

GROWTH OF AMERICAN TRADE WITH GERMANY

Marvelous Increase Recorded as to Imports and Exports.

FORMER IN EXCESS, HOWEVER

Kaiser's Subjects Buy Lots of Finished Manufactures From the United States. Totals for the Past Thirty-five Years Prove Most Interesting.

The cordiality of the relations between the United States and Germany is shown more eloquently than by speeches and more forcibly than by the booming of cannon by the figures which show the commerce between the two countries during the last few years. These figures show that the commerce of the United States with Germany exceeds that with any other country; of the world except the United Kingdom, that our imports from Germany in the fiscal year 1901 were larger than those of any preceding year, with a single exception; that our exports to that country in 1901 were larger than in any preceding year, and that our total commerce with Germany in 1901 was larger than in any earlier year. This commerce has grown from less than $20,000,000 in 1865 to nearly $200,000,000 in 1901; or, to be more exact, from $29,878,845 in 1865 to $292,225,323 in 1901, the total for 1901 being practically ten times as great as that of 1865.

Imports Exceed Exports.
An examination of the details show that the percentage of increase in imports from Germany has been greater than the percentage of growth in exports to Germany, the figures being: Imports into the United States from Germany, in 1865, $9,552,743; in 1901, $100,445,902. On the other hand, the exports from the United States to Germany were: In 1865, $20,215,102; in 1901, $191,780,427. Thus the imports into the United States from Germany are more than ten times as much in 1901 as in 1865, and our exports to Germany about nine and one-half times as much in 1901 as in 1865.

Figures Showing the Totals.
The following figures, from the official reports of the Treasury Bureau of Statistics, show the total exports into the United States from, and exports from the United States to, Germany at quinquennial periods from 1865 to 1901:
Exports to Germany—1865, $20,215,102;

1870, $42,288,877; 1875, $50,466,055; 1880, $57,062,263; 1885, $62,222,791; 1890, $85,562,312; 1895, $92,267,163; 1900, $187,347,880; 1901, $191,780,427.
Imports from Germany—1865, $9,552,743; 1870, $27,015,216; 1875, $40,247,712; 1880, $52,211,237; 1885, $63,241,733; 1890, $85,562,312; 1895, $81,914,065; 1900, $37,374,700; 1901, $100,445,902.

Finished Manufactures in Lead.
Finished manufactures form the chief features of the imports into the United States from Germany, and foodstuffs and manufacturers' materials form the chief features of our exports to Germany. Sugar, chemicals, cotton manufactures, silk manufactures, leather manufactures, toys, earthen, stone, and chinaware, wool manufactures, iron and steel manufactures and cement are the principal items in our imports from Germany; while raw cotton, corn, wheat, flour, pork and beef products, mineral oils, tobacco, oil cake and meal, naval stores, wood and manufactures thereof, and copper form the chief features of our exports to Germany.

The Principal Imports.
The following figures show the principal imports into the United States from Germany, and principal exports from the United States to that country in the fiscal year 1901:
Principal articles imported from Germany, fiscal year, 1901—Sugar, $15,556,811; chemicals, drugs, etc., $12,538,385; cotton manufactures, $10,291,338; silk manufactures, $1,343,656; leather and manufactures, $1,133,287; toys, $3,545,238; earthen, stone, and chinaware, $3,328,825; wool manufactures, $2,185,721; iron and steel manufactures, $2,811,096; cement, $1,241,960; paper and manufactures, $2,352,464; books, etc., $721,789; fax, hemp, and jute manufactures, $69,147.
Principal articles exported to Germany, fiscal year 1901—Raw cotton, $77,250,794; corn, $17,265,229; pork products, $15,966,498; mineral oils, $3,705,097; wheat, $7,871,573; copper and manufactures, $7,816,638; iron and steel manufactures, $5,975,729; oil cake and meal, $5,255,863; wood and manufactures, $4,227,792; tobacco and manufactures, $3,941,749; oleomargarine, $2,547,375; naval stores, $2,557,007; flour, $2,011,259; seeds, $1,288,109; beef products, $1,161,997; leather and manufactures, $1,004,098; paraffin and paraffin wax, $732,245.

LEGACY TO PULLMAN PORTER CONFIRMED

Surrogate Rules in Thurston's Favor.

HE WILL GET THE $80,000

Court Declares That Thurston Was Woman's Best Friend and Says That the Woman's Mind Was Clear When She Made Will in His Favor.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Surrogate Fitzgerald admitted to probate yesterday the will of Mrs. Eliza Jane Evans which, after several charitable legacies, bequeaths $80,000 to George W. Thurston, a Pullman car porter.

The conditions of Mrs. Evans' life for many years before her death led some of her relatives, for whom she had evinced a dislike, to contest the will on the ground that she was of unsound mind, and had made her will under undue influence.

Mrs. Evans met Thurston in 1895, at which time she was separated from her husband. In 1896 she decided to him a big block of real estate, in trust, and the next year she made her will in his favor.

In deciding against the contestants Surrogate Fitzgerald said that while the chief object of the testator's bounty may have been Thurston, he seems to have been the only one who was kind to her during the latter years of her life.

"When exhausted, dejected or ill from her repeated discipations and debauches," the surrogate says, "she nursed her, attended to her wants, and her gratitude for his attention and services found expression in the testamentary disposition in his favor."

The surrogate points out, in addition, that Mrs. Evans had been estranged from her relatives for many years, and had frequently announced her determination that they should not share in her estate. On the point of mental incapacity, the surrogate expresses the opinion that, "despite Mrs. Evans' excessive dissipation and the irregularities of her life, she was entirely capable of disposing of her estate by will."

FIRE CAUSES PANIC IN CROWDED THEATRE

Blaze in Grand Opera House in New York.

Women Fainted and Men Fought When Alarm Was Heard—Cool Policeman Stilled the Frightened People.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Panic seized upon the audience in the Grand Opera House, Twenty-third Street and Eighth Avenue, at 9:20 o'clock last night, when fire was discovered in a lodge room on the third floor of the theatre building.

A performance of "The Old Kentucky" filled the stage at the time, and in a mad rush that part of the audience which occupied the family circle crowded out the exits and began descending the fire escapes.

Women screamed and fainted, men fought each other to get out of the gallery, and for a few moments it looked as though a serious calamity could not be averted.

The prompt action of Roundsman Regan, who ran down the centre aisle of the orchestra circle and assured the audience that they were in no danger, prevented a spread of the panic to that part of the house, and ultimately quieted the occupants of the upper sections.

The fire started in a cloak room attached to one of the many lodge rooms in the Grand Opera House building, and is believed to have been caused by a defective electric light wire. The shouts of the occupants of the building, which is separated from the theatre by a stout wall, first alarmed the audience in the family circle. A few minutes later the fire engines began to arrive and a wave of nervous anxiety swept over the house, which was fully crowded.

"Keep your seats!" cried Roundsman Regan. "There is no danger."

But the roar of the engines began, and the trumping of the firemen, and the shouting, and the family circle simultaneously began to empty itself through the stairways and out upon the fire escapes.

They argued in favor of the passage of the Overstreet bill increasing the pensions of those totally deaf, whose disability was contracted in the service.

RAPID-FIRE GUNS ARE NOW ALL IN ONE HAND

Headley Gets Control of Driggs-Seabury Co.

TO FORM A BIG COMBINATION

Headley's Deal Made for the American Ordnance Company—E. W. Bliss Company Seeking to Acquire Control of the United States Projectile Company.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Joseph H. Headley, president of the American Ordnance Company, has bought the plant and business of the Driggs-Seabury Company, of Derby, Conn. The purchase price is said to have been about $1,250,000.

This purchase practically gives the Headley-Manufacture syndicate the control of the manufacture of rapid-fire ordnance, the syndicate now being in control of the Hotchkiss, Driggs-Schroeder, DeLong-Seabury, Dussheil and latest type of Maxim guns.

Eventually, the rapid-firing plants will, with other properties, be amalgamated with the American Ordnance Company, the new corporation to have a capitalization of $10,000,000.

At a meeting of the directors of the United States Projectile Company in the Brooklyn, it was decided to accept an offer of the Bliss Company to pay $150 a share for the stock of the projectile company, in thirty-year bonds, bearing six per cent interest. This offer, however, is not to be binding unless at least 3,500 shares, or seven-tenths of the issue of the projectile company, can be obtained at these terms by the E. W. Bliss Company.

A DEGREE FOR THE PRINCE.

Harvard Likely to Honor the Nation's Royal Guest.

Prince Henry will receive an honorary degree from Harvard on March 6. This was announced yesterday by a man who received the information direct from Cambridge. The name of Prince Henry had been mentioned soon after his arrival in this country in connection with this honor, but there was some opposition to the plan in the university corporation. This has, however, been overcome, and if the proposed plans are carried out the degree will be conferred with imposing ceremonies.

It is believed that further details as to the gift of works of art to the university by the German Emperor will be made public at that time.

A member of the royal party said that all Germans are keenly interested in subjects pertaining to the university, and that the Prince would doubtless enjoy his visit to Cambridge, even if he did not look forward to the great honor in store for him there.

It has also been stated on good authority that the names of the German Emperor and of Prince Henry would be added to the list of honorary members of the New York Yacht Club, which club includes the names of their royal uncle, King Edward VII, and the Grand-Duke Alexis.

GAMBLERS MUST GIVE HIM BACK HIS MONEY

Electrical Device Robbed Embezzler of $9,000.

Victims Sue Sharks Who Conducted the Crooked Game and Secure Verdict Against Them.

VINCENNES, Ind., Feb. 28.—In the case of Richard H. Davis against Matthew Kelly and Dallas Tyler to recover $10,000 lost in gambling, the jury returned a sealed verdict in favor of Davis for $9,000.

Davis recently confessed to embezzling $75,000 of the funds of a Washington (Ind.) bank, of which he was the cashier. He said that he had lost $30,000 of the money gambling, and commenced suit against the gamblers for $10,000, which he said he lost playing craps.

At the trial of the suit it was testified by an electrician that he had been employed by the gamblers to so arrange the craps table that it would be impossible for the players to win, and that he had done so. A thin copper plate was introduced under the green cloth of the table, charged with electricity, and so affected the dice, which were especially constructed, that certain numbers would be uppermost.

Six similar cases, in which Davis is the plaintiff, will be tried in Indianapolis. Davis was pleased with the verdict today, and said he would push the other cases. He is under a suspended sentence. He will be sentenced to a year in prison for embezzlement from the Washington bank.

FOR INCREASED PENSIONS.

General Torrance and Others Heard by the House Committee.

Judge Eli Torrance, commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, and the other members of the G. A. R. committee on pensions—Judge Charles E. Burton, of Missouri; General Caruahan, of Michigan; and Col. John C. Lomenax, of New Hampshire—appeared before the House Committee on Invalid Pensions today and urged amendments to the pension laws of 1890, which, in addition to the pension laws of 1890, in effect, will increase to $12 the pensions of most of those now receiving from $8 to $10.

They also favored the so-called department bill of 1890, in cases of disability appeals, refers the questions of law involved to the Court of Claims for adjudication.

They argued in favor of the passage of the Overstreet bill increasing the pensions of those totally deaf, whose disability was contracted in the service.

Downtown Temperature.
The temperatures registered by the standard thermometer at Home & Herrmann's today were: 9 a. m., 50 degrees; 12 m., 58; 2 p. m., 57.

FUNDS FOR TRAINING STATIONS FOR SAILORS

Secretary Long Asks for an Appropriation to Carry Out Scheme Abolishing Ship Schools.

The Secretary of the Navy has made formal application to the House Committee on Naval Affairs for an appropriation of $71,000 to be expended for the erection of buildings at the Norfolk and New London, Conn., navy yards for the use of men under training for the navy.

Training Stations for Sailors.
It is proposed to establish at these yards, and especially at New London, large and well-equipped training stations for sailors. Many of the old buildings will be used, but Admiral Crowsinshield regards it necessary to erect new structures, especially designed for training purposes.

The establishment of training stations at Norfolk and New London is the first move in the abolition of training ships for naval recruits. In the future it is planned to train naval apprentices on land.

PRINCE AND PARTY VISIT ANNAPOLIS

House to confer with Superintendent Wainwright and the Naval Academy authorities, with a view to extending an invitation to the Prince to visit Maryland's State capital, and be received there by the joint bodies of the General Assembly, but as the allotment of time for his stay here only covered about four hours, which Superintendent Wainwright says is scarcely enough for an inspection of the Naval Academy, the Prince could not visit Maryland's ancient building.

Representative Pearce from the House District Committee submitted today the unanimous report of the committee on the bill to tax certain institutions for water mains and special improvements in the District.

MR. FRYE AT WHITE HOUSE.

Presumably in Consultation Over Tillman-McLaurin Episode.

Senator Frye, President pro tem. of the Senate, called at the White House today, and was in consultation with President Roosevelt presumably in regard to the Tillman-McLaurin incident.

Representative Southard of Ohio and Mr. J. C. Voight, editor of the "Toledo Express," called on President Roosevelt today and talked over certain Federal appointments in Representative Southard's district.

DEPARTURE FOR ANNAPOLIS.

Prince Henry Leaves Washington in a Torrent of Rain.

As Prince Henry's carriage drew up at the Pennsylvania depot one minute before train time this morning hardly a score of policemen were to be seen upon the streets.

The rain which had been coming down in torrents had cleared the streets of all those persons who had come down to see the Prince depart for Annapolis. Taking advantage of this, most of the policemen who were not provided with their rubber outfits sought shelter in their ruler doors that were opened to them while from every door and window could be seen their neat uniforms.

The arrangements at the depot had been varied somewhat. The awning had been erected through the large baggage entrance to the platform adjoining the baggage room and adjacent to the head house. Rugs and handsome carpets, as previously, had been laid from the curb to the car which was to convey the royal party. This car was the rear one of the special train which consisted of the three cars which have been used heretofore with a baggage car in front. It had been placed on the west track of the first platform.

The station was crowded with a curious crowd which was prevented from encroaching on the reserved section by ropes in front of which the police and detectives were lined up. The inclemency of the weather necessitated something of a change in the police arrangements and instead of the bicycle squad acting as escort, a detail of a dozen mounted policemen preceded and flanked the carriage, which was otherwise unaccompanied.

The Prince's suite, and the distinguished guests who were to accompany him on the trip had already arrived when General Corbin to hurry, and but a few seconds after the hands of the station clock had passed the hour of 9:10 the train pulled out. The only stop made on the trip was at Odenton, where the train was switched onto the tracks of the Annapolis line and from there a rapid run was made to the seat of the Naval Academy.

The party is due back in the city at 4 o'clock according to the prearranged program but the railroad people expect to find them here forty-five minutes earlier.

President Roosevelt will be a guest of the Prince at the German Embassy to dinner this evening and following the repast the various German singing societies of the city are scheduled to serenade the Prince at the Embassy. The party will take their final leave of the city tonight at midnight when the special train will pull out of the station for the tour of the Southwest.

A slow schedule has been arranged to give every opportunity for the party to get much needed rest. Only three stops will be made here and at Chattanooga, where a drive will be taken along Missionary Ridge and possibly a trip to Lookout Mountain if the weather is propitious.

EASTERN DISPENSARY'S PHONE.

Will Soon Be Connected With District Switchboard.

Mr. Walter C. Allen, the Electrical Engineer, has submitted a report upon the matter of connecting the Eastern Dispensary by telephone with the District switchboard, in which he states that as soon as the cable recently purchased by the department for the use of the District can be connected, the telephone will be put in.

Mr. Allen states that the department has experienced great difficulty in securing competent men to splice the underground cables which is the cause of the delay complained of.

The above report was called out by a letter from Mr. Thomas W. Smith, president of the Board of Directors of the Eastern Dispensary.
