

HURRYING TO MEET ANY EMERGENCY

Operators Massing Men at Central Pumping Stations.

FIRST SIGN OF WEAKNESS

Believed That Owners Will Not Be Able to Fill the Places of the Striking Firemen—Coal and Iron Policemen Mobilized.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 28.—The operators are this morning hurrying preparations for concentrating their pumping power at central stations, where they hope to be able to mass sufficient men to keep the water down.

This is the first evidence that they will not be able to fill the places of all the men who will strike next Monday, and that they will allow some of the mines to partly fill with water. The mines of some companies are so grouped that the excess shaft of all will receive the water from the surrounding mines after it reaches certain levels, thus acting as a big drain, from which can be pumped sufficient to keep the water below a point where it will do much damage.

Several of the mines are now being shut down and extra pumps erected at the one selected to act as the drain, and these the men of the companies rely upon are being concentrated. These are chiefly the bosses and clerks. The strikers take this as an indication that the companies, while determined to make a long and bitter fight of it, are willing to sacrifice in damage thousands of dollars, are not so sure of the power of resistance as they were. Coal and iron mines are being concentrated at the mines which are to be the pumping stations, and there will guard the work and prevent the interference expected from the strikers, who are growing more bitter each day. The state and national authorities will be called upon, the negotiators declare, to guard the mine workers from the enemy's attack.

This morning State Secretary Mulhally, of the Bureau, stated that before the end of the week he expected that several more independent companies would grant the demands of the men and allow them the eight-hour day, under the proviso that when the strike ends they will give what the other operators do.

Mayor Horston held the couple in $500 bail each awaiting regulation papers from New York city. Allen, it is stated, lived in New Brunswick, N. J., where he was employed as a gardener and coachman for a man named Oliver.

PAWNEE HIS WIFE'S FALSE TEETH FOR DRINK

CHICAGO, May 28.—There was nothing else for John Kueger to pawn in order to get money for drink, so he took his wife's false teeth. Mrs. Kueger told about it in court yesterday afternoon. The family had been reduced almost to poverty, according to the wife's story, and in his desire for a drink the husband took the false teeth while she was asleep.

GAS STOVES

"I was troubled with indigestion for about two years," writes Wm. Bowker, Esq., of Julietta, Mich. Co., Mich. "I tried different doctors and remedies but to no avail, until I wrote to you and you told me what to do. I suffered with a pain in my stomach and left side and thought that it would kill me. Now I am equal to with this and let you know that I am all right. I can do my work without pain and I don't have that tired feeling any more. Write to me and I will send you a testimonial." BIG GAMBLING DEBT VOID.

Pat Sheedy Loses Suit Against C. F. Kohl, of Philadelphia.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Pat Sheedy, lately a professional gambler, saw $25,000 that he had counted upon drop out of sight yesterday in the supreme court, and grumbled.

"What do I think of having the judge decide against me?" said Sheedy. "Why, when I go to the races and the judges hang out the numbers that ends it. I never kick against those decisions. Judge Gilchrist knows his business. A number has been hung out which says the $25,000 Kohl gave to me is void. Litigation is a good gamble for the lawyers. I thought I had a good thing, but the court decided I did not. All judges look alike to me, whether on the bench or on the track, and I never dispute their decisions."

Sheedy's suit against C. Frederick Kohl, of Philadelphia, was for the payment of a note given by Kohl to Martin J. Walsh. Kohl lost the money gambling with Walsh and John G. Gray, in Naples, on January 2, 1901. The note was made payable to Philadelphia twelve months after date. Sheedy bought the note from Walsh.

The defense claimed that the debt was for a loss at cards, and that in Italy, where the note was drawn, and in Pennsylvania, where it was made payable, gambling debts have no legal status.

GENERAL SPORTING NOTES.

Manager Herford told Dr. Ordway if Daly would agree to weigh in at 136 pounds he would accept the offer and let Gans cross the ocean, otherwise he could call it off. It looks as if the champion will not appear at the coronation fight.

The next automobile show in New York will be held at the Madison Square Garden the third week in January, 1903. The show will be under the auspices of the Automobile Club of America and the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers.

Speed is to be the only thing that will count in the airship races at St. Louis. Aero-planes may race against dirigible balloons and the big against the small, but the one that crosses the finish line first will be the winner.

John Roberts, the English billiard champion, is on his way home from Japan, by the way of this country, and has written to Slosson to arrange for a series of matches.

The announcement of the N. C. A. that it would allow team work in a limited form in professional sprint races is expected to add materially to the quality of competition furnished by the bicycle riders this year.

Fred. Voigt, manager of the New Haven track, has arranged a match for Decoration Day between George C. Schneider and George J. Collett, the speedy "Nutmegger." The match will be at mile heats, two out of three, and as these two men were competitors for amateur honors, their first match in the professional ranks should arouse interest.

There is a possibility that before long definite dates will be announced for big track events for automobiles in Detroit and Cleveland for the present season. The meets will be arranged for two days apart, so that the contestants will have ample time to take part in both meets.
