impaired. The country's capital was hidden away, and its labor distressed and unemployed. The Democrats had no other plan with which to improve the ruinous conditions which they had themselves produced than to coin silver at the rate of 16 to 1.

"The Republican party, denouncing this plan as sure to produce conditions even more dire than those from which relief was sought, promised to restore prosperity by means of two legislative measures—a protective tariff and a law making gold the standard of value. The people by a great majority, issued to the Republican party a commission to enact these laws. This commission has been executed and the Republican promise has been redeemed. Prosperity more general and more abundant than we have ever known has followed these enactments. There is no longer any controversy as to the value of any Government obligation. Every American dollar is a gold dollar or its assured equivalent, and American credit stands higher than that of any nation.

"Capital is fully employed and labor everywhere is profitably occupied. No single fact can more strikingly tell the story of what Republican Government means to the country than this—that while, during the whole period of one hundred and seven years, from 1790 to 1897, there was an excess of exports over imports of only $38,928,497, there has been in the short three years of the present Republican Administration an excess of exports over imports in the enormous sum of $1,482,537,694 and while the American people, sustained by this Republican legislation have been achieving these splendid triumphs in business and commerce, they have conducted and in victory concluded a war for liberty and human rights.

"No thought of national aggrandizement tarnished the high purpose with which American standards were unfurled. It was a war unthought and patiently resisted, but when it came the American Government was ready. Its fleets were cleared for action, its armies were in the field, and the quick and signal triumph of its forces on land and sea bore equal tribute to the courage of American soldiers and sailors and to the skill and foresight of Republican statesmanship. To ten millions of the human race there was given a new birth of freedom," and to the American people a new and noble responsibility.

"We endorse the Administration of William McKinley. ered which was without the support of the leading commercial countries of the world. However firmly Republican legislation may seem to have secured the country against the peril of base and discredited currency, the election of a Democratic President could not fail to impair the country's credit and to bring once more into question the intention of the American people to maintain upon the gold standard the parity of their money circulation. The Democratic party must be convinced that the American people will never tolerate the Chicago platform.

Trusts and Monopolies.

"We recognize the necessity and propriety of the honest co-operation of capital to meet new business conditions, and especially to extend our rapidly increasing foreign trade; but we condemn all conspiracies and combinations intended to restrict business, to create monopolies, to limit production, or to control prices, and favor such legislation as will effectively restrain and prevent all such abuses, protect and promote competition, and secure the rights of producers, laborers, and all who are engaged in industry and commerce.

The resolutions then refer to protection, felicitating the country upon its great prosperity thereunder. Wages, it is declared, are higher than ever before and the workmen have been enabled, through its benefits, finally to "enter the markets of the world."

In the further interest of the workingman the platform favors effective restriction of immigration of cheap labor; greater opportunities of education for working children, the raising of the age limit for child labor, the protection of free labor as against contract and convict labor, and an effective system of labor insurance.

Our dependence upon foreign shipping for nine-tenths of our foreign carrying is called a great loss to our industry and a serious danger to our trade and remedial legislation is advocated.

The platform then declares for liberal pension laws, liberally administered, and preference should be shown wherever practicable to those beneficiaries with respect to employment in the public service.

The Civil Service System.

The Administration is praised for maintaining efficiency in the civil service, particularly in regard to the colonial appointments.
