TRYING TO GET TOGETHER

Conference of President Phillips and His Employes.

HEARING THEIR GRIEVANCE

Removal of Supt. Elliott, of the Ninth Street Line, Their Object—Men Hopeful of Favorable Consideration—Dispute With the Protective Street Railway Union Still Unsettled.

The settlement of the differences between President Phillips and the Protective Street Railway Union is still a distant contingency.

He was engaged yesterday morning and afternoon in hearing the complaint of employes of the Ninth street line, who had petitioned him for the removal of Supt. Elliott from that office and his return to a car. This investigation, while it was an extremely important matter to the Ninth street men, does not touch the matter in which Mr. Phillips has become involved with the executive committee of the Protective Street Railway Union, which is composed of Messrs. Thomas J. Lawrence, president of the union, and Messrs. Trainer and Sawyer.

This committee was not present at the hearing yesterday. It was a case involving only the Ninth street line. These employes object to Mr. Elliott.

A committee waited on Mr. Phillips, who told them that if they could get the signatures of a majority of the men on the Ninth street line to sign a petition he would take their grievance under consideration, and he dictated a request for a hearing.

GOT SIGNATURES ENOUGH.

The men got the signatures of sixty-one men out of seventy-seven, thirteen of whom were non-union men. They could have had a larger number of signatures, but they did not have time.

The testimony yesterday was taken by a stenographer, but during the progress of the evidence Mr. Phillips suddenly said that he had heard enough, and the evidence was closed.

During the taking of testimony Mr. Clark, who is in charge of the road for the electric company, said that it was his experience that promotions from the ranks did not secure the best officers. Against this statement the men urged cases in Washington when promotions from the ranks had given their companies good officers, such as Hurt, of the Washington and Georgetown; Supt. Lowery, of the F Street Line; Deneille, of the Ninth Street Line, and Moffatt, of the F Street Line.

The investigation adjourned about 2 o'clock, and late yesterday afternoon Mr. Phillips was still immersed in the evidence.

There are of the opinion that the case has been decided in their favor, inasmuch as President Phillips intended to convey that he did not want cumulative testimony on a point that had been proved.

UNSETTLED QUESTIONS.

All the other matters of complaint affecting the F Street line and the others, including the hours of work are still unsettled. The union has invited Mr. Phillips and his secretary to the meeting of the union which will be held to-morrow from 7 a. m. until midnight and after if necessary.

The idea in this appears to be to bring Mr. Phillips face to face with the men to whom he promises and redress grievances. The complaints will be presented to him in full meeting and he will have an opportunity to defend and explain himself.

The proceedings of yesterday do not materially affect the intense strain which has arisen and which will likely continue until all things shall have been adjusted to the satisfaction of the executive committee, which has been invested with supreme authority to order a strike, and there is little doubt that it will be general.

The Amosites men have grievances in the shape of unfair treatment of those of their men who have been adjusted to the satisfaction of the executive committee, which has been invested with supreme authority to order a strike, and there is little doubt that it will be general.

PROF. RILEY'S OBSEQUIES.

The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Alexander Kent, pastor of the People's Church, who spoke very feelingly of the Christian character and many excellent qualities of the deceased.

At the conclusion of the religious ceremony, at the request of Rev. Dr. Kent, Prof. O. T. Mason spoke of the eminent position the deceased had won for himself in the scientific world and the high credit accorded his merits both at home and abroad.

After the ceremony the remains were taken to Glenwood Cemetery for interment.

The pallbearers were: Honorary—District Commissioner Truesdell, Gen. A. W. Greely, Prof. O. T. Mason, Commissioner of Education W. T. Harris, Prof. Cleveland Abbe, Prof. Theodore Gill and Dr. H. W. ALEXANDRIA HAPPENINGS.

Mr. Joseph Millen, a carpenter, employed on the big Hillbaryer house, and an arrow escape from death yesterday evening. He, with several other workmen, was engaged in putting in the heavy roof timbers, when a gust of wind blowing from the north and he fell to the floor, about a distance of almost five feet, where there were no planks on the floor, but he succeeded in clinging to the joists. When his fellow-workmen reached him he was in a semi-conscious condition from the fall. He was taken to his home, No. 616 South Fairfax street, and Dr. Jones attended him. He was so badly shaken up and bruised, but no bones were broken.

The volunteer members of the Columbia Fire Company have been notified of working fires for nothing and are now organizing to have the city council order the entire department a paid one. As it is now only the engineers and drivers are paid and a paper is being circulated among the members of the Columbia Company to get them to sign a pledge not to run to any other fire in the city if the council should refuse to create the paid department.

Mr. Brook J. Young, the deputy clerk of the Alexandria county clerk, heard a noise in the first place of the clerk's office at the old courthouse yesterday morning. He went to the fire he found a young carrier pigeon, which had fallen down the chimney. On the bird's leg was a silver ring and the inscription could not be deciphered. After feeding the bird and letting it rest for an hour or two it was released and immediately flew in a northerly direction toward Washington, where it is supposed to belong.

On November 15 last James Quiles, a young white boy, was run over by an electric railway car on South Royal street and on his leg he had a badly crushed foot. He is to be amputated. Yesterday Mr. Samuel G. Brent, his attorney, entered suit in the corporation court, claiming $10,000 for the accident.

The engagement is announced of Miss Sara C. Baingard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Baingard, to Mr. Charles H. Carter, a young society man of Baltimore. Miss Baingard is considered one of the handsomest girls in Virginia. No date for the wedding has been fixed.

Hiram Sutton, thirty-two years of age, was run over by a farm wagon on King street yesterday and painfully bruised. Albert Arnold, the driver of the wagon, who was at fault, was arrested and locked up. Later he was released on collateral for his appearance for trial.

CARLIN'S SPRINGS NOTES.

For several years efforts have been made to have a public school established at Carlin's Springs, and the present condition of the treasury has not been such as to admit of it. A levy was proposed for the purpose, but the citizens of Carlin's to a man voted for it, but about this time the colored public school at Carlin's was burned, so instead of using the money as was intended it was appropriated for the rebuilding of Nauck's school.

The county school board have at last agreed to appropriate the insignificant amount of $2,000 to the school, which will serve as a starting point. There was a largely attended meeting of the citizens of Carlin's, at the residence of Capt. Pennycuik for the purpose of forming an organization with a view of obtaining better transportation facilities. The principal topic of the evening was the absolute necessity of a station building.

Suggestions were made, which met with hearty approval from all present, as to the location of the station, and the route to be taken to run a branch line to Carlin's and Falls Church, and to have the latter some steps will be taken toward this end.

The chair was occupied by M. E. Thompson, with Dr. Baucus as secretary. Among those present were Gen. S. S. Barrett, Capt. W. B. Thomas and Messrs. Young, Stocking, Schaaff, Town and Simms.
