COFFEE VISE.

Holds Fast Until You Get a Knock-Down. "I had used coffee moderately up to six years ago," writes a lady from Piney Creek, Md., "when I was seized with an attack of nervous prostration, and was forbidden coffee by my physician. I was constantly under treatment for nearly three years. After my recovery, I once took a cup of coffee, and it made me so sick I did not want any more. After the nervous prostration, my stomach was very weak, so that I had to be careful with my appetite. As soon as I would eat certain things, I would have an attack of stomach trouble sometimes lasting several weeks, so when I was attacked by erysipelas two years ago, my stomach was immediately out of order. I kept getting worse until nothing would stay on my stomach, not even rice water or milk, and I was so weak I had to be fed with a spoon. I had a craving for something like coffee, but that was impossible, so Father went to town and got some Postum Food Coffee, and when he asked the doctor if I might have it, he quickly answered, 'Yes.' Mother made it exactly as directed, and brought me part of a cup and it was delicious, satisfied every craving, and best of all, stayed on my stomach without distress, giving comfort instead. For several days I lived on Postum, gradually increasing the amount I took until I could drink a cupful. Then I began to take solid food with it, and so got well and strong again. I now use it constantly, and I am entirely free from any stomach trouble. Father and mother both use it. Coffee made mamma nervous and disagreed with her stomach so that she would taste it for hours after drinking. Father had stomach trouble for five or six years, and used to be deprived of various articles of food on account of it. Now he can eat anything since he quit coffee and uses Postum. Father says that it is better than Mocha or Java. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

PRIVATE OWNERSHIP OF LAND IN YOSEMITE PARK

Superintendent Hein Recommends Its Abolition For the Protection of Fish.

The enactment by Congress of a law extinguishing titles to lands within the limits of Yosemite National Park is recommended in the annual report of the acting superintendent of the park, Major O. L. Hein, which was made public by the Interior Department today. It is pointed out that as long as there is private ownership of land in the reservation it is almost impossible to keep stock off the grazing lands or to protect fish in the lakes and streams.

The efforts of the rangers to locate the lines in many cases having failed, the acting superintendent recommends the employment of a party of surveyors for at least a year to properly define the metes and bounds of the patented and leased lands. Partial returns indicate patents and leases in the park limits to the extent of about 60,000 acres. There were forest fires in the park in July, August, and September, caused in some cases by the carelessness of campers and in other instances by hostile half-breeds. Two half-breeds are soon to be tried for starting a fire that devastated nearly 2,000 acres in the heart of the park. More stringent regulations to campers and tourists are recommended. There is now no law providing for the punishment of trespassers. The sum of $8,850 is asked for the work of construction and repair of trails in the park. The superintendent has in the last year tallied down numerous requests for permits for people wishing to locate mines, electrical works, etc., in the park.
