

POLITICS IN MARYLAND

Democrats Working Hard and Full of Hopefulness.

Senator Wellington's Speeches on the Boer War to Be Widely Circulated as Campaign Documents—A Vigorous Attack on Imperialism and Big Standing Armies

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9.—The address issued on Tuesday by Chairman Murray Vandiver, of the Democratic State Central Committee, calling upon all Democrats to loyally support and work for the success of the ticket this fall made a strong impression because of his straightforwardness and vigor.

Responses have already been received at headquarters, and it is expected the appeal will infuse life into the Democracy in every section of the State. Mr. Vandiver was at the Eutaw House yesterday receiving callers and directing the work of communicating with the county leaders in each district, urging upon them the necessity of co-operation with the committee in its efforts to perfect the organization.

The Maryland Democratic Association is actively at work on a plan from which it expects big returns. In view of the attitude of Senator Wellington toward the McKinley Administration, Mr. S. S. Field, of the association, has been looking up some of the Senator's speeches during the last year. A few days ago Mr. Field went to Washington and through the Democratic Congressional Committee secured the address made by Mr. Wellington in the United States Senate on May 29, 1899.

The subject of the speech was the Boers and their troubles in South Africa. It was delivered in support of a resolution of sympathy introduced by Mr. Wellington. The intention of the Maryland Democratic Association is to have several thousand copies of the speech printed and distributed in the State, particularly in Western Maryland, where the German vote is heavy.

Mr. Field says that it is one of the best campaign documents ever secured. The Democratic standpoint that has been found this season and cannot help but have an effect among Germans, who are naturally opposed to imperialism and big standing armies. The speech deals with the despotism of England in her treatment of her possessions and draws a comparison between Great Britain and the United States. The association has been at work during the last two weeks sending out campaign literature and has a force of men at work every night directing the mail. The Democratic Central Committee has proffered the registration lists in order to assist in the work.

Plans for a big Democratic mass-meeting to be held under the auspices of the association, are being laid, and a meeting will be held shortly to complete arrangements. The date, selected is September 12, and a number of prominent out-of-town speakers will be present. The hall in which the meeting is to be held has not yet been selected.

The Democratic League of Maryland, with headquarters at 412 East Baltimore Street, announces it will in its campaign work lay special stress on education, trade, government, by induction, black list, and the establishment of a Department of Labor. The League invites the cooperation of all men, irrespective of past political affiliations, and especially that of young men who will cast their first vote this year.

The League will have a representative of past political affiliations, and especially that of young men who will cast their first vote this year. It proposes to erect substantial decorated stands, from which speakers will address the voters of Baltimore. It will also hold twelve hall meetings in Baltimore.

ASSESSING OFFICEHOLDERS.

Spasmodic Efforts of Civil Service Commission to Correct the Evil.

Every four years on a large scale, and every two years on a small scale, with spasmodic efforts at odd intervals, the Civil Service Commission is called upon to wrestle with the vexatious contributions of officeholders for political purposes.

It makes no difference which party is in power, the Commission always finds work to do in a national campaign, for, strange as it may seem to the uninitiated, the dominant political party managers always rest under the impression that the employees of the Government owe something to the party which placed them in office, and that gratuity and their indifference to the welfare of their party by refusing to contribute to the campaign fund may properly be regarded by their superior officers as unworthy of promotion, even if permitted to retain their positions.

By persistent activity the Commission has broken up the custom of assessing employees a certain percentage of their salaries in addition to the collection of contributions at the Government offices. But the arm of the political manager hustling for campaign funds is long, and in some way or other they seldom have any trouble in procuring the home addresses of Government clerks, and a neat circular letter invites them to contribute to the good cause. When no threats of reduction or dismissal are made, or indirectly made, the Commission has a hard time to deal with the matter, as every free-born American citizen has a right to contribute to a campaign fund. Outside the office the Government clerk resumes his individuality and becomes a private citizen. Inside the bureau he is a cog in a machine, and must not be tampered with.

A number of complaints have reached the Commission already in this campaign, and a number of these have been anonymous and of them the Commission can take no account whatever. Clerks are constantly complaining they have been reduced or dismissed or put on unpleasant work or otherwise ill-used and maltreated because they declined to contribute to the campaign fund, but it is naturally difficult for the Commission to obtain proof of these statements.

It is not an easy matter to prove that a chief clerk or head of a bureau has reduced or dismissed or put on unpleasant work or otherwise ill-used and maltreated because he refused to put up money for the campaign, said Commissioner Proctor today. "The official is willing to admit his culpability. The law provides that no employee shall be promoted or otherwise favored because of such contributions, nor shall he be reduced or dismissed or put on unpleasant work or otherwise ill-used and maltreated because he refused to contribute. Any officer violating this rule is guilty of a grave breach of trust. He has sworn to obey the laws of the United States and to do so he should be impeached and removed from office."

Mr. Proctor pointed out that in the Southern States where the Republican party has been wholly in the hands of the officeholders, the Democratic majorities have been larger than for years past, showing that the people resent the attempt of the officeholders to build up machines and conduct them for their own benefit.

The Commission will probably issue a statement regarding the existing situation of politicians to the law on this subject, and pointing out where convictions have been secured in times past on just such cases.

A MEMORIAL TO J. J. DOLAN.

The District Bar Association Adopts Resolutions of Respect on the Death of John J. Dolan. A meeting of the members of the District Bar Association was held today in Criminal Courtroom No. 2, to take action on the death of John J. Dolan.

There was a large attendance of the members, and George E. Hamilton, of the law firm of Hamilton & Colbert, was chosen to preside. H. M. Earle was secretary. A committee consisting of Henry E. Davis, Charles A. Douglass, Clarence A. Brantburg, R. Ross Perry, Jr., M. J. Colbert, and Henry W. Schorr, were appointed to draft suitable resolutions. As chairman of the committee Mr. Davis reported the following resolutions which were seconded by Mr. Douglass, and unanimously adopted:

"That by the death of John J. Dolan there has been lost to the membership one of the noblest, most sympathetic and most modest nature, honesty of purpose, and sound abilities, brought him deserved admiration of loyal friends, marked him with high a delightful and marked him among the younger members of the bar as one whose traits of character reached to the highest and developed a thorough and successful lawyer. We deplore his untimely death, and to his widow we extend our sincere sympathy in her affliction. Dr. Charles D. Hays, of our affectionate regard for his memory and our recognition of his virtues and worth."

"This meeting resolves further, That this resolution be presented in the Court of Appeals and to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, with the request that it be enrolled among their respective records, and that a copy be sent to the widow of our deceased brother."

AT WASHINGTON GROVE.

Closing Services of the Annual Camp Meeting. WASHINGTON GROVE, Aug. 9.—The closing service of the twenty-eight day annual camp meeting was held at 6:45 o'clock this morning, a "sunrise prayer meeting" being the first service of the day. Rev. John A. Anderson presided.

Yesterday's services began well with the largest attended early morning prayer of the meeting, led by Rev. Joseph Hendrickson of Rockville, Md. An experience meeting very similar to the old-time Methodist "class meeting" was conducted at 9 o'clock by Rev. George T. Tyler, of Falls Church, Va. Bishop Candler's his farewell sermon at 11 o'clock. It was considered by many the best the Bishop has yet preached at the camp. His subject was "The White Revival and the Way to Come About It."

Bishop and Mrs. Candler left camp yesterday afternoon for Washington, whence they will go tonight to their home at Atlanta. The young people's meeting, at 7 o'clock in charge of Rev. Harry Burruss, of Sudbrook, Md., was the most delightful and enlightening ever held at the camp. Rev. Joseph H. Balthus made an interesting and pleasing talk to the young people. Rev. Dr. Charles D. Hays, pastor of Trinity Church, Baltimore, preached a very earnest revival sermon at 8 o'clock.

The meeting of 1899 will go down in the history of the Washington Grove as the most successful and delightful ever held there. Spiritually, socially, and financially the meeting was a marked success, and nearly all have already engaged tents for next season. Resolutions of thanks to the Police Board for sending two officers to camp and to the officers themselves were adopted by the association.

NO NEW CASES.

The Fever Situation at Tampa Continues to Improve. TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 9.—"Nothing new" was the extent of State Health Officer Porter's official announcement of the yellow fever situation last night. The passing of another day without development has confirmed the belief of the public that the trouble is over.

The house-to-house inspection up to last night covered nearly one-half of the city. No suspicious illness has been discovered.

THE SONS OF VETERANS INTERESTED IN THE ENTERPRISE.

An Offer of Land for the Institution on the Heights Near Arlington. Location to Be Chosen at Syracuse Next Month—Interest in the Project—Mason City Seeks the Prize.

An enterprise which may result in the establishment near Washington of the largest military college in the United States is under way among the members of the National Association of Sons of Veterans.

It is the intention of the organization to establish a National Military College as a memorial to the veterans of the War of the Rebellion. Not until that war has the plain attracted widespread attention.

Committees have been appointed to solicit funds and assistance from local camps throughout the country, and the enthusiasm that the plan has awakened makes the establishment of the institution almost a certainty. Liberal contributions have been received from many States and promises of assistance from others have been given.

The question of location has not as yet been decided. At the annual meeting of the National Commandery, at Syracuse, N. Y., next month the location will be chosen. Local camps in and about Washington are making every effort to have the plan adopted within the District. They argue that the Capital of the United States would be the proper place for an enterprise of such importance. Washington, and its historical associations and its proximity to the great battlefields of the civil war are all points upon which particular stress is laid. In addition to this there have been arrangements made whereby the Washington camps may tender to the national organization, free of cost, a beautiful site for the college either before or after the starting.

Mr. Frank Hume has made an offer to deed to the association, as a site for the college, fifty acres of land on Garfield Heights near Arlington. This property, valued at $100,000, will, it is thought, have quite an effect on the decision of the committee on location. It is thought that the offer of land on Garfield Heights already promised can be secured. Inasmuch as land there is valued at $1,000 an acre, the cost of locating a college on this property would be a considerable extent by the donation.

There seems to be considerable rivalry for the location of the proposed college. Mason City, Iowa, is one of the strongest bidders. The Commercial Club of that city is working hard and has made substantial offers of land to the National Commandery.

The District Commissioners have been consulted, and they will undoubtedly use their influence to secure the prize for Washington. Dr. J. R. Neff, District Commissioner for the Maryland Division of Sons of Veterans, which includes Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, and the District of Columbia, is an active worker in the interests of the local camps.

The assistance of the Board of Trade and the Masonic Men's Association has been asked. No official answer has as yet been secured but there is no doubt of the sympathy the business public has with the movement.

It is proposed in addition to the regular college buildings to erect a splendid edifice to be used as a national war museum, in which to be preserved the most valuable relics of the civil war. There is no national museum of this kind at present, and many relics, invaluable from a historical point of view, are stored in private and small public museums from which they may be easily lost.

A number of fine scholarships will be established for the benefit of the present public men, G. A. R. veterans, and others all over the country are being interested in the movement.

THIEVES ON A HOUSEBOAT.

Jesse Mills, One of a Successful West Virginia Gang. WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 9.—Jesse Mills, late of Company G, Seventeenth U. S. Infantry, in arrest at Point Pleasant, W. Va., charged with enough thefts and larcenies to keep him in the penitentiary the rest of his life. Although this is the first time Mills has been accused of robbery, his success along the Ohio Valley has been phenomenal.

Shortly after his landing in New York Mills was taken to West Virginia, his native State, and when he arrived at Wheeling found himself without money. He made the acquaintance of men who are thus far undiscovered. They bought a small houseboat and started down the river on a thieving expedition.

How well they succeeded is evidenced in a measure by the discovery on their boat of five satchels filled with costly jewelry, many hundreds from the Valley of Middle Tennessee, and several gold watches, several dozen revolvers, and even new bicycles. The houseboat left a wake of bold burglaries.

At Parkersburg Mills took seventy-two pairs of trousers from a clothing store and climbing to the roof of a jewelry store let himself down two stories to the main floor, which he covered with the stolen clothing to muffle the sound of his escape. Through the skylight he hoisted bags of jewelry and plate and several bicycles. At various towns jewelry stores were robbed.

When arrested Mills showed fight. He was armed with two .48-caliber revolvers. Later his aged mother came from her home at Huntington to intercede in his behalf, but should he be punished for all that is charged against him he will never have another hour's freedom.

ANTI-IMPERIALISTS ACTIVE.

Preparations for the Convention at Indianapolis. INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 9.—Edwin Burris Smith, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Anti-Imperialist League, held a conference with Mr. Bryan yesterday and fully outlined the purpose of the convention which will meet here next week. He said it was not the purpose of the league to limit the discussions in the convention and that all the members opposite nominating a ticket. It is said that Mr. Smith told Mr. Bryan that he might confidently expect the convention to endorse him and the Kansas City platform. Speaking at the meeting he said that he had already received answers from 600 prominent men whom he has asked to attend, and the acceptances are still coming in at the rate of one hundred a day. In a few days we will furnish the newspapers with a list of those who will attend. It will be a long one. The congress will fairly represent the independent thought of the country, and its action will only be determined when the vote is taken. There will be differences of opinion and a great deal of discussion.

"Will the convention endorse the Democratic national platform and candidates?" "That is exactly what I don't want to talk about."

Mr. Smith said that Bourke Cockran is reserving a statement of his position until the first night of the meeting, when he will speak.

"We have a vast correspondence from all parts of the country, showing that the people are awake to the dangers of imperialism," he said, "and they are making our fight in the close Congressional districts in the hope of securing a voice in Congress. There are about twenty eggs of the case, much to be done. He is delighted with the prospect, as is also Mr. Hoffman. Mr. Hoffman purchased the Mexican snake in New York at the same time he got the pygmy snake. He was split and harmless. She is eight feet long and weighs about twelve pounds.

HELD FOR THE GRAND JURY.

The Coroner's Jury Says Stafford Died From Knife Wounds.

The jury of inquest convened by Acting Coroner Glazebrook, at No. 6 station, this morning, returned a verdict that Robert Stafford, colored, died at the Homoeopathic Hospital yesterday morning as the result of stab wounds in the back and abdomen inflicted by a knife in the hands of Boyd Wallace. Wallace is a half-brother of the deceased, and the stabbing affray took place in the rear of their home, 607 N Street northwest, on Tuesday night. The jury recommended that Wallace be held for the action of the grand jury, and Acting Coroner Glazebrook ordered the prisoner committed to jail to await future proceedings.

Acting Deputy Coroner Fisher, who performed the autopsy on the body of Stafford, testified to the nature of the wounds and the cause of death. In his opinion Stafford was a robust and healthy man. Death, he said, was due directly to the stab wounds inflicted.

The most important witness examined was Hannah Reed, colored, who lived in the same house with the half-brothers, and Harriet Jackson, the colored woman with whom Stafford went to the Anacostia camp meeting. The Reed woman said she was caring for the children of the Jackson woman during her absence. Wallace came in about 9:30 o'clock. He appeared surly and was not alone. He had a knife in his pocket to show him what was going on. He also said that he was going to have a talk with Harriet Jackson and then talk to the other half-brother, Boyd Wallace, through with Stafford who can gamble the undertakers will get his body."

The Reed woman said that Wallace, on leaving the house, took up his coat, collar and pulled his hat over his eyes to disguise himself, and then paced up and down the street between the house and the car. They had been talking freely, he said, and the Jackson woman returned. It was then the quarrel provoked by Wallace began. Both men adjourned to the rear yard to talk and witness did not expect a stabbing affray. In answer to a question the witness said she saw Wallace stab Stafford, but did not see Stafford make any movement toward either brother either before or after the stabbing.

Harriet Jackson testified to going to the camp meeting with Stafford, and upon returning she saw Wallace enter the rear yard. Witness attempted to shield Wallace, and her testimony was favorable to him. According to the Jackson woman, Wallace is thought to have performed the deed. She did not see the stabbing, but thought it was provoked.

Bessie Porter, colored, and other witnesses, including Policeman Trumbo, who arrested Wallace, testified to minor details.

THE NEW CORONER.

Dr. J. R. Neff Appointed Today by the Commissioners. This afternoon, on motion of Commissioner Macfarland, Dr. J. Ramsay Neff and Dr. Larkin W. Glazebrook were appointed, respectively, the new coroner and coroner for the District of Columbia. The appointments date from August 15, and instead of a term of three years the incumbents are to hold office at the pleasure of the Commissioners. They were strongly endorsed by leading citizens of the District.

Coroner Neff was born near Richmond, Va., and has resided here for many years. He lived in this city since he was two years old. He was educated in the public schools of the District, and afterward at the University of Maryland, where he attended the medical branch of the university and received his degree in 1893. He was a student and physician at the Washington Dispensary, and later at the Smallpox Hospital, and was an applicant for the position of physician to the poor. At present he holds the position of acting coroner, and his brother, Edwin Neff, is his associate. His appointment is in the nature of a promotion which has been won by merit.

Dr. Glazebrook is a graduate of the University of Maryland, and has served a jail term for threatening to kill his wife by act of Congress. Dr. Glazebrook does the autopsy work of the office and performs the duties of coroner in the absence of that officer.

THE CUBAN TEACHERS.

Plans for Their Reception Arranged at the District Building. John J. Edson, President of the Board of Trade; C. C. Mann, of Howard University, representing Alexis E. BUYERS IN NEW YORK.

Westerners Taking Advantage of Cut Rates Offered to Merchants. NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Large numbers of merchants and buyers from the Middle West have just arrived in New York. This influx is largely due to the reduced rates obtained by the Merchants' Association of New York, from the Middle West, which rates were in effect from that territory on August 4 and 5 inclusive.

The merchant availing himself of this rate is enabled to come to New York market at a fare and one-third the round trip and has thirty days' limit upon his ticket. About 400 have already registered at the rooms of the Merchants' Association. These rates will again be in effect from the territory of the Central Passenger Association, August 25 to 28 inclusive.

THE ELDER EICHEBERGER SUFFERING FROM SKULL FRACTURE.

The Son Albert Arrested in a Brickyard This Morning After Evading the Police All Night—Victim of the Assault Conveyed to the Hospital—Details of the Quarrel.

George N. Eichelberger, fifty-one years old, the painter, who was assaulted last night by his son, is lying in Providence Hospital in a critical condition. The Eichelbergers live at 1221 Half Street southwest, and about 9 o'clock last night the son Albert, about a painter, attacked his father with an ax, it is alleged, with murderous intent.

At a late hour he was in a stupor, and was suffering considerably, with slight chance for recovery. His skull is fractured and he has a deep gash in his scalp. Albert Eichelberger, the alleged assailant, is a prisoner at No. 4 station. He was arrested about 6:30 o'clock this morning, after evading the police all night. The arrest was effected by Policeman Stewart through the efforts of a colored man named Hughes. Hughes found Eichelberger wandering aimlessly about in a brick yard in South Washington, and at once notified Stewart. Eichelberger expressed surprise when told of his assault on his father. He claimed to have no recollection of the affair, and said he remembered nothing of the occurrences of the night, after he and his father reached their home. They had been talking freely, he said, all the afternoon.

Eichelberger will probably be brought into the Police Court tomorrow morning, under a writ to jail to give up the result of the injuries to his father. He is now charged with assault with intent to kill.

From what can be learned of the assault on the elder Eichelberger, it was the result of a quarrel over the division of certain money recently paid to the father for house painting. The son, it is said, attempted to force the father to give up a portion of the money, and failing, secured the ax and threatened his life.

Eugene Fugitt, a neighbor, it is said, when passing the Eichelberger home looked through a front window and saw Albert Eichelberger wielding the ax. He also, it is said, saw the son strike the father a heavy blow in the head, and feeling the house disappear in the direction of the street.

The police knew nothing of the assault until some time after it occurred, when some one telephoned to No. 4 station to send the patrol wagon to Half and Pierce Streets southwest to get a man who was seriously injured. As No. 4 patrol wagon was out on a run the wagon from No. 5 station was dispatched to the location described. In the meantime Policemen Stewart and Anderson arrived at the Eichelberger home, and seeing the serious condition of the elder Eichelberger telephoned for the Emergency Hospital ambulance. No. 5 patrol wagon arrived first, and Eichelberger was brought to the front room of his home in a pool of blood. He was unconscious, and there was a gaping wound in his head. He was sent at once to the hospital where an operation was performed to relieve the pressure of the fractured skull on the brain.

A search for Albert Eichelberger was instituted by Police Constables Eichenhart, Stewart, and Anderson were detailed from the Fourth precinct on the hunt for the fugitive, and Detectives Muller, Baur, Plath and Hart were detailed from Headquarters to assist in apprehending him. Despite their efforts, Eichelberger could not be located last night.

Albert Eichelberger has anything but an enviable reputation with the police. His picture adorns the rogues' gallery and he is only recently returned from the penitentiary where he served a term for killing Henry Bricker on July 14, 1894. Previously Albert Eichelberger had served a jail term for threatening to kill his wife.
