MAYROYENI BEY'S PICNIC

About Fifty Guests Whose Pleasure Was Spoiled By Heavy Rain.

Mrs. Bloomfield Moore's Tact in Ridding Herself of a Noisy Neighbor. Mock Divorce Trials.

The Turkish minister is keeping up his share of entertaining at Bar Harbor in his accustomed manner. Last Monday he gave a yachting party with a picnic end to it. The picnic was not, however, as much of a success as could have been desired, owing to the fact that a brisk shower came up just after the pleasure-seekers had landed upon the island selected for that purpose.

The storm was not just a gentle little summer rain, it was a spirited hailstorm, that effectively put an end to picnicking for that day. There were about fifty guests in the party. Among the Washingtonians were Baron and Baroness Hengemuehler and Mr. Alfred Le Ghat. Some of the others were Col. and Mrs. Fred Grant, Miss Julia Dent Grant, the Misses Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gebhard, and Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor.

Mrs. Bloomfield Moore, who has been spending the season at Newport, although not sufficiently recovered to permit as yet of the carrying into effect of her original intention to give talks on the meaning and history of the word "fashionable," is nevertheless creating no end of talk among the fashionable.

Quite recently she felt annoyed by the assiduous seeking of a carriage agent who, supplied with heavy boots, established himself upon the piazza and rocked to his heart's content. Thereseau Mrs. Bloomfield Moore decided to try an experiment in the nature of "a soft answer turneth away wrath." Instead of flaring out at the fellow, she purchased a cat's paw, which she sent him, together with a politely worded note requesting him to refrain from his violent rocking exercises. This accomplished her design and peace now reigns.

Attorney General and Mrs. Harrison are spending a fortnight at Cape May.

Mr. Logan Cardie made a short visit last week to Atlantic City for the purpose of establishing two or more life saving stations in that immediate vicinity.

Ex-senator McPherson is at Cape May. Mrs. and Miss McPherson are spending the summer traveling abroad.

Cape May society is amusing itself in a decidedly unique manner this summer. This is in holding mock divorce trials in which the juries are composed entirely of the fashionable women who are spending the season at that place. The presiding judge at these mock trials has been Mr. Robert Sewall, the well-known lawyer of New York, brother of Senator Wm. Joyce Sewall.

Mr. Harry Garfield has gone to the Adirondacks for a camping expedition. He arrived at the Upper Lake last week, and will camp out on the Big River.

Miss Bonaparte who, with her mother, is spending the season at Newport, is one of the latest converts to bicycling. This will be decidedly in the nature of a surprising bit of news to her Washington friends.

Col. William F. Cook—Buffalo Bill—made a short visit last week to the Adirondacks. It is his intention to return the latter part of August and hunt deer.

Bishop John P. Newman is to spend a portion of the present month at Cape May and will give a series of out-of-door preachings from several of the hotel piazzas.

Mrs. Childs has been engaged for some time past in the selection of the furniture and hangings for the elegant new home on K street and should she elect to entertain during the coming winter her house will undoubtedly become one of the most popular of the social centers in Washington.

Gen. Armstrong is at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Truxton Beale are at Newport, where Mr. Beale has been for some time past in the selection of the furniture and hangings for the elegant new home on K street and should she elect to entertain during the coming winter her house will undoubtedly become one of the most popular of the social centers in Washington.

land court of appeals, who resides at Frederick. Mr. Avery left his desk yesterday to return for ten days or two weeks, a brief tour being on the programme, to follow the summer season. His numerous friends combined and cast after him the traditional old shoe as an expression of their best wishes for his future happiness.

Col. Arthur Hubbard and family are spending the season at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs.

HER HEAVENLY MISSION. Mrs. Dohlman believed herself directed to kill her husband. Mary Dohlman, forty years of age, was locked up at No. 1 station yesterday by Policeman Karl Flaher on the charge of insanity. She has been living with her husband, Gabriel Dohlman, at No. 325 Thirtieth-and-a-half street northwest, and appeared as complainant in the case. It was stated that Mrs. Dohlman had become impressed with the dangerous hallucination that she had a divine inspiration, and that she was to kill her husband, then break up housekeeping by smashing the furniture and then setting fire to her house.

Inbued with this murderous phase of dementia she started in first to break up the furniture, and then tried to fire the house. Before she could do away with her husband Policeman Flaher appeared on the scene, and after some difficulty got her to the station.
