

WOODRUFF IN THE LEAD

His Boom for the gubernatorial nomination gains strength.

Many Republicans opposed to him on the ground that he is a weak candidate—Hanna and Bliss said to be against him—More talk of Chairman Odell being selected.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The sudden development of the movement to nominate Timothy L. Woodruff as the Republican candidate for Governor today overshadowed all other matters in Republican politics.

Many rumors are in circulation, and several conflicting stories about the movement have been told, but party leaders who are opposed to Woodruff say that he will be nominated unless a stronger candidate comes to the front before September 1.

There is much opposition to the nomination of the Lieutenant Governor by Republicans, who believe that a stronger candidate can be found. They recall the fact that in 1888 Mr. Woodruff ran 11,000 votes behind Governor Roosevelt in the State.

Today it was asserted that Chairman Hanna and Treasurer Bliss, of the National Committee, believe that the Republicans of New York should nominate Mr. Woodruff for Governor, but it is said they hesitate to interfere in party affairs in this State.

The development of the movement for the Brooklyn man has had the effect of reviving talk about forcing the nomination upon Chairman Odell. A large majority of the Republicans in the State, it is asserted, believe that Odell would be a much stronger candidate than Woodruff. They say that when the leaders and delegates get to Saratoga, if no other candidate has developed, the chairman of the State Committee will be forced to accept the nomination for Governor.

While it is admitted that Woodruff has developed unexpected support, and that his backing is very powerful, it is still asserted that he cannot be nominated without the hardest kind of a fight.

COLER'S FIGHT FOR GOVERNOR.

The Comptroller to Hold a Conference With His Supporters.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Comptroller Bird S. Coler, has summoned some of his political friends and advisers in Kings county to spend Sunday with him in Sullivan county. Mr. Coler is to return to the city on Monday, and it is expected that he will have something to say about the plan to make him the Democratic candidate for Governor in spite of the opposition of Thomas W. Hall and the party leaders who are in sympathy with that organization.

Reports from Saratoga and Albany are to the effect that David B. Hill and his friends have gone to work in every part of the State to elect delegates to the State Convention, who will vote for Mr. Coler as the only candidate presented by the Crozier-Murphy combination. They are to make extraordinary efforts to capture all or part of the delegation from Erie county.

It is understood that Mr. Coler has summoned his friends from Brooklyn to ascertain as to whether they will back the Kings county men, who are booming the comptroller say that he can be nominated without the delegates from Kings county, but others declare that this cannot be done.

THE INDIANA CAMPAIGN.

Both Parties to Have Speakers of National Repute.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 18.—It has been decided that the campaign in Indiana will be opened about September 1 by both parties, and from the rush of the managers of both State committees to secure speakers of national repute, it will be a battle royal for two months.

Charles A. Hermalin, of the Republican committee, expects to make Governor Roosevelt's trip through the State the star event of the campaign. Senators Fairbanks and Beveridge have signified their willingness to make several State tours.

The Democrats propose that Charles A. Towne follow Roosevelt through Indiana and will have Bryan here twice. They are striving to secure dates from Bourke Cockran and have booked Stevenson for a series of speeches.

The Democrats will hold their opening meeting here August 31, and the Republican State will be between September 1 and 5.

Saved by a Lightning Flash.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 18.—The Old Dominion steamer Albemarle, Capt. H. H. Glover, brought up yesterday Sam Fields and Mike Johnson who were rescued from drowning last night at White Shoal light, about six miles from Newport News. But for a flash of lightning they would have been rescued. The men were crossing the river in a sailboat, which was capsized in the storm. A canoe with two other men was also capsized, but it is not known what became of them.

DEMAND FOR VIRGINIA COAL.

Contracts for the Pocahontas Variety Cannot Be Filled.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 18.—Col. William Lamb, agent of Casner, Curran & Bullitt, who handle the entire output of the Pocahontas mines, was questioned today in regard to the cable from West Hartlepool, England, that a Liverpool house is asking for tonnage on behalf of the French Government to carry a million tons of coal from Norfolk to France.

Col. Lamb said he had no doubt that the French Government is enquiring for tonnage; that owing to the great reputation of the Pocahontas coal during the war with Spain very many of the foreign Governments are trying to buy it, but that if the French Government were able to get the tonnage they would want facilities to handle the coal on this side, he was unable to get the coal; that the Pocahontas coal interest in this country is now running for the ensuing year of over half a million tons, and this in face of the fact that what of transportation at low rates which would be furnished by the New York market, which they formerly supplied with half a million tons.

KILLED BY A LIVE WIRE.

Helpless Crowd Watches a Jersey Boy's Death Struggle.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Aug. 18.—Paul Kliss, a twelve-year-old schoolboy, who died from a horrible death yesterday morning at Third and Willow Streets. A broken telephone wire fell across the feed wire of the Willow Avenue trolley line, the end dangling to the sidewalk. Kliss thoughtlessly seized the dangling wire, and in a moment he was dead. He was lying on his back, his arms outstretched, his head on the sidewalk. A crowd of people gathered around him, but he was dead.

It is practically impossible to figure the population in 1890 of the territory lying to the west of the East River, which was annexed to New York City in 1898, but the population of the area now comprising Greater New York in 1890 may be assumed to have been approximately 2,000,000. The population of Greater New York in 1900 was 3,437,202, there has been an approximate increase during the decade of 944,611, or 47.20 per cent.

A BRIDE TAKES POISON.

Husband Thought She Was Jealous Until Death Came.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 18.—Mrs. Annie Adams, nineteen years old, married last week, purchased strychnine in Spartanburg yesterday on the plea that she needed it to kill thieves dogs. In the excitement one young woman was taken with spasms, and a superintendent who tried to stop the strikers came near being trampled under foot as the crowd swept out. Once out, however, the employees returned to their homes and attempted to resume work.

The strike was precipitated by the discharge of a man for leaving the mill without permission.

It is reported that the strikers are still very heavy comparatively, about 62 per cent of the gross receipts.

It was thought by many that Brooklyn Rapid Transit stock would be advanced on this statement but the reverse was true. The advance came yesterday in anticipation of it and when the figures actually appeared there was today a recession. The price went off to 56 and a fraction and did not recover much of the loss.

The grangers improved somewhat during the day owing apparently to much weakness in wheat and talk of better crop news. The grains were only fractional, but they were considered significant as the reaction in this group from the top prices of the wheat market have been very small for the most part.

THE CENSUS OF NEW YORK.

Total Population of the Metropolis Announced as 3,437,202.

It Includes the Five Boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn, Richmond, and Queens, and Shows a Large Increase Over the Enumeration of 1890—The Count Complete.

A bulletin issued at the Census Bureau this morning gave the figures for the population of the boroughs of Brooklyn, Richmond, and Queens, of Greater New York, as 1,586,582, which when added to the figures for the population of the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, issued Thursday, make the total population of Greater New York 3,437,202.

The official count follows: Brooklyn borough, 1,166,582; Richmond borough, 67,621; Queens borough, 152,999; total for Brooklyn, Richmond, and Queens boroughs, 1,386,602.

Under the act of 1894, the towns of Flatbush, Flatlands, Gravesend, and New Utrecht were absorbed by the city of Brooklyn, the town of Flatbush becoming the Twenty-ninth ward, the town of New Utrecht the Thirtieth ward, and the towns of Flatlands and Gravesend the Thirty-first ward of that city. The city thus became coextensive with Kings county. On January 1, 1898, the city of Brooklyn became the borough of Brooklyn, one of the five boroughs of Greater New York. By comparing the population of the borough in 1890 (1,166,582) with the population of Kings county in 1890 (1,386,602), an increase of 220,020 is shown in this area, representing an increase of 19.12 during the decade.

Richmond county, or what is commonly known as Staten Island, became the borough of Richmond of Greater New York January 1, 1898. The population of the county in 1890, was 153,693, which, compared with the population of the borough on June 1, 1890 (67,621), gives an increase for the decade of 86,072. The population of the borough of Richmond of Greater New York was formerly New York on January 1, 1898, and was organized January 1, 1898, from what was Long Island City, the towns of Flushing, Jamaica, and New Rochelle, and the city of Oyster Bay. The population of the borough in 1890 was 127,000, which, compared with the population of the borough on June 1, 1890 (67,621), gives an increase for the decade of 59,379. The population of the borough of Richmond of Greater New York was formerly New York on January 1, 1898, and was organized January 1, 1898, from what was Long Island City, the towns of Flushing, Jamaica, and New Rochelle, and the city of Oyster Bay.

GOVERNOR TYLER'S DECISION.

People to Determine the Time for a Special Session.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 18.—The authorized announcement is made that Governor Tyler has not fixed upon any time at which to call a special session of the General Assembly to arrange for the constitutional convention. He will not, it is said, decide the matter until after the November election, and he will then be largely governed by the wishes of members of the Legislature.

It is at his suggestion, or at least in accordance with his ideas, that papers are being distributed to the members of the Legislature to express their preference as to when November and January as the time of meeting. The matter is being very generally discussed, and Governor Tyler will, it is thought, be guided by what he is satisfied is the preference of the people. His original inclination is said to have been toward January.

CRUSHED BETWEEN BUMPERS.

Boy's Violent Death in a Railroad Yard.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 18.—George Blank, aged seventeen years, of 351 Pine Street, Camden, was crushed to death between railroad cars in the yard of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, at the foot of Bulson Street, Camden, yesterday. He was employed as an engine wiper, and had not been at work an hour when he met his death. Blank was called to one side of the yard. A puffing drill engine dived the side of a flying car which was rapidly approaching. The car struck him and pinned him between the cars. He was killed. Coroner Bushey gave a certificate of accidental death.

FIGHT AGAINST BUCKET SHOPS.

The Chicago Board of Trade Makes an Aggressive Move.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 18.—The Chicago Board of Trade made a new move today in its fight on the bucket shops and one which is of importance, as it will bring about a decision upon the question as to whether its quotations are public property, which it is compelled to furnish to all who are willing to pay for its service, or whether they are private property and can be disposed of or kept back at the will of the board.

The move consists of an application to the United States District Court for an injunction restraining the local bucket shops from using the Chicago Board's quotations. The only bucket shop named, but it is also asked that it be made to apply to all other firms of like nature within the area of the jurisdiction of the court. The injunction was not granted today, but a hearing on the application will be had here August 24. If the injunction is granted, the bucket shops will be asked from the United States District Courts in all districts where bucket shops are located.

VILLAGE FIRED BY THIEVES.

Thirteen Houses Burned, and Some Smithfield, Ill., Ruined.

SMITHFIELD, Ill., Aug. 18.—A deliberate attempt was made at midnight to burn and pillage this village and only the combined efforts of 1,000 inhabitants saved the place from destruction. The fire started in Robertson's grocery and spread rapidly. There is no fire department here, and before the bucket brigades could check the flames thirteen business houses in the center of the village had been destroyed. They were all first-class buildings, the losses will not exceed $75,000, fully insured.

In several houses near the scene of the fire the inventories were discovered gathered up by the bucket brigades. The fire was extinguished by the bucket brigades. They were driven out of half a dozen houses, and finally escaped from town in a carriage belonging to the bucket brigades. An attempt at wholesale looting had been made.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Irregularity Manifested in the Opening Dealings.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit Feature in the Declining Movement—St. Paul and the Big Four Issues Firm—Speculation Not Affected by the News of the Morning.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The Stock Market opened today dull and irregular, the feature of the decline being Brooklyn Rapid Transit. The publication of that company's annual report accounted for the particular activity in the stock. Firm features of the market were St. Paul and Big Four.

The London market was closed today so no influence was exerted from that quarter. The news from Peking of the occupation of that city by the allies and the relief of the foreign legations appeared to cut no figure in the dealings. There was little of a financial nature in the news of the morning.

The Stock Market today presented little of interest, and the week closed with general disappointment for the two optimistic people that have been expecting a boom right away, as a result of one or two days of advance prices. Brooklyn Rapid Transit went off rather sharply in the first part of the day and one or two other securities showed fractional declines. For the most part, however, the market movements for the session were not worth chronicling. Business was almost at a standstill. This was what should have been expected, as the market is not yet out of the grip of the panic and there is nothing in the situation that makes a change probable in the near future. For a long time the best advice is to hold on to your stocks. General conditions are getting better.

The bank statement today was not as bad as had been expected. The loss of cash was much less than was looked for with the immense shipments of gold during the past two weeks to account for. The figures are as follows: Reserves decreased, $7,588,900; loans increased, $3,837,400; specie decreased, $1,106,900; legal-tender notes decreased, $2,273,100; deposits decreased, $2,681,600; circulation increased, $672,300.

The market had little change after the appearance of the statement though there was a slight covering of short contracts by disappointed bears that had looked for a poorer showing.

The statement of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company and the action of Brooklyn stock today were almost the only matters of interest in the market. The figures are as follows: Reserves decreased, $7,588,900; loans increased, $3,837,400; specie decreased, $1,106,900; legal-tender notes decreased, $2,273,100; deposits decreased, $2,681,600; circulation increased, $672,300.
