

DEATH OF MR. MAREAN CAUSES MUCH SORROW

Arrangements for the Funeral Not Yet Completed.

THE OBSEQUIES TOMORROW

Well-Known Telegrapher Sustains Fatal Injury by Falling From Second-Story Window of His Residence—A Sketch of His Active Career.

The funeral of Mr. Morrell Marean, for twenty years the manager of the local branch of the Western Union Telegraph Company, who died yesterday afternoon after having sustained a fall from the second story window of his home, will be held at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at his late residence, 1623 Twenty-ninth Street northwest.

Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been completed, but it is understood that the family desire the Rev. Dr. Stephen M. Newman, pastor of the First Congregational Church, to officiate. Interment will be made at Oak Hill Cemetery. No pallbearers have yet been appointed. The services at the house will be private.

No certificate of death has been issued by Coroner Nevitt, who was summoned yesterday afternoon to view the remains.

No Successor Named Yet.

Mr. Marean's death, coming as suddenly as it did and in such an unexpected manner, was a great blow to his family and large circle of friends in this city. Nothing can yet be learned regarding the appointment of his successor at the local Western Union office. It was stated this morning that the officials of the company have no person definitely in view for the place just at present.

Shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. Marean was with his wife in one of the second-story rooms of his house. Although he had been ill for the past three or four months with nervous trouble he was able to walk about the house and the adjoining grounds. He remarked to his wife on the pleasantness of the weather.

Saw Husband Fall.

Presently he started toward the window. His wife turned a moment later to see him stagger, fall across the window sill, and to the ground, a distance of forty feet or more.

Mrs. Marean quickly summoned aid and rushed down to her husband's assistance. Upon arriving where he had fallen she found her husband in a sitting posture on the lawn. He was still alive, but was in a fazed condition. It has been probably due to the fact that the soft earth and extremely long grass of the lawn had broken his fall that death had not resulted immediately. Dr. S. S. Nicholson, who had been attending Mr. Marean for nervous ailments, was summoned and arrived in a very few minutes. He at once had the injured man removed into the house, where he could be properly cared for.

The patient's condition was seen to be precarious in the extreme. Mr. Marean swiftly lapsed into unconsciousness and had two or three internal hemorrhages, following each other in close succession. Dr. Mackall, one of Georgetown's most prominent physicians, was hastily sent for and a consultation held.

Mr. Marean remained in a comatose state and could not be roused in the least. It was soon ascertained that he was past all medical aid. Mr. Marean died about 5:15 o'clock.

Coroner Nevitt was summoned, and upon his arrival made a careful examination of the remains. He was at the house some time and left without issuing a death certificate.

A Widely-Known Telegrapher.

The deceased was about sixty years of age and was one of the best-known telegraph men in this part of the country. He was born and educated at Montrose, Pa., and at a very early age became interested in electricity. He readily turned to telegraph and learned the rudiments of the business in his native town. His experience as an operator was ripened by several years of employment with the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad. In 1863 he came to Washington and entered the employ of the Western Union. His ability as an operator grew to be well known and soon secured him a promotion to the position of chief operator of the local office. Following upon this advancement came other and more substantial promotions, until Mr. Marean was made the manager of the Washington branch of the company. He continued, however, to keep in practice with the key, and even until the time of his death he was regarded as one of the best operators in the company.

When the Western Union's plant in Chicago was destroyed by the big fire in that city Mr. Marean was sent to the Windy City to superintend the re-establishment of the plant and lines.

In Spanish-American War.

During the Spanish-American war the deceased held the position of adviser for the Government in the matter of locating telegraph lines throughout the United States. His intimate knowledge of Government affairs and his close acquaintance with men of prominence in all walks of life made him a most valuable employe of the Western Union Company. He was in the confidence of the company in all of their business operations before Congress and on account of his intimacy with practically all of the public men he was intrusted with many very delicate transactions requiring great tact and business ability.

Mr. Marean's death was felt most deeply by the employes of the local offices. They could scarcely be induced to believe that the news which reached them last night of his death was true.

A CHAPTER OF SUNDAY MISHAPS

An unusual number of accidents occurred yesterday to various residents of the District. With one exception none of the victims of the misfortunes were seriously hurt, but many painful bruises, burns, and aches resulted. The following is the record for the day:

An Aged Man's Nose Broken.

About 6 o'clock last night George Johnson, seventy-five years of age, living at 1204 G Street northeast, fell down the stairs of the Home Club, 1008 E Street northwest, and broke his nose. He was removed to the Emergency Hospital where his injuries were dressed, after which he was carried home by friends.

Fell Under a Railway Train.

Wesley Clements, colored, thirty years old, either fell or jumped from an inbound train near the corner of Third and K Streets southeast about 9 o'clock last night. He fell under the wheels of the train. His left foot was badly crushed and he was badly injured about the head. The Fifth Precinct patrol wagon was summoned and the injured man removed to the Providence Hospital. His condition is said to be critical.

Fell While Trying to Board a Car.

While trying to board car 362 of the Capital Traction Railway Company about 9 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Henry Beck, a negro, living at 446 O Street alley, fell and was slightly injured about the head and body. He was taken home by friends.

Evil Results of Smoking in Bed.

While lying in bed smoking, about 11 o'clock yesterday morning, Winnie Thomas, a colored woman, forty-one years of age, living at Fourteenth and Spring Road, set fire to the bed clothes. Before she could escape she was painfully burned about the body. The Emergency Hospital ambulance was summoned, and the injured woman removed to that institution for medical treatment.

Injured by a Bicycle.

Frank Golding, a three-year-old negro youth, living at 32 Jackson Street northeast, was accidentally knocked down and slightly injured about the head last night by a bicycle ridden by George Jones, of 67 Jackson Street. He was attended by Dr. Satter, and afterwards went to his home.

Slight Blaze in the Northeast.

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon fire alarm box 68 was pulled by Hope Bell for a fire in house 1006 Fourth Street northeast, occupied by David Greenleaf. The fire was soon had under control, the house being damaged to the extent of $10.

SUIT AGAINST STANDARD BUTTERINE COMPANY

Charles F. Nesbit Brings Action to Recover $24,000.

Charles F. Nesbit today filed suit against the Standard Butterine Company to recover $24,000, claimed to be due on a promissory note, dated February 27, 1902. The note was made payable in three months at 6 per cent interest at the Union Savings Bank. It is stated in the declaration that on June 11, $4,000 was paid on account of the principal. Ralston & Siddons are named as counsel for the plaintiff.

OVERSTAYED HIS PAROLE.

Detective Sergeant Baur this morning arrested Daniel E. McNamara, an old soldier and former inmate of an insane asylum in Philadelphia.

McNamara several weeks ago was released by the asylum authorities on parole to visit his family in this city. He overstayed his parole, however, and yesterday the asylum authorities called the local police to arrest him. He will be taken back to Philadelphia this afternoon.

Rev. Father Edward Craig, of Georgetown, who was ordained into the Catholic priesthood Saturday at the Cathedral in Baltimore, celebrated his first solemn high mass yesterday morning at Holy Trinity Church. Rev. Father F. X. Mulvaney, pastor of the church, and Rev. Father O'Neill, of St. Mary's Seminary, of Baltimore, where Father Craig received his theological education, assisted at the service. During the mass about twenty priests from Baltimore and Georgetown University assisted in the sanctuary. The church was crowded with the parishioners and many visiting friends of Father Craig. Special music by an augmented choir was rendered. After the mass Father Craig and the other priests who participated in the service were dined at Georgetown University by the priests of that institution. Those who assisted in the mass were Rev. Fathers O'Connell, Dunne, O'Neill, Quill, Fleming, Chapins, Eagleton, Tobin, Gaynor, Walsh, Smith, Cahill, McAtee and Mulvaney.

INFANT DIES WITHOUT MEDICAL ATTENTION

Margie Patrick, colored, who resides at 108 M Street southwest, reported to the police of the Fourth Precinct this morning that her two months' old infant died some time during the night. It had received no medical attention. Coroner Nevitt has been notified and will order an investigation into the case.

A RUNAWAY TEAM SMASHES A LAMPPOST

About 9 o'clock this morning two horses attached to a coal wagon, the property of C. M. Frazer, of Anacostia, became frightened at a steam roller and ran away. The frightened animals dashed into a lamp post near the corner of Seventh Street and Berkshires Road, demolishing it completely. The horses were finally stopped by Mounted Policemen Rhodes. Andrew Marshall, colored, drove the team.

Cases of Peddlers Postponed.

About thirty perambulating fruit vendors were in the Police Court today, charged with violating the police regulation governing fruit peddlers in the District. The cases were postponed until Thursday.

NEWS AND GOSSIP FROM GEORGETOWN

At Trinity Church this morning at 9 o'clock requiem mass was celebrated over the remains of Francis Leo Ellis, who died Friday at the residence of his parents on the Canal Road. Short services were held at the late residence of the deceased before the remains were removed to the church. Ellis, who was but eleven years of age, died of blood poisoning. About a year ago he ran the fin of a catch into his foot, which made a painful wound in a few weeks the wound healed. About a month ago his other foot became affected, and death resulted. The boy was a pupil of the Trinity Episcopal School. He was the son of Mr. Everett and Mrs. Sophie Ellis.

WILL BE LAID AT REST TOMORROW AFTERNOON

Arrangements for the Funeral of the Late Dr. Winter.

The funeral of Dr. John T. Winter, one of the oldest practicing physicians in the District, will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at his late residence, 1001 Eighth Street northwest. Interment will be made in Oak Hill and will be private.

Dr. Winter was born in Petersburg, Md., in 1842, and came to this city while still a very young man to accept a position in the Quartermaster's Department of the army. He served through the entire civil war, and later, in 1887, entered the Georgetown University Medical School, from which he graduated with honor. For a number of years he belonged to the staffs of the various hospitals in Washington, and was one of the founders of the National University Medical School.

Besides his medical work, the deceased took a very great interest in pharmacy, and at the time of his death was president of the board of commissioners of pharmacy of the District of Columbia. He was a member of the American Medical Association, the District Medical Society, the National Geographic Society, and many patriotic organizations. Dr. Winter was also thirty-second degree Mason.
