SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

The modern berry maldy par excellence is the cranberry. It is usually among working women found to be due from lack of exercise. Scientists believe that all salt, wherever found, has come originally from the sea, some way or other.

EARNINGS OF WOMEN MUSICIANS.

Mme. Patti is the best paid woman in the world. She receives $5,000 for an evening's work. Maud's fee, whether for concert or opera, never less than $4,000.

JUDGE HARMON AT HOME

At Present He Is With His Brother at Eokington.

Chinese Minister's Big Domestic Establishment—Pierre Botkine Has Sailed for Europe.

Attorney General Harmon, since his return to the city from his visit to his family in Cincinnati, has been living out at Eokington with his brother, who some time since purchased a house at that place.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Hamilton, since his recent return from his summer home at Marion, Mass., has been staying at Chevy Chase. He has also recently been learning to ride the bicycle, and now comes in every morning upon his bicycle, making the return trip after office hours in the same manner.

Miss Marian Suit and her niece, Miss Mabel, leave to-day to visit her sister-in-law, Mrs. C. P. Atmore. Miss Suit will divide her time among relatives in Lexington, Ky.

Mrs. James Brown Potter, whose doings will always have more than a passing interest to Washington society from the fact that it was Washington society who launched her upon her career as an actress through her famous rendition of "Cinderella" at the Waldorf Astoria during the first Cleveland administration, has it appears, had a reconciliation with her family.

Mr. and Mrs. Urquhart, of New Orleans, her parents, who were most bitterly opposed to her going upon the stage, and most resentful of the course of events that have followed therefrom, have come around, and a family reconciliation has taken place. When Mrs. Potter sailed recently from New York for Europe her mother, accompanied by her aunt, Mrs. Richardson, of New Orleans, through whose kindly services the family breach has been healed, accompanied her to New York and remained with her until she sailed away.

Senator and Mrs. Frye are spending the summer at Squirrel Island, Me.

Gen. and Mrs. Flagler left the city yesterday for Canada, where they will be until the autumn. They will go first to Halifax, making the trip by water.

The illness of Prince Lowenstein of typhoid fever at the Newport Hospital is causing no end of sympathy for the invalid in Newport society, in which he is most popular.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andrews are spending the summer at Newport. They have a large party of guests at present, and their daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Andrews.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor have left Newport in their yacht, the Normahall, for Bar Harbor. When they started numerous friends sent magnificent floral offerings, and Mr. and Mrs. Astor, but to many of their guests upon the trip. Among these guests were Miss Blight, who has just returned from Europe; Miss Wilson, sister of Mrs. Gordon; Mr. Winthrop Rutherford, Mr. Centre Hiltbeck, Mr. Hamilton Cary, and Mr. R. L. Cottene. They stay at Bar Harbor will be only a few days' duration. At the end of that time they will return to Newport for the remainder of the season.

The Chinese Minister will soon leave the city with his wife and family to spend the remainder of the summer. He is well known as one of the wealthiest men of the diplomatic corps and maintains one of the most extensive establishments in Washington.

In addition to all of the white and black employed about the location there are no less than ten Chinese men servants and four Chinese women.

Miss Frances Courtney Baylor, the well-known author, passed through the city recently on her way to New York, where she will remain until August, and then return here for a short visit before going to her home in Winchester, Va.

Mrs. Francis Miller, accompanied by her daughter and son, left the city a few days since for a visit to Atlantic City.

Mr. Pierre Botkine, formerly of the Russian legation in this city, after enjoying the gaieties at Bar Harbor and Newport since the beginning of the season, has sailed for Europe. He was a passenger by the Fleet Bismarck, which sailed yesterday from New York.

Dr. and Mrs. John B. Long, of Indianapolis, have returned home after a visit to Dr. M. W. Moore, of 1203 North Capitol street. Dr. Long is the professor of

TEMPLARS AT GLEN ECHO

Potomac Commandery Had an All-Day Fete There.

BEGAN WITH A TOURNAMENT

Gallant Knights Rode for Prizes and to Do Proves Before Fair Ladies. Equestrian Feats of United States Cavalrymen—Concert in the Great Amphitheater in the Evening.

Potomac Commandery No. 3, Knights Templar, gave an all-day fete at Glen Echo yesterday, which began with a tournament and closed with a concert, the latter being from the amphitheater.

There were six entries for the tournament, and four prizes were awarded, as follows: First prize, a saddle, to James Harris, who had the honor of "showing the queen." He was recognized in the days as "Little Daisy," and he was crowned Miss Laura Hanson, of Montgomery county, Maryland. James Shugree won the second prize, a "Will I Can," and a bride was his reward; Richard Ricketts, as Knight of Montgomery, won his spurs, as third prize, and the fourth in the list of winners was John Lynch, who rode as Knight of Hermon, and was awarded a whip for his skill. The test was the taking of three rings in a one hundred yards course.

This exercise was quite protracted, lasting from 12 o'clock until nearly 5 o'clock. UNCLE SAM'S EQUESTRIANS. Twenty picked men from Troop A, of the Sixth United States Cavalry, at Fort Myer, entertained the crowd with some fine feats of horsemanship as a special feature. They were in charge of Lieut. George Stanger, and they were applauded from start to finish.

The man put an end to the outdoor sports early in the evening, and there was a lapse, the horses being cut in removing it from the arena, and the crowd being disappointed through a variety of exercises, including a hurdle race, first with saddle and bridle and finally with neither, their achievements being equal to the best performances of the most famous cowboy.

The horses were kept under good control, though some of them went wild to the music of the band, and the crowd was kept from the ground to the backs of their seats, sometimes clearing a horse intervening, would have put a circus in the park. They were applauded from start to finish.

The man put an end to the outdoor sports early in the evening, and there was a lapse, the horses being cut in removing it from the arena, and the crowd being disappointed through a variety of exercises, including a hurdle race, first with saddle and bridle and finally with neither, their achievements being equal to the best performances of the most famous cowboy.

Other attractions provided were fancy and trick bicycle riding by Prof. Howard A. Hime, and a broadsword contest by Corporal Stanley and Private Nelson K. High, of Troop A.

There was considerable complaint made of the unsatisfactory schedule arranged for the tournament, which it did not live up to expectations, and when the storm put itself in evidence many persons, after a wait of half an hour, found the tournament was being postponed to the cable cars in Georgetown rather than subject themselves to the annoying delays that seemed to be the rule of the uncertain trolley.

Mr. George C. Furbush, of the G. P. O., and wife, accompanied by his brother, James Furbush, left for a trip to New York, Philadelphia, and Atlantic City.

Marriage Licenses. Licenses to marry have been issued as follows: James W. Land, Jr., and Mollie Shackelford, both of Charlottesville, Va.; William H. Kyle and Kitty F. Gately, Wallace Clark and Mary Mack; Elias J. Dakin and Mary L. Sutton; John H. Dickerson and Jessie Lien, both of Green county, Va.; Olive Savie, of Fairfax county, Va., and Charlotte Woodward, of Prince William county, Va.; Charles F. Jay and Maggie Shugree; Mills Roberts and Sarah Z. Gammon; Alfred Y. Shaw and Sarah Gertrude Marshall, both of Southland, Md.; Henry Tryman, of Arlington, Va., and Ophelia Brown; Robert A. Simmons and Sadie E. Dyer, of Richmond, Va.; James H. S. Cousins and Elizabeth A. Stryker.

BEAM'S WIFE KEPT AWAY

She Could Not Stand the Ordeal of Bidding Him Good-by.

HIS LAST HOURS ON EARTH

Ate Heartily and Slept Peacefully Last Night—He Wanted to Wear a White Robe to the Scaffold—Anxious for the Warden to Have His Remains Cremated.

In cell No. 2, of Murderer's Row, of the United States District Jail, Joseph A. Beam, murderer of Annie Leahy, his step-daughter, is calmly waiting for the few hours to elapse that yet remain before the sentence of death is carried out upon him.

Between the hours of 10 and 1 o'clock to-day Beam will be taken from his cell, unshowered, and he will be taken to the north-west corner in which the scaffold on which so many have died before him stands, and he will pay the penalty of his crime.

But last night he talked as unconcerned, ate as heartily, and slept as peacefully as if he had no more to do with the execution that will take place to-day than a mere spectator.

Beam's counsel, S. D. Trout, called at the jail yesterday, and bade the murderer farewell. He found his late client unshowered, and apparently completely reconciled to death. Beam assured him, he has done the jail officials, that he has no fears for to-day.

Lawyer Trout was the only one who visited him yesterday. Beam's wife, the mother of his victim was expected, but did not arrive, and he expressed himself as being glad that she had not come, saying that he did not think she could stand the ordeal.

He did not expect the President to interfere in his case, so when his action was communicated to him Wednesday night he took it very coolly, and stated that he was not disappointed. He referred to the matter again yesterday, however, and spoke of the President in very uncomplimentary terms, saying that he did not feel having enough to do with his appeals.

According to the usual custom, Warden Leonard had Beam provided with a new suit of black clothing yesterday, in which he is to walk to the scaffold. Beam, when shown the suit, was somewhat disappointed, saying that he had desired to wear a white robe to the scaffold. He is very anxious that his body be cremated, however, and he said that if the warden would see that it is done he would not object to wearing the black suit.

Edith M. Mearns, a sister of the late Alroy's Church, are Beam's spiritual advisers, and were with him yesterday and again last night. He has been provided with a prayer book, and he has read a good deal of it yesterday. His language is more moderate and less profane than formerly, and it is evident, in spite of his assumption of coolness, that his sense of death has sobered him considerably.

Jim, the prison cat, has been Beam's pet ever since he first went to the jail, and it followed him from his old cell into the one over which the death watch was set. An extraordinary friendship has sprung up between Beam and the cat, and the decision is it is one which he used to own long ago.

NEW ROPE PREPARED. The cell from which Beam will be taken to the scaffold this morning is the one occupied by Giteau, the assayer of the President's field, when he was shot at by Sgt. Mason.

It was occupied by Taylor until the President committed his sentence and he was returned to his old cell in the Hall, who was sent to jail some time ago by Judge Miller for contempt of court. When Taylor was moved Beam was placed in the cell as it is near the grating opening into the rotunda, and more convenient to watch.

The rope with which Travers was hanged last Friday was cut in removing it from the dead man's neck, and a new one had to be prepared and tested. The scaffold is always in readiness, and it is probable that to-day's execution will be as quiet and as quickly performed as the one preceding it. The number of invitations issued is smaller than before, although there were more applications, and it is expected that the crowd will not be so large.

Taylor is so overjoyed at his own escape from death that he has very little to say about the execution of his fellow prisoner. He expresses a profound pity for him, however, and seemed glad to know that the condemned man is repentant.

BLACKBURN FEELS SURE. Doesn't Doubt He Will Be Kentucky's Next Senator. Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, called at the Treasury Department yesterday and agreed to jointly recommend a constituent for appointment to a minor position in the revenue service in Kentucky. Neither Senator called upon Secretary Carlisle while in the department.

Senator Blackburn has been spending the past week in Montgomery county, Md., with a relative. So far he has refused to discuss politics with representatives of the press. However, he said yesterday to a friend that he would be the next Senator from Kentucky.

Senator Lindsay is not quite so retiring. He fully discusses the political outlook in the Bluegrass State. "Kentucky," he says, "is all right. We are a Democratic State and will remain so. Wat. Harlan will be elected governor and the Democrats will have a majority in the legislature."

"Will Senator Blackburn be re-elected?" "Do and ask Joe himself," said Senator Lindsay. "He's in town. Joe is a mighty popular fellow."

Report in the Proctor Case. Assistant Secretary Carlisle has not yet filed his report, and the papers note the Proctor case with the Commission, but will do so to-day.

ANACOSTIA NEWS. "Jim" Wilson, brother of Jesse Wilson, the young girl recently sent to the insane asylum, was drunk when he returned to his home Wednesday night, and assaulted Emory Wilson, a younger brother. Yesterday Officer Egan arrested Wilson, and two charges were placed against him.

WOMAN'S DEPENDENCE ON MAN. A General Fact That She Would Do Well to Study.

Wonderful that what knowledge comes wisdom brings to the woman of today. Wonderful that while women have suffered so long to win, once won they should care so little for the prize; that education should not teach woman that man was by nature very far removed from the gentle domestic animal she knows to-day. However the modern woman may swagger about her individuality, may talk of her "spiritual needs" and deplore the simple tyranny of man, who demands sacrifices from her in return for his protection, she cannot deny the fact is not changed, that however much she may be man's intellectual equal or spiritual superior, the exigencies of a world of men will make her dependent upon him.

She cannot be entirely self-dependent except at the cost of the welfare of her offspring. The factory acts are a recognition of the fact, and the mother's health and vitality. Woman simply may not eat her cake and have it too. Using all her energies for her own needs, she cannot give any to her children. To depend upon her own ends her store of life she robs the child. To adequately supply the new generation with health, brains, and nerve force, the mother must give up her own and yield herself to the generosity and tenderness of man and trust to his care. That he has not always been generous and tender, that he is not always so even now, does not alter the general fact.

DINNER IS SERVED. A week or ten days is considered sufficient notice for dinner invitations. Women guests remove their wraps in the hall, handing them to the servant. The lady and gentleman do not enter the drawing-room side by side; she precedes him.

It is not now the custom as formerly for ladies to take a card at a dinner party, except when their rank or position would entitle them to do so anyway.

If from any cause the hostess is absent and dinner is to be served, a white ladies' present is given by the host, the wife's sister takes the hostess' place in preference to the sister of the husband.

The man who hosts in to dinner gives the signal for the men to return to the drawing-room. If the host should do it his guests might think he was hurrying them away to spend his wife's time.

The time to leave after a dinner party is between 10:30 and 11 o'clock.—Chicago News.

A New Rose. The Gardeners' Chronicle calls attention to a new race of roses which have been introduced by some Paris growers. They belong to the Polyantha class, and are said to say, they bear their flowers in trusses. The new roses have the advantage over the others of being "perpetual," and consequently they flower continuously all through the summer. This advantage they owe to their origin, a natural cross (crossbreed) between the flowers of the first species of Polyantha introduced from Japan and some hybrid perpetual rose. By repeated and careful selection a new race of roses has been produced, which, like the annuals, germinate, flower and produce seeds in less than a year. The term "dwarf" is justified by the height, which is about three feet. The flowers are single, semi-double or double, in almost equal proportions, and present almost all the variations of color observable in cultivated roses. Flowering commences in the first year, and even a few months after sowing. This peculiarity is one of the most remarkable and interesting features of this new type.—London Exchange.

People leaving the city for their summer vacation cannot afford to take the THE TIMES. It will be mailed to any address and will continue to be the best local newspaper in Washington.
